Daly, R. [illegible] said that they were called together to-day for the consideration of a very important matter, the death of a human being. True, it was an infant, but that made the duty all the more important. He had held an inquest some years ago, over the body of an infant that was found in a shed, but owing to the pitiful plea of the foreman of the grand jury the woman was released from custody, to run the country and do similar occurrences. It was their duty to bring to justice, if possible, the party who would do such an unnatural thing as to abandon a poor helpless infant in the winter months. He was not sure what evidence was going to be brought before them; the constable had been trying to get all the information that he could, as was he, Dr. Kinsell. There would, no doubt, be a post mortem examination, to ascertain whether the infant had been born dead or alive, as if they found the child was dead before birth, the mother would go comparatively free. He cautioned the jury to examine the clothes, &c, and see if they could not identify the mother, and see if there was any marks of violence on the body that would lead them to believe that the child had been foully dealt with.

The body appeard like that of a child about 2 weeks old. there were marks about its neck as if it had been strangled with a cord, but Dr Bell, who made the "post mortem" examination said that the marks was caused after death by the way the neck pressed against its dress; it had on a white cotton dress very poorly made and had part of a sheet put over it after it had been laid in the basket. On the basket, printed in several places, apparently with an india rubber stamp, was the name "Geo. D. Edwards."

After the Jury had examined the body they proceeded with the inquest.

JAMES STETSON, sworn, said I found the child about 8:30 p.m., on my way home from the shop last evening. I found it at the front entrance in a basket. I supposed that some person had gone into the house on a message. Went into the house and enquired from my daughter if any stranger was inside, she answered no. I then went out and brought the basket in and examined it and as soon as I saw the head I saw that it was a child, It was then dead. I then sent my little girl up stairs and called down my wife but don't remember what answer she made. she was much alarmed. I then went after Mr Johnston, who came and brought the body away.

The Coroner said that this evidence was not enough and the enquiry so far insufficient. He suggested to the jury an adjournment so as to enable them to have a post mortem examination, and to endeavour to procure further evidence so as, if possible, to bring the guilty party or parties to justice. The jury then adjourned till Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

FRIDAY EVENING.

"Some of the jurymen on a "bust" and some absent."

The Coroner said that the inquest would have to be adjourned as one or two members were not in a fit state to deal with this important matter and he would adjourn so as to give some of the delinquent jurymen a chance of straightening up. He learned that one of them was seen intoxicated during the day, but he thought that nothing would be lost by the adjournment, and if any gentleman in this room have heard anything about it he hoped that they would come forward and give their evidence, so as to enable them if possible, to bring the guilty party to justice. He was not to blame for the the adjournment for he would have to go around and watch these men, to have them in a fit state to sit on such an important matter. He then adjourned the inquest till Monday morning at 10 a.m.

MONDAY MORNING.

"The jurymen all sober and present."

The Coroner said that no one regretted more than he did the unfortunate postponement that had taken place, but the jurymen absent on the occasion had made ample apology for their not being present. He thought that there would be additional evidence to put before them and he hoped that a thorough investigation would be made. He was glad to see that some of the leading citizens were coming forward to give evidence on the occasion, and hoped that they would throw additional light upon it.

CHARLES GIBSON being sworn, said that he knew nothing about it until he saw it in the paper. Had heard nothing only what he read in the paper.

The Coroner said that the reason he had summoned him was, that the chief constable had told him that, Mr. Stetson had told him, that he knew something about it.

Witness said he knew nothing about it, was joking Mr. Stetsenson, thought it was Stevenson instead of Stetson.

JAMES STEVENSON being sworn, said that he knew nothing.

JAMES STETSON being re-called, said that on Friday evening as he was going to tea he was passing Mr. Stevenson's house and that Mr. Stevenson told him that he had heard from Mr. Orsond that a servant girl in the employ of Mr. Edwards had a child some time ago and Mr Stevenson said that that might account for the basket. On being asked by the jury to bring the young man forward it was stated that he was out of the county.

N. W. BELL, M. D., C. M., graduate of McGill University, said that he had practised in Carleton Place before coming to Peterborough, and as instructed by the Coroner I proceeded on Thursday. In obedient to make a post mortem examination of the body of an unknown infant then before your jury. The body was that of a female child, fully developed and of average size at birth. I made a careful examination of the body and found no external marks of violence. The abdomen was slightly discoloured, while the right side of the face and body was of a purplish red hue, caused by the body having been laid on that side. On opening the thorax I found the heart and lungs perfectly healthy in their structure, but the right cavities of the heart gorged with blood clot, while the vessels on the surface were much distended. The lungs were also congested with blood, especially the right one. The nasal healthy crepitant feel of sound lung tissue which has inspired air was felt on pressing the fingers over the lung substances. I applied various tests to prove that the child had breathed, and am fully convinced that it was alive at its birth and probably lived ten or twelve days. The viscera of the abdomen were healthy but the liver and kidneys were rather engorged with blood. The stomach contained a small portion of partially digested food, while the bowels were considerably distended by gases and contained very little faecal matter. The bladder was considerably distended. I examined the neck thoroughly and found no bruisings of the muscles under the conjunctival membrane of the skin. The Eustachian Tubes and cartilages were uninjured and the trachea, which contained a little froth was evidently uninjured. On opening the air cells the meninges were found congested, the substance of the brain engorged with venous blood, while the vessels on the surface of the hemispheres and the base were greatly distended. A considerable quantity of "Serum" escaped from the meninges and very little from the ventricles. The condition in which many of the organs were found, are such as would point to strangulation or suffocation as the cause of death; this latter I believe. I should not suppose the child to have been dead many hours but the convexity of our climate at this season of the year enables bodies to be kept a considerable time without decomposition taking place, especially with any certainty the time which has elapsed since death.

JAMES BROWN, sworn, said that he was caretaker of Catholic Cemetery, have some recollection of an infant being buried in the Catholic cemetery within a few days, he thought it was on Wednesday last. Do not know the name of the infant it was, but it is there. Was there on Tuesday and saw the [illegible] it was buried by three boys whose names were Heffernan and [illegible] do not know the third.

MRS. L. STOREY being sworn, said that she was informed of a young lady having a child, and that is, but the child was doing well and alive. Saw it last evening, It was a boy. The woman lived near the tollgate, is not a married woman.

ALEX. COX, sworn, said that he had heard Mr Stetson say that the basket was marked "G. D. Edwards." Heard Mr. Stetson say that Mr. Edwards and his son had a quarrel, and perhaps this was the cause of it.

JAMES EDWARDS, sworn, said he knew nothing about it. Had no disagreement with his son, there was no servant girl of mine that I knew of enciente. There was no servant girl discharged lately.

The coroner said that so far the evidence was very unsatisfactory amounting to nothing in regard to who the party was. Hope that the adjournment from day to day would bring out the guilty party, but gentlemen of the jury, if you think it better to adjourn for a while I am prepared to go any length as coroner to sift up the case. The evidence of the medical gentleman who held the post mortem examination said that it resulted from strangulation or suffocation, and it was difficult for any medical man to find out which, as their effects on the system are about the same. There was no earthly reason for the abandonment of a child by its mother who had committed a felony; the law did not consider it a felony for a father to abandon his child, but it did for the mother. The jury retired for a few minutes, and in a verbal verdict recommended the town council to offer a reward for the apprehension of the guilty party, and the inquest was further adjourned till Friday evening at 8 p.m.

THE SCOTT CASE.

(From the Bowmanville Statesman.)

The scheme of the Scott charges are already dying away in the gloom, and before the matter passes entirely out of public view, it may not be amiss to point out precisely how the case stands. It is now quite manifest that Mr. T. Scott has acted very injudiciously in reopening what is really a most unpleasant business, and one which, in the interest of his late brother, ought to have been allowed to drop. The claim of the Government against the estate of W. A. Scott was based on charges of fraud preferred against him. If we mistake not, by one of his employees.—The estate itself being insolvent. the creditors were compelled either to compromise with the Government, or be deprived of the timber limits which form a valuable asset. Ultimately they consented to pay over $25,000, rather than surrender the limits, and then Mr T. H. Scott appeared upon the scene. What interest he could have in a claim of this kind which, even if it were made good must be swallowed up by the indebtedness of the estate it is not easy to see, unless it be true, as currently reported, that the cow itself was handed it over to him for a consideration to allow him to make use of it by political influence and machinations of various kinds all the money he could. The Attorney-General consents to have the case reopened and referred to a Commission which did award the claimant $6 000, most of this sum being taken up with lawyers fees. All Mr Scott's attempts to induce Mr. Mowat to grant a dollar more have proved futile and now in sheer exasperation he endeavors to accomplish by the propagation of scandal what he could not gain by honorable means.—He admits that he was from the outset an interpuer since he openly acknowledges that it was for political reasons that he engaged as his counsel. Mr. Mowat's law partner. Whatever may be thought of the propriety of the Attorney-Generals partner accepting a retainer from a claimant against the crown, there can be no two opinions about the plotter who retains that partner for his supposed political influence and then when his plot to secure a large sum from the public treasury fails, turns the very retainer he has given into a weapon to stab the man who has shown himself incorruptible. Mr. Scott can bring the matter before the House if he pleases, but after the vacillation it and he have got from the pose, there is a small chance of the House paying much attention to his cheeky request.

LITERARY.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL EXPOSITOR FOR FEBRUARY, a four page tract, specially devoted to the interest of the Sabbath School, and youth, is to hand, from the Publishing House, Bowmanville Ont. It is a cash No. On the front page is a very creditable illustration, "A Forest scene in the Winter." In the foreground are two deer, standing out in bold relief to the surrounding snow clad forest trees, while the ground is covered with the dry leaves of the maple. It will be much admired. The other illustration is that of a well appointed Indian Wigwam. The Rose of Sharon, Lessons in primary books on the Resurrection together who has fallen upon the sleep of death, Sermon for the young, Prayer meeting in all its interesting. The other given No. 1 of a series of short stories on "Things Worth Old," by the Rev. Dr. Vincent, which we have read with much pleasure. The Editor gives very little from the venerable Dr. The condition in which many of the organs were found, are such as would point to strangulation or suffocation as the cause of death; this latter I believe. The complainant swore that he was driving his stage with five passengers in it, when defendant, whose number was driving him in an unloaded sleigh, met him and abused him in blasphemous language for not giving enough of the road. Henry Sherlam, one of the passengers, corroborated this evidence.—Henry Hoskins, defendant's brother, denied that the language charged was used. The case was adjourned till Tuesday, Feb. 13th, for the production of evidence in rebuttal.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 8, 1877.

LAW EXAMINATIONS.—Mr. G. Edmison has passed his examination for Barrister, and has been called to the bar. Mr. H T. Beck has passed his second examination without an coal.

THE ENTERTAINMENT in the Methodist Church, on Friday evening last, passed off very well, although the attendance was not as large as was expected.

SOMETHING LIKE A GOOSE. A mammoth goose was sold on the market a few days ago, by Mr. A. Flemming of Smith, which, when put on the scales, showed a weight of 18 pounds.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.—The representatives of East and West Peterborough, Messrs. Hall and Bertram, left yesterday to be present at the opening of the Dominion Parliament.

POULTRY MEETING.—There will be a meeting of the Poultry Association in the Council Chamber this evening, at 7:30 p.m. sharp. A full attendance is requested.

LARGE EGGS.—Mr. Gladman, station master here, showed us two pullet's eggs laid last week, which weighed respectively 3oz and 3 s. 2drms The pullet is a July hen of last year. Who can beat this?

MONTGOMERY.—A petition is in circulation, and is being largely signed, for the commutation of Montgomery's sentence on the ground of ill-health. We learn that the prisoner has so far recovered that the Doctor attending him has declared he will in all probability be ready for removal this week.

MINOR MATTERS.—The Ottawa Free Press says:—"A correspondent of the Montreal Gazette concludes a highly solicitous notice of Dr. O'Sullivan, M.P.P., by the remark that "he possesses a thorough knowledge of the political history of the country, and is a spicy paragraphist to boot!" Possibly the correspondent may be in the habit of "boning" the doctor, for exercise or amusement, but it is very wrong in him to indulge in left-handed compliments of this kind.

LINDSAY.—The "Warder" has changed hands, Mr. Cooper retiring after eleven years editorial life in Lindsay, and about as many more in Omemee, &c., all in connection with the "Warder." While serving his party, he was sometimes unduly censorious to his opponents, but on the whole, fairly courteous. A Mr. E. Flood has assumed control of the destinies of the "Warder," and inherits the strong Conservative leanings of his predecessor, and promises fair to extend the work entrusted to him.

OPERA HOUSE.—There will be a grand concert under the patronage of Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. W. Clurton, Mrs. Col. Hamtain, and Mrs. Dr. O'Sullivan, by the Peterboro Musical Society, in Mr. Bradburn's Opera Hall, on Tuesday evg., February 13th. This being their first concert, we bespeak for them a full house. A plan of the Hall may be seen at Mr. Rubidge's Bookstore, where seats may be secured Doors open at 7.30, to commence at 8 p.m.

MORE WINE THAN WIT.—Yesterday a crowd round Cavanagh's indicated something more than usual. On enquiry it proved to be a gipsy of the female persuasion, laying her whip pretty freely on some one of the male sex. A struggle ensued, both went down—the man underneath, the crowd interfered in favor of the female, handed her another whip with which she did more service, Benjamin Reynolds holding her hat and shawl. It is needless to say that there was no Constable present to put a stop to such disgusting scenes. Both parties to the affray had in some Canadian forty-rod, which stimulated to fighting heat.

INFORMATION.—We have been requested to state for the information of the Editor of the Review, that the said Editor will not be able to find the Collector of Customs at the following places, at any hour, viz:—At Faucher's saloon, at any of the Taverns, at any Club Room, nor at any other place where jovial souls usually meet for interchange of senses for mutual gratifications. But he will be found at his office at all times that he is not out on his business, his own business of course, a something it would be well for the said Editor to see after on his own Account. He must be a lame affair, indeed, of an Editor, who, at the mod of the Cars, has to ask questions that one only conscious one man, an absut which only one man could be a complainant, and that man will not soon forget the Office.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY has been enjoying the luxury of a "strike" since Monday last. The employees claim payment of all wages in arrears, or security therefor. The President cannot comply, and in consequence both parties are having a general good time, and the cost of this luxury will be in fair proportion to the enjoyment. The Grand Trunk strike cost that Coy. over One Million Dollars, the Midland does will cost no such, but still will cost the chief esteem a nice little sum. Mr Hagel, we sincerely believe, would pay the employees if funds were on hand. The earnings of the road are not equal to those of other years, and this he cannot control. The men should be paid, it is true, but they should be as forbearing as possible, and if security for just duties were given, they would no doubt return to their duties. It is no small loss to them, a greater loss to the company, and an evil to the merchants and others who require to ship goods, &c. We venture to predict a settlement, however, every one is followed by peace.

WESTERN PASSENGER AGENCY.—In these days of railways, telegraphs and steamboats, the old fashioned way of doing business is fast passing away, and the enterprising man who is determined to immortalize himself in some way, and has taken to another progressive and other fashion. He says he doesn't believe in telegraphing a name without proving to this nether world that he deserves the honor. He predicts several mild days, from the first of this month to the sixth, and then a cold spell if it should come. Then there will be either rain, hail, snow, or fair weather from the 6th to the 10th, and from that to the 15th it will be variable, unless there be a spell of steady frost or mild weather again. March, true to his natural instincts, will be windy and stormy, if the changes of the moon do not interfere with the sun's revolutions, or the earth's gravitation.

TOWN COUNCIL.

SPECIAL MEETING.

Present, his Worship the Mayor and Messrs McBain, Haggart, Menntrue, Smith, Yelland, Hamilton, Baptie, Dumble and Millar.

The Mayor said that he had called the special meeting at the request of several members of the Council to take into consideration the passing of a by-law in connection with the Auburn Woolen Company.

REPORT OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Dumble said that in the absence of the chairman of the Finance Committee he would report in reference to their late visit to the Auburn Woolen Company.

As conveyed in their letter to the Council a number of the committee visited the Auburn Woolen Mills. Your committee have much pleasure in reporting that the Mill is much more complete and extensive than they had reason to suppose. The Mill is complete as a seven and a half cent mill, and much of the machinery is further added to complete the mill as a ten cent mill, leases being provided for the necessary machinery to bring the mill up to that capacity.—Messrs. Donnistoun and Bertram appeared before your committee and submitted their request that the town would release the company from all liability to complete the mill to a ten cent mill and from repayment of the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars paid by the town to the company on account of the bonus of ten thousand dollars heretofore voted by the town, and that the company's property should be exempt from taxation for ten years from January 1st, 1877, the company offering to release the town from all liability, to pay them the balance of the ten thousand dollars now in their hands, to pay over to the town the sum of $1,000 per annum from the liability to refund to the company the sum of fourteen hundred and thirty-five dollars, the amount of taxes on property formerly alleged to have been illegally collected from the company. As these matters are of much importance, but were not specially referred to your committee, caused a special meeting of the Council to be called for their consideration. Messrs. Donnistoun and Bertram stated that in order to enable the immediate operation of the mill it was desirable that immediate action in all be taken by the Council.

On motion the report was received and adopted.

Mr. J. F. Donnistoun, President of the Auburn Woolen Company, said, he regretted the form of his communication had been overlooked. It was nothing more or less than an invitation to the Council to visit the mills, and he was surprised when he found it had been referred to the Finance Committee to confer and report. With other Directors he had seen the committee, and Messrs. Dumble, Cahill and Smith had gone with them to the mills. They wished that the Council should have an opportunity of seeing the property and judging for themselves of the fairness of the proposals which the company had to make, before submitting them. There was no desire to force the matter undue, but in consequence of the misunderstanding they were compelled to press the matter on the consideration. This was in consequence of the nature of the business. At two different seasons of the year the mill would be worked on different kinds of goods, commencing Fall goods at the season of the year, and spring goods in September. They wished to start working on goods for next fall, which must be done at once, or the opportunity of receiving orders would be lost. The mills could not be got into operation till next September. For this reason they had laid their application before the Council so that they might make arrangements that might facilitate their getting into operation at once. At their meeting with the Finance Committee the subject had been fully discussed, and so far as he could judge the gentlemen of the committee approved of their suggestions and had expressed a desire that a By-law should be got up in accordance with these suggestions. He would first state the nature of the position of affairs between the company and the town. Last year he had come before the Council and addressed them on the same subject in support of a similar motion. He had reprinted the remarks he had there made and given in the local press, and these had been placed in the hands of the Councillors. They had a property that never ought to have belonged to the Town of Peterborough. You could not get to it without going through the neighbouring Village of Ashburnham out of the town limits, or traversing the property of the Midland Railway. The history of the factory would show why the property had been joined to the Town of Peterboro. The town had been extremely anxious to encourage manufactures and secured special legislation by which they were enabled to grant bonuses to the amount of $40,000, of which they proposed to give $10,000 to this company. A By-law was submitted to the people but as the property did not then form a part of the town no bonus could be granted to a factory in the Township of Douro it contained a provision that it should be inoperative unless an extension of the limits were secured so as to embrace this property. The proprietors aided in the scheme to have the limits extended relying on the provisions contained in the By-law by exemptions from taxation for ten years. In 1873, the then proprietors, Messrs. Paton & Sheldon had died. A joint stock company had subsequently been formed to purchase the property, complete the bonding and machinery and carry on the business. Mr. Muir who represented the company had been before the Court of Revision in 1874, and complained that the company had been assessed at the large sum of $2,000, said by the By-law the exemption from taxation was not to commence till the mill was in full operation as a ten cent mill, it was supposed that the property was liable to taxation. The matter was then brought before the then council and a committee was appointed to consider the application of the company to be exempted from taxation and relieved from all liabilities, under a By-law and a petition of ratepayers to the contrary effect. The result at which the committee had arrived was, as shown in the printed statement distributed to the members of the Council. The result arrived at was substantially the same as the proposition now made. At a public meeting called by the committee a resolution was adopted unanimously that the town should no more be asked. The report of the committee was that shown in the printed statement in their hands. On November 16th it was received and adopted they now asked the same with this grand difference. The Auburn Woolen Coy had their paid no taxes, but since then they had paid it to the Town Treasury to the amount of $4,000 which was largely in excess of any bonus the town had been called upon to confer upon the company. The town had secured by the payments of $2,500 the direct advantages of the $4,000; they had also received the indirect benefits of the payments for wages made while the mills were in operation and the expenditure on the construction. But this was not all, there was on that side of the town property that had been paying, and would still be paying taxes to the town. The proprietors had nothing to bring the property into the town so that the bonus might be granted, and it was contemplated that the property should be exempted from taxation as stated in the By-law, but the town had collected and the town had the benefit of the taxation without being called upon to expend a single dollar in that locality for roads, bridges, for protection or any other purpose. There was the fourth consideration that the taxes collected from them had been many hundred dollars more than the law allowed. It was provided by the law that in order to induce people to form joint stock companies for the purpose of carrying on various manufactures, the income only which should be derived from the business should be assessed, and the property be exempt except from taxation. In 1874 the company was taxed per parliamentary to the amount of $89,000 on which they paid $1,335, and in 1875 they were assessed for $76,000, and paid $750, making together $2,085. The proposition was that they should relinquish any claim to the sum of $7,500 the remainder of the bonus voted to them which had been intended to be paid for a ten cent mill, and also their right to reclaim the $1,335 of taxes they had illegally collected. There was a further request to be taken with regard to this $2,500. At the time the By-law was passed it was considered that $1,000 a year was a small sum to pay for the benefits the town would derive from the running of a ten cent mill. The town had received the benefit not of the running of a ten cent mill but of a seven and a half cent mill for three years. Was not this a benefit of some value, and should be considered a further set off against the demands made by the town on the company. It was said that if the company could give assurance that they would start work within some very short time, no difficulty would be made as to granting their requests. He was now in a position to say that mill would probably be working within the month. He proceeded to give with some details a description of the operations which had been undertaken with the object of carrying on the experimental part of the mill. The merits of the matter had been fully discussed, and he thought it was hardly necessary for him to say anything more. He then read the By-law. It provides for releasing the town from any claims upon the remainder of the $40,000 or to refund the $1,335 collected in taxes on personal property, to refund to the town the sum of $1,000 per annum for the remainder of the By-law, to release the company from refunding the $2,500, and to exempt the property of the company between the railway and the river from taxation for ten years, provided the mill should not shut down for any continuous months, when they should again become liable to taxation; and provided also that the company should not sell goods to people in Peterborough except their employees for their own use in less quantities than 10 yards.

Mr. Bertram also addressed the Council and said that the President of the company had been so busy into the history of this company from the commencement that it was not necessary for him to say much. He said the town got an Act of Parliament to exempt them and had it ratified by the people. They were prepared to go and manufacture in every manufacturing in the country. Mr. Donnistoun has assumed fully to you the position of Peterborough. They were permitted to put any more of their money into joint stock companies, and then five gentlemen of the town put in $5,000 apiece, and they of course expected to get interest for their money, but at the end of two years there was a considerable amount on the profit and loss side of the account. The principal shareholders were the executors of the sheddon estate, and they were not prepared to put in any money into the concern; they could not entrust any more money for the carrying on of the mill, and the only thing they could do was to put the property into the hands of the creditors and they would get nothing. It was no secret, and he might just as well tell the gentlemen what they wrote to the town company to go into business, and owing to the company to go into business, and owing to the company to go into business, and owing to the

ANOTHER OLD SETTLER GONE

DAVID FIFE, Esq., of Otonabee, who died January 8th, 1877, aged 71 years and 3 months.

The many that are day by day
Out from our midst passing away
Doth unto all, a warning give,
That here we cannot always live.

How oft the aged and careworn
The same day to the grave are borne,
With those whose days on earth were few,
Lived only, then bid earth adieu.

The one whose death we here record
Lived on the earth three-score years,
Then from this life to heaven soared
Rejoicing the three-score and-two.

His archer death did bend his bow
And with his arrow laid him low;
Through life friends could on him depend
Being a trustworthy, faithful friend.

One dozen o'clocks chased the hours that flew
When he did hear a tale of woe;
His mind and feelings in no-wise
Did he in any way disguise.

Fifty-six years, the date we see
Since he came to Otonabee;
Where he's respected here alway
For truthfulness and honesty.

Turn him who-so-turned-Ripe Wheat
That now the many thousands eat,
For which he'd long remembered be—
DAVID FIFE, of Otonabee.

THE PORK TRADE.

The Herald has been requested to publish the following directions to farmers and shippers of dressed hogs, as the buying and shipping is a large business in some sections of this country, and as considerable loss and dissatisfaction have been caused from ignorance and carelessness in collecting and shipping to distant points:—"Well hogs, and well fed pork, not of medium weights always command the best prices. Thin, poor ones the lowest. Large, coarse, sows being 50 cents to $1 per 100 lbs. less than prime hogs. Boars and stags are not merchantable. Nut or other soft-fed hogs are not wanted, and great care should be taken not to buy or ship them. There is always a heavy shrinking in handling, storing and the custom dressed hogs; therefore a hog. If intended to deduct 2 to 4 lbs. extra, 2 lbs. extra; properly dressed, where shoulder-stock, and 5 lbs. where ham and give gross weight In addition 2 lbs. a hog all told in packing. Mark net weight and shipping mark on the cheek of each hog with a small brush, or fasten a ticket on the hog. See that they are loaded in clean well-swept cars. In cold weather a little clean straw should be put on the floor of the car. A list of the weights should be forwarded as soon as possible by mail. Hogs when slaughtered should be split from end to end, but not spread over 2 inches wide, and should hang till cool and quite dry. Those that are handled before the animal heat is out of the carcass are apt to spoil.—Stratford Herald.

HOW PEOPLE GET SICK.

Eating too much and too fast; swallowing imperfectly mastiated food; by drinking too much fluid at meals; drinking poisonous whiskey and other intoxicating drinks; keeping late hours at night and sleeping too late in the morning; wearing clothing too light; so as to relax circulation; wearing thin shoes; neglecting to take sufficient exercise to keep the hands and feet warm; neglecting to wash the body sufficiently to keep the pores open; exchanging the warm clothes worn in a warm room during the day, for costume and exposure incident to evening parties; starving the stomach to gratify a vain and foolish passion for dress; keeping up constant excitment; fretting the mind with borrowed troubles; swallowing quack nostrums for every imaginary ill; taking meals at irregular intervals.

The year 1877 is the latter part of the 5637th and the begining of the 5638th year since the creation of the world, according to the Jews. The year 5638th commences on September 30, 1877.

The year 1877 answer to the 6590th of the Julian Period; to the 2628th, from the foundation of Rome; to the 263rd of the Olympiads; and to the year 7085-6 of the Byzantine Era.

The year 294 of the Mohammedan Era commences of Feb. 7, 1877. And Ramadan (month of abstinence observed by the Turks) commences on October 1, 1877.

The Chinese civil year is lunar, and consist of twelve months, of twenty-nine and thirty days alternately. The Japanese divide the year into twelve months corresponding to the twelve signs of the zodiac. The months, however, vary in length, and are regulated by the religious Emperor. The Mohammedans reckon from July 15 or 16, the date of Mohammed's flight. Their months are lunar, and consist of thirty and twenty-nine days alternately, with a day added eleven times in a cycle of thirty years.

The Parsees' year consists of 365 days; no leap year is known, but in every 120 years, one month is added to make the conventional year correspond with the solar.

A correspondent of the London Lancet, who owns water power mills, writes: I am frequently compelled, at this season of the year, to have men working in water even in frosty weather. I find the following allowance gives great satisfaction to the men, and we never have a case of cold or injury to the men in any way; Kettle of coffee, made with half sweet milk, half water, three or four eggs whipped poured into it when off the boil; hot toasted bread with plenty of butter of the finest quality. Serve up this every two and a half hours. The expense is much less than the usual allowance of whiskey, and the men work far better, and if care is taken to have the coffee, milk (cream in still better), bread, and especially the butter), of the very finest quality the men are delighted with it. I am persuaded it would be worth while to try this allowance instead of grog. Giving extra grog gives the men a notion that it is good for them, and perpetuates the belief in stimulants among workingmen.

PLAIN SCOTCH SHORT-CAKE.—Take half pound of slightly salted butter and one pound of flour; then mix flour and butter with hands; then add four ounces of loaf sugar, and work all into a smooth ball; then roll out into, it is an inch thick, prick over with a fork, and pinch round the edges, and bake for half an hour in oven, with a moderate fire, in a round or square pan, according to taste.

We perceive it stated in a letter written by Sir Hugh Allen to the Montreal papers that the English Board of Trade has passed an order, that it will no longer issue Canadian vessels bound out unless they be provided with diplomas from the colleges of England. Ireland, or Scotland. Sir Hugh Allen writes:

"We have for the last twenty years "carried Canadian surgeons on board of "our steamers, as well as English ones. "[illegible] Canadian surgeons are quite equal "both in professional acquirements and "gentlemanly bearing, to those we receive from the colleges in England. I "therefore, am not disposed to submit to "this country, as well as to the young "[illegible] and in point of "fact it is a slight upon the Dominion

DOMINION TRADE AND REVENUE.

The present session of the Dominion Parliament has been signalized by the slight objection of the opposition to the government programme laid down in the speech from the throne, and still more so by the prompt prosecution of Departmental reports. Four of these important reports were brought down during the first two days of the session, viz:—that on Public Works, that on Penetentaries, that on Marine Waters and Fisheries, and that on Trade and Navigation. Not only is the close attention of Government to the internal and vital interests of the country proved by the unusually early placing of this information in the hands of members; it is further illustrated by the early part of the week seeing the Treasurer bring down his budget and lay it before the House. The country has reason to be satisfied with the diligence of Ministers and the attention they pay to work in their several departments.

Those matters which most interest the public, those of trade and the revenue therefrom, and of the public expenditure and general financial [illegible] country, being thus at the outset placed before the public; we have an opportunity of judging how the present ministry has piloted the ship of state through the troubled waters of the shallow financial sea that had to be navigated, to bring the vessel out of the dangerous position in which she had been left by the previous crew. As far as the public expenditure is concerned, there are two clauses of outlay a Government is called upon to make. There is a portion of the expenditure that may be controlled in the direction of lessening it; and there is another, and by far the greater portion, that is fixed by statutory enactments, standing claims, and the necessity for preserving the credit of the country so firmly that it is aptly denominated uncontrollable expenditure. In these fixed demands are included interest on the public debt, Provincial subsidies, votes for public works under contract, and other claims upon the revenue, of such a nature as to involve the honour and financial fidelity in their being met promptly from year to year, that the amount of this uncontrollable expenditure is so large is due to the former Government, it being left as a troublesome burden to the present ministry by their predecessors in office. It was there and had to be provided for; and that it has been so well met during the commercial depression, under which the country has suffered, is due alone to the care and vigilance of the Reform Ministers. The depression in trade, it is acknowledged now on all hands, to be due to our overtrading in the various departments of industry, for a number of years. This was largely due to the reckless expenditure of the Macdonald administration, and the fictitious feeling of prosperity resulting therefrom. That this view of overtrading causing a collapse is a true one, is plainly shown by an examination of the trade returns for a number of years back. From them we see that the trade of the country took a considerable jump in 1871, when the excess of imports over exports was [illegible] against [illegible] in the previous year. Then during the enormous difference against the country of over twenty millions of dollars. During the four succeeding years this excess steadily increased till in 1876, despite the warnings of financiers and far-seeing commercial men, the balance of trade against Canada had reached over forty-five millions. The turning point then came. The business community was forced to awake to a realization of their position, and last year the receipts fell to $86,210,-946, against $126,670,232, in 1875, while the exports were slightly in excess of those of the previous year. Thus the excess of imports over exports, by which the foreign indebtedness is annually gauged, fell from $45,183,264 in 1875, to $12,263,811 in 1876, a promising sign that trade is displaying a strong tendency to disarm its equilibrium.

But while the restoration of common sense to the conduct of trade is sure to bring commercial confidence and stability again, the punishment of former error was inevitable, a million [illegible] in spite of steady [illegible] Revenue, produced a [illegible] Treasurer. The duties collected in 1876 amounted to $16,761,-326.12, and but [illegible] $19,988 114.63, a clear decrease of revenue amounting to nearly two-thirds half millions of dollars. Then from a surplus of $661,-644 1[illegible] deficit [illegible] this year a deficit of $1,670,000, making a difference of $2,332,000. The decline in a deficit at all is due to the uncontrollable expenditure, and one item alone for the expenses of the boundary survey paid last year, but properly chargeable to the later time of Tory administration, would make all the difference, without taking into consideration other payments deferred by the late Government, that their expenditure might make a more respectable show. These have been boldly and honourably met by the present occupants of the Treasury Benches, besides which they have largely decreased the controllable expenditure. This was at confederation about three and a half millions. In 1873-4 the last year for which the Macdonald Government is responsible, it had increased to nearly eight and a half millions. This was nearly all voted and could not be controlled by the present Government at their accession to power. But in 1875 it was brought to a little under eight millions, and last year it was reduced to about six and three-quarter millions. Thus we see that had it not been for the legacy of debt left by their predecessors, the present Government would have entirely met the deficiency by a wise policy of reducing expenditure; and they are, all things considered, to be congratulated that they have succeeded in placing the financial affairs of the country on so good a footing as they are, in spite of difficulties.

Not the least encouraging feature noticeable in the [illegible] the fact that it is the past two years [illegible] cent goods. Though chiefly [illegible] partly owing to a shrinkage in value, it also goes to show that the manufacture of these goods, such as cottons and woolens, is on the increase in the Dominion.

DEFEAT OF THE ORANGE INCORPORATION BILLS.

As may be surmised after the remarks of the Examiner last week, we are disappointed in the defeat of the Bills for the incorporation of the Loyal Orange Associations of Ontario East and West. We can readily perceive that the fate of the Bills was largely owing to the political part they and their predecessors of similar purport have been made to play. Knowing as we do that the great majority of the Orangemen of Ontario, though not all of them, have suffered themselves to be made the tools of the Conservative party, it is not surprising that the majority of the Reform members of the Legislature should vote against their Bills, particularly as they came up somewhat in the shape of a party measure. Orangemen, equally with Roman Catholics, have been guilty of the mistake of allowing themselves to be led as a body into the political arena, and of giving up their individual judgment to the dictates of demagogues working in the interest of some particular party. At times we have seen these two great bodies of electors opposed to each other, simply by reason of the influence of party tacticians, and at other times, through like promptings, they have obediently united at the polls. The writer being neither an Orangeman nor a Roman Catholic can speak the more unreservedly upon such a matter, and does so freely and without preference. Our desire is to do something, however little that something may be to allay those feelings of religious strife which politicians like so well to raise, that they may use them for their own purposes. When men who form an association, be it church or benevolent society, give the key of their minds and consciences into the hands of any person the call of any demagogue, they thereby sacrifice not only their intelligence, but also their moral and social character and influence. The rule is invariable, that whenever a state, a church, or any other body united for a common end has allowed itself to be made an instrument in the hands of foreign diplomats or domestic demagogues, it has done so to its own detriment, and to the hindrance of the end for which it existed. The churches which enjoy the greatest prosperity and christian vitality are those which have studiously turned a deaf ear to the promptings of the political charmer; and we do not hesitate to say that the Orange body would have stood better to-day in the estimation of the people of Ontario, and had a firmer friendship in the House of Assembly, had it set its face against the introduction of party politics into deliberations. Its aims are above party, and when it descends to party it demeans itself and loses its influence for good—a fine example of poetic justice is displayed in the contemptuous way in which Conservatives spoke of the Orange body during the debate on these Bills, and the evident anxiety they showed to disclaim connection with it. Those whose evident desire it was to catch the Orange vote, would not be suspected of Orangeism. It appeared to be something they would be ashamed of—something to be repudiated. For this feeling Orangemen are themselves to blame, in postituting their order to the convenient use of political tricksters who thus deny even sympathy with it.

Viewing the matter in the party aspect, put upon it by the Conservatives, we see no reason to be surprised at the fate of the Bills. Judged in this way it is a defeat of the Conservatives, and not of the proposed acts. But there is another and a broader aspect, far beyond the region of patriotism; and we are sorry that the government and its supporters could not have raised themselves above the mere party issue, and proceeded with the clearest view. The impartial observer, must, however hard it may be, divest his mind entirely of party. The question then resolves itself into one of expediency—the great test of all legislative measures. The passage of the Bills were principally objected to on the plea that it would stir up religious strife. How this could be we cannot well see, as what was asked could give no advantage to, nor take any privilege from, any religious body. The Attorney General's remarks in reference to the large and important body of Roman Catholics leaves us only the inference that religious strife might be stirred up in that body. We do not believe that the Roman Catholics of the Province care a rush whether the Orange body obtains incorporation by a special Act or under the general Act, for the simple reason that it would not make the effect one iota different to the Roman Catholic Church. The influence of Orangeism in Roman Catholicism, whatever it may be, will certainly not be either increased or lessened by the incorporation of Orange Lodges. Therefore, we hold that the question of Orange incorporation is just one of politicism or all, but rather of unprejudiced, right under our civil laws. Surely no Roman Catholic can view the difference between the already established [illegible] of [illegible] Orange Lodges, in any other light than unconstitutional to the principles and [illegible] Roman Catholic body, and the Roman Catholic has a right to request Act of incorporation for their Christian Brothers Society, unopposed by Protestants or even Orangemen, they surely cannot consistently object that in a country which boasts of "equal rights to all" a like privilege should be granted to others. We believe that Catholics individually, so far from acknowledging that the question has any influence with them, that it is with the utmost indifference. We also believe that there are some who seek to influence Roman Catholics in their favor through this question, as there are others who use it to influence Orangemen. This is how religious strife is stirred up, a strife that might in our opinion have been to a great extent prevented by at once passing the Bills. Seeing such endeavors to manufacture party strength out of a matter that should be entirely separated from party, we shall not be sorry to see the Orangemen, or Roman Catholics, or both, treat as their most dangerous enemies (which they assuredly are,) those who come to them for political support [illegible] any voice or vote on this matter.

MEMBERS [illegible] MUNITY.

It is [illegible] in the remembrance of the [illegible] Legislature the sessional allowance to members was raised from $600 to $800, on the strength of a "round robin" signed by the members on both sides of the House. At that time no one was more built on securing the increase than Mr. Meredith, of London; but early in the present session he expressed his intention of moving for the abolishment of the late increase. The leader of the opposition from his place announced that he felt it to be his duty to warn the government of this proposed action on the part of the member for London, and at the same time expressed himself adverse to any reduction. From the well known astign of Mr. Meredith in regard to the increase, it is plain that he thought by repudiating his own former utterance and vote on the question to gain a little cheap popularity, believing that the country would applaud his self-abnegation. The public are not so easily led to applaud any such palpable dodge, but rather to despise the dodger. However this may be Mr. Meredith had no opportunity of making himself the champion of economy on a ground he had himself been largely instrumental in forming. Last Thursday night the Hon. Treasurer took the matter up, and stated that in order to allow of an appeal to public opinion by letting the House decide openly for itself he would move for the reduction of the sessional allowance to $600. Mr. Hardy moved an amendment to the effect that there be a total disallowance of the indemnity. The speaking was pretty general, and the House being in Committee of Supply, the free indulgence of plain language was about as general as the speaking. We do not wish to be thought desirous of making any political capital out of this subject but since it was the evident desire of the member for London to rake up such capital, a motive he was plainly accused of by leading members of his own side of the House, it may not be amiss to show that Conservative capital cannot be well made out of this discussion. Most of those who favored the decrease were the common members of the Ministerial party, while the greater number of those opposed to it were members of Mr. Meredith's iron party. Eighteen went in for the most sweeping change, and voted for stripping the sessional allowance completely out of the estimates, while the [illegible] defeated by a vote of 56 to 35, the House thus affirming its belief in higher allowance. So much for her, Meredith's cheap bid for popularity.

MR. MACLENNAN'S INDUCTION.

We are pleased to be able to announce the induction of Mr. Maclennan's, late of St. Andrew's Church here, over a very influential Church in Charlottetown, the capital of Prince Edward Island. We clip the following from the Patriot in reference to to his induction.

"The induction of the Rev. K. Maclennan took place on Wednesday evening in St. James Church. A very large congregation was present to witness the interesting and impressive ceremony. The Rev. Dr. Murray presided. Among the members of Presbytery present we noticed the Revs. Messrs. MacKinnon, Alex. MacLean, Campbell, McKay, Munroe, Laird, Gunn, Archibald, Bayne, Sutherland, Fraser and Crawford. The induction sermon was preached by the Rev. John MacKinnon. The text was "Obey them that have rule over you and submit yourselves for they watch for your souls as they that must give account that they may do it with joy and not with grief, for that is unprofitable for you. Heb. 13, 17. It was an excellent sermon, the product of deep and careful thought and large experience, and was very well delivered. The speaker set forth the respective duties of both pastor and people in a clear, and at times an eloquent manner, and if they both carry into practice the instruction they there received the Union that was then consummated cannot fail of being a happy one. The Rev. Dr. Murray put the usual questions to the pastor and the congregation. He also addressed the Minister. His address was earnest and scholarly. His elogium on the Bible was well conceived, and his exposition of the functions of a preacher of the Gospel was, in our opinion, just and comprehensive, and suited to the times in which we live. The Rev. Alex. MacLean's address to the people was mild and persuasive, and was listened to with deep and respectful attention by those to whom it was addressed. We sincerely congratulate the congregation of St. James' Church on having for their Minister a man of learning and piety, whose social virtues promise to endear him to them, and who fills [illegible] the regard of the whole community."

NEW SCHOOL BILL.

We have just received a copy of Mr. Crook's New School Bill, and give a synopsis below:—

The first section gives power to the Department to grant equivalents for passing High School pupils when successful examinations are passed before Learned Societies in Canada or the British Dominions. The second section gives the Department power to make regulations for elementary. The third section enables the Minister to arrange with Trustees for constituting one or more public schools in a county to be a Model School. Sections 4, 5, and 6 provide for examination of teachers. Section 7 provides for paying travelling expenses of members to the Normal School, and a weekly allowance for maintenance while there for the purpose of preparing for their certificate. Sections 8 to 14 refer to [illegible] Inspectors or Associations. [illegible] 19 to 26 regulates. The next [illegible] from 15th July to 17th Aug.; [illegible] 27 to 30 regulates [illegible] 31 to 34 regulates [illegible] Separate Schools. Section 35 repeals [illegible] Voting is still to be [illegible] [illegible] one day time after one full [illegible] [illegible] without any vote having been [illegible] Sections 17 to 23 refer to [illegible] [illegible] Schools. There are provisions for forming Union School Sections, either of parts of Townships, a Village or Town and part of a Township.

There is also a provision preventing altering the Boundaries of a union, but providing for dissolving the union, that is removing the whole of any municipality from the union on petition of the majority of the people of the portion of the municipality forming the part of the Union Section. The section is as follows:—

"(4) The boundaries of such union school shall not be altered, but the same may be dissolved by the Council of either Municipality in which part of the union is comprised, in case the same is petitioned for by a majority of the assessors, holders and householders of the [illegible] and in case there shall be [illegible] resolutions, [illegible] to the terms [illegible] by the Inspector or Inspectors [illegible] jurisdiction [illegible] Municipalities concerned in the request of such petition, be chosen and appointed by the Council of each Municipality or [illegible] majority of them, but no dissolution shall take effect until the first day of the month of January, which shall be at least three months after the passing of the Bylaw in that behalf. In case where the persons so to be appointed would make an even number, the Senior County Judge shall be added, and the determination of the majority of them shall be final."

The Act also provides for Trustees borrowing money from Banks or otherwise to pay teachers' salaries, quarterly, if necessary. Third class certificates only are to be awarded by County Board of Examiners.

There is also a provision enabling County and Town Councils, now separated, to agree as to making the Town High School a High School for the County.

Vacation in High Schools are to be as follows:—They shall open on 7th January, close Thursday before Easter, and open 1st Tuesday after Easter. They shall close on 12th July, and open on 1st September, and close on the 22nd Dec., and open on 7th January; and the High School Boards have power to dismiss during the period of the Intermediate Examinations.

It will be seen that there are several needed amendments and useful reforms.

The only one not yet provided is one to promote for Councils paying a fixed rate annually for support of High School. This is still to be optional with the County Councils.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Pursuant to motion of adjournment the Council met on Monday evening.

Present the Mayor and all the Councillors.

The minutes of the previous meeting having been read, Mr. Elder moved, seconded by Mr. McBain,—That before they be confirmed, a deputation be heard protesting against the action of the Council in passing a By-law at the previous meeting, and a petition, signed by a large number of the ratepayers for the same purpose be read.

Mr. Dumble objected to this motion on the ground that it was out of order. After some discussion Mr. Elder withdrew his motion until a more convenient time.

The minutes were then confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following petitions and communications were then read:—

The petition in regard to the Auburn Woolen Mills By-law. It protested, in the strongest terms possible, against the By-law, and the manner in which it had been passed. It requested the Council to repeal the By-law, and, either to pass a more satisfactory one for the town, or submit the present By-law to the ratepayers.

Mr. Elder supported the petition by a brief [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] confirmation of the [illegible].

The Mayor reproved them for this demonstration of their feelings and told them to be silent: If they continued this uproarious conduct he would immediately vacate the chair for the rest of the evening, the room was more quiet.

Several of the Councillors having expressed their desire that the business of the evening be continued, the regular routine was gone on with.

John McGee requested the position of Assistant Constable.—Referred to Committee on Appointments.

Communications asking for remission of taxes on account of hard times and, lack of work were received from Mrs. Dunn, Francis Vanderbordt, John Stewart, Mrs. R. Rutherford and Miss M. A. O'Neil.—Referred to Charity Committee.

From Scott & Edwards, Town Solicitors, enclosing an account of $300 from Mr. Bethune, of Toronto, for counsel in the case Nicholls (vs.) Cummings.—Referred to Finance Committee with power to act.

From John [illegible] stating that it was 2 or 10 weeks since he sent Messrs. Robertson & Clarke—[illegible] proprietors of the Peterboro' Times—for wages, and although they admitted the justice of the claim, and did not defend it, yet he has not received any money from them, although he believes an execution is in the hands of your officer. How gentlemen, surely that officer must be very neglectful and neglicent in the discharge of his office, or he would surely long been able to get the small sum due me as there must always be something in carrying on business which it would be utterly impossible to mention in any advertisement. He wished them to attend to this matter at once.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McWilliams,—That the communication be not received.—Carried.

An account was received from Mowry & Forsyth, Ashburnham, for repairs to bridge, $6.96.—Referred to Finance Committee.

TOWN PRINTING.

Mr. Dumble, read the Printing Committee report recommending that the [illegible] Town Printing be given to J. B. Stetham, of the Examiner Office.

TOWN PRINTING.—The many friends of the Examiner will learn with pleasure that the town printing was awarded to it at the last meeting of the Town Council.

THE practice of Hucksters in buying produce, contrary to the provisions of the law, makes the By-law a dead letter, as no notice seems to be taken of its violation.

TWO MONTHS IN JAIL.—The boy Trumwith, who was committed for trial for stealing the watch, last week, was tried before his honor, Judge Dennistoun, on Monday, and sentenced to two months in jail.

CORRECTION.—In the Coroner's inquest last week, on evidence given by Mr. Aaron Cox, a mistake occurred in which Mr. Stenson's name appeared in place of Stevenson's. We gladly make this correction.

THE Lindsay Post says:—"Bill" Montgomery is improving steadily under Dr. Fidler's care. He is now receiving three glasses of good old rye per day, and will soon be "well entirely," since the above was in type he has been ready on the Chestnut Prince.

ASHBURNHAM.—It will be seen by the minutes of the Village Council, that no change was made, in the officials, notwithstanding all the noise made. The Council should know by this time that where the most noise is, there is generally least reason for it. The child cries oftener than the man.

COUNTY ORANGE LODGE.—At the annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge of West Peterborough, held on Tuesday last, the officers were re-elected for the ensuing year:—J. B. McWilliams, Master; Samuel Nelson, Deputy Master; Rev. M. Gordon, Chaplain; John Smith, Secretary; Richard Warne, Treasurer; George W. Hall, Director of Ceremonies; Samuel McElwain, Lecturer.

ENTERTAINMENT.—We are glad to be able to announce that our town will be favoured with a first class concert in a few days. The Tandy Brothers and MacBarr, widely known as first-class vocalists have been engaged to sing in Bradburn's Hall. The Musical Magician, Kingston, Port Hope and other Canadian papers notice their concerts with unanimous commendations. The Boston and other American papers also speak of them in very complimentary terms. Probably some of our first home talent will also have some part in the programme We will be able to give full particulars next week. No doubt the Hall will be crowded.

CONCERT.—Had the musical public of Peterborough known what a treat was in store for them, they would have attended in large numbers on Tuesday evening. The management had begun a good deal of trouble to make the concert a good one, and it is to be regretted that their efforts were not rewarded with as much success as they deserve. The audience, however, although not as large as it should have been, was an appreciative one, which went enthusiastic by the frequent applause. The programme was well selected and was carried out, with one or two exceptions, in a manner that would have reflected credit on a much larger town than Peterborough. The concert opened with a excellent overture by the orchestra, which was well played. "Airelle Aveline Lyre," came next and was a perfect success. The playing of the "Fisher Waltz," also elicited earnest applause. The Misses Hamblin and Hatcher and Mr. Babington were rendered. The Piano Duet, by Mrs. Prescott and Mrs. Roper, was so finely done that they were long and loudly encored. The beautiful song "My Queen," by Miss Hamblin drew yours of a sweet voice, intelligent musical ability. It was well rendered. "Mona O'Donnell" by Misses Hamblin and Hatcher, was beautifully sung. "Death of Nelson," by Mr. Lockwood, of Port Hope, was also well rendered. "Once Again," by Miss Hamblin, in a beautiful song, and was duly appreciated by the audience. The piece "Centennial," by the Club, under the leadership of Mr. Joseph McClelland, was rapturously encored. Mr. A. T. Heathfield, by request, played the "Macallister Hymn," in a most artistic style. The pieces by the orchestra were well rendered, considering the short time since the organization of the club.

President:
MRS. ROMAINE.
Vice-Presidents:
MRS. G. E. SHAW. MRS. ELDER.
Treasurer:
MISS GILMOUR.
Secretary:
MISS ROGER.
Committee:

Mrs. A. Smith.	Mrs. W. G. Thomson
" K. Macleanan.	" Mack.
" Hazlitt.	" C. Ormond.
" Campbell.	" Dunlop.
" Clementi.	" Winniett.
Miss Sheridan.	" Wallis.

It comes more pressingly to the public their report, the Committee of the P. P. Home desire to acknowledge with thankfulness God's great Goodness in sparing so many of them to see the beginning of New Year and granting so many mercies to them in their work.

The number of those who have come into the Home during the past year has not been so large as in former years. There have only been seven in all, old and young, of these, three still remain, who, with the Matron, the blind woman and the two boys constitute the present household. During the year we are reporting two aged women, the one 83 years, the other 86, died in the Home; the latter, who had been an inmate for three years, after a long and trying illness of some months duration, the former had been an inmate a little more than a year. Thus these two found in the Home a quiet refuge in which to end their days, and where much care and attention were bestowed upon them by the kind hearted Matron.

It is with regret that the Committee notice a great falling off in the donations of clothing, produce &c., during 1876. In former years we have received aid from the the Town Council and the Protestant Churches, in the year just concluded none of these have contributed. The St. Andrew's Society alone has helped us in our good work. We have also still to thank the Grand Jury for their liberality.

Having received so handsome a donation from the heirs of the late Mr. W. Hall, for which we would tender our grateful thanks. The Committee knowing the scarcity of money, were reluctant to make their usual annual collection from the business men, unless absolute necessity were laid upon them consequently comparatively little has been contributed by the public.

Announcement was made early in the winter, that from the limited state of our funds, we would not be able to give any out-door relief, but since the beginning of the year we have to acknowledge the handsome donation of $160 from the Trustees of the "W. Hall Poor Trust," which has enabled us to resume our assistance in necessitous cases.

Owing to the establishment of a Dorcas Society last winter, consisting largely of ladies of the Home Committee, doing the same benevolent work, it may appear as if the Home had done less than usual amongst the distressed, as it was fifteen families have had more or less assistance given them some of them throughout the year.

Thanks are heartily tendered to those friends who have contributed of their substance; to the medical men who so kindly respond to the calls on their time; to the Clergymen and other friends who visit the inmates, to the Editors of the papers who kindly insert donations, acknowledgements, and advertisements, free of charge; and to Mr. Romaine for the Review each week.

Respectfully yours,
ISABELLA ROGER,
Sec. P. P. Home.

Coroner's Inquest.

FURTHER EVIDENCE.

The Coroner said that Mr. Stevenson desired to make a statement with regard to some evidence that was published in the EXAMINER.

Jas. Stevenson sworn, said that he desired to state that any remarks made by him to Mr. Stenson were only in joke. The statement that he made to him was simply this: Mr. Ormond took him to task by saying the child was left at my door; Mr. Stenson came along at the moment and he told Mr. Ormond that it was not at my door the child was left, but at his (Mr. Stenson's). Afterwards Mr. Stenson and I had further conversation about the matter, and I told him he should search where the name of the party whose name was on the basket; and further said that this might afford some clue as to where the child came from. All I said was merely a joke, and I did not intend that it should go any further; I know nothing more than what I have stated.

The Coroner said this included all the evidence we have been able to bring before you. We have been unable to bring before you the parentage of this child. I am sorry that this is the case, as I had hoped they would find the mother of the infant. A certain lawyer in town told me to let the matter drop, as the woman had suffered enough. This is the way the people of this town try to bring the guilty one to justice. I referred the matter to the Town Council, and some of them thought it was not worth while offering a reward. I was sorry that this was the case, as it would bring about a state of things that would be very injurious. There was a woman came to me to-day who was enciente, and asked him to get her a place to stop. I went to the Protestant Home, but they refused to admit her, and it was a hard thing to send a woman in her condition up to gaol. I am glad to see that the matter is cleared up in regard to the family whose name appeared on the basket. I am informed that none of the servants there had any trouble, and the simple accident that his name was on the basket should bring no disgrace to the family. There is a little difference of opinion as to the two witnesses. This has been owing to too much gossip going on about respectable people. I do know that there are certain shops in town where a great deal of gossip is done. These are nothing more or less than "scandal shops," and there is one in particular that is in the habit of giving me particular attention whenever they thought that they had an opportunity. But if a man is robbed of his good name, that is taken from him which enricheth him not and made the poor, indeed. Unfortunately we have no opportunity of taking legal proceedings against such people, but there should be a law to protect a man from the tongue of his neighbors, and I hope the day is not far distant when there will be a law that a man can defend himself from such slanderers. I think that this investigation should go on, so that if possible, they might, lead to the detection of the mother. I hope that if any person in town knows anything about this disgraceful affair they will come and tell me either now or after the close of the inquest.

The Jury then retired and returned with the following

VERDICT:

"That the said unknown infant came to its death by strangulation or suffocation, but as whose hands the Jury are unable to say."

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

While Mr Morrison was engaged threshing at Mr J A Turnbull's South Monaghan the sheep came in too close proximity to the tumbling rod when one of them became entangled in it, and being wound round several times was released by the breaking of a coupling, not however until the poor animal had the skin almost completely torn off it. Its sufferings were ended by being killed immediately after.—Com,

North Monaghan.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council met according to adjournment. All the members present:—The Reeve in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Petitions received and read from James Edwards and ten others asking that John Redhead and his family were suffering from want, and praying that they be relieved. Ten dollars granted. From John Fowler and 28 others asking to have Mr. John Tully appointed Assessor for 1877 at the same salary as last year. Applications for office were received from Samuel G. Bennett, William Collins, and Arnold Soanes for Assessor. And from Robt. Goodfellow and John Bennet for Collector. A By-law was passed making the following appointments, W. Wood, Clerk, J. Bradburn, Treasurer A. Soanes, Assessor, R. Goodfellow, Sr. Collector. By-laws to appoint Overseers of Highways, Pound Keepers, Fence Viewers, and imposing a tax on dogs were read a first time. Romaine $10 55; for Printing and Stationery, T. Bradburn $21. 25; for interest in advances made in 1873 omitted last year. Vital Statistics for 1876, Registered 13 births, 1 marriage, and 8 deaths. Council adjourned to the 2nd, of April at 1 o'clock Com.

ENNISMORE.

SCHOOL AFFAIRS.—At the annual meeting of S. S. No. 3 of this Township, the Trustees would give no satisfactory account to the Ratepayers of the school monies received and expended by them during the year. The meeting was adjourned to the 1st of February, that the Trustees might have time to be prepared with accounts and vouchers. During the interval it was rumoured round that the whole transactions would be put into Court, but at the adjourned meeting held on the 1st inst. better council prevailed, by the Ratepayers appointing Michael Sanderson, Esq., Reeve of Smith, and the Trustees appointing Daniel Costello, Esq., Reeve of Ennismore, as Arbitrators, to settle the business, who met on Saturday last in the new school house, and having gone over all their accounts and business of the year, they found the following results, viz: that William Geary had retained $77.07; Thomas Perdue, $17 25, and Michael O'Reilly, $7.50, for services rendered to the new school contrary to the intent and meaning of section 25 of the Consolidated School Laws of Ontario. In giving their award the Arbitrators ordered that William Geary refund to the amount of $46.00, and Thomas Perdue and Michael O'Reilly to refund the whole amount retained by them to Francis Maloney, Sec.-Treas. of the Section. Owing to the building of the new school house, considerable over $2,000 has been spent during the year, and no doubt it is the duty of the Ratepayers to see this money laid out to the best advantage.—Cor.

LAKEFIELD.

Fine weather but bad roads!

No money, no work, hard times, and plenty debts coming in.

Our first vagrant was shipped to Peterborough jail yesterday he is one from Cobourg and was almost starved.

The shanties are begining to brake up, and the men are to be seen returning daily, seeming glad to return where they can spend their hard earned funds in "rot gut whiskey."

Our Council had rather a stormy meeting on Monday night, their late collector going for them lively, and also in their being threatened by an action of damages by another Citizen. They raised the Hotel licenses from $30 to $75 and went back on their former engagement of "Leonards Hall" for a Council Chamber.

The Skating Carnival last week was quite a success, the Firemens Band from Peterborough was in attendance and as usual their selections were appreciated by all. I will not critize the costumes on the ice they were all so good but I must say that the ladies deserve credit for the manner in which they came out, quite a large number were up from Peterborough and seemed to enjoy the evening which I believe was wound up by a dance and supper. Another will take place in a week if the ice is good.

Potatoes are dying out, second thoughts are best.

Snow is wanted, to bring in hay and wood.

We have lately had the honor of having out a full fledged "professor" Our village has some brains in it.

THE [illegible] ACT.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR.—I would like to see in your columns, the friends of Temperance through what has been done to bring the matter before the Town Council? I was hoping to see them actively at work getting signatures to petitions to the Ratepayers but I have waited in vain. May I not justly accuse them of indifference to the great moral evils that through this traffic are cursing the Town, County and Country. I fear, too, that I will be Constrained to to class even the loudest talkers at Temperance Anniversaries with the enemies of the cause, as they accept offices on committees and the great places in the associations, and yet fold their hands, or strike their breat with amazement that nothing is being done. What is that committee doing which was appointed at the last County meeting? are they crying a little more sleep and a little more slumber? are they afraid of the affray or unwilling to enter the contest on the side of morality and order? If not I trust I shall hear from them soon as to the matter confided to them.

I am, yours &c.,

For fifteen years Gray's Syrup has been before the public, and it has been gradually increasing in popular favor until it has now become the Standard Domestic Remedy of every family. The leading retail druggists can assure us that they sell more of Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum than they do of all the other Cough Preparations put together. It has been used by thousands of persons suffering from Throat and Lung diseases, and is the best known Remedy for affections of the throat.

THROAT DISEASES OUT! WHERE THE THERE IS LIGHT IS GOOD. Do you know anything of it? If not it is time you did. There are but few preparations of medicine which been witnessed the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of them is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power, and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different proportions. True is the proposition of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportion or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made one thing produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids, consequently loses nothing by evaporation. When ever applied you get the benefit of every drop, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which they may contain.

A SEARCH AFTER ORTHODOXY.

The only amusement in which Ralph Erskine indulged was playing on the violin. He was so great a proficient on this instrument, and so often beguiled his leisure hours with it, that the people of Dunfermline believed he composed his sermons to his tunes, as a poet writes a song to a particular air. They also tell the following traditionary anecdote connected with the subject: A poor man in one of the neighboring parishes, having a child to baptise, resolved not to employ his own clergyman with whom he was at issue on certain points of doctrine, but to have the office performed by some minister of whose tenets fame gave a better report. With the child in his arms, therefore, and attended by the full complement of old and young women who usually minister on such occasions, he proceeded to the manse of ——, some miles off—not that of Mr. Erskine—where he enquired if the clergyman was at home. "No he's no home the noo," answered the servant lass; "he's doon the burn fishin,' but I can soon cry him." "Ye need na gie yourself the trouble," replied the man, quite shocked at this account of the minister's habits; "nane o' your fishin' ministers shall baptise my bairn."

Off then he truged, followed by his whole train, to the residence of another parochial clergyman at the distance of some miles. Here on enquiring if the minister was at home the lass answered: "Deed he's no at home the day; he's been out since sax i' the mornin,' at the shootin', Ye need na wait neither; for he'll be sae made out (fatigued) when he comes back that he'll no be able to boo at a,' let a-bee baptising a wean!" "Wait, lassie," cried the man in a tone of indignant scorn, "wad I wait, d'ye think, to hand up my bairn before a minister that gangs out at sax i' the mornin' to shoot God'screatures? I'll awa down to good Mr. Erskine, at Dunfarlan,' and he'll neither be out fishin' or shootin,' I think."

The whole baptismal train set off for Dunfermline, sure that the father of the Secession, although not now a placed minister, would at least be engaged in no unclerical sports, to incapacitate him for performing the sacred ordinance in question. On arriving at the manse which they did not till late in the evening, the man on rapping at the door, anticipated that he would not be at home any more than his brethren. "The minister will not be at hame," he said, with a sly smile to the door, or your lad (sweetheart) would na be playin' that gate't ye on the fiddle." "The minister is at hame," quoth the the girl, "mair by token it's himself that's playin,' honest man; he aye takes a tune at night before gangin' to bed. Faith there's na lad o' mine can play that gate; it would be somethin' to tell if any o' them could." "That the minister playin'!" cried the man in a degree of astonishment and horror transcending what he had expressed on either of the former occasions. "If he does this, what may the rest do? We'll, I fairly gie them up a'thegither, I have travelled the hail day in search o' a goodly minister, and never man met wi' mair disappointments in a day's journey. I will tell ye what, guide-wife," he added, turning to the disconsolate party behind, "we'll just awa back to our ain minister, after a'! He's no a'thegither sound, it's true; but let be what he likes in doctrine, I never kenned him fish, shoot, or play on the fiddle a' his days."—Evangelist.

BE WISE.—Too often a cold or slight cough is considered a very ordinary, trifling affair, just as well left to go as it comes, and hence systematically neglected until a chronic, incurable affection is converted into a serious pulmonary disease. The more prudent, aware that a cough or cold should never be trifled with, promptly use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which have established their reputation all over the country, during many years. They are certain to relieve, and speedily cure, and have proved most beneficial in relieving and curing all the bronchial and pulmonary organs. Sold by all druggists and country merchants at 25 cents a box.

VERY NATURAL.—When a person has proved an article and found it good, and conscientiously recommends it for the purpose for which it is intended, he will not readily abandon it for one of doubtful character. Such is not the case with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which has been in use for many years, and is recommended by those who have used it as the best liniment and valuable horse-medicine known. Dr. Thomas' Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy." All are so well pleased with it that they will not use any other; many have waited several weeks until the agent could obtain a new supply. There is nothing equal to it in a condition medicine, or for any complaint affecting the wind of horses. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. THE AMERICK CENTENNIAL, 1876.

Wheeler and Wilson Victorious!

Again the WHEELER AND WILSON SEWING MACHINE triumph over the world. The Centennial Commission have officially announced the awards, and Silvered for the New Wheeler & Wilson Machine two Diplomas of Honour and two Medalist Merit. This is a double victory, and the highest award which it was in the power of the Centennial authorities to bestow. No OTHER COMPANY RECEIVED SUCH A RECOGNITION IN THIS DEPARTMENT. More than thirty of the best producers of machines in this and other countries entered for competition, and at Philadelphia in 1876, as at Vienna in 1873, and at Paris in 1867, Wheeler & Wilson head the list. After a careful, rigorous, and exhaustive examination, the judges unanimously decided that the superior excellence of these machines deserved more than one medal and diploma, and, consequently they recommended two of each. The Centennial Commission unanimously ratified the action of the judges and the public will doubtless endorse the decision of the school of mechanical experts. A CLAIM FOR REALLY SUPERIOR MERIT SUPPORTED BY ANY OTHER SEWING MACHINE COMPANY IS ONLY AN AFFRONT TO GOODWIN THE PEOPLE. Read the following, which stamps the "New Wheeler & Wilson" as the Standard Sewing Machine of the World.

From the Official Report.]

AWARDS TO WHEELER AND WILSON.

1. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine," for the following reasons:—

"A Lock-stitch Sewing Machine unsurpassed in the fine workmanship of its parts, great originality, great adaptability to different kinds of work both in cloth and leather, beauty of stitch; ease and rapidity of motion, and completeness of display.

2. A Medal and Diploma for "The New Wheeler and Wilson Sewing Machine" for leather, for the following reason:—

"Superior quality of work in leather stitching."

The above celebrated Machines are sold in Peterborough by the undersigned, who thoroughly understands them: and who is capable of Repairing all classes of Sewing Machines, Clocks and Musical Instruments. Also, work done in the stencil line.

Come One! Come All! give Mitchell a call. Whose Sewing Machines are both large & small They are in appearance both handsome and neat And as for their work IT can't be beat: They do their work both neat and well, And at the "Centennial" they did Excel.

THE GREAT SACCHARINE REMEDY is an Indian vegetable compound, composed of the juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different ingredients, when combined, is so constituted as to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, Nervous system, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and, being purely vegetable, is as harmless as Nature's own beverage. This medicine is a decided benefit in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood, such as Scrofula Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Canker, Pimples, &c. In prescribing this medicine we do not claim that it always performs cures; but this we do say, that it purifies and enriches the blood, permanently curing a large majority of diseases arising from its impurities. It stands far ahead and unequalled among the hundreds of competing medicines of the day. It has stood the test of ten years, and in to-day more popular than ever. As a summer restorative it stands unrivalled; it enables the system to bear up against the constant drain to which it is subjected by a high temperature. Persons who are subject to bilious Colic, Dysentery, Indigestion, &c., should take the "Shoboosen Remedy." Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cts. a box. 4-8in

MANHOOD!

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

St. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Dear Sir—To my numerous friend others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY. I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old, and been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had nervous nervous and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very loose bowels, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual coughing in the throat and down upon the lungs. Seeing my condition when I commenced to take your discovery Remedy, one bottle of which made me feel much better, and by the time I had taken the second bottle I was convinced in which to me to be a permanent cure, as I had gained in flesh and strength, and discarding food, in which I now enjoy as well as ever I did in my life. I have taken four bottles, and can recommend it to all who are afflicted with Catarrh, feeling sure that it will do for them what it has done for me. You are at liberty to use this as you please.

Yours truly, HENRY SNIDER.

Price $1 per bottle. For sale by all Druggists.

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility, and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y. 6-1y

RENEWALS.

Some persons complain that their paper is stopped without notice. This is a mistake. If any subscriber will notice the direction tag pasted on the paper, he will have full notice of the time of the expiration of his subscription. Suppose John Smith's paper has the following tag on it:

Smith, John 12 Jan. 7.

the explanation is that John Smith's time is out on the 12th day of January, 1877; if it read "20 Jan. 78," it would mean the expiration would take place the 20th of January, 1878.

What has become of the Secret Service Money?

Quite a breeze has been raised in the political world over a refund of monies by Sir John Macdonald to the Public Treasury, after holding them since he and his party went out of power. It is very broadly hinted that restitution of the money was made after certain developments had been made that were likely to compromise the Chieftain of clean hands in a manner not at all agreeable. However this may be it is certain that in the Public Accounts lately brought down appears, at page 51, under the heading of "Casual Revenue," and in the receipts for the year ending June 1876, appears the item, "Amount received from Sir John Macdonald, balance of secret service money, $25,579.04." From this it will be seen that the leader of the present Opposition from the time he ceased to be Premier had at least $25,579 of Dominion funds in his hands, to be devoted if he so chose to his own uses and enjoyment. It is, to say the least, rather an anamoly that a man ceasing to be a Minister should retain a large amount of government funds; and the matter demands some explanation, if for no other purpose than to ascertain why he did so. The case looks the more suspicious on account of certain statements of Sir John which led to the implication that the Secret Service Fund had been exhausted; and because of his opposition to an audit of that fund in 1872, when, though stating his willingness to agree to any arrangement of the kind the House might see fit to make as to the future, he stated that sooner than allow any examination of past expenditures of the fund he would cut off his right hand. If an utterance of Sir John from a public platform at St. Thomas in 1872 is to be taken as an index of his feelings in regard to Secret Service money, there are certainly strong grounds for suspicion that he did not suffer the balance since paid over to be idly in bank during the interval. He is reported by the Mail as stating, after an erroneous or false representation of the English practice, that so closely was the Secret Service Fund there kept under the control of the Ministers, that "if a government was going out of office with a hundred thousand pounds to their credit they would not leave it behind them, but take it with them, and USE IT FOR THEIR OWN PARTY PURPOSES IN OPPOSITION. This is rather a startling idea, coming from the mouth of a man who at that very time had over $25,000 of Secret Service money in his control, unknown them presumably to all except himself. The Secret Service vote for the year ending June 30 1867 was $100,000; for 1869 it was $80,000; in 1869 it rose to $75,000, and a similar amount was voted for 1871. Here is a total of $600,000 totally unaccounted for. Can it be possible that all but a little of this was expended, as pretended, for detective business connected with Fenian raids? The easy adaptibility by Sir John of moneys received from Sir Hugh Allan, and from the Northern Railway, to party purposes leads to the thought that he could hardly refrain from using what money he possibly could to prolong the fight for political existence. Last Thursday he stated before the House that he never had this balance of $25,000 in his hands at all, but that it lay as a special deposit in the Bank of Montreal—That may or may not be; but it is strange that he should have left that deposit quietly to his own order, and never mentioned it except to deny its existence, until certain disclosures to the government led to the inquiry as to what had become of the $75,000 voted in 1871.—Then only he made restitution of the amount set down in the lately published public accounts. What has become of all the rest of the money voted for "Secret Service" since 1866? This is the question that interests the public, and which Sir John says he will cut off his right hand before he will answer. It is even said that further indebtedness is admitted.

The Tories have all along been boasting that Sir John was a poor man, and must therefore be honest. Poor as he was, however, he was able somehow to become largely concerned in the Mail newspaper, and in the establishment of a palatial Club House in Toronto as headquarters for the faithful among the Liberals did servatives. If so poor how [illegible] he get the money for [illegible] frugally in the besides living by [illegible] John declares he meantime? [illegible] for "personal purposes" used [illegible] wrong grounds for the suspicion [illegible] he uses the phrase with a good deal of mental reservation. The whole matter is one that calls for the strictest investigation, and it is likely a special committee will be ordered to proceed with an inquiry.

FURNISHING FALSE FIGURES.

It is said that "Figures cannot lie." Perhaps not; but those who manipulate them can. The Mail for the past few days has been anxiously endeavouring to induce the belief that the Reform Government has been very extravagant, in having increased the public expenditure since the days of the John A. administration. It very cleverly makes a comparison of various items of expenditure in 1873, and those in the years following, and in every case tries to lead its readers to see that the figures for 1873, "the last year of Sir John's ministry," were largely exceeded in the following year. It takes good care not to explain that though the Macdonald administration went out of power in the fall of 1873, it had voted the expenditure for the year ending June 30th, and is hence responsible for one half of 1874. The increase of expenditure in the consolidated fund from $19,174,647.92 in 1872-3 to $23,316,316.75 in 1873-4 is, it is plain from the facts, largely due to the administration of Sir John Macdonald and his Pacific Scandal colleagues. But this large increase between those two years, does not display at once, the whole measure of their responsibility; for in these figures are not included sums which rightly belong to those years, but which the late government left out, to be afterwards paid by their successors, whom their organs now has the hardihood to accuse of extravagance, because they met just public demands, incurred and staved off by the former occupants of the Treasurey benches. Whether certain of these charges were left unprovided for, with the knowledge that they were going out of office, and as a means of embarrassment to those coming after them, the late ministers can best tell. Let their object be what it may, such demands were left unsatisfied, and had to be honourably met; and they were. In spite of all this, and the growing demands of a growing country, the expenditure in 1874-5 was kept within $400,000 of what it was the previous year. Increased expenditures were necessarily incurred by increase in the sinking fund and administration of Justice. Then there were paid on account of United States boundary Survey, in 1874-5 $121,741,66 and in 1875-6, $134,105,18, which amounts properly belong to 1873-4, as the money was spent and the survey ended in that year. If these amounts be placed where they rightly should have gone, the ordinary expenditure of the two succeeding years will be considerably below that of 1873-4, the last year in which Sir John & Co., fixed the expenditure, in spite of all other unforseen expenses. Of the latter class are the votes for the Philadelphia Exhibition, the Mennonite Loan, relief to Manitoba settlers, beside necessary provision for the Supreme Court, for Indian treaties, and for the carrying out of the acts relating to adulteration of food, inspectation of staples, &c. With these facts before them, the people will perceive that so far from the general expenditure for 1875-6 were $24,488,372,11, being extravagant, it is plain that only the practice of careful economy could have kept it down to that sum.

The consolidated fund for 1876-7 is lower still, being $25,031,699,99, and it remains to be seen how far the Finance Minister has been able to keep within that amount. The total estimates under this head for the year 1877-8 are $23,167,686.89. Both of these amounts, it will be seen, are below that of 1873-4, which is given above, and which was voted by the Macdonald administration, which is therefore really responsible for its figures; a responsibility of which the Mail would fain try to relieve them, with intent to deceive in its comparison of that with the former year.

Still it is not the figures that lie. Oh, no!

THOSE HANDS ARE CLEAN.

Another $25,579 has been discovered in the hands of that man of honor and clean hands; viz: in Sir. John A. McDonald's hands. It has come to light that he has handed into the Receiver-General the above sum as a balance of the secret service money, that was in his keeping, when he left office. The fact that he retained it for over two years after leaving office is causing no little enquiry. It is a balance he says. How much he spent since leaving office no one can tell. Nor can any one tell for what purpose it was spent, if spent at all. Some of his admirers pretend that he lost night of it, but few will believe this theory. Sir John had the money. He kept it over two years, and only paid it over when he could keep it no longer.

SHAME.—The gentleman's organ of Lindsay commences a paragraph in this style, "Sandy Mackenzie, oh! we beg pardon, the Hon. A. Mackenzie," was the successful candidate at the Reform. How mean, but what could be expected from a member of a party so completely lost to all sense of honor and respect.

A SAD LACK OF ENERGY.

All those interested in the through line of railway from Toronto to Ottawa will be pleased to learn of a further advance in the Credit Valley project, which in time is destined to be a very considerable feeder to the through line traversing the northern counties. A Bill has been passed in the Provincial Legislature making it compulsory on the City Council of Toronto to submit a bonus by-law (which it formerly threw out) on presentation of a petition signed by three hundred ratepayers. There is now no doubt that such a by-law, to grant $250,000 will be submitted, and there are very fair prospects of its being carried by the popular vote of the city. Reference is made to this by a Toronto correspondent of the Lindsay Post, who closes his letter of last week as follows:—

"I cannot close without according my tribute of praise to Mr. George Laidlaw—not for his straightforward line of with the municipalities along the shock." his road, but for his own best request of He made an excess [illegible] asked it to com- the Legislature [illegible]cils which had once pel [illegible] submit a second bonus to aided [illegible]ers whether they would or the [illegible] it turned out that he knew what he was doing, and now he has got his "little Bill." If the people of the East will only persion of [illegible]. W. H. Scott, who is not consumed with energy, and make Mr. Laidlaw President of the entire road from St. Thomas to Ottawa they will soon find out the exact amount of vitality in their scheme. If it can be pushed through at all he is the man to do it, and while I admit there is somethiag in it, I am quite prepared to believe that it needs some pushing and engineering."

THAT "SALARY GRAB."

The Kingston News says it has looked in vain for the division list in the salary grab question; and that it does not appear in any of the Toronto papers nor in any votes and proceedings of the House. The News might have saved itself the trouble of looking had it but reflected that the vote was taken in Committee of Supply, the divisions in which are never recorded. However the division was recorded by a member of the House, who thus reports it:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Barr, Bethune, Bishop, Brown, Cameron, Chisolm Creighton, Crooks, Ferris, Finlayson, Fraser, Gibson, Hardy, Hargraft, Hunter, Lane, Lauder, McGraney, McDougall (Middlesex), McGowan, McMahon, Meredith, Merrick, Mowatt, Pardee, Richardson, Rosevear, Sexton, Sinclair, Snetsinger, Tooley, Wattsworth, Widdifield, Wilson, Wood. —35.

NAYS.—Messrs. Appleby, Baker, Ballantyne, Baxter, Bell, Bonfield, Boulter, Broder, Clarke (Norfolk), Code, Cole, Counta, Currie, Deacon, Deroche, Flesher, Graham, Grange, Grant, Harkin, Hay, Hodgins, Kean, Long, Lyon, McDougall (Simcoe), Massie, Miller, Mostyn, O'Donoghue, O'SULLIVAN, Paxton, Preston, Robinson, SCOTT, Springer, Striker, Williams.—38.

From this the News will be able to gain the information it so violently desires. The people of Peterborough East and Peterborough West will also learn from it that their representatives voted to maintain the sessional allowance at $800. From this time we expect to hear no more cry of "Salary Grab" from the Conservatives of this County.

DISGRACEFUL.—We learn with regret that Col. Smart, late Post-master of Port Hope, had the dastardly cowardice lately to assault Mr. Wilson, Editor of the Guide on account of an article referring to Post-office deficits in Port Hope, which were under investigation. It is generally rumored that Mr. Smart's accounts are about $5,000 to $6,000 short, and that he has been using the money for his own personal advantage; perhaps, because of fast living. Be this as it may, Mr. Smart has been dismissed on account of something being wrong. The editor of the Guide referred to the facts in a not very complimentary manner, it may be presumed. Mr. Smart's dignity was affended, and consequently he must demolish the editor. If he imagines that such a cowardly act will merit public approval he will soon meet with disappointment. Such conduct should not be tolerated, and we sincerely trust that due punishment will be meted out to the perpetrator, notwithstanding his social position.

To the Bond and Shareholders of the Midland Railway of Canada.

The annual report for the year ending the 31st December 1876, to which the customary accounts are attached, is hereby respectfully submitted by the Directors.

REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The gross receipts for the year have been the sum of $272,954,96 or £56,066 12s. 8d. as against $284,322,84 or £58,422 8s. 0d. sterling, in 1875, showing a renewed decrease of $11,367,88 or £1,335 19s. 4d. as compared with the previous year. In the amount of this revenue the Directors cannot but feel disappointed. During the first three months of the year, ending 31st March, and embracing a period which the usual winter shipments of grain, more especially wheat, are made, the result of a fair crop, increased the earnings of the road in the sum of $10,532,86 as against last year, and gave the Railway the best winter business it ever had—but no sooner did we enter upon our spring and summer traffic, it became at once apparent that in the resources of lumber, timber and shingle freights, hitherto considered four principle staple, we were destined to suffered more loss. As a result, the total reduction shews nearly twice the diminution in quantity we experienced the last few years, and reduced the freight receipts from these articles by $22,055,47 less than 1875. For the first time in the history of the Midland Railway the earnings from the traffic of goods classed as General Merchandise exceeded those from lumber. The following figures are hereby appended:—

FREIGHT RECEIPTS FROM LUMBER, TIMBER AND SHINGLES.

1872	144,539 09
1873	135,679 43
1874	103,923 55
1876	58,333 76

Even with some contributions from the lumber mills along the line of the Railway to Waubaushene, the business rose but to the small dimensions hereby exhibited. Whilst it is not possible to venture on a prediction on the future state of the lumber trade, so much depending upon the demand from the United States, it would seem, however, that the business could hardly be confined to smaller dimensions. In square timber, renewed activity in the coming season is strongly indicated. The efforts made to secure an increased local trade throughout Canada, on the facility of low unbroken rail connections, have so far been successful, that, of the total shipments of 37 million feet, fully one-third, or 12 million feet, were distributed in connection with the Grand Trunk Railway through Canada, against only one million feet transhipped to that line the year previous. The tonnage delivery at Port Hope to the road connected line, in connection therewith, rises from 16,899 tons in 1875, to 20,760 in 1876.

With the total receipts of the line diminished in 1876 to them of 1871, when lumber and timber contributed to the earnings of road the sum of $142,085,88 as against $58,333.96 this year, it enquires but a slight revival in the lumber trade, in addition to the usual wheat crop, which last season was almost a total failure in this section, combined with the steadily growing passenger and goods traffic of the railway, to soon restore the former earnings and far exceed them.

EXPENDITURES.

The working expenses of the line have been $173,385,38 or £35,616,17.2 sterling against $179,221.81 or £36,826.68.0, say, a rate equal to 63.50 on gross receipts, exhibiting a slight increase of 47.100, in comparison with the previous year. It has only been by the greatest economy that this rate of working expenses could be maintained,—and the more so [illegible] care of the road-bed and track [illegible] greater outlay than ever [illegible].20, under pended thereon, to [illegible] of roadway, the heading of main [illegible] outlay of any other exceeding the [illegible]00 per cent of the total year, being as [illegible] the details of which explanatorily set forth in the report of the Engineer. Every practicable reduction in wages and in the general staff, consistent with keeping up the proper efficiacy of the road, has been made.—The total earnings of this year on a line of 130 miles running, falling below those of 187.1 on a line of 96 miles, the detailed figures of all expenditures must prove a reliable index that all due care and economy has been exercised.

REVENUE ACCOUNT.

The Revenue has been charged with the amount due and paid on the interest Bonds of the Company, interest on Floating Debt, expenditures on the Georgian Bay Extension, and the various outlays on the line.

ROLLING STOCK.

The small requisition made on the motive power of the Company, by the absence of traffic, required us to use but four of the seven leased locomotives, of which three had remained in the shops of the Company under bond as originally received. Under these circumstances, the Directors accepted an offer made them by the lessors to return these three and releasing the railway of the original liability, and a further arrengement is about being consummated by which the lease on four will be cancelled and become the permanent property of the Company, Nothing further was done during this year toward the completion of the 80 platform cars, and the investment thereon remains as previously reported,

SPECIAL WORLS.

Keeping pace with every other outlay of the Company, the expenditure on special works for the current year was narrowed down to the sum of $2,547.46, or £523,9.1, as per detailed Engineer's account.

GEORGIAN BAY EXTENSION.

On the now as far as Waubaushene, completed extension, which has been run during the whole of this year without interruption, a large amount of work has been done, more especially in the yards of the Georgian Bay Lumber Company, by extending their tracks and sidings to facilitate their future shipments, as well as on the wharves, buildings of the Railway, the sidings between Orillia and Coldwater, cuttings and embankments. The outlay therefor has absorbed a great part of the revenue, to wit: $32,552.03, or £6,688.15.6.

The commerce tributary to these parts of the Georgian Bay, of which Midland forms the central and most accessible point, by virtue of its position and depth of water, has during this season in only partial cases and to a very small degree, been made available to the earnings of the road, but indications point to considerable increase during the coming year, several steamers being prepared to run in connection with the railway at Waubaushene; the whole system of the line suffers, however, from the non-completion of the line to the terminal-point, Midland, and towards the accomplishment of this object the management purpose to direct their best energies during the coming year.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HUGEL,
President.

ADMISSION TO HIGH SCHOOLS.

The following Order in Council respecting the admission of pupils to High Schools, has just been issued from the Education Department:—

In accordance with the suggestion of the Central Committee of Examiners the following modification shall be made in the subjects prescribed for candidates for entrance into the Collegiate Institutes and High Schools, and the same shall come into effect at the examination to be held in June next, viz:—

1. Candidates will be examined in the leading facts of English history. The questions set will not demand a minute knowledge of details, but will be strictly limited to the outlines of the subject.

2. Candidates will be examined, as heretofore, in reading from the Fourth Reader, pp. 1,246; but they will, in addition, be expected to show that they understand the meaning of these reading lessons. They will likewise be examined more minutely on the sections enumerated in the following list, and they will be required to reproduce the substance of one or more of them in their own language:—(1.) The Norwegian Colonies in Greenland—Scoresby. (2.) The Founding of the North American Colonies—Pedley. (3.) The Voyage of the Golden Hind—British Enterprise. (4.) Discovery of America—Robertson. (5.) Death of Montcalm—Hawkins. (6.) Jacques Cartier at Hochelaga—Hawkins. (7.) Cortes in Mexico—Cassell's Paper. (8.) The Buccaneers—The Sea. (9.) The Earthquake of Caracccas—Humboldt. (10.) The Conquest of Peru—Annals of Romantic Adventure. (11.) The Conquest of Wales—White's Landmarks. (12.) Hermann, the Deliverer of Germany—Jerrer. (13.) The Burning of Moscow—Segur's Narative. (14.) The Battle of Thermopyle—Raleigh. (15.) The Destruction of Pompeii—Magazine. (16.) The Taking of Gibraltar—Overland Route.

3. The Local Board are directed not to admit candidates that fail to obtain one-half of the marks given for the parsing questions on the paper in grammar.

In all other respects the entrance examinations for June will be conducted in accordance with the regulations at present in force.

YOUNG'S POINT.

We are pleased to see that Mr. John Young, who formerly carried on business in this place, has again opened out in his new shop with a splendid assortment of Groceries, Dry Goods, Hardware &c., and we are informed that he intends disposing of them for cash as cheap, or cheaper than they can be purchased in Peterborough. He has bought his goods for cash in the best markets, and farmers and others in the neighborhood will do well to give him a call. This is a want supplied, which we have long felt the need of, as all our numerous wants have to be supplied at either Lakefield or Peterborough. We wish him every success in his undertaking, and hope he may receive that patronage which he so richly deserves. He is an old and respected resident of this place, and those who favour him may depend on getting good value for their money.—COM.

LINDSAY.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE CENTRAL EXHIBITION.—On Tuesday night the Town Council made a grant of $600 towards the fund for erecting suitable buildings for the Central Exhibition to be held here next fall. The county Council, at its January session, made a grant of $700 to aid the same object, and Townships Councils in the vicinity are expected to give liberal sums. A very desirable park lot has been obtained for the show ground and first class buildings will be put up the work commencing in a short time. No effort will be spared by the citizens of Lindsay to make the Exhibition a grand success. This is the Exhibition that is to be held in rotation at Peterboro', Port Hope Lindsay, and Cobourg.

PORT HOPE.

THE name of Mr. Archibald Fleming, formerly of this town, was mentioned in connection with the vacancy in the Post Office here, but the Government seemed to think Mr. Ross had the best claim to the office,—and he got it. Mr. Fleming certainly has claims on the Reform party here, which have as yet been but [illegible]rabil- repaid. He is a young man, [illegible] duties of ities, and would discharge [illegible] creditably. almost any position [illegible]ficer.—It is with POST HOPE [illegible]ceives that the recent deep regret [illegible] into the affairs of the Port investment Office had led, it is alleged, to [illegible] discovery that Col. E. W. Smart is short in his cash to the extent of over $5,000. In consequence, he has been removed, and we understand he was placed under arrest. On Monday he was brought before the P. M., and committed for trial. He has been released on bail, however, and we trust on being brought to trial he will be able to prove himself innocent of such grave charges. We understand that Lewis Ross, Esq., M. P., has been appointed as his successor.

PERSONAL.—We regret to learn that our efficient and popular Town Clerk, H. V. Sanders, is suffering from severe illness. We trust however, soon to see him relieved, and at his post once more. The Council board does not look right without H. V at the head of the table. In twenty years, we do not think he has been absent from his post one-fourth that number of times.

We regret to learn that Mr. George Wilson editor of the Guide, was violently assaulted by Col. Smart yesterday morning, on account of an article referring to the post office investigation published in the last issue of that paper. As the result of the investigation had not been made public, the remarks of our contemporary were uncalled for and unnecessarily severe, but that does not at all justify Mr. Smart's violence, which we, with every one else strongly condemn.

As an indication of the extent of the business done at the Millbrook Post office—one of the best conducted in the Province,—we give the following memorandum for the month of January:—377 registered at this office; 245 received from other offices to forward; 110 received for delivery, at this office; 632, in all entered on the books, during the month of January.—Times

KEENE.

OBITUARY.—Mr. James Sinclair a well known and highly esteemed resident of this Village departed this life on Monday morning the 12th instant. Deceased expired after a short illness of Erysipelas at the age of 68 years. He was born in Inverness Scotland, in the year 1809 and came to Canada in 1832. He settled in the Village of Keene, about 30 years ago where he has resided ever since, and carried on the saddlery business. He always took a very active part in our political contests was throughout a staunch supporter of the Reform party. The last tribute of respect was paid to him on Wednesday last by a very large number of relatives, and friends who followed his remains to their last resting place in the Pine Grove Cemetry of this place. He leaves two sons and six daughters who have our heartfelt sympathy in their sudden bereavement. May they be comforted as they journey on through life with the hope of that meeting beyond the grave, where death divided friends at last shall meet to part no more.

On Friday last while Mr. Robt. White of Peterboro was driving from Lakefield to this village, the horse dropped on the road and died before it could be unhitched. The cause of its death is supposed to be inflamation.

Our Village school was re-opened on Monday last, it having been closed for the past fortnight, on account of Mr. Ford, our school teacher, having been ill of a severe attack of Pleurisy. We are happy to say he is now so far recovered as to be able to attend duties again.

We understand Mr. Alex. Chisholm is going to carry on the Saddlery business in the shop formerly occupied by the late Mr. Sinclair. Mr. Chisholm is highly respected by all who know him, and is a first-class workman. We heartily wish him every success.

We would just say to some of the boys of this village that they, might be better engaged every night than screeching and howling around the store doors, and giving impudence to every person who comes along. It would be more to the credit of themselves and their parents if they were at home minding their own business, their books, or sleeping.

A young gentleman went courting on a Sunday not long since, when he arrived at her fathers residence they were leaving for church and invited him to go, but he declined seeing the fair one was not going he thought he was going to have a good time, when beau No. 2 arrived on the scene and the fair one told No. 1 to retire till she sent away No. 2, so she shut him up in the cupboard, when No. 2 drove up with a fine horse and cutter, and invited her to go to Church, she then dressed in haste and went leaving No. 1 in the cupboard That young man's feelings can be better imagined than described.—COM.

Irishmen are falling back on "Brose and Kail."

Our school morals seem to be below par, judging from a hanging scrape which occured last week and which has endangered the life of one of the scholars and a life long mark on another.

Fishing excursions to the back lakes are numerous, and the sport is good, but our Fishery Inspector is missing and the spectacles of the Peterboro' Fish and Game Protection Society are somewhat obscured. Verbum Sap.

A mass meeting of the old shareholders of the Lakefield News and general public was held in the Temple on Monday night, a great deal of mutual recrimination was indulged in, and it ended as it began, but the end is not yet, if all the promises are carried out on both sides.

Our ice crop is splendid. and a large number seem to be taking advantage of it so that we may expect to be able to "cool off" without trouble next summer, especially on the 12th of July when we expect a big crowd here.—COM

Last Saturday as Mr, George Smith was at Hope's mill with a load of saw logs his horses took fright and ran away they took the River road, and ran about five miles with the load before they were stopped. Cause too many oats.—COM.

DRIVING EXTRAORDINARY.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—On a Sabbath not long since a newspaper man of the town not remarkable for puritan ideas, went for a drive. When a few miles from town the horse took fright and ran away. The Typo and friend were soon landed in the slush. The former it is said hung on with death-like tenacity until dragged several yards in slush and mud, but being thus unable to stop the animal, he let go, and in a not very pious tone told the poor beast he might go where no such beast should be. Equus soon disappeared. Somewhat out of temper and not at all pleased with their last resting place, either as to bed or board, they picked up the trappings to follow their noble animal, which they soon found in the possession of a Country Adonis and his sweet-heart who were setting out for a drive without robes—buffalo robes of course. Our friend of the 4th estate claimed the animal—that is, the horse, arranged their robes, but as to fixing toilets, that had to be postponed till they should reach home, which they did after dusky evening had kindly thrown her mantle round them, to prevent popular curiosity's undue attention.

MORAL:—Don't again use that sacred day for fun, lest your fun be turned into sadness, your clothing be awfully astonished, and your dark locks be disported with carbon whitewash! Go to church on Sunday.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 22d 1877.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.—The annual report of the Directors of the Midland Railway, will be found in another column to this issue.

BOARD OF TRADE.—There will be a meeting of the Board of Trade, in the council chamber, this evening, at 7:30 p.m. A full attendance is requested.

BAPTIST.—There will be a baptism in the Baptist Church, on Friday evening, at 7:30 p.m., when several persons will pass through the water, after the form of that Church.

EAST DURHAM.—Lewis Ross, Esq., M. P., for East Durham has accepted the appointment of Postmaster for Port Hope. A writ has been issued for a new election, which will come off immediately.

TO FARMERS.—Mr. Wm. McBain has Club and Beardy Wheat, Peas, Oats and Barley for sale, also Ground Plaster. Farmers would do well to call early at the office of the storehouse on Hunter Street, or to Mr. Wm. McBain.

CHANCERY SITTINGS.—The spring sittings of the Court of Chancery will be held at Lindsay on Tuesday, March 20th; Peterboro', Friday, March 23rd; Cobourg, Thursday, May 10th. The Chancellor (Spragge) to preside.

TRADE WITH FRANCE.—Several parties in this county have lately imported Water of Lourdes. The quantities are not very large but the number may make up financially more for the country than importing live Alligators.

LECTURE.—We believe it is the intention of the Temperance League to invite Mrs. Youmans to address the people of this town and county, on the subject of temperance, a subject that is largely engrossing the attention of the people of Canada at the present time.

JURIES ASSESS.—The Hon. Mr. Justice Burton will hold the spring assizes on the Victoria Circuit as follows:—Brampton, Monday, March 26; Whitby, Tuesday, April 3; Cobourg Monday, April 9; Lindsay, Tuesday, April 24; Peterborough, Tuesday, May 1.

CARD OF THANKS.—Mr. Thos. N. Wilson desires to thank the citizens of Peterborough for the very liberal way in which they assisted him in raising a subscription for Mr. A. Leahey who had his house and everything in it consumed by fire, some time since, at Fraserville.

NEARLY all our exchanges are calling upon their subscribers to pay up. Printers can't live on the wind like a church organ. It takes money, and a good deal of it, to pay for labour, paper, rent, insurance, fuel and a hundred other little items people never think about.

A NEW IMPORTATION.—A young gentleman in town received a live Alligator through the post office last week, in hand. The duty on such animals is not likely to increase the finances of the country largely, as the minister of customs has not fixed the tariff on property of this kind.

POULTRY SHOW.—Don't forget the Poultry Exhibition on Tuesday and Wednesday next. There are numerous entries from a distance; therefore fanciers will have an opportunity of comparing birds and perhaps obtaining some new variety, or of obtaining additions to their present stock.

EXERCISE BOOKS.—Mr. Menzies has just received a series of Composition Exercise Books, which will supply a want in school exercise books. They are prepared with margins broad enough to allow of corrections. The paper is good, and the whole series well suited for the purposes for which they are intended.

PIANO TUNING.—MESSRS. A. Mirault, Piano and organ tuner and repairer, will be in town in a few days, when all orders left at the stores of J. I. Davidson, F. W. Rubidge, and R. W. Errett will be promptly attended to. The reputation of Mr. Mirault as a piano tuner is so well known in Peterborough, that it is useless for us to say anything.

ENTERTAINMENT.—The concert by the Teasdy Brothers and Miss Barr, assisted by the "Peterborough Musical Society," will be given in Bradbury's Hall on the evening of the 8th of March. Mr. D. Haggart, the well known elocutionist, has consented to give one of his readings. We feel sure that the reputation of the performers will ensure a crowded house. The programme will be printed in a few days. Tickets 25 cents, reserved seats 50 cents.

TOWN NOTES.—The Assessors have come to an understanding at last. Mr. Rowe has consented to have the other two accompany him, and take notes, on condition that they pay him thirty-five dollars for the privilege. But they are bound to carry no party colours, or play party tunes, till the work is completed. Shamrocks and Scotch Thistles will be at a discount for about three months. We believe also that they have agreed to dispense with the bag-pipes and harps.

"THE PRINTERS MISCELLANY," published at St. John, N. B., has been enlarged to 16 pages. It contains a very large amount of reading matter interesting to all connected with the "art preservative," and should be taken by every one engaged in the business. The neat appearance of the Miscellany besides its contents is highly creditable to the editor and publisher, Mr. Hugh Finlay, and as the subscription is only $1.00 a year, we hope he will meet with a very liberal patronage.

"TUQUE BLEUE."—The SnowShoeClub will hold their first race on the Little Lake to-day, when several prizes will be offered for competition. The members of the club have been practising during the winter, and no doubt will make some fast travelling. The races will commence at 1:30 o'clock. The ice is good and no doubt there will be a good many on lookers, as this is the first sport of the kind in Peterboro'. The Races will come off opposite Mr. Peck's Brewery, and the easiest way of access is to go by Ashburnham.

OBITUARY:—Mr. Malcolm McKellar died at his residence, Smith, on Thursday last in the 64th year of his age. He was a native of Argyleshire, Scotland. He came to this country about 34 years ago, and settled in Peterboro. For several years he kept hotel on Aylmer St. but about four years ago he removed unto his farm, where he resided till his decease. He was a quiet inoffensive man and was respected by all who knew him. His remains were followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of relatives and neighbors.

DIED IN JAIL.—An inquest was held at the Gaol on Saturday last, upon the body of an old man named Charles Landy, who died the same morning about 5:45 a.m. It appeared from the evidence produced that deceased was admitted as a vagrant during the early part of last December, and was suffering from ill health and consequently placed under medical treatment. The evidence further went to show that deceased received every attention, both from the Gaol Surgeon and Mr. McWilliams, the Gaoler. And the verdict rendered in accordance with the fact was as follows: "The deceased came to his death from natural causes."

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—The Peterborough Literary Association have changed their night of meeting to Friday. On Friday evening last a meeting was held with Mr. Pomeroy, Vice-President, in the chair. The principal business was the election of officers for the ensuing quarter, of which the following is the result:—President, Mr. W. H. Scott, B. A., Q. C., M. P. P.; Vice-Presidents, Mr. Earl and Mr. Fenwick, B. A.; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. H. D. Bock; Committee, Mr. Edwards, M. A., and Mr. E. T. Bell, B. A. The subject for discussion at the next meeting will be "Should amendments and persons actively engaged in education, have a representative in Parliament.

RETURN WANTED.—We would draw the attention of our readers to the great sale of silver-ware advertised by Messrs. Haggart & Bro., in another column. These gentlemen have purchased most opportunely the enterprise in obtaining for Peterborough this valuable consignment, as auctioneers of Toronto and elsewhere were making every effort to secure it for their own cities. This magnificent stock consists of over $14,000 worth of the finest quality of silver-plate manufactures, a large portion of it being comprised of "quadruple plate," which for durability and excellence is surpassed only by sterling silver. The designs are the most artistic and elegant. The stock will be on exhibition on Friday next, and, we are confident, will well repay a visit of inspection.

SOMETHING FOR SUBSCRIBERS.—How not to stop a paper, and how to stop one. First: Do not take your paper to your postmaster and tell him to send it back. In nine cases out of ten you will fail to stop it in this way. Second: Do not attempt to return it yourself, and write on the wrapper to discontinue. This is against the law, and lays you open to a fine. Third: Before your subscription expires send to the publisher a postal card saying your subscription expires on such a date. Please discontinue at that time. Sign your name in full, also your post office where your paper is sent. If the paper has been sent over the time for which it has been paid, do not send a postal card, it will do no good. Rather write a letter including what is due for arrearage; always allowing a short time for letter to reach the publisher and his list to be corrected. By observing these simple rules your requests will always be promptly attended to; you will have a clear conscience and sleep well, and the publishers will be saved much embarrassment.—Ex.

LIQUOR CASES.—License Inspector, Drain, had several persons up before the Magistrates, on the 19th instant, for violation of the Liquor Law. The first case, we understand, was John Horan, Burleigh, on two charges of selling liquor without license therefore. Neither the accused nor the witnesses appeared. Warrants were issued to compel them, when this case will come up again. The next case was that of J. McKelvy, of Norwood, on a similar charge. The witnesses admitted drinking the liquor in McKelvy's, but would not swear that it was on the day set forth in the information, but the drinking took place lately. The case adjourned to take advice of the County Attorney on some points. Why did not the inspector ask to have the information amended, then adjourn the case and hear it on the amended information. Eugene Daley was then tried on a similar charge, and found guilty, and fined $20.00, or go up to Peterborough jail for 20 days. There is information received of other violations of the Liquor or License Law. They will come off in due time no doubt.

MISTAKEN.—The Tory organ of Lindsay is elated because we saw fit to find fault with the whims of some members of the Cabinet, on the question of Orange Incorporation; and forsooth he must pen a tirade against the Hon. Mr. Fraser. The Reform press is not, and we trust never will be, the slaves of a party to such an extent as to condone all their short comings and failings. We would scorn to belong to a party that would compel us to swallow Pacific Scandals, Washington Treaties, and the sale of our liberties and rights of private Judgment, for the sake of office, and to keep such politicians as John Sandy McDonald, (pardon us) in office. If Mr. Fraser, or any other cabinet minister, steps aside from the path of honour, rectitude and justice, the reform press can afford to warn him that in doing so he is forgetting his true position, and may be asked to allow another to take it. Mr. Fraser is a clever man, an earnest and fearless defender of the interests of his co-religionists. For this we honor and respect him, and would be sorry if through any short comings on his part, they would be deprived of having so worthy a representative in the Cabinet. At the same time we will not fail to blame if blame be deserved.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.—Geo. Mills was committed for trial, but bail was taken to appear at the next session, for the attempt to commit rape on a Mrs. McDermot. The investigation took place before the Police Magistrate, with closed doors on Friday last, at 10 a.m.

ASSAULT.—Isaac Hoskins was fined $10.00 and $10.00 cost for using abusive language on the highway, and preventing a team from passing, on Thursday last.

VAGRANT.—Peggy Oakley was sent up for three months for being a vagrant.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met in special session on Tuesday morning at 10:30 a.m.

On motion the reading of the minutes of the last meeting were dispensed with.

Present: His Worship the Mayor and Messrs. Haggart, Cahill, McBain, Rountree, Smith, and Millar. The other members, with the exception of Mr. Hamilton, were all present and left, the meeting being called for 11 a.m., sharp; they believing that the Council should meet prompt at the hour the meeting was called.

MARKET BY-LAW

The Mayor said that they should pass the Market By-law as revised, so that they could have them advertised this week, as it would be too late after the next meeting.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McBain,—That the Committee appointed to revise the Market By-laws, be also a Committee to advertise the sale of the Market Tolls and award the contracts for the same.—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

A RELIGIOUS WEEKLY.—The Lindsay Warder is becoming religious, last week it contained a homily on Lenten season. Well but it must carry its religious principles for more than forty days in a year if it would merit the reward of a religious life.

FRASERVILLE.

RUNISMORE.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—A rather strange accident occurred to Michael Sheehan on Wednesday last. It appears he had some dynamite cartridge left from blasting a well, and being curious to know its contents, he was sitting by the side of the stove picking it with a pin and shaking it on the stove when it exploded, taking away the thumb and fore-finger by the first joints and badly shattering the middle finger of the right hand. It is only a wonder that he or his family escaped from being struck by the cartridge, therefore by causing more serious injuries. When will people stop after such warning, from diverting themselves with such dangerous play-toys.—Com,

CANADIAN VOLUNTEERS.

"At the present time, when Great Britain may possibly be drawn into war in the East, it may be interesting to know," says a correspondent in the London Standard, "what the feeling is in the colonies. I have just returned from an extended tour through the Dominion of Canada, where I had opportunities of meeting and conversing with people of nearly every class from the highest to the lowest—more especially with officers and men of the Canadian volunteers. In a determination to stand by the policy of the Imperial Government, and to aid by every means in their power to enforce that policy, our fellow subjects in the great Dominion put Britons to shame. While we are bringing the Eastern question down to the level of party issues, the Canadians look at it only in its bearing upon national or rather Imperial interest, and say that in defending those interests the Government must be supported by the whole strength of the empire at home and abroad. There are in Canada about 40,000 volunteers armed, uniformed, and drilled. There are no finer men in the world. They are full of fight, they are good rifle shots, they are hardy, active clear-headed fellows; and after a little experience they would be fit for anything. Sir Garnet Wolseley knows what sort of stuff they are made of. I am sure he would like nothing better than to have a brigade of them at his back, and the enemy in front; and be it likely to have it should war break out. It is known at the Horse Guards, though the public may not know it, that through their officers several thousand Canadian volunteers have placed their services at the disposal of the Imperial Government. They are ready to come on the shortest notice. Not a few Canadians sleep in the Crimea: there were several under Napier at Magdala; there were three or four followed Wolseley through Ashantee, and there are thousands prepared to cross the sea to assist in defending the old flag should the occasion arise. No doubt other colonies are ready to follow the noble example of Canada. This is something that Britons should be proud of, and it is well that they should know that the Canadians are so true to their blood and parentage.

THE PRODIGAL.

Inheritors of vast wealth are proverbially spendthrifts. The golden ore is dug from the mine, refined, and coined, by the labor of other hands and the sweat of other brows. Like children playing with an expensive toy, they can form no just estimate of its value. When the donor weighed it, he cast into the balance so many days of unrecorded and fatiguing toil, so many sorrows and sleepless nights, so much self-denial, and so much care. But the inheritor into his balance throws only pleasures. To him value is by what it cost him; the other, for what it will purchase. Like the prodigal in the Scripture parable, he thoughtlessly squeals it to gratify the caprice and cravings of his nature. Then comes the last scene—the misery, the remorse, and the long and burdensome journey back to the home of frugal industry. But there are other prodigals. On her favorite our bounteous parent, Nature, has lavished her richest treasure—health. But the prodigal values it lightly, for it cost him naught, and reckless squanders it in riotous living. Present pleasure obscures future want. Soon the curtain rises on the last scene. We see him helpless, impoverished,—the rich treasure of body and mind all lost,—in misery and despair, Remorseful Conscience holds up to him the mirror of memory; in his own reckless folly he perceives the cause of his present pain. He resolves to return. The journey is long and tedious, but if he perseveringly follows the right road, he will at length see the haven of his hopes in the distance, and Nature, seeing her invalid child star off, will come to meet him, and receive him back with love and blessing. To find the right road homeward, the suffering prodigal should read "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." Therein is completely mapped out, its landmarks all indicated and its dangerous all unmarked. Read it. Price $1.50 (postage prepaid). Address the author and publisher, R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

SAMUEL OSBORNE, Sophiasburg, says—"I was afflicted with Dyspepsia for nearly four years, my lungs becoming affected towards the last. I was induced to try the "Shoshonee Remedy." Mr. McSandard's Advice to her Son Sandie, on leaving Home

Be cureful and thrifty, aye, Sandie, my son:
Ye hae wrat enough what I mean,
And mo'er throw the water that's dirty awa',
Till ye'er sure you can get some that's clean.

Or sharpin' yer teeth on a bane,
And ye'll find as ye gang thro life wonderfu' lad,
That sma' fish are better than nane.

A bird in the han' is worth twa in the brush,
Ye may try hard to catch them and fail;
The birds are no fules, and they whiles at least
Untill ye throw salt on their tail.

Ye'll meet wi' some drawbacks, but dinna sit down
On yer hunkers an mourn o'er yer loss;
An' mo'er fash yer bloom when folks burn in yer bag
That rewins stakes gather nae moss.

To Canada gang they hae mare bawbees there
Than in this country o' ours;
A saxpence is saxpence: whaever ye see one,
And try to make that saxpence yours.

Get siller by a' means, but Sandie, my bairn,
Ayr try to eer honest and fair;
An' dinna ye feght wi' a bald-headed man,

To the Editor of the Examiner.

The Grangers in the township not twelve miles from Peterborough held quite a fast time on Thursday the 15th inst., on the afternoon of the said day. They met in their Grange-room and discussed with great satisfaction, no doubt to the inner man, a quantity of oysters, &c., &c., in honor of Mr. Staples, who was to lecture for them in a neighboring school house in the evening, the school house in the immediate vicinity not being available, the Trustees not being grangers, and being pleased to keep the school house for its legitimate use, viz: the instruction of the youth of the section. After discussing the oysters and other business at the Grange-room, they repaired to the school house to hear the eminent lecturer of world-wide fame, who, by the way, is one Granger's agent canvassing [illegible] &c., &c., although they profess to have no sympathy with agents, and wish to rid the country of such pests. After a speech or two and one or two of the smaller guns the great gun was called upon and opened fire. In commencing, he proposed to show that the farmers were nine-tenths of the producers of this country, and therefore had a perfect right to control all or nine-tenths of the country. He proceeded to show under what circumstances grangers were first organized, and how they first came into Canada, telling their birthday, &c., &c. He then proceeded to state that they were going to control this country, financially, politically, educationally, socially and as many other ly's as you would mention, as they calculate to run the whole concern, make merchants show their invoices and sell at what prices they please, and make the banks give money at what rates they please, &c., &c. Some things on those hints were very good and others simply ridiculous; he continually getting back to his starting point, "we are nine-tenths of the producers, therefore we must controll the whole thing, as we are identical and all those officers are our servants as much as our hired men to do our work." But the crowning thing of the evening was "we are going to regulate our school system, do away with inspectors, that useful class of men who step in and say this house is too small, you must have a larger one, you must have a play-ground or I will stop your government grant; we will make fifty cents go as far as one dollar, we will have better teaching than has yet been done," and then he proceeded to tell us how in the first place he would have a school-house at almost every four corners, and have no county boards, &c., &c. for examination of teachers, but simply put Grange sons and daughters at the work; the boys six months in the winter, and the girls six months in the summer, at a salary of $100 a year each, making $200, in all, per annum. He would have them teach reading, writing, grammar, geography and arithmetic, as though these were sufficient for everybody. Then he would pick out a few for doctors, lawyers, &c., and send them to a special place which he had not the goodness to describe to us for to finish and run them through successfully being careful to send no more than was needed in his estimation. He would cut off two-thirds of all merchants &c., as they are of no use whatever he would not kill them, but what else he would do with them he failed to tell us, except starve and cause them to die a natural death. He closed a speech of about two hours with just such clap-trap as he was continually saying other people's reasonings were, and sat down much applauded by our honest grangers, but in my opinion by very few else. One granger took particular exception to his remarks on education, stating very truly that he would rather pay one dollar for a good something than 50 cents for a good for-nothing teacher, which he felt would be the case, were this "great lecturer's plan carried out. But this great man says it is no use to make objections to him, "I am right, and you are all wrong," he will reply till morning to anything of the kind, and thus put a veto on any remarks from a smaller fish than himself. After the meeting was closed he addressed the grangers themselves for a short time, but as the doors were closed against all who were of a different stamp your reporter cannot give you any notes of this last meeting which was commenced after ten o'clock p. m.

A FARMER.

South Monaghan, February 16, 1877.

Shall Barns be Tightly Boarded?

Many years ago we modestly opposed the notion that barn-boarding must be put in so that the air could circulate freely through. Also, that the practice of keeping barn-doors open day and night while hauling in hay or grain was right and philosophical. The free circulation of air, it was then shown, tended to produce fermentation or slow combustion; and that grass, if cut in a stage when it contained the largest percentage of sugar, was extremely liable to fermentation when exposed to the air in the mow. This fact is proved by every farmer's experience; which tells him that hay in the stack must be driven to keep well than hay which goes into the mow. Most of our farmers are now being convinced that tight barns keep hay, grain, and everything else better than open barns, and hence we frequently see them covered with boards planed, battened, and painted. It is the circulation of air through the hay that causes fermentation and mouldiness. And because the air finds its way readily among the coarse stalks of clover, which when green, contain much saccharine matter, it is next to impossible to prevent fermentation. If clover could be pressed down to solid mass in the mow and the air excluded, there would no heating or mouldiness occur and the hay would be bright and sweet. The truth has been found in those plain where a mow has been half filled with wheat, which acted as a great weight in a press and excluded the air.

WHEAT GROWING.

At a meeting of the Central New York Farmer's Club, held at Utica, Dec. 1st, Mr. John Osborne, of Paris Hall, told the Club how he had learned to secure absolute certainty against complete failure. His method is to plough good clover sod as soon after haying as possible—(between the first and fifteenth of August) subsoil-ploughing, to a depth of six or eight inches; pulverize the soil as thoroughly as possible until the last week in August, and apply manure evenly, working it completely into the soil. He stated that he had never suffered entire failure when he pursued this plan, though of course the yield was better some years than others. A somewhat different plan should be employed to produce an extreme crop, all things being favourable. To do this, instead of ploughing the sward, he would plough land which had been under cultivation the preceding year, or which had yielded crops of sown seed. He recommended nature having so much amassed, and cautioned his hearers against applying an excess of manure, thus causing the wheat to lodge. He was in favour of sowing as deep as three inches to prevent upheval, and he preferred broad-cast sowing. He would never plough more than once, nor would he summer-fallow. He was especially strenuous in urging the protection of exposed surface during the winter. Some [illegible] should be employed to collect and [illegible] ing of snow. Root [illegible] ought are caused by partial [illegible] killing more than any other [illegible] He had tried an experiment with a view of discovering a method of protection. He planted rows of corn north and south, four feet apart, across his wheat field. This was done because the prevailing winds was easterly or westerly. He gathered the corn, and left the stalks to collect the snow and arrest the sweeping winds. He thus gained complete protection for his exposed field. He did not approve of ploughing in farm-yard manure, and believed that a mixture of hog dung and horse dung made in the pen of the swine is the most efficient fertilizer for wheat. A sprinkling of this compound should be spread over the field. He had found that turf ploughing in the spring and sowed to peas, is a valuable preparation for wheat-growing in the fall. To kill quack he would summer-fallow thoroughly.

MOULTING FOWLS.

We are accustomed to see the poultry left to its own unhappiness during the moulting season, and the "masterly inactivity" with which the fanciers permit the birds to look after themselves is almost epidemic. The moulting season is really the most trying to fowls, and if nature can be assisted in the process of changing the feathers a real benefit will be done. The blood is, during the moulting period heavily drawn from the materials which compose the feathers, and although birds at the outset may be strong and healthy, the drain upon their system is so great that they are weakened and debilitated and their laying proclivities are entirely abandoned. If we are able to give as food elements which will quickly replace the exhausted constituents of the blood, we obviously assist in its transformation. We have found that fowls supplied with refuse, and powdered scorched oyster shells moult quickly, and do not loose their strength and vivacity, to any perceptible degree. If their drinking water is supplied with rusty iron, all the better, and one drink of milk each day is of great value.

We have two silver maples, one of which has been cut back every year; the other has not been touched. The former is by far the prettier of the two trees. It is, in fact, so much more compact and shapely that at a distance the two would be counted different species. Silver maples may be framed now. Earlier would be better than later.—Moore's Rural.

Proceedings in Parliament.

From the Globe.

After routine business had been disposed of, and several questions put by members answered, Sir John A. Macdonald, on the orders of the day being called, rose to make his expected reference as a question of privilege, to the Globe's Ottawa correspondence touching his Secret Service money operations. The gist of his statement was very similar to that he made to the Public Accounts Committee in 1872 as to the administration of the fund. The Ministers who nominally controlled it were Messrs. Cartier, Morris, Hincks, and Sir John himself. Before his Government fell either death or removal had left him the sole representative of that Committee, nor does it appear that he [illegible] had proposed to associate any one with him in their places. The money, he alleged, was put in a special account in the Bank of Montreal, and when the late Government fell it amounted to $32,179. Of this he alleges $6,000 was due, for what purpose is not alleged—$600 to Mr. Pope, Minister of Agriculture under the Macdonald regime; and $6,000 to Mr. Alexander Campbell, the latter having bound himself to pay that amount. In November, 1875, or two years after leaving office, Sir John A. Macdonald, being in Ottawa, handed $25,579 to the Receiver-General, retaining the balance aforesaid, which he still holds. He declared that he had not touched any of the money himself, and that he had paid none away except to meet old obligations on these which had arisen under his own Government. He resumed his seat without a cheer from his supporters.

Mr. Mackenzie felt bound to explain to the house why he had not brought the matter up last session. He had only deferred it in consequence of the balance still due, which he (Mr. Mackenzie) contended Sir John A. Macdonald was bound to hand over to be dealt with by the only person entrusted with the control of the public money, the responsible advisers of the Crown. He pointed out that Sir John A. Macdonald had in May, 1872, consented to a resolution which subjected the fund to an audit and provided a record; that he had shown a flagrant disregard of that arrangement; that he had kept the balance from year to year instead of paying back any unexpended amounts to the Treasury; that he had presumed to hold control over the fund for two whole years after his right to discharge any administrative duty had ceased, and even now retained nearly $7,000 without a shadow of excuse or authority.

Sir John Macdonald, in a very humble fashion, received the rebuke thus conveyed, made a lame attempt to defend his extraordinary utterances at St. Thomas referred to in the Globe of yesterday, and quietly promised to tell the Public Accounts Committee all he knew about the fund so far as it might affect individuals. The matter then dropped, and the House proceeded to other business.

"To Greece we give our shining blades, said the fellow at the boarding house, plunging his knife into the butter dish.

TWO QUESTIONS EASILY ANSWERED.—Why should men wear beards? Because they are a great protection to the throat and lungs, and add much to their personal appearance. Why should wives "Dyspeptic Cordial Bitters?" Because when used for coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, hoarseness, &c., they act like a charm. Ministers and lawyers use them, physicians recommend them, and singers and public speakers say they are the very best medicine in existence for the cure of throat complaints. Sold by all medicine dealers at 25 cts. a box.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Balsam Remedy.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12 1876.

MR. T. J. B HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so debilitated as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe paroxysms and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which caused my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor. Sunk no dropping and clearing head, as which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SINDEN.

HELEN.

(Concluded.)

LONDON, Nov. 17, 18—

"Sir Arthur Compton" [illegible]

SIR ARTHUR: We have the [illegible] Dean informing you that, owing to [illegible] den death, by a railway accident [illegible] which you may have read in the daily papers), of Sir Charles Compton, Baronet, and his cousin, you have succeeded to the title and estates.

"We shall be glad to continue as agents of the estates, a position which our firm has held for the last forty years.

"We are, dear Sir Arthur, your obedient servants

BRACKENRIDGE & MORRIS.

"P. S.—As there are various matters connected with the estates which it is desirable should be attended to as soon as possible, we would suggest your coming to London at as early a date as you conveniently can."

I can scarcely tell with what varied feelings I pursued and repursued this epistle. I slept little that night, cogitating over my poor luck, and wondering how my betrothed would bear the tidings which I had now to tell; for I looked upon the news as equally with myself concerning her, as she had agreed to become my wife.

I rose early, and after a long walk through the woods to calm my mind, took the well-known path to the village fully expecting to see my beloved at the window, looking out and watching for me, as was his wont. But no one was there; and when I entered I found to my disappointment, that a friend had called late on the previous evening, and asked her to go to nurse a relative that was not expected to live many days, and that she might not be back for a week. I cannot tell what a disappointment this was to me; but it was too far for me to go to her in the present circumstances, and not a very fitting time to acquaint her with the good fortune that had befallen me. So, telling my betrothed's mother that I had to leave for London, and that I should write after I got there, I bade her good bye, packed up my things and went off by the night train, reaching London next morning.

I was thrown into new society on my arrival in London. Young, rich and titled, my presence was sought at the house of the noble and wealthy in the city, and for some weeks after my arrival my life was one round of pleasure. Alas! I had never written to Helen since I left the sweet village of Gleneden! What with business which had to be attended to, and engagements from which I could not well extricate myself, my time had been so fully occupied that I had put off writing to her from day to day; and now that I had delayed so long I was almost ashamed to write to her. About this time I met at a ball Lady Laura Vane, the youngest daughter of an old but rather impoverished family, and my vanity was agreeably touched by the evident pleasure which Lady Laura seemed to have in my society. She was tall, lithe as a panther, with tresses black as the raven's wing, and large lustrous eyes now soft and melting as an April shower, now fierce and flashing, as they were kindled by indignation or insulted pride. Her complexion was fair for a brunette, and dazzling for its transparent beauty, except when a shade of passing emotion would deepen the delicate rose-blush on the face. In Lady Laura's presence my village maid was forgotten altogether, and I abandoned myself without reluctance to the influence of the siren. Out of her presence the old feeling of tenderness for my first love would come back to my heart, only to be dispelled at my new interview with the enchantress, until the image of my rustic beauty grew fainter and fainter, and I gave myself madly up to the seductive power that now encircled me. Not a day passed without my seeing Lady Laura. I would call for her to ride in the park (she was a splendid horse-woman, and looked well in the saddle), or would drive her out in the new phaeton I had purchased; or in thi evening I would attend her at the opera, the envied of many a one, who would have given much for a look from her beautiful eyes.

III.

It came at last—the temptation and the fall. I met her at an evening-party at Lady Winderemere's, when I thought I had never seen her look so charming; in truth, she was the belle of the evening, and I was consequently not a little flattered at her bestowing so much of her attention upon me. She was a glorious dancer, and I had been in the seventh heaven of delight waltzing with her; after which, with a flushed face and beating hear, I led her down stairs for refreshment. There was a conservatory close by where the delicate fragrance and cool atmosphere tempted the tired and heated dancers to rest from the excitement of the many whirl. It was untenanted as most of the company were yet upstairs, and there accordingly we went where, at the further end, we were quite away from the bustle of the party, and hidden by a cluster of overarching boughs, the place seemed like a paradise after the glare and heat of the rooms above. And here was I with my Eve.

How superbly beautiful she looked as she sat down with a queenly grace beside me on the soft velvet couch! Her eyes were moist with a dreamy delicious tenderness, there was a blush as of a rose-bloom on her cheeks, and I could see her bosom rise and fall beneath the soft airy material of her dress as she panted a little after the exertion of the voluptuous dance. My blood boiled within me, my veins seemed on fire, my breath came hot and fast, and all the fierce passions of my nature raged like a thousand devils within me. I was helpless under the gaze of this enchantress, bound hand and foot in the web of Circe, beneath whose eyes, like a bird under the spell of a serpent I was entirely without the power of visition.

"What a paradise this is, after the noise and heat above!" said Lady Laura softly.

As if exhausted with the exertions of the dance, she leaned her magnificent head against my arm and sat motionless, the masses of her raven hair falling over my shoulder in luxurious tresses. The distant strains from the remembrance came wafted on the air like the melodious echo of fairy music, and the perfume from choicest flowers filled the air with a delicious fragrance that steeped the senses in Elysium. The twinkling many-coloured lamps that hung from the roof aided the enchantment, diffusing a soft magical light over the scene. As Lady Laura reclined beside me I could feel the heaving of her fair bosom against my heart; and all the [illegible] of my nature, heated as their bounds [illegible] wine I had drunk, burst of passion that [illegible] uncontrolable rush fore it. I clasped [illegible] everything breast again and again, [illegible] to my cheeks and mouth with [illegible] her kisses, before she recovered from astonishment sufficiently to free herself from my grasp.

With flashing eyes she rose from her seat with the air of an insulted queen, and raising her tall figure to its full height, while I stared in stupid bewilderment, burst forth, her face flushed to the deepest crimson—

"Sir Arthur, is this the treatment I had a right to receive from a gentleman? Was it for this you brought me here, that unseen you might shame and insult me, as you could any minion of the street? For shame sir!" And she turned as if about to leave the place.

"Pardon, Lady Laura! Forgive me! Do forgive me! Your beauty has stolen from me what control over my feelings I ever possessed; but let my love—my passionate love for you—be my excuse; and here I lay it at your feet. Will you take it, Laura, and make me the happiest man on earth, or will you throw it away and make me the most miserable?"

I knelt at her feet full of contrition, and looked beseechingly into her dark lustrous eyes.

"Ah, well, Arthur, I suppose I must forgive you, if you promise to behave better in future," returned Lady Laura with a bewitching smile that entranced me still more.

She suffered me to take a seat beside her, her wrath seemingly quite gone. I do not remember all we said, and there remains only the memory of a time of wild intoxication of rapturous delight.

And so the die was cast; and when we returned to the dancers, Lady Laura's mother looked upon me as her future son

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 1, 1877.

THE BUDGET.

We referred at some length last week to the deficit in the Dominion estimates of last year, and some of the causes which led to it. In the Budget Speech of the Finance Minister, delivered on Tuesday, these matters were fully touched on. His review of the country's financial position since confederation, and particularly since the accession of the present Government, showed in a much more explicit manner than we had been able to do, that the increased expenditure of the past three years was very largely due to unpaid balances left by the late administration. In view of the fact that they have paid off old debts, on government railways alone amounting to from sixteen to seventeen millions of dollars, still leaving unexhausted £2,100,000 of the Imperial guarantee available. Mr. Cartwright had reason to congratulate the House on the reduction, and hope that with one more loan of moderate amount, the effects of the depression may be surmounted, and the future faced without any difficulty. He showed that of the $1,900,000 deficit $1,574,000 was expended for exceptional causes, itimized as follows:—Boundary survey, $134,000; Centennial vote, Mennonite loan, and North-west relief fund, $210,000; minor public works, now closed, $980,000; change of guage and steel rails on the Intercolonial railway, $260,000. This reduces the actual deficit to less than $400,000. Not only has a large expenditure been made for the benefit of the North-west territory; but since July, 1874, no less than six millions of dollars have been spent in the Pacific railway survey, and works of construction in connection therewith. The expenditure of the year was well within that of 1874-5 being $180,716 less, and had the harvest of 1876 not proved so far below the average, the calculations of the former budget speech would have been fully borne out. The decrease in revenue was mostly in customs, the falling off in which receipts amounted to two and a half millions, considerably over the entire deficit. The ordinary expenditure of the first half of the present fiscal year has been reduced to $800,000 less than the corresponding part of the former year, while the current receipts of these two periods were nearly equal. Should a like result be displayed in the present half-year, a deficit on the 30th of June, the end of the fiscal year, need not be feared.

The present estimates $23,167,000, though on their face $100,000 higher than the last, comprize over that amount in the shape of cross entries, such as sinking fund, which is really an item showing decrease elsewhere. The ordinary expenditure is to be reduced two millions below that of 1875-6, or 1873-4, the last figuring of the John A. Government. In it, too, is included charges consequent on the acquisition of new territory, such as Indians and mounted Police, which, though necessarily appearing as expenditure, might fairly be reckoned on capital account. The North-west outlay has now probably reached its highest figure, the reduction in the rate of interest will be a considerable saving. The loss on Intercolonial working, will, in all likelihood, decrease, and the revenue of the Welland Canal increase; but to meet the estimated expenditure, as well as to cover a slight deficit this year, caused by the bad harvest, and to prevent the re-currence of a deficit in 1877-8, the government increases the duty on tea, by two cents a pound; to add one cent per gallon to the excise duty on malt, and three cents per gallon on beer not brewed from malt; to put a duty of two and a half cents on imported malt; eighteen cents par gallon on ale, beer, or porter, imported in bottles or seventeen cents if in wood; to charge a duty of fifty cents specific, and twenty cents ad valorem on cigars; cigarettes will be classified as cigars; parfumery will all be charged twenty-five per cent; tubing will be removed from the free list and charged seventeen and a half per cent; cotton, and linen thread, some of which is now charged ten per cent, will all be made to pay seventeen and a half per cent; cotton thread in hanks instead of being free will pay ten per cent. Care will be taken to guard against frauds in the import of wines. All packages containing goods, entered ad valorem, are to be charged as part of the value of such goods, or if the goods be subject to specific charges, then the packages will pay seventeen and a half per cent. The excise duty on petroleum is abolished, and the customs duty on it reduced from fifteen to six cents per gallon, which it is hoped will diminish smuggling and bring, under the reduced duty, a considerable amount of that article that now gains free admission by illicit means. The charges are such as will bear most lightly on the people, and give them at the same time something like counterbalancing advantages; and they are made entirely in accordance with the Finance Minister's view, that a Government is not justified in imposing any duties whatever except such as are fairly demanded by the necessities of the revenue.

THE ONTARIO OPPOSITION AND THE LIQUOR LAW.

The new Licensee Law, known as the Crooks Act, was not introduced by the Reform administration without a full knowledge of its necessity, gained from long operation of the defective working of the Licensing Act passed by the Sandfield Macdonald Government. The difficulty of framing a law to regulate such a traffic as that carried on by those styling themselves Licensed Victuallers is well known; but it is none the less acknowledged that such a law is required. The Act passed by the Sandfield Macdonald administration, which the present opposition professes to admire as a model government, is a tacit acknowledgement of a necessity for exercising some control over the liquor traffic. This law being found defective in many particulars, and even inadequate to fulfil the purpose for which it was passed, it devolved on the present administration to amend it, if possible, which, better or worse, has been conceded, even by their opponents. Instead, however of seconding or aiding in the framing of a necessary measure, the Opposition, as is their wont, threw all statesmanlike considerations aside for the indulgence of party trickery, in which they have succeeded about as illy as they deserved.—Seeing in the more stringent Licensing Act a measure obnoxious to the vendors of liquors, they opposed it by every means in their power, hoping thereby to gain the political support of the liquor interest. This was no small prize in their eyes considering the influence it has had on the politics of the country for years past; but which influence has been largely curtailed by the passage of better election laws, including the vote by ballot. Not only during its consideration did the Opposition assail its clauses.—Even after its passage they decried its provisions and operation. Wherever they could find a deficit they made the most of it; but—strange inconsistency!—when after a year's observation of its working its framer proposed amendments to remedy defects and increase its efficiency they actually opposed such amendments. They not only did all in their power during the interval to destroy its goods effects; they also endeavoured to prevent its improvement. It is quite evident that they have all along been extending to the Licensed Victuallers the invitation, "Scratch my back, and I'll scratch yours." They wished the law to be a failure, and tried their best, or worst, to make it a failure. This inconsistency was noted and avoided by the member for South Simcoe, but the rank and file of the Conservatives in the House, not satisfied with the intensely hostile criticism Mr. Crook's Amending Act had undergone in Committee, determined to make a grand stand on the third reading. Mr. Haskin moved the re-commital of the Bill with instructions to make such changes as would restore the appointment of Commissioners and Inspectors to the Municipal Councils. The member for West Peterborough in speaking to this amendment made a direct accusation of political favoritism against the License Commission of his Riding, which he will no doubt be called upon to explain. The mover subsequently was forced to declare that he alone was responsible for the motion, in order to free the whole Opposition from the evident imputation disclosed by proposing so radical a change on motion for a third reading. The absurdity of Mr. Haskin's position was so apparent that Mr. Merrick moved an amendment to the amendment in favour of allowing Municipal Councils to appoint the Inspectors only and determine their remuneration. The member for East Peterboro' spoke in support of this, dwelling on the expense of the present law. It was lost on the overwhelming vote of 18 to 41, among the yeas being Dr. O'Sullivan.—Mr. Scott's name does not appear in this division. Mr. Creighton then moved for conferring on the Municipal Councils the power of deciding to whom licenses should be granted, having regard to the limitations of the Act. From the fact that Conservative after Conservative rose to oppose any return to the conferring of license certificates by Township Councils, and the cautious way in which they decried its provisions and operation, it was hoped that the Opposition assail its clauses.—Even after its passage they decried its provisions and operation. Wherever they could find a deficit they made the most of it; but—strange inconsistency!—when after a year's observation of its working its framer proposed amendments to remedy defects and increase its efficiency they actually opposed such amendments. They not only did all in their power during the interval to destroy its goods effects; they also endeavoured to prevent its improvement. It is quite evident that they have all along been extending to the Licensed Victuallers the invitation, "Scratch my back, and I'll scratch yours." Mr. Creighton then moved for conferring on the Municipal Councils the power of deciding to whom licenses should be granted, having regard to the limitations of the Act. From the fact that Conservative after Conservative rose to oppose any return to the conferring of license certificates by Township Councils. It may be readily inferred that public opinion is already strongly in favour of the new law; and that so far from the supporters of this motion gaining any favour from Municipal Councils, these bodies are not likely to thank them for proposing to reimburse upon them a task which was always more than a little nuisance, and of which they are glad to be rid. The number found foolish enough to support it was only nine. Mr. Scott being one of them, Dr. O'Sullivan not voting on it. Poor Haskin's motion only found seven supporters, Mr. Scott again being one, Dr. O'Sullivan again pairing. The Bill then passed its third reading without a division, and thus ended the attack from which those who led it on hoped to gain so much. Surely they must be disgusted with the result of their Quixotic charge, if not with themselves. A noble battalion of eighteen first lost half their number by desertion, and then two more deeming discretion the better part of valor withdrew the forlorn hope being thus reduced to seven. West Peterboro' will be pleased to know that its representative was in the last repulse.—Perhaps!

The vacancies in the Provincial Legislature caused by the death of Mr. Ingraham and Mr. Flemming have been filled as was expected without any change in the strength of parties. Mr. Colvin, Conservative, has been elected in Frontenac, and Mr. Masters, Reformer, in South Waterloo.

The Bobcaygeon Independent regrets to find the names of the members for Peterborough among those who voted for the Salary Grab. So do we, particularly on account of the fact that if they had voted the other way the vote, instead of being 1—Yeas, 35; Nays, 37, would have stood:—Yeas, 37; Nays, 35, and the motion of the Provincial Treasurer would have been carried, and 17,000 would have been saved to the country. It was just those two votes that did the business.

Even people who did not know that Dr. O'Sullivan was in this town the week before last might have judged as from the Review's editorial on Friday, and last week with the Commons speech that appeared in their columns which was more made by him as those given either in Parliament or out of it. The Doctor has got Central Prison on the brain.

THE "SIDE LINES OF RAILWAY"

In a recent issue we stated that we expected opposition from the local agitation in the Cobourg and Ontario Railway. The first shot comes blazing from the direction of Cobourg, the gunner is one taking the name, "Canadian," and the smooth bore he uses is the Cobourg Star. This wiseacre sees in the building of the proposed line the ruin of all the lines running north into the back country, repudiation of the Municipal Loan Fund debt by municipalities which have borrowed money to build there railways. Ruin of all the harbors on Lake Ontario, bonds and shares of the side lines of railway utterly worthless, and millions of dollars expended to build railways into the back country thrown away." Truly our young man see visions of ruin, while our old men dream dreams of Provincial prosperity. We must say we are inclined to go by the dreams of the elders. "Canadian" evidently writes for Cobourg, as he tries to get an excuse for the ruin of a "side line" from that town; tries to get an excuse for the repudiation of the Municipal Loan Fund Debt, which it is well known Cobourg would like to effect to get an excuse for ruin of the Colborne harbor, which hardly needs an excuse, being so well known in worthless condition. To get an excuse for connection with the un-fortunate Coboconk and the Rice Lake Bridge. The great trouble is that the excuse come so long after the ruin that there must be a failure to connect. There is a desire shown also to work up the opposition of what he calls the "side lines," just such a trick as we fore-told in our former article. The "side lines," however run far north of the proposed Toronto and Ottawa line" and as they are essentially lumbering roads so far as through freight is concerned, they must extend as lumbering operations recede. If the Toronto and Quabec line force them to such extension it will only be hastening them in the fulfilment of their manifest destiny. No doubt the "side lines" would like to continue without rival lines of transporation to and from the back country, in order that they should be able to keep up their tall freight charges" but the good of the people at large is not likely to be sacrificed to the greed of a few railway companies, when the remedy of competition can be applied. The "side lines" may find that the competition which is said to be "the life of trade" is the best thing that can happen them. when forced to carry at reasonable charges they will find that their carrying trade will increase. And that larger gross earnings can be secured at fair rates than at charges which utterly shut out custom that can possibly be advoided. There will be no "protection policy" for these lines of railway. They cannot forever carry only what they like and at what rates they like The time is even coming when a President of a "side line of railway" will not say to a dealer in ties "I will not carry them at all". If these "side lines" receive that mercy they have shown they will get but little consideration.

PETERBOROUGH GAOL.

From the Report of the Inspector of Asylums and Prisons for the year ending 30th September last, we learn the following particulars in regard to our own County Gaol for that term:—

There were in all 61 commitments, 51 being of male prisoners. This shows a decrease from the former year of 17 males and 10 females. Three (males) were under 16 years of age; 28 were committed for the first time, 15 for the second, 9 for the third, and 9 for more than the third. Two were acquitted on trial and discharged, one was held as a witness, and 7 were kept as dangerous lunatics, 50 being sentenced. Two were committed to gaol and afterwards removed to the Central Prison, 1 was sent to the Central Prison direct, and 2 to the Penitentiary, 45 being detained in the gaol till the expiration of sentence or payment of fine. Thirty were in gaol under 30 days, 4 from 30 days to 60 days or two months, (including last term) 7 from 60 days to 2 months, 4 from 2 to 3 months, 2 from 5 to 6 months, 1 from 9 months to a year, 1 over two years, and one over three years. On the 30th of September four men and and one woman were in the gaol, two of whom were waiting trial, two under sentence under two months, and one insane.

The prisoners of the year comprised 31 Canadians, 10 Englishmen, 19 Irishmen, and 1 Scotchman; 27 were Roman Catholics, 15 Church of England, 6 Presbyterian, 10 Methodist, and 3 of other denominations; 29 were married, 32 unmarried; 24 could neither read nor write, 13 were temperate and 48 intemperate.

The offences for which prisoners were committed are as follows:—Assault, 3; drunk and disorderly, 5; larceny, 10; lunatics and dangerous to be at large, 7; murder, 1; non-payment of fines and costs, 2; prostitution, 1; rape and assault with intent, 1; refusing bail, 3; shooting with intent, 1; vagrancy, 9; other offences not enumerated, 18.

The occupations of prisoners were:—2 bakers, 3 blacksmiths, 1 cabinet-maker, 1 waggon-maker, 1 cooper, 11 farmers, 1 hotel keeper, 28 labourers, 1 painter, 1 prostitute, 1 tanner, 1 tinsmith, and 9 nobodies.

During the year reported there were two deaths in the gaol. There was no cash revenue derived from prisoners "hard labor." The repost shows that the regulations with respect to dietary were observed. The cost of daily rations per head was 12¼ cents. The greatest number of prisoners in the gaol at any one time during the prison year was 14, the least, 3. The number of prisoners maintained by the Province was 15; by the County, 46; the total number of days' custody of government prisoners, 870; of county prisoners, 2691. The total gaol expenditure for the year was $1,976.68, of which $675.38 was for food, clothing, fuel and maintenance; $22.30 for repairs and $1.070 for official salaries; $500 to the gaoler; $350 to the turnkey; $100 to the matron and $120 to the gaol surgeon. Thus the average cost per prisoner was $32.25, of which $14.71 was on account of food, fuel, clothing and repairs, and $17.54 on account of salaries.

The following is the Inspector's report:

Prisoners committed during year	61
Greatest number confined at any one time	14
Number of re-commitments	10
Total cost of maintaining Gaol	$1,976.68

Inspection was made of this Gaol on the 25th April, and 15th August. On the first occasion, I found it in all its departments in very good order. The yards were also thoroughly well kept.

The erection of the wall to divide the men's airing yards, from that used by the Gaoler for the purposes has been completed, and will add to the safety of the Gaol, and facilitate good classification.

The Gaol supports a sufficient supply of bedding and clothing.

There were 11 prisoners in custody, viz., 7 men and 4 women. Two of the former had been committed to be insane, both of whom were removed to the Toronto Asylum. Another man from Asphodel, committed for trial, was found upon examination to be quite demented, and the charge was withdrawn by the Crown Attorney. They were very unruly at the time of my visit.

A separate bed room continues to be used for female prisoners by day. It is, however, much to be regretted that the Central Prison [illegible] has not yet been [illegible] to take him, as he has [illegible] one hand. This decision of the prisoner in the Common Gaol, being contrary to the order of the Court and illegal, his removal was ordered. The sentence of imprisonment to be at hard labour prison, however, was not contemplated by Government.

All the prisoners were conversed with, and no complaints were received.

The books were examined, and found to be correctly kept.

The second visit was made by Mr. Scoble, who reports as follows:—

Visited the Gaol at 2 p. m., this day, finding several prisoners (5 males, and 2 females), in custody. One of the former is awaiting trial on a charge of murder. As this prisoner has already attempted escape, and also attempted to commit suicide, it is most necessary that a constant watch should be kept upon him. To this end it is desirable that some trustworthy persons should be confined in his corridor, assembly as a criminal, who can give information to the Gaoler of any projected escape. During the time this person is in the Gaol, the turnkey could also sleep in the Gaol proper in order to be confined in case of necessity. Every precaution must be taken to prevent communication with the outside as with a little assistance, escape could be easily effected. Another man is awaiting trial for assault. One is under sentence for committing lunatic. One of former seems a little, and certainly not insane. Nervous to be at harmless imbecile, but needs another medical survey. The Gaol Surgeon is to inspect it, gaoler, having, consequently Judge should make memo only [illegible] Act, and either certify to his capacity or order his discharge under the 15th [illegible] he must not remain in Gaol under existing circumstances any longer than is absolutely necessary for action.

The two women are committed as vagrants.

The Gaoler reports a sufficient supply of bedding, but not of good clothing. The sheriff will be good as to make up the deficiencies, so that six good suits are constantly in the Gaol. The ventilation is bad in the water-closet in No. 2 ward. As this is not traceable to bad drainage, the Gaoler will use disinfectants to reduce the nuisance.

The Gaol was found to be in very good order, and good management was perceptible in every department. The cells and corridors were clean and well ventilated. The yard on the north and east sides was fairly tidy, but that on the south side was not, owing to the fact that the masons have been at work re-pointing the walls etc. This work should have been extended to the outside, as there are many places that an active man could scale with ease, and communicate with the prisoners. Under the present circumstances, as the man charged with murder has friends who might assist his escape, it is most necessary that every obstacle should be placed in the way. The coping on the wall requires to be re-set, and means taken to prevent the drip from injuring the wall.

The various books were examined and found to be correctly kept. The Sheriff is requested to procure a punishment book.

The Way to Elect Conservatives in the Past.

John Beverly Robinson is a good Conservative, and the Northern Railway Director wished to have Mr. Robinson. He succeeded at the following cost:—

Spent to pay his election expenses	$5,440
Lent him for some purpose or for his votes in parliament (an overdrawn account)	4,900
Total expenses of Election	$10,340

A nice little sum surely, while the railway was heavily in debt to the government.

The Conservative must have an organ. To this end the Mail was established, and $1,000 of Northern Railway money was put in Mail stock and lost.

Sir John A. Macdonald was a poor man and a testimonial fund had to be got up for him, and the Northern Railway again put in $2,500. Mr. Cumberland, a Conservative and the President of the Company, desired a seat in parliament, and to elect him $4,000 of the Northern R. R. funds was used for that purpose. All this taken for Conservative party purposes from a railway largely in debt to the Dominion Government, of which John A. Macdonald was premier. Just look at the figures:

To elect John Beverly Robinson	$5,440
To assist Mr. Robinson in election	4,900
To establish the Mail	1,000
Gift to Sir John	2,500
To elect Mr. Cumberland	4,000
Total	$17,840

And yet Sir John's hands are clean; not a cent of public money in his hands: oh! no! and yet he had $32,975 of the secret service money in those hands for over two years, and still refuses to account for $5,000 of this sum.

ORANGE.

The Grand Lodge of Eastern Ontario met in Peterboro on Tuesday and Wednesday last. The Orangemen of the District met their brethren from a distance at the train, and headed by the Fireman's Band, marched along King street to George street, along George to Brock street, and thence by Water street to the Orange Hall. The hall had been tastefully carpeted and decorated with pictures, and looked very fine.

On Tuesday, Committees were named and Reports prepared, but the business was not allowed to be published. On Wednesday, in spite of the secrecy of the Order, it was noised abroad that the Conservative element of the Brotherhood were to make an attempt to pass resolutions condemnatory of the Mowat Government and Grits in general, but in an especial manner condemnatory of Mr. Wm. Robinson of Kingston, on account of course in the Legislature (for supporting the Orange Incorporation Bill we suppose). Not being initated into this Order, we found it impossible to glean any particulars of the discussion, except that many were disgusted with the spirit of the debate, especially with the role played by the Grand Master, Mr. Mackenzie Bowell, who was present to do service for his adorable toryism. At a late hour the vote was taken on the Resolutions, which were carried.

The Resolutions as given to the public are as follows, but in them Mr. Robinson gets off scot free. How is this? We have looked in vain for the Condemnatory Resolution.

"That the Orange Association, founded upon the principle of religion, loyalty, charity, and benevolence, has through its officers applied to the Ontario Legislature for an Act of Incorporation enabling private and other lodges to hold property for lodge purposes, &c; and such application having been refused by the Government and a majority of said Legislature. Be it therefore further

"Resolved—First, that this Grand Lodge, on behalf of the Orangemen of Ontario East, record its solemn protest against the action of said Government and members in refusing justice to a body of men who, in the time of their country's need, have ever been among the first to offer their service in protection of the Crown and the principles upon which it is founded.

"Third—That this Grand Lodge view with alarm and regret the position taken by the Hon. Oliver Mowat when opposing the passage of the Bill for incorporating the Society during the present session of Parliament; for though declaring that if the objects of the Society were carried out it would be impossible for any one to belong to the Order who was not a good Christian man, to pronounce as that its incorporation because its passage would give offence to our Roman Catholic citizens, believing that the concession and adoption of such a doctrine would be subversive of all the rights and liberties of the Protestants of the world, knowing, as they do, that Protestantism as a principle is antagonistic to the universal supremacy of Roman Catholicism.

"Fourth—That as Orangemen seeking, an Act of Incorporation they ask for no rights or privileges which have not been conceded by their own votes to Roman Catholic institutions, and will rest satisfied with nothing less. They therefore solemnly pledge themselves individually and collectively as vote for no one in the future who will not pledge himself, if elected to a seat in the Legislature, to support by his vote a Bill for the Incorporation of the Orange Association;

"Fifth—That the thanks of this Grand Lodge are due and are hereby tendered to those members of the Legislature who voted for the Bill to Incorporate the Society, thereby proving their willingness to extend to Orangemen those privileges which are enjoyed by other subject of Her Majesty in Ontario. To Mr. Jas. Bethune, Q. C., members for Stormont, the thanks of and only Orangemen but Protestants generally are especially due for refusing to be dragged through the meshes of political chicanery, and stepping forward logically defending the demand of the Orangemen of Ontario in their demands for rights which have been conceded to Roman Catholics."

OFFICERS.

Bro. John White, Grand Master; Bro. David Ross, Deputy Grand Master; Rev. Bro. Preston, Deputy Grand Chaplain; Bro. John G. Gibbons, Grand Treasurer; Bro. A. J. Van Mater, Grand Secretary; Bro. D. Ewing, Deputy Grand Secretary; Bro J. B. McWilliams, Grand Lecturer; Bro. Wm. Porter, Grand Director of Ceremonies; Rev. Bros. F. M. Finn, Andrew Gordon, G. S. White, James Norris, W. M. Pattyson, N. H. Heward, F. Bort, Deputy Grand Chaplains.

A resolution of thanks was unanimously tendered to the Peterborough brethren for the very kind and courteous reception given to the officers and members of the Grand Lodge.

At midnight on Wednesday the Grand Lodge closed, to meet again in the Town of Belleville, on the third Tuesday of February, 1878.

KEENE.

The snow has entirely left the roads here, and people are beginning to think we are going to have spring.

We hear that a team of horses belonging to Mr. Mc Allister of Monaghan was drowned in the Otonabee river last week.

Some rascals have poison out in this neighbourhood for foxes and they succeeded in poisoning a very fine one on Friday last in the shape of a valuable dog belonging to Mr. Thos. Thompson, of Hiawatha. Mr. Thompson will undoubtedly make them pay pretty sweetly for their fox this time.

Our thriving village was enlivened by an Indian wedding on saturday last Mr. William Anderson of Hiawatha was married to Miss Marson of Alnwick. The cermony was performed at the Presbyterian Manse by the Rev. F. Andrews. The fair bride was dressed very neatly and looked perfectly lovely, as we thought.—Com.

The Premier this morning gave an interview to Mr. SAMUEL MURRAY who has the two million dollar claim against the Goverment—with subsequent consequential damages of $91,250.42, because of nonpayment, with respect to what he calls the "Asia Swindle." Mr. Mackenzie heard the applicant on the subject of his claim, and received from him a statement in writing. He then satisfied Mr. Murray that as Indian affairs were under the direction of the Imperial Government no such claim could be paid without their concurrence. Mr. MURRAY wanted a quarter of a million or so on account, but was reasonable enough, after explanation to see that Ministers here had no authority to pay him even so small a sum as this, and a considerable period of time must necessarily elapse before anything further could be communicated to him on the subject. He said he was ready now to leave town, and if anything came of his application, he could be written to by mail.

GRANGING.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Will you come to the Grange where 'tis joyful to meet
Your friends and companions in unity sweet:
In our counsels both wisdom and justice prevail and friendship and trust in our Order ne'er fail.

Sir:—I observe in the last issue of the EXAMINER a communication signed "A Farmer." I dare say this wonderful 'Farmer' imagines he has done some great thing when he delivered himself of that tirade which appeared in your columns. He commences by drawing attention to the fact that the Grangers of a certain locality met and enjoyed a social evening together, by having an Oyster Supper, &c., &c.; this, from the manner in which he sneers at it, seems to be very objectionable to him. Surely he does not mean to insinuate that farmers, their wives, and sons and daughters should not spend a social evening together in this way Would he prefer the ball-room? for people will meet some place; some can be found even in the tavern. Is he not aware that hundreds of young people from the country have sought the towns and cities and fallen into lives of dissipation and folly, simply because their humdrum lives at home afforded no social amusement, and often were they soured still fuither by the morose and peevish exactions of those who controlled them, who would allow nothing but work, everlasting weary work. Judging all farmers doubtless by his own standard of intelligence, his strictures would seem to imply that farmers are not qualified to have anything to say or do in controlling the affairs of the country—further, I suppose, than simply doing as they are bid by the cligarchy when election times comes round. Surely a class who are 70 per cent. of the whole population, as well as being the bone and sinew of the country, should have the privilege of asserting their rights and protecting their interests. Too long have they quietly submitted to this order of things. Too long have they allowed themselves to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for the pompous swells of towns and cities. Too long have they allowed the aforesaid swells to hold out inducements and attractions to entice their children from them. Is it not time now. Yes, it was time long ago that they offer counter-attractions to keep their children with them, and who can point to any thing better calculated to accomplish this end than the Grange? With reference to our school system the Grangers think that it embraces or aims at too much, and they are not alone in this opinion, for many intelligent people who are not Grangers nor farmers either, think that there is far too much attempted and too little accomplished in our country schools. I do not deem it necessary to say anything in defence of Mr. Staples. I have heard that gentleman and feel well satisfied that he is quite capable of taking care of himself. In all probability when the eyes of our cynical friend receives another annointing, he will see things in a different light, see them, it may be, as they really are. With regard to the 10 p.m. meeting, I would just say:

Inspiring virtue by our rules,
And in ourselves secure,
We have compassion on those fools
Who think our acts impure.

Yours, &c.,
GRANGER.

Otonabee, February 27th.

Peterborough, Feb. 27th, 1877.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I ask a small portion of your space this week to refer to the the action of our Town Council on Monday evening. It is seldom that I trouble you, and would not now, but for the unheard of proceedings of the Council in the matter of the Market By-law, and the Tavern and Shop Licenses. I think I may safely say that in these two matters the present Council deserves the censure of every intelligent ratepayer and citizen of the town. I am sure, sir, that bad as was the last Council, they deserved the respect of citizens for their fixing the license at $300. Every Councillor on Monday evening admitted that the liquor dealers had now a monopoly of that trade, and that in consequence they are better able to pay the increased license fees. Yet in the face of this assertion they voted away $1,150 at one vote in the matter of tavern and shops, and selling billiards, &c., into calculation, not less than $1,400 to $1,500, and this too while they condemned the traffic in intoxicating liquors and said that they were ready to do all in their power to do it from the hands.

But worse, still, while voting away $1,150 off whiskey, brandy, &c., they added 10cts. to every quarter of beef coming into our markets, and 5cts. to every quarter of veal, lamb, mutton, &c., in the way of petty tolls. To what purpose anything to encourage importation? Nothing in Peterboro: Great monopolies to whiskey dealers and give them a bonus of $6,150 a year to curse the town and community, and on the same evening vote hundreds of dollars to be added to the price of meat, which every man uses. Surely the Council must be mad or going mad or have they placed themselves completely under the control of the tavern-keepers and publicans? It would appear that with the exception of [illegible] Deputies have been brought under the powerful influence of Bacchus. We the powers under hereafter if we find even most lofty Fathers in every free fight in the town. They have voted themselves cheap whiskey, and one of the members for the 2nd ward did not hesitate to say that "he liked a fair fight." That may be one reason why the row on Friday evening last originated on Hunter Street West, not far from several taverns, and not far from the office of one of the Councillors.

Mr. Editor, I am sorry that you do not respect the speeches of Councillors both in Council and in Committee of the whole. Quiet, peaceful citizens, who remain at home would then be made aware of the actions, in full, of their representatives, and I do hope that in future you will follow the course of your predecessor, who never failed to point out the delinquencies of those men whose professions differed very much from their votes. I would also ask every poor man in town to remember who it was that added to the price of their veal, mutton, beef, and necessaries of life, while they took $1,150 off that which demoralizes and brutalizes those in any way connected therewith, They should also remember the man who, while thus favoring the liquor dealers, had to vote $350 to pay an extra Constable to assist in keeping peace. A peace that would rarely if ever be disturbed but for that demoralizing and unchristian traffic that our Councillors delight to honor and favour. I may further add that I am now more than ever convinced that more than one of the Councillors were pledged to this before the Municipal Elections. In the Council Chamber they could not, nay they dare not shirk the duty they assumed for the votes of the Licensed Victuallers. It is true that one of them was cunning enough to put another forward to do the talking, but I suppose he did this because he knew the vanity of the pragmatical in general, This, however, does not relieve even the astute Lawyer who thought he could conceal the part he was playing.—How highly those men value themselves when they place themselves under obligation to the liquor traffic.

I am, yours truly,
"ANTI-HUMBUG"

School Board Meeting next Tuesday evening.

Thanks.—John Bertram, Esq., M. P., and James Hall, Esq., M. P., will please accept our thanks for Parliamentary papers.

Board of Trade.—The proceedings of the Board of Trade meeting on Thursday evening will be found on the first page.

The World is the name of a new aspirant for public favour. It is published at Toronto and the subscription price is $1 per annum.

Dangerous Practice.—A large family have died from small-pox, communicated from a borrowed newspaper. This is a wrinkle never to borrow, but subscribe and get it direct from the office.

Left Over.—Our report of the Sabbath School convention, held in Lakefield, on Monday and Tuesday of this week, is crowded out, together with the Ashburnham Council, a North Monaghan communication, and other items of interesting news. They will appear next week.

Licensed Inspectors.—The Lieutenant-Governor has reappointed John Hall, A. Smith and J. McClelland, Licence Commissioners and John Ritchie, Inspector; under the provisions of the Licence Act of 1876, for West Peterboro', for the ensuing year; and T. Shepard, J. Stratton, and P. Bisher, Licence Commissioners, and H. Drain, Inspector, for the East Riding.

Some parties complain that their papers are not delivered at their houses in town early enough. Our town list has reached such dimensions that it is impossible to complete the delivery before noon on Thursday, but any person in the habit of calling at the Post Office early morning can have their papers mailed at our expense, and can obtain them on Thursday, at 9 a.m., through receiving us to do.

New Business.—Mr. R. Watson, late cashier for W. Portwacker & Co., auctioneer, this week took his will commence business on his own account, about the first of March, in the store one door west Dixon Bros. Gregory, Simcoe street. Mr. Watson, we believe, has had the honor of making garments for the late Prince Consort, and other members of the Royal Family, as well as for Earl Dufferin, our present Governor-General. He has had large experience in making regimental clothing.

Alarm of Fire.—On Friday afternoon the stable of Geo. McCombs, on Simcoe street, and in rear of Phelan's Hotel, was found to be on fire. The fire ran up a partition in the stable where there was a quantity of straw, and had it not been for the prompt action that was taken, the result would have been a conflagration, as there are quite a number of sheds and stables carried near one another. The alarm was extended, but the fire was extinguished without the aid of the firemen. Cause not known.

For Ladies.—The experiment of a special auction sale for ladies was tried at the great auction sale of silver ware yesterday, with undoubted success. The attendance was large, and fashionable, and the ladies secured some great bargains. Now that the experiment has been tried, and its success established, we have no doubt that the next "ladies sale" will be even better patronized than the first. There will be one to-day and on Saturday, and the regular evening sales every night this week.

Scottish Concert Company.—On account of the re-engagement of the Robertson Lennox & Scotish Concert Company, at Toronto, which were billed here for Tuesday evening next, has been postponed to Friday evening, 9th inst. This company is spoken of in the highest terms of praise wherever they have appeared. Remember that our old townsman, Mr. D. D. Gallelly, is now travelling with them. No doubt there will be a large attendance at the Opera House on Friday evening, March 9th.

Blind Tom.—By an announcement in another column, it will be seen that this "musical wonder" will appear in the Opera House on Saturday evening, the 10th of March, when we have no doubt our citizens will, in large numbers, avail themselves of the opportunity of again hearing this wonderful musician. In his recent tour, he has met with great success and the press in every place speaks of his performances as truly marvelous. Tickets and seats are now for sale at Mr. Rubidge's book store.

Literary Association.—The Peterborough Literary Association held their weekly meeting on Friday evening last. Mr. Earl, Vice-President, occupying the chair. The subject for debate was; "should Graduates, and persons actively engaged in education, have a representative in Parliament." The affirmative was maintained by Mr. M.T. Beck, and Mr. Lydgate; the negative by Mr Pousette and Mr. Johnston. The decision of the chair was in favour of the affirmative. Mr. N. D. Beck read a poem entitled "The Sunken City," a translation from the Scandinavian, by Robert Buchannan. Mr. Lydgate read, "The Jolly Mariner," a poetical piece.

Sudden Death.—A young man named George Stephens, aged eighteen years, died in Jail on Wednesday night. He was committed by the Lakefield Magistrates, as a vagrant about two weeks ago. He was in such a helpless condition when he arrived at the goal, that he could scarcely speak, and was unable to help himself. Every care was known him at the goal by the gaoler and goal surgeon, Dr. Kincaid, but he was past medical aid. It appears that his father is in Minden, and his mother in the United States. Dr. Harvey held the inquest, and the jury, after hearing the evidence returned the following verdict; "that the said George Stephens died on Wednesday, 21st of February, from natural causes, and that the jury are of the opinion that the county and town authorities should provide a place more suitable for such persons."

Partyism.—On Friday evening last, the Young Irishmen and Orange Young Britons had a party encounter on Hunter street. About half-past nine o'clock the melee commenced, but it is not exactly known which party was the aggressor. For a time there was considerable noise and stir. It is needless to say that no constable took any part in the melee. There was a rumor on Saturday that a second encounter would take place that evening, but the appointment of a few special constables cast a damper on their gushing desire to distinguish themselves, and hence the evening passed of quietly. On Monday afternoon, near McDonnell's Blacksmith shop, Hunter street, another row occurred, partaking of the nature of partyism. The parties engaged in this row exhibited strong cannibal tendencies, and tasted each others flesh unscrupulously, although the Lenten season. Should the aggressors be brought before the Police Magistrate, he will be expected to mete out the fullest punishment the law will warrant, so as to put an end to rowdyism, and teach the promoters thereof that it cannot and will not be tolerated. The eyes of law abiding citizens will be upon him. It is needless to say that whiskey in generality, and was in these cases, at the bottoms of the whole affair. Boys are generally brave when drunk.

Complimentary Supper.—A complimentary supper was given on Friday evening last, to Mr. J. Jenkins, by the employees of the Lennis Estate, on his leaving; a position which he has occupied for the last five years; a large number of young men were present. Mr. A. MacNeil occupied the chair, and Mr. Jos. Lennis and Mr. W. McCough occupied the vice-chairs. After the usual loyal toasts had been proposed and heartily responded to, the Chairman proposed the health of the guest of the evening which was heartily and unanimously rejoined. Mr. Jenkins in reply referred to the great honor conferred upon him by the presence of so large an assemblage of the employees of the "Ghost T." and of his friends; and thanked them for the interest manifested in his welfare, and for the good wishes expressed for his future welfare. The "Agricultural and Manufacturing Interests," the "Press," "Canada our Home," the "Army Navy and Volunteers," "Our Mercantile Interests," were given by the chairman and responded to by T. Wortman, W. McCullagh, J. R. Stratton, J. Ormond, Jr., G. Mitchell, W. Gilbert, W. J. Larmour, and W. Wells, and others. The evenings entertainment was interspersed with songs. The company broke up about the "we man cura," after spending a very pleasant evening, by singing the National Anthem.

Snow Shoe Races.—The first annual races of the Peterborough "Tuque Blanc" Snow Shoe Club, took place on the Little Lake, on Thursday afternoon. The day was beautiful above, and there were over 1000 spectators. Owing to the late thaw the ice was partially covered with water, which made it very disagreeable for the snow shoers and the bathers on, this prevented the anticipated strong competition, but notwithstanding this, the members of the club carried out their programme fairly. It was pleasant to see so many ladies present, proving that the manly spirit is so popular with the fair sex, whose presence adds so much to the eclat of such gatherings. Of the judges three were present, Hon. E. Hamilton, Judge Dumbleton, H. Clifford, Esq., W. Clarke, Esq., and H. C. Rogers, Esq. The following is a list of the successful competitors:—

220 Yds. dash (open), Silver Cup, won by W. Sherwood.

Quarter mile (club), 1st, Silver cup, won by W. Sherwood; 2nd, pair regulation knickers, hooker trousers, won by John Gilmour.

Consolation race, four clubs, won by R. Cook.

In the evening the Club met in the gymnasium club room, where the captain, Mr. A. McNeil, awarded the prizes to the winners, accompanying each prize with suitable remarks. At the finish of each presentation the boys let out a hearty cheer, not like the ordinary cheering at public gatherings, but perfect electrical, and it was easy to see that the audience was thrilled with the clear, hearty hurrahs which came like volleys from the throats of the four score of Peterborough's smallest young men. After the prizes had been presented, the chairman spoke of the moral bearing of snow shoeing, remarking that snowshoeing and dissipation are mortal and perpetual enemies. Votes of thanks were tendered Messrs. Barrett, Sherwood, Dennistoun, Gilmour and Burton, for their services in the club, to which they each made suitable replies, and the enjoyable proceedings were brought to a close by the company singing "God save the Queen," in the club's own vigorous style

Peterborough Trotting Races.—The annual races of the Peterborough Trotting Club will take place to-day and to-morrow.

New Goods.—We notice that Mr. H. LeBrun has received his spring stock of Gents' furnishing's, tweeds, etc., so that the time in need of cheap suits, will not up, should not fail to call and see Mr. H. LeBrun's new goods, his stock of tweeds are very large and he informs us that he has positively the largest stock of tweeds in town, and of the choicest patterns.

Spring Hats.—"Shoot that fur hat" and go to S. Hyman's hat store and get a new and stylish spring hat. Mr. Hyman has just received a very large stock of the newest and most fashionable styles, which he is selling at very reasonable rates. He makes a business of the above, and he can, no doubt suit the taste and style of those who may favour him with a call.

Port Hope.—A false rumor that Mr. L. Ross, M. P., had been appointed post master of Port Hope, was circulated last week, on the authority of a bogus telegram from Ottawa. To Sir John is ascribed this master device of telegraphing. There is no truth in the matter. Mr. Ross has too good a business to be so easily shelved. He will remain a while longer to vex the Prog.

Market Tolls.—The Market Tools were let by tender on Wednesday to the highest tender, Mr. Edward Green being the highest. The following are the different tenders:—

E. Green	$1,505.00
Samuel Griffith	1,200.00
W. Walsh	1,080.00
George Taylor	1,035.00
John Cook	1,006.00

Engraving.—By reference to our advertising columns, it will be seen that Peterborough has, for the first time in its history, an Engraver established in town. It is true there have been those who did the work some times, but who did not make a business of it. Mr. Walker, who has taken up his residence in town, is said to be a thoroughly trained artistic engraver, and asks for a trial. He will be found in the Jewelry store of Mr. J. B. Ormond, and all work entrusted to him, will be done in a manner that will give satisfaction. We have seen some of Mr. Walker's work and testify to its excellency.

The Tandy Brothers' Concert.—We have already noticed the Concert to be given in Bradburn's Hall, on the 8th of March, by the Tandy Brothers and Miss Barr, assisted by the best musicians of our own town. The Tandy's gave the highest satisfaction when they formerly visited Peterborough, and many who then heard them sing are delighted with the prospect of another visit. Miss Barr is reported to be one of the best singers in Canada. They have selected a full programme of their favorite pieces, and have promised to do their utmost to give satisfaction to all concerned. The Musical Society of this town lately gave proof of their great proficiency in instrumental music and they will meet with a warm reception. Mr. Haggart's abilities as a public reader are widely known. No doubt he will make his best effort on such an occasion. The town is indebted to those who at a financial risk have procured the services of the Tandy's and Miss Barr at a heavy cost, and we have so doubt but that the Hall will be filled to its utmost. When reliable and worthy performers visit our town let all classes exhibit their appreciation. Reserved seats can be secured at Rubidge's book-store. Tickets can also be procured at the stores of J. McClelland, T. Menzies and J. I. Davidson and at the door.

POLICE COURT.

A young man from Belleville was brought before the Police Magistrate on Saturday, for making a noise on the street, the evening previous. It being his first appearance, and being a stranger, he was let go, after being cautioned

On Tuesday morning T. Beavis was fined $20.00 and $3.50 costs, for assaulting M. Waters, on Friday night.

At the same time Mrs. Crowley was fined $20.00 and costs, for selling liquor without license.

Ben. Reynolds was also charged with selling liquor without license, but the witnesses not appearing the case was enlarged till Friday.

The license on the first billiard table $30.00, and every additional one $10.00; Pigeon hole table, $30.00; Bagatelle table, $20.00; Bowling alley, $20.00; and in no case shall any of these be used in a room where the sale of intoxicating liquor is. Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Smith,—That the regular monthly meeting of the council be held on the 2nd Monday of each month, and to meet at 7 o'clock.—Lost.

Moved by Mr. Millar, seconded by Mr. Baptie, —That the tenders of the Examiner and the Times be referred to Mr. Rountree to see which of them is the lowest, as the latter complain that their tender was the lowest, and that it was not accepted.

Some of the expenditures referred to the way in which the Times had done their work, and that the former clerk had stated that their printing could not be used, and that it had to be retained.

After some discussion, the Mayor ruled the motion out of order.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Baptie, That the services of a properly appointed officers commence their duties on the first of March next.—Carried.

The council adjourned for two weeks.

A magnificent Set of twelve pieces, Quadruple Plate on Nickle Silver, valued at $321.00 will be sold for what ever, it will bring; at the Great Sale of Silver ware.

MIDLAND CENTRAL POULTRY ASSOCIATION.

The first show of this Association was held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, and was a real success.

The number of entries were about 150, and birds shown were of the best classes.

Mr. John McClelland showed some Light Brahmas that could hardly be excelled. He also showed some spleudid chicks of the same class. All his poultry are prize birds.

Mr. Jas. McWilliams showed Polands in variety, and Plymouth Rock, which were deservedly admired.

Mr. John Taylor, also of Peterboro', showed Brahmas, Cochins and Hamburgs, very fine birds. He exhibited great taste in everything connected with his birds, coops and appendages.

Mr. Isaac Dormer took the lead in White Hamburgs. His are very superior birds.

Mr. Edg. Walton, Lakefield, and Mr. J. B. Nicholls showed some very fine Houdans.

Captain Cottingham, of Omemee, had several entries of Cochins, Plymouth Rock, and other varieties, which also deserve special notice.

Mr. E. R. Grant, of Port Hope, made 19 or 20 entries in Cochins, Brahmas, Ducks, and other varieties, and took several prizes; his Brahmas coming the nearest to those of Mr. McClelland.

Mr. Geo, Hope, of Port Hope, also made several entries, and has very fine fowls.

Mr. Daubes, of Lakefield, made several entries in different varieties, and many of his birds are very fine ones, especially his Black Spanish fowl, which are really fine birds. But when all the birds shown were superior it is difficult to refer to each exhibitor without appearing to favor some of them unduly; we will therefore give the prize list, which will give the names of successful exhibitors.

LINDSAY.

Sturgeon Point Hotel.—A meeting of the Directors of the Sturgeon Point Hotel company was held in the rooms of Messrs. Ketchum & McDonnell on Wednesday evening, when the buildings were taken off Commodore Crandell's hands at $6,000. The hotel was leased to Mr. D. Fancher of Peterborough, for five years. Arrangements have been made for the erection of two miles of telegraph wire, gas works, fencing, bath houses, and numerous other improvements are to be made which makes this house one of the best, if not the best, summer house in the Province. Mr. Fancher has had long experience as an hotel manager and will no doubt make the house popular. He will take possession at once and work on the improvements will soon be under way. We wish him success in his undertaking.

Lindsay Central Exhibition.—It is gratifying to record the liberal manner in which the Directors of the South Victoria Agricultural Society have been met by the town and country councils in their preparations for the central show to be held here next fall. The local society has to provide suitable grounds and buildings for the exhibition, and the old grounds and drill shed were too small for the South Riding show alone, to say nothing of the central. The society has therefore to bear the heavy responibility of providing first-class buildings and spacious grounds and as these will be of a permanent character, and useful for all time to come the investment will in every respect be advantageous to to the whole community. The County Council at its January session generously contributed $500; and Monday night the "Town Fathers" came down headcomely" with $500. The Directors propose to make a "big push" at the Maripoza, Ops, Fenelon, Verulam and Emily Councils, and we have no doubt these gentlemen will contribute liberally for the project is one in which the whole country is interested, and from which all will derive no little benefit. The enterprise of Lindsay town and Victoria county has become all but proverable; and in this matter we trust all will put their shoulders to the wheel and work for the common good.—Post.

SECRET SERVICE MONEY.

The discussion of the expenditure of the secret service money continues in the press throughout the country, with unabated vigor, and is in many cases carried to extremes utterly unwarranted by any facts now before the public. Many newspapers, we notice, assume that because the $274,000 expended has been in no way accounted for, it must therefore have been used for political purposes, and naturally corruptly, by Sir John Macdonald While there are some grounds to justify such a conclusion, which we shall point out, we think it hardly fair on the part of public journals to indulge to the full extent of public imagination as established ground for so doing—to sentence the criminal, as it were, before he is found guilty, Reasonable time should be afforded to Sir John in which to vindicate his character from the assersions which have been cast upon him, and for which he himself is mainly responsible. We do not assert that the ex-Premier expended the Secret Service money improperly; but that he procured it from Parliament under false pretences to use for political purposes; that he conceals the expenditure because of the dishonesty of it; or that he applied it to his own use and benefit. We assume that it was expended by him for an object which he believed to be of paramount importance to the welfare and safety of the country. But we do assert that as an honest man having a proper sense of what is due to his personal reputation, jealous of his own honor, and sensible of the position he occupies, the country has a right to expect that he will be guided in this matter by that practice by which he claims to be in all things governed, and which he is so fond of quoting as "British precedents." No public man in England would rest for one moment under the imputations which have been directed against Sir John Macdonald in regard to this matter, or would indeed leave himself open to be so misconstrued. As Sir John has been if any injustice has done him in this matter. The practice in England has been that Ministers are sworn to a proper application of funds of this nature, that at the end of each year any surplus or sum unexpended is returned to the treasury, and that the whole expenditure is audited by a private Committee of two members of the Government and two of the Opposition. As a man sensitive as to his personal honor, we think Sir John Macdonald owes it to himself and to the country to ask for a private audit of the expenditure of the $274,000 of public funds used by him, in order that the public may have assurance that "these handsare clean" in regard to every transaction connected with this fund. No violation of confidence would be involved, because the only result to be announced would be the report of the Committee that the fund had been properly and honestly applied, or that it had been improperly abused, if such should unfortunately be the result of their enquiry. We observe that one hon. gentleman has already given notice for a committee to make this audit; but we trust the member for Kingston will anticipate the object of motion by himself asking for private committee to audit this fund, the expenditure of which is questioned by the public in a manner that no man of honor would submit to if so clear and easy a means of justifying himself were within his reach. If within a reasonable time Sir John does not take this means of vindicating his honor which is touched by these public reports, what is now a mere rumor whose circulation we deprecate, will take a stronger ground as having the appearance of a fact which the hon. gentleman is unable to dispute.

Accident.—On Saturday last, 10th inst. William Booth, eldest son of Telby Booth, of this place met with a serious accident while working at Warners mill, Westmeinster. His left hand had got caught in some way in the machinery and the arm was fractured above the wrist; the wrist joint was dislocated and the little finger was completely torn off at the last joint, taking with it the tend ons and sinews, extending to the elbow. The accident was a very painful one and will probably lay him up for many weeks. He is under the care of Dr. Elliot.

How the "Gleaner" puts it.—There are at present ten papers published in the County of Ontario, and it is interesting to note the stand they take during the present Dunkin campaign. The two Cobourg papers both support the Temperance movement. Of the whitby papers the Chronicle is opposed to, and the Gazette in favor of the Dunkin Bill. The Port Perry Observer is also an opponent of the Dunkin Bill, while the Uxbridge Guardian, Cannington Gleaner, and Beaverton Sun strongly support the measure Port Perry Standard and Uxbridge Journal are afraid to express their views either for or against the measure.—Thus there are six for Dunkin's bill, two opposed to the Dunkin Bill, and two afraid to say which side they are on! The opposition papers are conservative.

The Montreal Herald, which invariably argues every question calmly and logically thus puts the case of Sir John and the secret service money: Sir John admits that he has now changed his views upon the question, but what guarantee have we that while he still held the extraordinary opinion announced at St. Thomas, he did not disburse the Secret Service money in accordance with his theory, and who is to tell us that the services rendered which the secret payment were not services rendered John did as Conservative party and not possible, but on the Nobody knows that Sir John that he did not. Money for party purposes in this regard, does no one knows are his confidence with the Proprietors is the Auditing Committee, as an item to the Premier would certainly do under the circumstances! A secret of national importance would certainly be as safe with Sir Hugh Macdonnie as with Sir John, but if the latter chooses to keep it locked in his breast, he lays himself open to the charges of having acted upon the dishonorable principle that in 1872 he laid down.

Horrible Affair.—The Dunville Gazette gives particulars of a horrible affair which took place on the Grand Forks Road. It seems that a young man named Lee, living on the Forks Roads, has been paying attention to a young woman, whose name we have not learned, and as time passed along she became somewhat impatient as to his intentions, and pressed him to marry her On his declining to accede to her proposal, she poured a quantity of nitric acid, which she had previously obtained, into a cup, and asked him to drink it but he would not do it, when enraged by his refusal she dashed the acid in his face, burning him frightfully. The whole upper portion of his face was very severely burned but, fortunately, his eyes, though both of them suffered severe injury, were not destroyed, as might have been the case. Dr. Hartwell was immediately sent for, and on his arrival did everything that medical skill could do to alleviate the suffering. There are hopes that both eyes may yet be saved, although it is probable Lee will be permanently disfigured. So far as we can learn no steps have been taken to punish the woman, and it is said she is about marrying another man.

Cloud Banners of the Alps.

Among the most exquisite scenes which delight the eye of European traveler are wonderful rose colored cloud-banners, flashing from the Alpine cliffs. But it is only in the sunlight that Nature hangs out these beautiful tokens. So it is only in the glow of health —the sunlight of our inner being—that nature reveals them physical cloud-banners, the "rosybud" and "cherry lip" to praise which every poet of the earth has invoked the Muse to aid him. But they are as rare as the symbol fixed conceived Christian charity to be. Women eager to retain this charm, resort to French art and resage. The effect is similar to that which would be produced by substituting sanctimony, flags for the delicate glowing cloud-banners of the Alps. If woman would aid Nature instead of adopting art, would seek health instead of vainly trying to mask disease, she would not only win the greatest charm of womanhood—health—but she would avert much misery both from herself and others. Dr. Pierce, a Favorite Prescription has received the highest praise from thousands of pale, debilitated, suffering women. One bottle often affords more relief than months of treatment by eastrics and other medicines. It is harmless in any condition of the system and its use often renders the modest invalid exempt from that most trying of ordeals—a personal consultation with a physician. It is the duty of every woman to become familiar with the causes and symptoms of the many diseases to which her peculiar organization renders her liable, and also to learn the proper means of preventing these maladies. The People's Medical Adviser contains an extensive treatise upon "Woman and her Diseases." The Author also advises courses of domestic treatment, which will often render the services of a physician unnecessary. Every woman should read it. A copy of the Adviser can be obtained by addressing the Author, Dr. R. V. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y. Price $1.50 (postage prepaid) Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists.

PORT HOPE.

A GROSS AND MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

From the Guide.

On Tuesday morning last, at about ten o'clock, Mr. Geo. Wilson, proprietor of this paper, was passing down Walton Street to the Post Office. When opposite the Messrs. Gendrie Brothers' store, the valiant and gallant Col. Smart ran along the street and, without a moment's warning, dealt a violent blow on the back of Mr. Wilson's head with a large two-foot ebony ruler. The blow coming from behind, completely dazed him, when the fiend dealt seven or eight blows in succession before he was taken off by Mr. John Marshall. We have not the least doubt but that Mr. Wilson would have been brutally murdered had he not been rescued, as the first blow coming as it did, left him completely in his assailant's power.

Mr. Wilson was taken into Messrs. Gendrie Brothers' store, where the wounds in his head bled profusely. Dr. Carbott was then called, who procured a cab and conveyed Mr. W. to his home and dressed his wounds. As soon as able, from the loss of blood, he was taken in a buggy by Mr. C. Quinlan to the Town Hall, for the purpose of laying information against the would be murderer; and on arriving there Smart was standing at the entrance to the Hall, and said he was there to answer any charges that might be made against him. Mr. Wilson, accompanied by Mr. Quinlan, then followed Smart up-stairs, when, after entering the Council Chamber, they saw Smart rushing out of the Mayor's Office, armed with another large ebony ruler. He (Smart) immediately rushed again at his victim, who was so weakened by the loss of blood that he could scarcely stand, and commenced another violent attack. Mr. Quinlan in attempting to keep him off, received several blows. Smart succeeded in inflicting several more cuts on Mr. Wilson's head, and broke the ruler in the scuffle. He was at last taken off by Mr. Holland, Police Magistrate, who was in the Mayor's Office at the time, and ran to the rescue. Smart was finally taken in charge by Constable Gamble, and information laid.

The examination was held the same afternoon before Wm. Garnett, Esq., with whom were associated J. G. Williams and Jas. Anderson, Esqs. The case was sent to trial at the next Assizes, and the prisoner bound over to keep the peace.

The cause of offence was the publication of the following article in our last issue:

THE PORT OFFICE DEFALCATION.

Most unpleasant rumors have been current for the past ten days, in reference to heavy defalcations in the Port Hope Post Office. We find on enquiry that there is too much truth in these reports. Defalcations to the amount of five thousand five hundred dollars have been discoverd. Had a subordinate been caught stealing five dollars, he would have long since been in the hands of the law. Efforts have been made to raise the money and hush the matter up, but up to the present time of writing, we understand, the money has not been forthcoming. Even should the money be raised, we cannot see on what principle the crime can be condoned.

Barber, who speculated in Bank of Montreal funds, while he was in the employ of that institution, is paying the penalty of his crime in the Kingston Penitentiary. Tweed, for embezzeling the funds of New York city, is also serving out a well-merited sentence. Until all persons in positions of trust, and who betray that trust, are treated in the same manner, such crimes will be continued. For the interests of morality and good goverment, we hope this matter will not be "hushed up."

KEEPING APPLES.—We have mentioned on former occasions the various modes of protecting apples from wind currants and from alternation of heat and cold, by imbedding them in plaster sawdust chaff, &c., or wrapping each specimen in paper. Saw-dust is one of the most comdetete non conductors of heat, and grapes have been kept fresh till srping. A late number of the Farmers' Advocate says that a quantity of fair apples were kept a year, plump, fresh, and of good flavour, by putting them in refuse boxes with alternating layers of saw-dust, so that they did not touch each other. The boxes were placed in the cellar, up from the ground. Much will of course depend on the character of the cellar, its dampness, coldness ventilation, &c; and while success might be the result in one, failure would follow in another. —Country Gentleman.

CLEANING SEED GRAIN.—It will pay to sow the very best seed of all kinds, as I know from trial, I clean it thoroughly through the fanning mill, to get all the weed seed and small and light grain from the heavy, and have a side spout for the mill, so I can take out the heavy plump grain and sow the very best and keep it free from weed seed. There will always be enough volunteerweeds without growing them, and if farmers generally would be more particular about seed grain will grow taller, the heads longer and yield more. It is just as necessary to take the choice corn or potatoes, or to select the best cattle, horses and hogs to breed from. Now, in the winter, when we probably will now and then have a leisure day, is a very good time to prepare seed grain and not wait until we are crwded with spring work. If we wait until we want to sow it, the chances are that it will not be cleaned as well, and perhaps, not at all. Don't put it off.

DRYING-OFF COWS.—Cows cannot be dried of their milk at once, and some cows continue to secrete milk in small quantities for a long time. But in all cases where the animal has ceased to give milk, or is what is termed "dry," she should have the udder examined from time to time, and the teats tried, to see if any milk can be drawn. At first the trial should be made at intervals of two or three days, and if there is a particle of milk in the bag it should be all thoroughly drawn. Then the trial may be made at longer intervals, when cows are supposed to be completely dry, the rule should be to go through the herd every week, making trial of the teats to see if milk can be drawn. And work cannot safely be instructed to 'hired help" but must be performed under the eye of the master.' Many have lost the use of valuable cows by intrusting this to persons in there imploy, and there scarcely a dairyman in New York who cannot trce trouble in his heard to either his own eglect or that of others. Indeed, so large is the loss every year from improper drying cows, that there is scarcely a subject connected with dairy management of more vital importance than this. We urge it therefore, upon the attention of dairymen, and we say to them: Be sure that the work is done properly —trust no eye but your own, and when your herd comes in milk next spring you will realize the value of this advice.

LAKEFIELD.

SABBATH SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The friends of Sabbath Schools in Smith and Douro, held a Convention in Lakefield, on Tuesday and Tuesday of last week. Three different sessions of the convention were well attended, and great interest manifested in the work by the different denominations. Revds. Messrs. Clark, Presbyterian; Weldon, Methodist; Richards, Bible Christian, and Radcliffe, Baptist, took an active part in the discussions and work of the convention, doing all they could to make the meetings profitable and instructive, and it was hoped that the discussions would tend to create increased interest in this part of christian work. Several of the speakers referred, in a rather fault finding tone, to the indifference of the Peterborough churches to these united conventions. Perhaps these remarks are deserved by the people of Peterborough. They are fitful enough in all their duties, and no less in this than in any other christian labours. At the close of the convention on Tuesday evening, a resolution was moved by Rev. Mr. Clarke, seconded by Rev. Mr. Richards, expressive of their friendliness toward Mr. G. Crook, an active member of the convention; and expressing the wish of the people present, that as Mr. Crook was about to leave for a different field of labour, that he might be enabled to continue the work wherever he might go; and that the sympathies of all present were with him, for his prosperity.

The following is a synopsis of the convention:—

After devotional exercises, Rev. Mr. Clarke, one of the Vice-Presidents, was called upon to preside. He called for election of officers, when the following gentlemen were elected for the year 1877:—Mr. David Smith, President; and the resident Ministers Vice-Presidents; Mr. W. H. Casement, Secretary and Treasurer; Committee, Messrs. J. C. Sherin, W. Harper, Isaac Snelgrove, George Shields, Isaac Garbutt, and Thomas Elliott.

The President being called to the chair, made an appropriate address, regarding the object of the meeting etc., and called upon the Rev. Mr. Weldon to introduce the subject for discussion, viz: "Who should attend Sunday Schools?" which he did very ably. A warm discussion followed.

Rev. Mr. Clarke thought that parents ought to visit the Sunday Schools, and in visiting it should be on time, and take their seats in class, the same as scholars. He certainly objected to parties visiting Sunday Schools while the work was going on. He said it not only disturbed the children, but the teachers as well. He referred to the apostolic mode of teaching.

Rev. Mr. Richard agreed with what had been said regarding visiting the Sunday Schools. He said a great many people thought that ministers ought to attend the Sunday School. He thought it was almost an imposition to ask the ministers to take charge of the Sunday Schools, and to attend to their other duties besides.

Rev. Mr. Willoughby, of Peterboro', was strongly opposed to visiting Sunday schools, he thought it interrupted, not only the scholars, but the teachers as well. He said if parents, or any parties wished to visit the Sunday School, they should attend in a class. He thought it was out of the question to ask a minister to attend the Sunday School when he had to preach three times on Sabbath; as to a minister visiting it, he thought they disturbed as much as any one else if not more.

Messrs. Bell and Elliott could not see why ministers should not attend the Sunday School.

Messrs. Harper, Casement, and Shields, concurred with the Rev. Mr. Willoughby.

EVENING SESSION.

After devotional exercises the President called upon the Rev. Mr. Willoughby to introduce the subject, viz: "Reward consequent upon the faithful study of the scriptures." He said it was not a subject that needed any discussion, as all were agreed as to the reward consequent upon a faithful study of the scriptures. He pointed out three rewards at some length.

Mr. Crook followed, and went on to show that we must study God's word to get any good from it.

Rev. Mr. Clarke then introduced the next subject, viz: "what the Sunday School had done," which he said was scarcely debateable. He spoke at some length and showed that the missionary went forth from the Sunday School, and that the ranks of the church were made up from the Sunday Schools to a great extent.

The session closed by prayer. The Bible Christian choir rendered some excellent music.

TUESDAY.—MORNING SESSION.

The convention re-opened in the Bible Christian Church at 10 a.m.

After devotional exercises, the minutes of the two previous sessions were read and approved.

The President then informed the meeting of the first business on the programme, viz: Reports of Sunday Schools by Superintendents and others.

Rev. Mr. Clarke, superintendent of the Presbyterian Sunday School reported that the school was in a flourishing condition, and was progressing very favourably. There are thirteen teachers besides Superintendent, Secretary, and Treasurer; average attendance 80. He referred to the system they had of collecting money for missionary purposes. He said it was an American idea, and he found it worked admirable. Each class had its Secretary and Treasurer. These officers were changed every three months, so that by the end of the year, very nearly, if not all the scholars had held office, and no jealousy can exist; at the end of the quarter the retiring Treasurer handed over the monies collected, together with the Secretary's report, to the general Treasurer of the school, or such other officer as may be appointed to take charge of the same. They had undertaken the support of a child in India, at a cost of $20.00 a year. They had a monthly teachers' meeting, and found it very beneficial to the working of the Sunday School. It generally was closed by prayer.

Mr. J. C. Sherin, Superintendent of the C. M. Sunday School, said they were progressing favourable. He did not think the school was any larger than at this time last year. Attendance: regular number of scholars attending school was 75 to 100; they had 12 teachers, Superintendent, Secretary and Librarian. They used the lesson cluster for infant class, supply two papers, 55 [illegible] and Band of Hope Review. a library added 140 volumes of library adopted their library, they had now missionary purposes. They had explained—with good [illegible] Mr. Clarke thought it was an excellent [illegible] He had been connected with [illegible] day School for about 11 years, and not quite agree with some of the gentlemen regarding parents visiting the schools, he was glad to see parents visit the school and take an interest in the school.

Rev. Mr. Richards reported on behalf of the Bible Christian Sunday School, and stated that he had not much of interest to report. They had had some difficulties to contend with. He thought the Sunday School was in better working order than heretofore. They have 2 classes of girls and 3 of boys and 1 infant class; average attendance 36; total names on register 68; they have Superintendent, Secretary, and Treasurer; distribute 30 copies of a paper published in Bowmanville, monthly; no difficulty financially.

Mr. Crook, Superintendent of the Sunday School at Selwyn and in Indian Village, reported the attendance good and regular. 200 volume library; supplied 4 papers, at a cost of $13.00. He thought Canadian papers were not only cheaper, but contained better matter. They had a teachers meeting once a week at the Indian Village, the Indians attended well, and plenty of teachers, and the work done ably; average attendance 53; 5 teachers and Superintendent. The only difficulty he experienced was in keeping the young ones quiet.

Mr. Bell, of Robinsons neighborhood, reported an attendance of 30, average 25; 5 classes; 4 teachers; Superintendent, Treasurer and Secretary; library of 162 volumes; distributed 1 paper; no difficulty financially. Teachers attend regularly.

Rev. Mr. Lewis, for McKee's school, reported that it was closed during the winter, he thought it was very injurious to the school. Attendance 25 or 30, 4 teachers; 1 or 2 officers.

Mr. Stubbs, Superintendent of the Sunday School at Bridgenorth, reported that the school was progressing favourably. Formerly it had been closed in winter, he was glad to say it was open this winter. Attendance 35 to 40; 5 teach

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 8, 1877.

CLERICAL vs. CIVIL LIBERTY.

The Charlevoix election case is one likely to be long remembered in the history of our country, as it is one which will for all time have an influence upon that history. It will doubtless be remembered by most of our readers that the contest in Charlevoix, between Mr. Tremblay and Mr. Langevin, resulted in the defeat of the former, but as it was urged, and has since been proved, by undue influence on the part of the clergy. The unsuccessful candidate, feeling that he had not been fairly defeated, and wishing doubtless to combat that priestly influence which has been to candidates against whom it has been wielded in Quebec disastrous to an extent that we in Ontario can scarcely comprehend, contested the election. His contentions not being successful in the Superior Court of the Province, he appealed to the Supreme Court of the Dominion, before which the case was argued at length. It was shown that the respondent consented to become a candidate only on condition of receiving the support of the clergy. During the campaign he announced that the clergy was favourable to him and that consequently the electors were bound to vote for him; and a number of the cures in his presence declared that he was the choice of the whole clergy, and supported by them. All this tended to prove the legal agency of the clergy in his behalf. Besides this the cures from their pulpits counseled, and in fact commanded, their parishoners to vote for Mr. Langevin, and it was clearly proven that at least five of the priests accompanied their sermons with declarations and threats which induced the people to believe that not to vote for Langevin,—or, worse still, to vote for Tremblay—would be a serious sin, for which they would be deprived of the sacraments of the Church. The county being altogether Catholic, and the people being for the most part unlearned and therefore very superstitious, it is scarcely to be wondered at that the terrors of the Church should have led to the defeat of Mr. Tremblay.

The facts stated by the petitioner were not denied, but rather admitted by the counsel for the respondent. Their defence rested on the assumption that the cures are not answerable to the civil law for what they may say in the pulpit, and in supporting this contention the Treaty of Paris, 1763, was cited. However this Treaty whereby Canada was ceded from France to Britain further interpreted by 14 Geo. III, chap. 83, guarantees the free exercise of the Roman Catholic religion to the inhabitants of the Province of Quebec, only so far as the laws of Great Britain permit, subject to the Royal supremacy. To argue otherwise is to contend that the Crown by that Treaty gave up its sovereign rights, and handed them over to a particular church, which is absurd. All of Her Majesty's subjects, are, and must be in the very nature of the constitution, subordinate to the law. Be a man of what church he may, be he lay or clerical, he must be subject to the crown and to the laws sanctioned by it. The law recognises no distinction between rich and poor, lay or clerical so far as officers against are concerned; and a clergyman, of the Church of Rome or any other church, cannot claim immunity because of his sacredotal position. It is to be feared that the Roman Catholic clergy of Quebec have long been led by the supposition of such immunity to an undue interference with the civil rights, liberties and acts of their flocks; and it is by such decisions as that of the Supreme Court in the Charlevoix case that they will best be taught their mistake.

We are willing to go as far as anyone in allowing to the Roman Catholics of Quebec, as well as of Ontario, the free exercise of their religion, and to their clergy the full expression of their views on all matters of secular concern or public polity; but when they attempt to deny to their people that liberty of conscience which they so loudly and reasonably demand from their Protestant fellow-subjects, they go a step too far, and intrude upon ground wherein they meet the antagonism of that civil law to which they with all other subjects of the realm must bow in obedience. The clergy of all churches will naturally hold certain views on political matters, and it would be ridiculous to say that they should not be allowed an expression of those views. However great their influence may be through the zealous of their priestly functions, they might, if they chose to so exercise it, be silenced the unscrupulousness of speech that is accorded to a layman in discussing the position and claims of political parties and candidates. We will even go so far as to admit the full right of clergymen to instruct their people on the probable results of this or that election or of party supremacy upon their religion or their church; for whatever may be said of the judiciousness of such building on the "assumption of unrighteousness," the discussion of such matters by the clergy is perfectly within their province legally considered. When, however, a clergyman departs from the region of advice and counsel; and, to influence the votes of his people, threatens them with ecclesiastical pains and penalties, he becomes guilty not only of an invasion of individual right, but also interferes with the rights of the public. Even the brutal bulldozer is not so powerful an intimidator as the priest who threatens the loss of the sacraments and the pain of excommunication upon an elector. Aside from whatever spiritual influence such a threat may have, (and of which the law could not properly take cognizance) the one threatened knows that the ecclesiastical vengance will bring with it social disgrace, loss of patronage and custom, injury to his credit, and consequent distruction of his business. Against such assaults the law must defend men; whether the attack came from the burglar or incendiary or the priestly political agent.

This was the view taken by Judges Jaschereau and Ritchie, in the Charlevoix Election case, as announced on the 28th ult., decision, delivered declaring the election void whereby they deprived the influence. The by reason of corrupt practices not being charged so as to warrant the court in disqualifying the respondent, the judgment was simply voidance of the election, with costs. Mr. Langevin being thus left free to do so has determined to run again; and it is expected that the clerical influence in his favor at the coming election will be less marked and aggressive in its character.

REFORM ORGANIZATION.

We are glad to see that the Reformers of many constituencies throughout the Province have of late been organising their forces for concerted action in any emergency that may arise. The Tory papers have noticed this activity, and though they know the cause of it pretty well sooner than acknowledge it the advance the "cock-and-bull" pretension that they see in it a dissolution of Parliament at the close of the present session and an appeal to the country. This is preposterous. Appeal to the country! On what? These false prophets do not even pretend to think of, much less allude to a cause that could lead to such an appeal—some issue, question, or ground that could make an appeal necessary or even possible. Perhaps they wish to convey the idea that the MacKenzie government will arbitrarily dissolve the House, and ask the country for that confidence they know it has in the present Ministry and will readily give expression to at the polls. Perhaps they wish their readers to understand that though the Ministry is safe to be upheld by the people this year, the tremendous onslaught which the opposition intends to make next session is already a phantom which affrights Mr. MacKenzie and his followers into a desire and a determination to invite a safe popular vote at once rather than sustain the disaster of sure defeat after the contemplated attack of the Opposition next session! If this vapouring about dissolution means anything upon its face it means this we have here set down. However, the efforts of the opposition during either past sessions or the present session have not been such as to in any way disheartern the Ministerialists; and it is not likely the government is to be terrified with an imagination of that terrible "last session." Though it is the last session of the present parliament it is far from being the last of the present government.

The most probable reason for all this rubbish about a dissolution of the House is, that public attention may be drawn from the true reason for the active steps being taken at the present time to organize the Reform forces in all municipalities within the Province. It is with a view of combatting and defeating the designs of the Conservatives upon the voters' lists. It is well known that for years efforts have been made in this and other counties to get pronounced Conservatives into the Municipal Councils; and notwithstanding their deprecation of any wish to "introduce politics into municipal affairs," they have always worked hard, as a party, to give the control of town and townships councils to a majority of their own political stripe. In this they have, owing first to the lack of of suspicion, and later to an apparent apathy on the part of Reformers, they have been in too many instances successful. A Conservative Council when elected has not hesitated to appoint officers faithful to them and their party—men willing to go any length(even to do wrong) to further the Tory cause. Particularly has this been the case in the appointment of assessors, many of whom displaced old and faithful officers, and were chosen not for their fitness as valuators, but that they might so misperform the duties they were sworn to do faithfully as to place as many Conservative upon, and leave as many Reform names off the voter's list as possible. This has gone on from year to year without any special effort on the part of Reformers to put a stop to it, and in constituencies in which elections have in the interim been held Conservative candidates have actually been elected to Parliament by the disparity of votes thus obtained. This being the case, even outside of the moral duty devolving on them, Reformers cannot afford as a political party to suffer such tactics to prevail in the assessment immediately preceding a general election. They have waked up to the danger, and are completing their organization for the purpose of checkmating any such move on the part of their opponents. In each municipality Reformers must unite for the express purpose of employing means to put down this gigantic Tory evil. They must see that they are themselves properly assessed so as to entitle them to the franchise and that fraudulent assessments of Conservatives are not made. They must watch closely to detect wrong assessments, and employ legal counsel to conduct appeals before the Court of Revision, and then before the County Judge on the final overhauling of the voters' lists. For this they are organizing, not before it has become necessary either; and Conservative assessors may go about their work with the full assurance (to it comfortable or uncomfortable) that their rolls after presentation will be subjected to the strictest scrutiny. If they do right, well; if wrong the consequences will be all their own bringing about.

Hence this Conservatism will see that through the present activity in Reform organisation does not, as some of their party journals have stated, betoken a sudden appeal to the electors, it does have reference to an approaching general election. Knowing this they can govern their actions accordingly. If they will fight they can rest assured that they will be forced to fight fairly.

RAILWAY AID.

The Bill passed at the late Session of the Provincial Legislature respecting aid to certain railways, and the creation of a Railway Land Subsidy Fund, was one that was calculated to produce disappointment in various quarters, no matter what the provisions of the Act might be. The best way to deal with such a measure is to seek the more satisfaction of none; but to determine the course of action by common-sense principles, by which means no matter who may be discontented, they cannot bring against the measure any accusations that may not be promptly disproved by their own records. The Railway Aid just passed seems to have been the subject of considerable research and thought on the part of the Government and the wisdom of the distribution of the fund is best proved by the fact that the only complaints are, not against grants made, but only that there have been omissions, a good fault in dealing with the public funds. The Government in their railway aid policy are determined to grant subsidies only to those roads that are well, safely and honestly managed, and which give proof of a successful career. It would be the utmost folly to vote aid to merely projected and perhaps visionary lines, to schemes got up on speculation, or to existing roads that by bad management have shown themselves unworthy of any participation in public moneys. After carefully excluding all lines that could not be safely said to be in every way deserving, aid was granted to six roads, to two of which as Colonization roads, $8,000 per mile has been granted, viz: to the Victoria Railway from Kinmount to Haliburton, twenty-two miles, and to the Kingston and Pembroke Railway from the Mississippi to the Madawaska River, thirty miles. To the Whitby and Port Perry Railway extension from Port Perry to Lindsay, twenty-seven miles, and to the Prince Arthur's Landing and Kaministiquia River Railway, six miles, $3,000 per mile have been granted. Two roads have received additional aid, $1,000 per mile each, viz: the Credit Valley Railway, for 15½ miles, making with former grants $3,000 per mile in all; and the Montreal and City of Ottawa Junction Railway, for 66 miles, making $4,000 per mile with former aid.

The Companies that have been asking aid and have not received it are of course complaining at their omission; but it may be surmised that there are good and sufficient reasons why they were not included along with the favourite six. So certain is this that it may be well for them to avoid any active accusation in connection with their discontent, lest they provoke explanations as to why they were left out in the cold,—which explanations, should they come would not be in anyway flattering to them.

The weakest among the weak complaints we have seen ir this connection is that of the Norwood Register, which paper regrets that there is "no provision made to assist the Huron and Ottawa Railway," by which it infers that "the Government apparently have thought the project unworthy of its patronage and encouragement." The fact is that the Government has not yet been asked to aid the Huron and Ottawa line, which being merely in embryo is not in a position to claim provincial assistance.—Should the Company have asked for a subsidy it could only have been refused, as it could not show a fulfilment of those conditions on which a vote can only with safety be made, viz: a fair financial standing and approbation of the line by municipalities as proved by township and county bonuses. We are glad that the Company under the circumstances were wise enough not to ask for Provincial aid this Session; and we are glad also to be able to state that the municipalities interested will during the coming summer be asked to, and probably will all, vote bonuses to the line, and that the Company will then have a tangible basis upon which to petition Parliament for aid at the next Session, when we have hopes that the condition and prospects of the line will be such as to insure the voting of a liberal subsidy in its aid.

PETERBOROUGH POST OFFICE.

From the report of the Postmaster-General for the year ending 30th June last, we glean the following particulars respecting the office in this town, and the business done in it during that year:—The gross revenue of the office for the year was $6,847.73. The payments for salaries amounted to $1,616,00, the forward allowances were $200, and the allowance for rent, fuel and light, $240.—There was paid for mail transportation between the post office and the railway station: to T. Eastland, for three months $39.00; and to J. G. Huston, for nine months, (less fine) $139.60.

The chief financial business was of course done in the money order department. The amount of Ontario orders issued was $17,667.83, the commission received being $108,60; amount of Ontario and Quebec orders paid;—$17,834.39; commission allowed Postmaster,$60.20. United Kingdom orders paid, $1,910.76; issued $2,217.74; commission received, $61.50. Nova Scotia orders paid, $3.50, issued, $4.75; commission, 5 cts. New Brunswick orders paid, none; issued, $93.20; commission, 72 cents. Prince Edward Island orders paid, $139.73; issued, none; commission, none. Manitoba orders paid, $906.75; issued, $960,-50; commission, $4.95. British Columbia orders paid. $459. United States orders paid, $771,08; issued, $480.69; commission, $9.25.

A SHORT CUT.—A man near Cape St. Vincent, sixty years of age, took a short cut to the next world, on Tuesday last, by hanging himself.

A CONSERVATIVE LEADER.—Mr. M. C. Cameron, two days before the prorogation resigned the honor of being Leader of the opposition. There was a rumor to the effect that Mr. W. H. Scott would succeed him, Mr. Cameron however was re-instated. It would be nice for Peterborough to have the honor of being the place of abode of the Leader of the Left. His day is coming.

A MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.—A move in the right direction has been made by the merchants of Allen Craig. They have resolved to limit credit to four months, after which interest at the rate of ten per cent will be charged. This is good as far as it goes, but still the time is too long; dry goods and groceries should be paid every 30 days, and a discount on all bills paid in cash on delivery should be the rule.

THE PROROGATION SPEECH.

The Local Legislature of Ontario was prorogued on Friday last by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Macdonald, after giving assent to 87 Bills which were announced by the Clerk. In Her Majesty's name the Lieutenant-Governor doth assent to these Bills. Several of them are important ones.

Mr. SPEAKER then said:—

May it please your Excellency:—

We, Her Majesty's most dutiful and faithfulsubjects, the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario, in Session assembled, approach Your Excellency at the close of our labours with sentiments of undiminished devotion and loyalty to Her Majesty's person and Government. Your Excellency humbly beg to present a Bill intitled "An Act for granting to defray the expenses of Civil Government, for the year 1877, and for certain sums expended for the Public Service in the year 1876," thus placing at the disposal of the Crown the means by which the Government may be made efficent for the service and welfare of the Province.

To this Bill, the Clerk of the House, by command of the Lieutenant-Governor did say:—

"The Lieutenant-Governor doth thank Her Majesty,s dutiful and loyal subjects, accept their benevolence, and assent to this Bill, in Her Majesty's name."

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR was then pleased to deliver the following Speech:—

Gentleman of the Legislative Assembly:—

It is now my pleasing duty to relieve you from the labours of the Session, and; to thank you for your assiduous attention to, and careful consideration of, the various measures which at the opening of the Session I thought fit to bring to your notice.

The results of your work cannot fail to have a beneficial influence in the promotion of the best interests of the Province; and the measures that you have passed indicate emphatically the valuable functions the Local Legislature, which brings much prudence and knowledge to bear upon questions materially affecting the welfare of the people of Ontario.

The body of Statute Law which you have revised will, within a short period, be issued in as perfect a form as is possible; and I have to congratulate you on the completion of a work which is of the utmost importance to our whole community All concerned with public, municipal, legal or educational affairs, will in future be able to readily inform themselves on the subjects of law provided for by these statutes.

The amendments which you have made in the law respecting the sale of fermented and spirituous liquors will, I trust, promote the more efficient administration of that law, and tend to diminish the evil of intemperance, which has so baneful an effect upon the progress and civilization of our country.

The important improvements made by the Act respecting Education, will doubtless, conduce to perpetuate and encourage the beneficial influence of education upon the whole youth of the Province.

You have shown your appreciation of the value of Railway facilities in increasing the material prosperity of the Province, by your prudent consideration of applications made for aid from Provincial sources, and by your recognition of those Railways whose construction will encourage the settlement of the large area of Provincial territory which is still unoccupied.

I am glad that you have not overlooked the claims upon our humanity, which required further provision for the accomodation of those classes who are unfortunately unable to care for themselves; and I am pleased to find that my recommendations on this subject have been so well carried out by you.

The extension of the franchise to the sons of farmers will remove some prevalent abuses, as well as infuse a further element of patriotism into the considerations of public affairs.

I perceive with satisfaction that you have not overlooked the important bearing which the pursuits of agriculture, and of the different, arts, have upon the progress of the Province.

I have to congratulate you on the other important measures to which I have given my sanction.

I thank you for the supplies which have been granted for the service of the current year, and which it will be my duty to see applied with due economy, having regard to the efficiency of the public service.

The Honorable Mr. Fraser, Commissioner of Public Works, then said:—

Mr Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:—

It is the Lieutenant-Governor's will and pleasure that this Legislative Assembly be prorogued until Wednesday, the Fourteenth day of April next to be then here holden; and this Provincial Legislative Assembly is Accordingly prorogued until Wednesday, the Fourteenth day of April next.

RAILWAY GAMBLERS.

The following article was contributed over the signature "Canadian" to the Port Hope Times. Though the editor of that paper seems to think it applies to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway project—and probably published it only in that belief—those who read it will find that it contains many hard hits at the Midland Railway, and was evidently intended by its writer as a description of that oft-boxed-and-diced concern:—

They will stand up at public meetings and pledge their honor for the success the undertaking—they will swear, they will lie do anything in fact to gain their ends, and when the poor deluded municipality has voted the bonuses and the have appropriated it, they ,turn and say—your money is expended and you must make a Big Push for more, or we shall be unable to complete your line. There are men who have done this and are re pectable. That is, they can walk around in public with good clothes to their backs, and the people's money jingling in both pockets.

Certain disclosures recently made in Ontario municipalities illustrate the plausible and dangerous character of a practice which it is really unfair to compare with the vice of ordinary gambling. It is unfair to the gambler! The man who throws down his last dollar on the table, and walks out with empty pockets, may at least be able to congratulate himself that he has defrauded nobody. Even if he stakes more than he has, on the certainty that his father or friend will make good his losses, he does that by virtue of an existing relation with his father or his friend—viz: an understanding that his father or friend is fool enough for his purpose. He must pay those with whom he plays, and when he is no longer able to do so to the last cent he must bid adieu to that honorable society. He must either be honest himself, or have somebody ready to make him an honest man. Thus the sentiment of honor is not wholly lost at the gambling table; nay, between the gamblers themselves it is the very bond of society. All this is honor, and virtue compared with the system of Railway Gambling. Men go to a municipality with good recommendations; and assume the appearance of inexhaustible wealth, they say—vote us such and such a bonus and we will build your road. The bonus is voted and the work begun; presently a further demand is made and again the additional subsidy is voted, the banks advance on the Government subsidy and the grading of the road is completed. Now comes the grand coup. They call another public meeting, show that the grading is apparently finished and ask for another bonus as a matter of course, just to buy the iron when they will be able to draw the Government grant, (which has already been discounted), all their bonds, and complete their undertaking. The people of course vote the required sum, and the paces realize put it in their pockets, buy every thing that they can on credit, and leave the country or go into bankruptcy, breaking down everybody who has trusted them or having the financial backbone to request at Islamm. The above has been the plan adopted and successfully worked on the majority of the Ontario lines.

But what is the use of raking up these short comings!—it will be asked. It condemns itself in the ruin it spreads; it is not likely to please the unfortunate municipalities to show them what fools they have been, and as for the rogues themselves, they are not the people to pay much attention to a newspaper homily. Such to tainly it is not of much use to for wealth a man who can assume circumstances, and which he knows to have the speculation can go in for thousands, using others to bear the of the gain, and use it is to preach to that loss. Of a class which will not exercise very reflection, and which shut their eyes to and their ears to warning. There are those, however, who are neither rogues nor fools, at least, so far as neither to originate a desperate speculation nor to be wholly deceived by it. It is in this class and in this degree of complicity that the most plausible and most dangerous form of gambling consists. Why do merchants of respectability and long standing countenance those whom they have reason to belive wholly out of their depth, and therefore to be practicing a fraud on the public? Why do they assist a career that they would not enter upon themselves?

Games of chance are bad enough; so bad that gambling is prohibited by law—where-ever the law can reach it. Boys are whipped for it, hotels lose their licences where it is premitted on their premises, and young gentleman are captured and duly paraded in the police courts. The whole municipal law of the country is against gambling in every form. The theory is that we are too industrious, too moral, and too sensible a people to commit such folies—as a people! We prefer the bread of toil to wealth won by chance from its rightful possessors. We, as a people, hate gambling we despise it; we have put down lotteries, we have put down raffles. yet, strange to say in all our laws against gambling we have overlooked Railway Gambling. Or, perhaps we should say railway cheating—obtaining money under false pretences. The offenders who do this sort of thing are not flashy looking fellows, but dull sober minded men of gravity in manners and modest apparel either close shaved or with beards which would do honor to a patriarch. They would not touch a dice box for the world except for a game of back gammon, and their whist is strictly limited to ten cent points. Nevertheless, with a conscience unhurt, and an unshaken opinion of their virtue, they do not hesitate to intrap municipalities into advancing bonuses for railways which they have not the slightest intention of building.

They lend their names and their credit to an adventurer, not because they believe him a man of sufficient capital and honesty, but because somehow or other he still goes on, and they hope he will go on for some time, and will either go on indefinitely, or that they, themselves, will be able to back out in time. This is to traffic by means of another man's rashness.—another man's dishonesty and, as the proverb says, Qui facit per alium facit per se, the merchant who extends his business by trusting a penniless and unprincipled adventurer, compromises him self in that other man's guilt. This is gambling and worse than gambling. And when people vent their virtuous indignation against avowed gamblers it would be well if they would ask themselves whether they have not occasionally aided and abetted at frauds far worse than a mere throw of the dice, viz—by helping more adventurers to speculate at the risk of their municipality and the public. An honorable will consider not merely whether he can secure himself, but whether he is or is not, helping to bolster up a spurious credit. It is quite evident from some recent exposures that this question is seldom entertained, and that when the bubble bursts, and a crowd of poor creditors are ruined on all sides, it is found that the defaulter never would have carried his schemes to so destructive a pass, but for the countenance and aid of other men of more substance and character.

SIMTH.

PROPERTY REPORT.

Mr. Lech, chairman of the Property Committee, reported, stating that the committee could not agree as to the building of a school this year, and that the committee had examined the school and found that by a trifling alteration in the school building more room could be had and more accommodation, and asking the Principal to make such arrangements, so that one room would not be more crowded than another, and stating that the floor of the department occupied by the janitor needed repairing, and that the janitor would do the work provided the material was found him.

Mr. McClelland was surprised at the report brought in by Mr. Lech, as there was a full committee at the meeting, and they were of the opinion that it was neccessary to have increased school accommodation.

Mr. Lech was not in favor of erecting a school this year, and he strongly objected to the site that was proposed to erect the building upon.

Mr. Dennistoun said the report was a minority one it appeared, and if so should be withdrawn.

Mr. Richardson had not his mind entirely made up about the erecting of a new school, owing to their not being sufficient time to examine the buildings and new site.

Mr. Pentland said that at the meeting held of the committee, Mr. Richardson was certainly in favor of building a new school, but Mr. White thought that they could get along without one this year, and he (Mr. P.) was certainly in favor of erecting a school this year.

Mr. Edwards said that the site picked for the new school building was the most miserable one that could be picked upon.

The report was then withdrawn.

Moved by Dr. Kincaid, seconded by Mr. Shaw,—That a return be rendered at our next meeting of the names of all the teachers, now in the employ of this Board, the length of time they have been so engaged, and the salary paid to each, together with their qualifications, the amount of duty each has to perform, and a copy of the Inspector's report at his last visit, in connection with the various departments.—Carried.

Moved by Dr. Kincaid, seconded by Mr. Shaw,—That Mr. Blackadar's resignation be accepted as soon as a suitable successor can be engaged, and that this Board convey to Mr. Blackadar the high appreciation of his services as a teacher, and his character as a gentleman and a scholar, and while they regret his loss to the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, they cannot but congratulate him on his appointment to a responsible position in one of the government departments of the Dominion.—Carried.

VISITING COMMITEE.

Mr. Edwards, chairman of the Visiting Committee, reported for February. The same committee was re-appointed for March.

Moved by Mr. Shaw, seconded by Mr. McClelland,—That the Committee on Appointments take immediate steps to procure the services of a teacher to take the place of Mr. Blackaddr, whose resignation is conditionally accepted.—Carried.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH. 6, 1877.

BLIND TOM on Saturday evening.

THE Townsend Family will shortly visit Peterborough.

MR. LEBRUN'S advertisement will appear next week. Being to late for this issue.

QUERY.—Why was not the Inspector's Report put before the Board on Tuesday evening? Is it missing?

PRIZES.—Those who received prizes at the Midland Central Poultry Association can have the same by calling on the Secretary at this office.

ICE.—The ice dealers have harvested their annual "crops" of ice, which is generally regarded as about the average thickness, and of superior quality.

ASHBURNHAM is to have a free market in future. This is right. They have more wisdom than our city fathers. They want their citizens to have cheap beef.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—The Pastor Rev. D. Mulhern, will D. V. Lecture next Sabbath evening, at the usual hour, on "the conversion and previous life of Saul of Tarsus."

PORT HOPE POST OFFICE.—We learn from the Port Hope Times, that the Rev. J. Baird has been appointed Post Master in that town, in the place of Col. Smart, dismissed.

FAIR-DAY.—The fair-day was a little colder than the days previous; and in consequence the attendance was not equal to former fairs. There were no cattle; few horses; and little business to attract attention.

SENTENCED AND COMMITTED.—Mr. B. Reynolds has been sentenced and committed to the County Jail for 20 days at hard labour, for selling liquor without license. A Mrs. Crowly is also serving her time for the same business.

QUERY.—Who was the first young man that Constable Johnston gave the "bounce" to from the door of the Methodist Church, on Sunday last? Don't let all the young men who live on Stewart Street, and wear "Specs" speak at once.

TANDY CONCERT.—Our readers should bear in mind this concert this evening, in the Opera House. We have repeatedly drawn the attention of the public to the ability of their singing. And we hope to see a crowded House. Seats can be secured at Rabidge's Bookstore.

WILD CAT OR LYNX.—Mr. S. Edwards, of Douro, showed us a dead LYNX, on Tuesday, which he trapped near Warsaw, lately. From the size of the carcase, we would be ready to believe that it could, if living, do considerable mischief, in its own way, to farmers.

AUCTION SALE.—Haggart Bro. will sell by public auction on Thursday, the 15th of March, at 12 o'clock, the entire farm stock and implements of John Kindred, Esq., on lot No. 15, in the 9th concession of Otonabee. Sale without reserve as Mr. Kindred is giving up farming.

THAT FIGHT.—We learn that the row lately reported on Hunter Street were the result of Forty-rod rather than Partyism. We are glad to find this was the case, and hope that those engaged in that squabble will have wisdom enough to keep out of such scenes in future.

PETROLEUM.—The breaking up of the OilRing and the taking off the excise duty from oil has, what the trade call "taking the bottom out of oil" and Mr. H. Best has just received a car load of export refined Petroleum, a very superior quality which he is selling at 25c. per gallon. Wine Measure for cash. 19-tf

D. LEMAY has just received those delicious Rawntrees chocolate creams and cream tablets. They are enticing and delightful. They are put up in half-pound boxes and bars, and are imported from England. They receive will a ready sale. Try them and taste for yourselves.

A RUMOUR having been in circulation to the effect that "Tippe Rattler" is dead, his owner, T. E. Ball, of Smith, desires to contradict the report, and state that he has not been even sick, but on the other hand has been very successful, and is doing well. He also desires us to state that the horse will be placed on the old route again this season.

ANNIVERSARY SERMONS.—Rev. Dr. Robb, of Toronto, preaches anniversary sermon in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of this town, on Sunday; and lectured on "British Liberty," on Monday evening, in the same place. He is one of the most celebrated preachers of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and will, no doubt, have crowded audiences.

BURGLARY.—On Tuesday night the store of W. Fairweather & Co., of this town, was entered by burglars, and a quantity of goods taken—it is thought about $300.00 worth. They also tried to break open the safe, but failed. On the same night some party or parties attempted to enter the store of Rush & Elliott but did not succeed. They got as far as the room where the liquor is kept, but no further. It is not known whether they carried off any of it, but is believed they did.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.—J. Whyte & Co., calls the attention of farmers in this issue to his celebrated Combination and Challenge Ploughs. These ploughs took first prize and special prizes at the Central Exhibition at Port Hope in 1876, and since, the Messrs. Whyte claim to have made important improvements on the points and mould-boards. Read their advertisement and judge of the merits. An examination will abundantly repay those about to purchase articles of this kind.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—The Misses Logan and Baird who have been holding revival meetings in Cobourg, are holding meetings in Hill's Music Hall, every night this week.—On Tuesday evening the Hall was crowded and an address by one of the ladies was listened to with rapt attention. By letters received from Cobourg and other places where Misses Logan and Baird have been, we learn that their labors have been wonderfully acknowledged and accompanied by marked success.

MIXED MARRIAGES.—Archbishop Bayley, of Baltimore, is not in favour of "mixed marriages," and has issued some stringent regulations. This includes the refusal of absolution to any Catholic young man who visits a Protestant young lady with a view to matrimony, and to any Catholic lady who receives the visits of a Protestant, with the same end in view, and also the refusal of the Catholic clergy to officiate at the marriage of a Catholic and a Protestant.

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—The Peterborough Literary Association met as usual last Friday evening. The Society was favoured with a reading by Mr. G. M. Roger, on "Lord Dufferin's Ball, in 1873." An unpublished poem by an unknown author. And with a very interesting and instructive lecture, by Mr. Karl, on "Political Terms." The following subject was was discussed: "Is the Theatre prejudical to public morals?" Mr. Hall and Mr. Peck maintaining the affirmative; Mr. G. C. Rogers and Mr. H. T. Beck, the negative. The decision of the chair was in favour of the affirmative. At the next meeting the members will be allowed to introduce their friends.

SCOTTISH MUSIC.—Don't forget that Miss Isa Robertson, Mr. James Lumsden, and Mr. D. D. Galletly, will appear in the Opera House to-morrow evening.

We clip the following from Tuesday's Globe:—"THE ARAB STEED SAVED" AT THE ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Last night a large audience assembled at the Royal Opera House, drawn thither by the attractions of a programme of the usual of which, in its way, has never before been found before a Toronto audience. In times past and even quite recently Scottish concerts have been given well calculated to excite the enthusiasm of the [illegible] especially the [illegible] of the [illegible] were artists who have for some time held undisputed the position of the foremost with their class, who [illegible] Mr. James Lumsden are about to bid farewell to Toronto for the present, but

THE PRESIDENCY.—Hayes has received the count of the disputed States, and in consequence he has been sworn in President of the United States for the next four years. Wheeler will be Vice-President. The report of the Commission is not giving satisfaction, and the action will do more to destroy Republican influence in the United States than has all their mismanagement and corruption.—Political demagogues may be pleased, but the people will have no more confidence in a party that could be guilty of such a gigantic fraud.

MONTREAL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Being told by a friend that you lack a Montreal correspondent, I have no doubt that a little gossip about this world renowned city will prove of interest to your readers. Should such be the case, I will gladly, with your permission, fill the position of correspondent to your paper.

The popular preacher of the day is the Rev. Alfred J. Bray, pastor of Zion Church, (already celebrated as the church in which GAVAZZI preached, and caused the riots in which many innocent people were killed, which is doubtless remembered by many readers of the EXAMINER.) who is creating quite a sensation, by delivering a course of lectures on "the Churches of Christendom." A very eloquent and able discourses was delivered on Feb. 26th, on the Romish Church, which, since its delivery, has evoked a number of letters and editorials in the city press. The True Witness, reflecting for a week, writes a very sarcastic editorial, to which Mr. Bray replies through the Gazette, in an able and very sarcastic letter. Since the delivery of the lecture Mr. Bray is in receipt of many threatening letters, telling him to desist.

MATURALITY.

The election for Mayor and [illegible] took place on Tuesday last. The Hon. Mr. Rose[illegible] was elected Mayor, by an over[illegible]

Alderman David. Now Aldermen were elected in several wards, the only ward in which any degree of interest was manifested being St. Ann's, which Mr. Kennedy contested for the late Alderman McShane, who is retiring Aldermen McShane ward for the last [illegible] years, and it was generally thought he would not be defeated with Mr. McShane's course, dissatisfied in opposition to him. Mr. [illegible] out Master Carter, (a "Master Carter" in Montreal is a man who owns hacks and carriages for public hire,) who has proved himself more popular with the Irishmen of Griffentown, which is comprised in St. Ann's ward. Alderman Kennedy has been Grand Marshal to the different societies celebrating St. Patrick's Day, for some years past, and is again elected this year to fill that position—hence his popularity. The Municipal elections here are conducted in the same manner as the election for trustees in Peterborough—if I mistake not. Aldermen being elected to serve for three years, one for each ward dropping out each year. This year we have a French Canadian for Mayor, last year we had an English speaking Catholic—Dr. Hingston, who has ably filled the position for the past two years,—next year an English Protestant will be the choice, that being the course followed for years past, so that the three classes may be represented alternately in the civic chair.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

Notwithstanding the immense sums of money expended to improve the sanitary condition of the city, it is still far from being healthy, as will be seen from the weekly mortality returns. Diptheria, and other contageous diseases, caused by ill-ventilation, un-cleanliness, and bad drainage, being still prevalent. I suppose your readers are aware that small-pox is never absent from the city, sometimes there being thirty deaths a week from this loathesome disease. Hitherto the small pox hospitals have been situated within the bounds of the new Mountain Park, much to the disgust and horror of the citizens residing in that neighborhood. However, owing to an act passed at the recent session of the Quebec legislature, the city has been empowered to purchase land, and remove the hospital to any of the adjoining municipalities. The prevalence of the disease here is owing to the obstinacy of the French Canadians, caused by the writings and preaching against vaccination by Dr. Corderre, and a few other French physicians who follow his teachings.

NOW FOR A LITTLE GOSSIP THAT WILL INTEREST YOUR LADY READERS.

For several weeks Montreal has been on the qui vive looking for the marriage of Miss Allan, daughter of the Knight of Ravenscrag. Of course it was expected that the marriage would be in St. Andrew's Church, to which Church, as to the Church of Scotland, Sir Hugh Allan is well known to be deeply attached. Captain Boswall, of the Grenadier Guards, the bridegroom, being, however, of a very prominent Ritualistic family, the point as to the place of marriage was gracefully waived by the Ravenscrag family, and the happy couple were privately married in the Church St. James the Apostle, on Thursday last, March 1st. A great many who had heard that the interesting event would take place in the St. Andrew's Church, collected at an early hour around the doors, and were very much disappointed at the non-arrival of the fair bride. A lady friend who witnessed the ceremony at St. James', tells me Miss Allan's dress was gorgeous, being white satin, with raised silk velvet flowers.

Montreal theatre goers have enjoyed, during the last week, a rich treat, in the seeing and hearing Miss Neilson, the celebrated actress, in several of her popular personations, in Shakesperian and other plays. Miss Neilson is a magnificent actress, and the different costumes in which she appears, are superb. The young ladies of Peterborough, who have never been beyond the hearing of the Peterborough Town Clock, would open their eyes in wonder at the richness of her costumes, and her lavish display of Jewels.

And now for a word concerning the Montreal fashions. Several of our ladies of fashion have appeared in spring check ulsters, which seem to be more the rage than ever, both for ladies and gentlemen. The most popular hat is the English walking hat, which much resembles the stiff, felt hats worn by gentlemen.

The favourite colour in dress goods seem to be Myrtle Green and Navy Blue; in fact all the dark colours are much in vogue. I saw a very pretty suit while walking on St. James street the other day. A Navy Blue dress, with a very long plain polonaise, trimmed with two rows of wide gold braid. Gold braid, both narrow and wide, is much used in the trimming of dresses and hats.

"NORAH."

HANGING AROUND CHURCH DOORS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Will you be good enough to give me space in your valuable paper for a few words in reference to the "nuisances" that hang around from the door to the corner of the fence of the George Street Methodist Church, every Sunday evening. They are nothing more or less than (to use one of their own phases,) "soupers," and I am astonished to see that so many of the young ladies of Peterboro' will allow these "babies" to go home with them after church when they have not pluck enough to come to church with us. People who attend divine services in the churches on Sunday evenings complain of the number of young men and boys who congregate around the church doors when the services are over. There must be a stop put to this practice, and unless the young men desist, policemen will have to be detailed to break up those gatherings. It is very annoying for a lady to run the gauntlet of fifteen or twenty "impudent boys," and to stand their peering gaze.—Young men, if you want to come home with us, be manly about it. Do not sneak around like half-frightened, ill-trained children. but come to our father's houses, escort us to church, sit along side of us, and then see us home. But this thing of sneaking around when church is over after spending your Sunday in some bar-room, is disgusting to every young lady who thinks anything of herself, and I am sure that the boys ought to be ashamed of themselves, and I know some of them are by the way they hide around the doors of the church and the corner of the fence when the people are coming out, "awaiting for their Dulcina" to come along. And if she should happen not to be there, they then have to sneak off, but if she is, they come up with perhaps a piece of tobacco in their mouths, and thus render the delightful invigorating atmosphere obnoxious and unpleasant. But, Mr. Editor, this is not the worst of it. No longer ago than Sunday evening, these noble specimens of a certain class of young men were passing all kinds of remarks about those who were compelled to pass them on their way home. What I want to know is this? Are we bound to bear this from Sunday to Sunday, or are we to have no protection? What are the Police of our town doing on Sunday evenings that they cannot come to these churches where such pests congregate insulting those who pass them by? I do hope that in the interest of both classes that constable Johnston or his assistant will make it his business to come to the church about the time service is over and make the boys "march on". If they do not I ask the Mayor on behalf of the fair sex to have this matter attended to. I think also that our Ministers should do all in their power to cleanse them from hanging around the gates, and urge them to go home and hang around their mammas.

I am,
yours truly,
ANGELINA.

Hamilton Times: It would be shameful to permit the session of the Ontario Legislature to close without congratulating Messrs. Cameron, Macdougall and Co., the leaders of the Opposition, on the splendid advantage they are making in the embarrassment of the House. A few days ago, when the Russo-Turco Peace Franchise was under discussion they succeeded in

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.—On Friday morning Charles Bookhout was charged with being drunk and disorderly, and using profane language, on the evening previous, on Water street. Fined $3, or 10 days in Jail at hard labour.

SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.—The case of Benjamin Reynolds was again brought up on Tuesday, charging him with selling liquor without license on Saturday, 20th ult.

Samuel Reynolds, sworn, said I was home the greatest part of Saturday; I do not tend bar; my brother Charles tends bar. There was some liquor sold on Saturday to farmers; cannot name any person in particular that got liquor. I saw beer, cider and other things sold on Saturday. Do not know whether my father was in jail, or not, for selling liquor without license, on a previous occasion.

Benjamin Reynolds, sworn, said. I was in jail for selling liquor, on a previous occasion. I sold no liquor myself during the year.

He was committed to the common Jail for the period of one month, at hard labour.

Constable Johnston accommodated a tramp on Sunday night, by giving him the soft side of a plank in the lock-up. He looked quite fresh in the morning, and took his departure with shank's mare, for parts unknown.

On Monday Ann Brennan and Maggie Brunning, were sent up, from Ashburnham, by J. Stratton and H. Bennett, J. P's, for 3 months, for vagrants. They had only got out on the Monday previous. A Mrs. Johnston was reprimanded and let go, on account of her having some small children requiring her care.

VAGRANT.—Sarah Moore, or better known as "Pink Apron," was committed to Jail for one month, on Monday last, by the Police Magistrate, as a vagrant.

DUNKIN BILL.—The Dunkin Bill in the County of Ontario at the close of the second day's polling was carried by 506 of a majority.

TAVERN CENSUS.—From a report just received we learn that the total number of taverns in Ontario in 1876 was 2,977; in 1875, 4,459. The total No. of shops in 1876 was 794; in 1875, 1,257. Licenses granted to Reformers, 853; to Conservatives 2,017; shop Licenses granted to Reformers 264; to Conservatives 541. Reformers refused Licenses 315 or nearly one-fourth of all applicants; Conservatives refused 795 or nearly one-fourth of all applicants. "The number of prosecutions 1877; fined 923, dismissed 466. The Report does not state how many magistrates did their best to render the Law inoperative, or a dead Letter.

developing party strength to the extent of 27 votes, and having a vote of 51 or a majority of 24 rolled up against them. The other Tory leaders—they are all leaders in that party—thought they would try their hands at amending Mr. Crook's Licence bill. The first amendment put—that of Mr. Merrick—received 18 votes while 41 votes were enrolled against it. The next amendment put that of Mr. Creighton—secured 9 [illegible] in favor, and 60 against it. The [illegible]—was next put—that of Mr. Hardy, 62 voted against it by 7 members, while divisions on the [illegible] Bill, Mr. Crooks obtained his [illegible] bulk of Conservatives as [illegible] of the Reformers. After all [illegible] said against his measure by the [illegible] press, it must pe satisfactory to him to find that when it comes to a test vote even his opponents accept his lead, and follow and sustain him.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

THE GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY is an Indian vegetable compound, composed of the juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different ingredients, when combined, is so constituted as to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, Nervous System, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and, bring purely vegetable, is as harmless as Natures own beverage. This medicine is a decided benefit in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood, such as Scrofula Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Canker, Pimples, &c. In prescribing this medicine we do not claim that it always performs cures; but this we do say, that it purifies and enriches the blood, permanently curing a large majority of diseases arising from its impurities. It stands far ahead and unequalled among the hundreds of competing medicines of the day. It has stood the test of ten years, and is to day more popular than ever. As a summer restorative it stands unrivalled; it enables the system to bear up against the constant drain to which it is subjected by a high temperature. Persons who are subject to bilious Colic, Dysentery, Indigestion, &c., should take the "Shoshonees Remedy." Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cts. a box. 4-8in

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B. HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am in my nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed there or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so ill as to be unable to do so much work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades, and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER,
Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT IT IS TIME YOU DID. There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power, and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportion or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one thing produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volative liquids, consequently loses nothing by evaporation. Where ever applied you get the benefit of every drop, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which they may contain.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 15, 1877.

A NEW ONTARIO MINISTER.

In the Estimates passed at the late session of the Provincial Legislation provision is made for the salary of an additional Minister; and since then speculation has been active as to who will be the new member of the Cabinet. We have before expressed our hope that Mr. S. C. Wood may be taken into the Cabinet, as Treasurer, to allow Mr. Crooks to devote his whole attention to Educational matters. It is not unlikely that our hopes in this respect may be realized. The difficulty is not so much to choose from the ministerial ranks a man fitted for the position, as to tell who to pass over in making the selection. The names of Messrs. Hodgins, Hardy, Bethune, Deroche, Williams, and one or two others, not so likely, have been mentioned as the probable coming man. It is gratifying to know that none of these gentlemen lay any special claim to the position, and that the Government is not likely to be embarrassed by rivalry among its followers for the vacant seat.

THE NORTHERN RAILWAY SCANDAL.

When the Commission of Investigation into the affairs of the Northern Railway was sitting last summer a number of facts leaked out which placed certain parties connected with the road in a most uncomfortable position,—that is they would have been in an uncomfortable position had they been persons capable of feeling the stigma of disgrace. One of these was Mr. John Beverley Robinson, at present member for West Toronto, and sometime President of the Northern Railway. The Commissioners' report, since published, shows that this worthy scion of an aristocratic house, not only overdrew his salary account while President of the road, but had his election expenses in Algoma paid for him by the company. Between these two items he defrauded the treasury of the road to the extent of about $10,000, not a cent of which he has signified any intention of repaying. As we have already remarked, these facts came to light long ago, but as Mr. Robinson was not asked to make a statement before the Commission he thought it would be his best place to make one to the House of Commons, of which he is a distinguished member. With the utmost naivete, just as though he were clearing up some grave misconception about himself, he took the House into his confidence, and went over again the damaging facts and the causes which led to his becoming a candidate at the urgent solicitation of Mr. Cumberland, the Manager of the road. Dr. Kenealey was once dubbed by Punch "the member for Orton" and the epithet stuck for it was too true to miss; henceforth John Beverley Robinson ought to be known as "the member for the Northern Railway," for according to his own confession he sat as such for a whole Parliament. The people of Algoma must feel highly complimented at the way in which they were used, and the whole country has reason to blurt at the humiliating spectacle.

The member for West Toronto is not the only person whose character was blackened by the investigation. It was testified on oath that a certain amount of the Company's funds went as a subscription to the Mail when it was started, and that a still larger amount was paid into the testimonial fund got up for the benefit of Sir John A. Macdonald. As these were public moneys, it would only be proper for each of the recipients to refund, now that they are both aware of the source from which Mr. Cumberland obtained the cash he lavished so freely. It is useless to ask the Mail to do so until that preference stock is all taken up, but as the testimonial fund was invested for the use of Sir John's family, and was placed beyond his reach, it is not unreasonable to ask him to do—what any sensitive high-minded man would do without asking—restore the amount thus abstracted for his benefit. The speech of Mr. Robinson was a spark to a magazine. Having made a formal motion for papers in order that he might give the explanations before the House, he wished to withdraw the motion as soon as his object was accomplished. In the simplicity of his heart he appeared to have thought that his account of the transactions would be so satisfactory that none would care to question either its accuracy or the propriety of his conduct. If so he soon found himself mistaken. He was not allowed to withdraw his motion, and as a number of the members got up to speak to it the debate waxed warm and finally grew excessively acrimonious, Mr. Blake, who was evidently carefully prepared for some such emergency, joined in the fray after a time and delivered one of his most effective speeches. If his young antagonist had any feelings he would have withered under the terrible castigation, but he was mercifully spared that infliction by the fact that he has no moral feeling, and is no more aware of what a moral training is really like than a man of buckram is of the effect of a flogging. Mr. Blake reviewed the history of recent legislation in connection with the road and showed how the Government reduced debts because a first lien on its earnings which was granted as the result of the debate, to hold a further and more exhaustive investigation. That Committee has met and organized, and has had before it Mr. Cumberland the Manager, and Mr. Thomson the President of the road. For the latter one can feel sympathy, for the former none. Mr. Cumberland has made his bed and must now lie down on it, and if he continues to be, as he has hitherto been, the pet and protege of the English bondholders then they must take the consequences of the expenses.

THE UNITED STATES PRESIDENCY.

The November elections in the United States undoubtedly gave a large popular majority to the Democratic party, but their million majority of the people could not insure them the majority of votes of the Electoral College. This it was at first thought they had secured, and that the election of Tilden to the Presidency was consequently assured. Even Republicans believed this; and while they considered themselves defeated, they in their anxiety to offer explanations made some queer expressions of party guilt, as causes for the retribution that had fallen on them. It was found, however, that the vote was very close; and the Republicans began to take heart that their cause was not utterly lost. It is strange—suspiciously strange—that the first result of this reaction was the announcement, long before the count could possibly be known, that Hayes' majority was one. This, along with subsequent acts of the party, leading to the result thus early spoken, would seem to show that the plan of procedure was then determined upon, and that from that time the work of counting in their President, by a majority of one, began, and that all the efforts of the party leaders were made with that object in view. Various attempts more or less shameless were made to arrive at their desire, and to defeat one of the most barefaced of these did the Democrats gladly agree to the appointment of the Electoral Tribunal, composed of committees from the two national representative bodies and certain Judges of the Supreme Court.—The Democrats decidedly were of opinion that the decision of this body would be in their favour, and even the Republicans were inclined to agree with them as to the result. But the game of the leaders of the latter party was not played out. They had the advantages on their side; and it is pretty well conceded by all unbiased students of the case that they did not hesitate to use these advantages unduly in their own favour. Whatever be their guilt in this respect, it is certain that the long struggle of the party in power to defeat the election of an opposition President by so much as one vote, the very questionable tactics at times employed, and the party vote at last in the Tribunal all tend to place the Republican party in a position that renders their present victory the probable forerunner of a dire defeat ere long, and continual internal trouble in the meantime.

The Democrats during the contest over the count, though not entirely free from blameable acts, (notably the Oregon trick,) have a better record than their opponents, despite the strong provocation offered them. This is probably owing to their firm belief in the justice and ultimate success of their claims, rather than to any extraordinary magnanimity on their part. Be the reason for their exemplary conduct what it may, it counts to their advantage, and will so count if they do not now spoil the effect by excitable demonstrations now that the President has been declared. The contest is now ended, and Hayes elected President; and the Democrats can now only look to their preparations for the next contest.—They cannot hope to carry another election by four years spent in vain accusations against the legality of the occupancy of the White House by Hayes. By such tactics they can only arouse popular disgust, already well stirred up by the prolonged contest concerning the count, and cause the national feeling to turn against the party that makes itself a continual confessor of national disgrace. The tactics of the Democrats should now be, to make the best of a bad job; to show that they can accept defeat gracefully, even if it be an unfair defeat; and to prove to the country that their professions are honest, by carrying out in opposition as far as possible those promises made in the expectation of Cabinet control. They are in a position to form a strong and useful opposition, that can successfully prevent extravagance and corruption on the part of the governing party. They can not only do their country a service by aiding in the reforms promised by the Republicans with a view to conciliation; but they can by union command a force to the numerical and moral that shall force further reforms from their opponents. In fact by a judicious exercise of the party advantages given them by this very Presidential difficulty they can become to a great extent the virtual, though not the nominal, governing body. If on the other hand they choose to throw away calm and conscientious gravedriver for mere partisanship, personal attack and demagogical vaporing, they stand a fair chance of causing the ruin not only of their party but of their country.

The difference between the two parties in the United States at present is, that while the Republicans jump their strength to make good their foe while handicapped by opposition, the Democratic stalwarts, in their every action, in the person of the President, and in Congress, and in Legislature, in opposition, in committee, it would be folly to destroy by

CABINET CHANGES.

Mr. Mowat has selected Mr. Hardy, the talented and popular member for South Brant, as the sixth member of this Cabinet. He has in doing so taken one of the surest means of strengthening his position in the country as well as the House. Mr Hardy assumes the position heretofore occupied by Mr. Wood, while the latter relieves Mr. Crooks of the Treasury Department. By this means Mr. Crooks will be enabled to devote his whole attention to Education while he resigns the Treasurers portfolio into very competent hands. There is little doubt that Mr. Hardy will be returned either by acclamation or a large majority—probably the former.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The council met pursuant to adjournment on the evening of Tuesday, March 13th.

All the members being present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

From J. R. Ormond directing attention to the manner in which the By-law regarding transient traders was inforced. He said that lately there had been a person in this place, whose case come under the By-law, who paid no license as required. This license amounted to $75, and he wished the council would enquire as to the reason the money was not collected.—Referred to license committee.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Councillor Smith, chairman of the committee for opening the tenders for the market tolls, read the report of the committee, recommending the acceptance of Edward Green's tender for $1,505.—Received.

Councillor Cahill, chairman of the Finance committee read a report recommending:

1. That the sum of $320 be paid to Thomas Bradburn, in full for rent of the council chamber up to July 1877, as soon as he completes the offices as agreed upon under the lease.

2. That $3 be paid to Jerry McCarthy, for drawing the fire-engine,

3. That no accomodation be made in the case of Mr. Dow on account of insufficient information.—Read and adopted.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

Moved by Councillor Smith, seconded by Councillor Dumble,—That it be suggested to the School Trustees the propriety of having no school building done this year, on account of the stringency of the times. That they endeavour to have the school expenses cut down to as low a figure as possible; and that a copy of this resolution be presented to the Board.

Councillor Dumble said that he had objections to the lot on which the board proposed to build on during the coming summer. It overhangs a mill-pond from which the water is daily drawn off leaving the edges covered with slime and mud. This filth would be the cause of miasma and ill-health as well as annoyance, to both teachers and parents, for the children could not be restrained from playing in it. Moreover all children are fond of paddling on planks in the water, this would be the case then and it was dangerous no matter what the depth of the pond was. He would not send his children to that school.

Councillor Elder said he had heard the board proposed to raise the salaries of the teachers, especially those of the high school. In a year like this he did not think such a course was desirable, and he wished they would not take such action.

Councillor Dumble said he had no objections to such a course, and believed if the school had a few teachers and these ones good, which could be obtained only by paying good salaries, the town would not loose by the operation, but rather gain, as the Government Grant is destributed according to the result of the Intermediate Examinations. Good teachers would cause a larger number of pupils to pass this examination.

The motion on a division was carried.

Moved by Councillor Baptie, seconded by Councillor Dumble,—That Edward Thompson receive the money for his contract of filling one of the abutments of the Smith street bridge.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor Dumble, seconded by Councillor Millar,—That the Town Clerk be appointed Clerk of the Police Court, and that he be required to keep its accounts, &c.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor Smith, seconded by Councillor Roundtree,—That it is advisable that an Auditor be appointed, who shall, as often as required by a By-Law, to be afterwards submitted, audit the town accounts.—Carried.

Councillor Elder called attention to the unguarded state of the streets at night. He said we have two Constables but they appear to have no fixed duties or specified time to either commence or leave off work. He thought one should guard the streets at night. As a necessity for such a thing he pointed out that Fairweather & Co's store had been entered by burglars, and that on Sunday morning the danger of a large fire had only been prevented by great exertions. He would suggest one constable should come on at 6 o'clock A.M. and remain till 2 P.M., and the other come on at 2 P.M. and remain till 2 A.M.

Councillor Dumble suggested that Mr. Elder and his friends on George street employ a private watchman. He merely threw out this suggestion to Mr. Elder, and would therefore charge nothing for it.

Councillor Elder pointed out that the amount of taxes and the amount for which the people of George street were assessed entitled them to have a watchman.

Councillor Dumble. Yes. When men on George Street are asked the amount of goods in their store they promptly answer, perhaps, "$60,000 worth," but on the return of the Assessors it turns out they were $40,000 or so in Toronto, and they are accordingly assessed for $1,000.

Councillor Elder then framed a motion embodying his foregoing remarks, but on his failure to obtain a seconder the subject was dropped.

Mr. Chesham, fish dealer, was fined 40 to his morning fish about the streets. His business is doing so, interfered with the market by-law No 5 amended.

Moved by Councillor Cahill, seconded by Councillor Millar,—That the Treasurer be instructed to furnish to the Council at the first meeting of every month a statement of the moneys paid and disbursements during the previous month.—Carried.

A By-law authorizing the Mayor and Treasurer to borrow a certain sum of money for the purpose therein mentioned then read.

On motion the Council adjourned until the evening of Monday, 20th inst.

Look out for R. H. Bryant's advertisement next week. Too late for this issue.

FIRST PRIZE FOWLS.—Mr. H. O'Brien, who received First Prize for his Game Fowl at the late Midland Central Poultry Association here, has some of their eggs for sale. This is a first-rate chance to procure prize fowls of this class. They also received 1st prize for Game of any description.

RUNAWAY.—A horse attached to a new cutter ran away from Parker's old stand, George Street, on Saturday afternoon. The horse in a very few minutes relieved himself of the harness and cutter, and trotted round, looked pleased at what he had done.

THE Queen, it is understood, has offered to confer the degree of Knighthood upon Hon. Alexander Mackenzie and Hon. George Brown, for eminent public services rendered by these gentlemen; but the honor has been most respectfully declined, on the ground that such titles distinction is not desirable in this country.

ONCE WORN, ALWAYS WORN.—At this season of the year every one should possess one of Samuel White's unequalled water proof, double soled boots and shoes which are made to fit feet that have been destroyed by unskilled makers, who never learned their trade properly. Every person who has worn White's boots and shoes or slippers, will testify to their ease, comfort and durability. Being thoroughly practical himself, and from long experience, together with the fact of employing none but the best workmen, all may feel satisfied in getting a good easy fitting boot or shoe made to order, on the shortest notice, and at the lowest cash prices.

NOR EST.—Our citizens were somewhat astonished, last week, to learn that Mr. Wm. McCullagh, Boot and Shoe maker, had very suddenly left our town, for parts hitherto unknown. Mr. McCullagh was a very industrious and excellent business man, was believed to be doing a good paying trade, and was highly respected by all who did business with him: hence the rumours of the cause of his hasty removal to other parts, took all by surprise. The state of his business we have not learned, and do not feel inclined to give uncertain figures, and the rumors or other difficulties we cannot believe well founded. In the meantime, as will be seen in our columns, his creditors have taken proceedings in Insolvency against the estate. No information of his whereabouts has been received up to the time of our going to press.

PERSONAL.—We learn with regret that Mr. Blackadar, mathematical master of the Collegiate Institute here, has accepted a situation in one of the departments at Ottawa, and that his resignation as teacher has been accepted by the Board, to enable him to enter upon the duties of his new appointment immediately. We say we regret this, not because Mr. Blackadar has received an appointment at a much better salary than he is now receiving as mathematical master, but because we are loosing an excellent teacher of very superior attainments, and a gentleman of excellent character and of unobtrusive manners. We are glad, however, that our loss will be his gain, and we are sure that the best wishes of his pupils, of the Board and of every citizen who had the pleasure of his acquaintance, accompany him to his new sphere of labour,

BY HOOK OR BY CROOK.—A correspondent from Dummer informs us that not long since a citizen of that Township determined on spending an hour or two fishing, and proceeded accordingly to Stony Lake. Not succeeding to his satisfaction he set his lines for the night, and quietly went home, next day on returning to see if he had by hook obtained a few of the finny tribe, he found instead that some one by hook or crook had carried off his lines. Not to be out-done, our fisherman, called Mr. B. obtained a fresh supply of lines and started on a second fishing excursion. This time however he did not fare any better than he did at first, for evening approaching and a little storm setting in, he started for home, but missing his way, after travelling over and over and round and around the Lake, the party were forced to seek shelter on an Island for the night. They reached home next day we are informed but with more experience of the uncertainty of mundane affairs, if not with more fish. We are not told whether he remembered in his devotion that night the man who stole his lines. Our correspondent assures us that a night on the island brought all the party to their appetite, if not to full sequiescance with their bed and board.

The Port Perry Standard, of Thursday last, says: "The promoters of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway are on the move in several localities, preparing the roadway and surveys, and looking round for bonuses. For the last few days Mr. Stewart, the Chief Engineer of the line, has been prospecting in this locality with a view to establishing the route across the head of the lake to Port Perry.

There is a good deal of sound sense in the following from the Oshawa Vindicator an Opposition paper:—"Perhaps the feature of the session has been the want of party discipline. It is proper that members should follow their judgments and that they never ought to vote for a wrong even when party allegiance requires it, but where we have government by party it is requisite that there should be party discipline. During the latter part of the session there seems to have been none. The Government was not so hard on the Opposition in this respect but it was bad enough. Not only was there rebellion amongst their followers but members of the Government threw off the authority of the Premier and it was clear that the Commissioner of Public Works and others controlled of the House. In the Opposition it was still worse, for while the bulk of the members of the Conservative party adhered to Mr. Cameron none of the semi-leaders followed the bent of their own sweet wills. As a result there was no organization and no union of effort, and beam on has been done in a happy-go-lucky style, characterised by selfishness and gross blunders. Appreciating this state of affairs the Globe has repeatedly rapped Mr. Farrer over the knuckles, but it to no purpose. The Opposition crop as outside of it, cronies have not been slow to take to task the members of their own party for their want of discipline and their want of sense, but to no purpose also. Many honorable gentlemen upon both sides of the House are themselves up to the pass the evenings and the result is demoralization upon both sides, a Government which cannot govern, and an Opposition which does not oppose.

The following remarks of the Welland Tribune, though intended to apply to its own locality, are quite applicable to this district:—"We hope that the Reformers in the various municipalities in this County are fully alive to the necessity of watching the assessment, in order that their opponents may be silenced by opportunity for perpetrating here the mischief we think we see in contemplation elsewhere. Let every man in support to our principles and votes' him of which the Liberals Tories have control, and see that their assessment should be done after their manner of business, as it is the principal system they can perform outside of actual canvassing at election time.

THE GOSPEL OF MERIT.

Where there is so much rivalry as in the manufacture of family medicines, he who would succeed must be positive and convincing proof of merit. This is an age of inquiry. People take nothing for granted. They must know the "why" and "wherefore" of one article over another. Among the few preparations that have stood the test, those manufactured by R. V. Pierce, M. D., of the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y., have for many years been foremost. The truth of any statement made concerning them can be easily ascertained, for Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are now prescribed by many physicians in curing obsthate cases of Catarrh incipient Consumption. The Discovery has no equal in curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchial and Nervous Affections. It allays all irritation of the mucous membrane, aids digestion, and when used with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets readily overcomes "torpid liver" and Constipation, while the Favorite Prescription has no rival in the field of prepared medicine in curing diseases peculiar to females. If you wish to "know thyself" procured a copy of "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," an illustrated book of nearly 1000 pages, adapted to the wants of every body. Price $1.50, postage prepaid. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, Buffalo N.Y.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 15, 1877.

SLEIGHING is popular once more.

"UNRAVEL YOUR STOCKING," is the last by-word among the boys.

RED Ribbon in male button hole, and white knots upon fair shoulders are coming in vogue.

THE Opera House had a fair test on Sunday evening. It was filled to its utmost capacity.

ENTERTAINMENT.—There will be a musical and literary entertainment in the Bible Christian Church, on Friday evening. Admission 10 cts.

THERE were two runaways on Friday afternoon last. No damage being done except the usual breakages.

THE LINDSAY MARKET.—The Lindsay market tolls recorded a few days ago for $416. Quite a difference between $416 and $1800.

APPLICATIONS for liquor licenses for the ensuing year must be sent into the Inspector Mr. Ritchie, on or before the 1st of April.

REV. GORDON, of Peterborough, will preach two sermons in the Bible Christian Church, Lindsay, on Sunday next, 18th inst.

COUNTERFEITS.—A number of bogus five dollar bills on the Bank of British North America, the said to be in circulation, look out for them.

THE WHITBY SCANDAL.—The Campbell divorce case is to come up before the Senate at Ottawa again. Mrs. Campbell and her counsel, the Hon. W. Macdougall are there.

CURLING.—At a match of the Lindsay Curling Club, held last week, the secretary was instructed to challenge Peterborough, Port Hope and Bowmanville to moral combat.

HOME MISSIONS.—The Rev. G. Richardson, of Port Hope, will preach in the Baptist Church, in this town, on next Sabbath, morning and evening, on behalf of the home missions.

THERE was not a solitary drunk in the calls during the past week. Cause the license was doubled at the last meeting of the council, we suppose, or rather, were these none put in?

POLICE MATTERS.—There has been nothing doing in police matters during the past week. The "wicked" even experience the hard times and have to govern themselves accordingly.

OIL.—The poor are reaping the benefit of the rupture in the oil combination. A few weeks ago oil sold retail at 50 cents per gallon; to-day it can be purchased for 25 cents per gallon.

TEMPERANCE.—The sons of Temperance at Hydes Corners will have a soiree on Monday evening, 19th instant. This will be a good opportunity for a pleasant drive, a good tea, and a social hour.

MAIL.—The mail for Apsley will leave Peterborough every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, commencing from to-day. This will be of great advantage to the people of this section and on the Burleigh Road.

REDUCED.—The example set by the Electric Gas Company, should be followed by others, as they have reduced the price, a favour would thus be conferred which the general public would appreciate.

BUSINESS MEN who intend issuing their spring circulars will find it to their advantage to give us an opportunity of showing what we can do; while the price will be as low as can be obtained in any office in the county.

THE TARIFF.—Mr. Bertram, during the discussion of the question of Tariff, at Ottawa, made a very telling speech, one of the best delivered during the session on this subject. Our readers will do well to ponder it carefully. We will publish it next week from the Standard.

PETROLEUM.—The breaking up of the Oil Ring and the taking off the excise duty from oil has, since the trade call "taking the bottom out of oil" and Mr. H. Best has just received a car load of export refined Petroleum, a very superior quality which he is selling at 25c. per gallon, Wine Measure for cash. 10-tf

GALLEY'S BENEFIT.—The concert that was given in the Opera House, for Mr. Galleity's Benefit, on Friday evening last, by the Lumsden Co'y, was very meagerly attended. The singing of Mrs. Robertson was well received, and Messrs. Lumsden and Galleity acquitted themselves favorably.

MATHEMATICAL.—We understand that Mr. Dixon, of the Dundas Methodist Institute, will take Mr. Blackada's place as Mathematical Master. Mr. Dixon is highly spoken of as an honor man at the Toronto University, and has had several years experience as a teacher. He comes well recommended.

THE Arcadians gave a very successful entertainment in the Opera House, on Monday evening to a very fair audience. The singing of Miss Maude Stanley was good, as was that of John the Pringle. The same cannot be said respecting the fiddling that did on the previous night, "the fiddler had disappointed them," which reminded forcibly of the old proverb.

THE sidewalks in some places are in a wretchedly sloppy condition, but not withstanding this it is observable that nothing is being done to have them cleaned. Since the thaw the ice and snow have become so soft that there is no difficulty in the way of cleaning being done. Would it not be well if those occupying stores from McClelland's corner to Water street would take the hint.

WINTER AGAIN.—During February we had summer weather, but this week we have sleighing again. Mr. Vennor has lost control of the weather since the latter part of January, and it is almost certain he may remain so for a long time to come. If it were subject to laws as easily accounted for as are Mr. Vennor's principles, there might arise some uncertainty as to the government of the winds, snows, and rains.

MONTREAL TELEGRAPH CO.—Large reduction in telegraph rates having been made in the United States, the Montreal Telegraph Co. are enabled to forward messages from Canada to the principal places on the Eastern, Middle and Western States for 25 cents. The Company is also forwarding cable messages at 25 cents per word, and have the only route through Canadian territory in direct connection with the Atlantic cables.

FINE PORTRAITS.—For some time past magnificent life-like Portraits of several of our prominent citizens have appeared in the window of Mr. Little. The portraits have drawn considerable comment from passers bye, for their very artistic finish and perfect likeness. We congratulate Mr Little on his success since he commenced business here, and are pleased to learn that his business is fast increasing, he having a large numbered portraits in various stages of advancement on hand, and fresh orders coming in every day.

WEST CONSTITUENCY.—It has been suggested by an exchange that the school vacation in rural districts should be differently arranged. In summer the labour of the school children is valuable, and their health would be improved by release from school duties; therefore two months most might be profitably allowed. In winter the big boys want to get three or four months schooling, and the Christmas vacation curtails their opportunity; therefore it should be cut down to a week. Is not the proposed change worth considering.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Monday the 5th inst., while a five year old son of Mr. Alex. Bell, Esq., of Smith, was teaching his little sister how to walk, by walking backwards with he held her hands, he fell backwards into a tub of boiling water, which happened to be standing on the floor at the time, and was so badly scalded that, notwithstanding the kind medical aid was immediately summoned, death followed on Wednesday last. The sincere sympathy and family have the sincere sympathy of their many friends in their sad loss.

THE MARKET BY-LAW.—The new market by-law in giving great dissatisfaction to farmers and even to citizens of the town. The farmers are disposed to use every means to evade it, and who can find fault with them for so doing. It is unjust to them, but more so still to the citizens who have to pay the piper. On Saturday one case came under our notice: a farmer brought load to the market and on having to pay the new toll, he doubted it and demanded the increased amount for his beef and got it. Who payed the piper in this case? Certainly not the farmer.

TORONTO AND OTTAWA RAILWAY.—D. W. Dumble, Esq., and Major Boulton appeared before the County Council of Belleville, on Thursday morning last, and addressed that body at length on the Toronto and Ottawa Railway. They asked the cohmission to a grant of the northern seven concessions of Rawdon, Huntingdon, and Hungerford, and the townships of Marmora, and Lake Elsevir and Grimsthorpe Madoc, Tudor, Wooleston, Limerick, and Cashel, of a by-law granting a bonus of $75,000. The matter was discussed at considerable length in the Council, a great deal of opposition being manifested. After a debate lasting two hours the motion for the submission of the by-law was put and lost by a vote 15 to 4.

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—The Peterborough Literary Association met on Friday evening last as usual. Mr. Earl occupying the chair. The meeting being open to the public, there was a fair attendance. Mr. Lydgate read "O'Dowd's Flat," by Bret Harte. Mr. H. T. Beck, B. A., read an essay entitled, "Half an hour with Tennyson." The debate was on the following subject: "Has the policy of the British Government in the Eastern Question been commendable." Messrs. Earl and Toker established the affirmative; Messrs. Edwards, B. A., and Rogers, the negative. Mr. H. T. Beck, who had taken the chair to allow Mr. Earl to take part in the debate, left the decision to the vote of the audience, which was given for the affirmative.

OUR POLICE FORCE.—On Saturday constable McGee in the discharge of what he considered his duty, was preventing parties from forming responsible barriers on the side walks. Somehow or other he got into words with Mr. Mathew Breckenridge, of Otonabee, a very civil and inoffensive farmer; and because Mr. Breckenridge did not move off compleatly, or should he said something not pleasing to irritable McGee, Mr. Breckenridge was hurried off to the police court, or to the lock-up, but was not put in, as Mr. Geo. Webber guarranteed his appearance before the P. M. About four o'clock the case was heard before Mr. Hatton, who was very lenient on account of Mr. Breckenridge's general good character. Mr. McGee may have been hasty, but we are satisfied that he considered he had cause for doing so, before doing it.

FIRE.—On Saturday night, or rather Sunday morning, about half-past twelve o'clock, fire was discovered in the store of Dixon Bros. The engine and firemen were soon on the ground, but although smoke was issuing from the store, the place of the fire could not for a time be discovered. At length some of those present went into the cellar, and found that in it was the source of all the evil. It was soon put out, but not till considerable damage was done to goods on the shelves, and even in the drawers, by fire, smoke and water. We understand the loss, amounting to about $2000, is covered by insurance in the Western and Canada Companies. The cause of the fire cannot be accounted for, but no doubt it was set on fire. The Messrs. Dixon's stock of goods, amounting to something over $25,000, are insured for $15,000, $5,000 in the Western, and $10,000 in the Canada Fire and Marine.

PRESBYTERIAN.—The Rev. Dr. Robb, of Toronto, as announced last week, preached in St. Paul's Church on sabbath, both morning and evening. Both sermons were able expositions of the subjects chosen. He has a fine delivery; dresses his thoughts in finely selected English, and confines himself closely to the subject matter of his text. On Monday evening he delivered a lecture on "British Liberty." The church was filled to hear him. He was nearly an hour and a half in its delivery. His definitions of liberty were both amusing and instructive. His subject were treated under the heads of political liberty; the liberty of the press, or social liberty; and the liberty of the pulpit or religious liberty. It was listened to with rapt attention, throughout. At the close a vote of thanks to the Rev. Lecturer, was moved by Rev. J. M. Roger, and seconded by W. Tully, Esq., and tendered him by Rev. W. Torrance.

CONCERT.—Blind Tom, the coloured musical genus, gave one of his entertainments in the Opera House on Saturday evening last, before a good audience. The programme consisted of selections from the masters, interspersed with songs. This wonderful musician produced three distinct airs at the same time, playing with one hand "Yankee Doodle," with the other "Fisherman's Hornpipe," and singing "Tramp, Tramp." He also played the imitation of the bagpipes which was loudly applauded. The very remarkable part of the performance was the reading of words from musical notes, and after hearing him spell the words correctly to the audience. He could also play any piece on the piano after hearing it once played, a few examples of his phonetic spelling was given which would make Josh Billings blush. Tom's description of the battle of Manassas was very fine and was loudly enchored.

TEMPERANCE.—Dr. Cadieux, of Ogdensburg, delivered several interesting lectures on temperance, this week, here. On Monday evening he lectured in the Bible Christian Church, to a large audience. During his lecture he combated the idea that whiskey is useful as a tonic, or in any medicinal way, except as a poison, and gave chemical tests of his assertions. On Tuesday evening he lectured in the Music Hall to a very full house, one half of whom were French Canadians. He first addressed them in the French language, and was listened to intently. He afterwards addressed the English speaking part of his audience in English. He is a good speaker in both languages, and a forcible and fluent advocate of prohibition. Mr. D. Lemay occupied the chair during the lecture. The Dr. is evidently an enthusiastic friend of temperance and especially of prohibition. He is very liberal, as he spoke here in the Protestant churches. He appears anxious to arrest the evils of the use of strong drink, and all wise men hope that his labours will not be in vain.

YOUTHFUL ROWDIES.—On Saturday last Ashburnham was the scene of Two or three rows among a select number of young lads, who if they do not change, are fast fitting themselves for some house of correction. A few of them were up before Messrs. Stratton and Bennett, on Monday. Some of them escaped punishment because of the insufficiency of the evidence. One, however, Albert Cook, got fined 40 and costs for beating Michael O'Brien. When Cook was taken, constable Craig got with him a skull cracker, heavily loaded with lead. When it is known that the boy is not over 17 years of age, and that he is thus early carrying such deadly and dangerous weapons, what his end might be, we dare not divine. To add to the evil, little good can be expected of a child to whom a father would give such weapon on the trival pretence that he was to take it to its owner. A father that could even lend the thing to its owner, has little sense of the responsibilities he was incurring in allowing it in the hands of a boy, of a revengful disposition. We trust, however, that the penalty, or thirty days in Jail, will bring the lad to his senses.

RELIGIOUS MEETINGS.—The Misses Logan and Beard are holding religious meetings all this week in Bradburn's new Hall. On Sunday night, after the services of the town churches were over, the people crowded to the hall to hear them. Many were there to hear what they had to say, not a few were there to hear the ladies, and some were there to be with the multitudes. Miss Logan addressed this large audience from the words, "Come now, let us reason together," &c. She speaks earnestly and persuasively, and may thus reach some that the regular ministers cannot, or do not reach. All the Protestant Ministers in town, except the Episcopal Ministers, are countenancing and encouraging their efforts. Yet I have been told that the ladies are Episcopalians. It is high difficance however if they do good. Sin has entrenched itself everywhere, and it is a pity indeed that all cannot unite to combat it, wherever found. Christ must be divided when his professed leaders cannot fight unless under different banners. There is room to fear that too many are seeking their own things, not the things of Christ. The openly wicked are united, why do not the professed by righteous, or the saints, unite also to oppose the enemies of truth.—COM.

A PETERBOROUGH MAN IN TROUBLE.—We find the following in the Guelph Herald, which speaks for itself:—"For some three months past Messrs. McCrae & Co., Woolen Manufacturers, have had reason to suspect that some of their employees were surreptitiously taking away goods manufactured by them. No clue, however, could be obtained of the thief, although six persons have been watched to detect the offender. During the past month, however, the movements of a young man named Charles Payne, aged about 21 years, excited suspicion and he was watched. His movements were that of a wool sorter, and accordingly he had taken the establishment of all hands. No information for a long time could be arrived at for the watchers, until recently when two pairs of socks were missed and search made, when the goods were found in the house where Payne lodged. He was arrested and taken before the Police Magistrate, when he pleaded guilty to the charge. The offence was a very serious one, he was sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the Central Prison, Toronto.

THE TANDY BROS. CONCERT.—The concert given in Readhaven Opera House by Tandy Brothers and Miss Barr, of Hamilton, assisted by the Peterborough musical society, was a decided success. The Rev. Mr. Willoughby had taken a great interest that this concert should be a successful one, and he was assisted very much by the ladies of the Methodist Church. The duet, "Oh haste Crimson Morning," by the Tandy Bros. was very finely rendered, and loudly encored, to which they sang "The Lost Ship," which was also well received by the audience, as was also their rendering of "I Pescatori," by Gabriel. Miss Barr's solo "Bride Bells," was beautifully sung. Miss Barr has a fine soprano voice, and is deservedly a popular vocalist. To the encore to "Bride Bells," she sang, "I'm glad my Hearts no Ais," which she rendered in a very pleasing manner, she also sang, "Ask me again," and, being very loudly encored she sang in response, "My dear little Heart." Miss Barr was well received every time she appeared. The Messrs. Tandy and Miss Barr maintained their reputation in all their pieces in which they united, as the solos and duets. The members of the Peterborough Musical Society gave the "Italians in Algeria," by Rossini, and also the "Blue Danube," waltzes by Strauss, and added much to the pleasures of the songs by their fine instrumental pieces. The accompaniments were played by Professor Heathfield in his usual style. The audience was large and would, no doubt, have been larger but for the very disagreeable evening. The concert altogether was a grand success.

MILLBROOK.

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETING.—The annual Meeting of the Millbrook Branch Society was held on the 1st of March in the Methodist Church. Dr. Might the president presided. Excellent and appropriate addresses were delivered by Revs. I. Cameron, B. A. and W. R. Barker. The efficient choir of the church enlivened the meeting, by several choice pieces of music. Mrs. Barker presiding at the organ with her well known ability. The contributions were in advance of the previous year.—COM.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—I read the Monaghan Farmers letter. If you will be kind enough to allow me I will make a short reply through the EXAMINER.

I see he will not stand up and fight manly, but tries to throw mud, being under cover. In the first place was it manly of him to send his letter to Peterborough by the hands of a Granger, and that letter written with the intention of damaging the very man who was kind enough to oblige him. I ask him did he do so? I have reason to believe he did. We had an Oyster Supper. Whose business was that? I have known of people getting their fingers burned by meddling with other people's business. We did not get the school-room not because the Trustees were not Grangers. My farmer friend tried to get the School-room for holding Temperance Meetings—he failed. Would he say it was because they were opposed to that good cause? True, there are Trustees in Monaghan that would not faint if an unearthed whiskey bottle was put under their proboscis. Some of ours at least profess better things. If he understood the Grangers and what they are doing, he would write with another pen. There are but few farmers in Monaghan that would endorse his view. We do not wish to trample on the rights of any citizen who does an honest business or follows a legitimate calling. True, if we want to buy any Agricultural Implements we think the time has come when we need not buy an Agent at the same time. I find where farmers are dabbling in Agencies, these are strong opponents as a general rule to the Grangers. There are now 6 or 7 lodges adjacent to Peterboro, and any that I have conversed with do not wish to injure the town trade. I observe that several business men is town are willing to speak to them. Others I have heard of stand on their own dignity, and almost say: "Stand back." Well we can pass them by or let them pass by, and we can wait for the wagon. Nearly all classes of men have their associations, and we do not blame them. Why not then I ask can the sons of the pioneers of this noble Dominion—sons of men who followed the blaze of the axe on the tree, and hewed out homes. Why cannot they meet and talk about their own affairs? We will do so. We aim at fair play to all who deserve it. We are slowly but surely increasing. Over 530 lodges, composed of sturdy yeomen.

South Monaghan, March 9th, 1877.

WHAT ARE WE COMING TO?

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—Well may we ask what are we coming to after reading that precious piece of Legislation enacted in the Legislative Halls of your prospective city, by the assembled wisdom of your town. My purpose in asking you for a short space in your valuable paper to say a word or two in reference to the New Market By-Law, especially to the Farmers of the country who do their marketing in Peterboro. You will observe that the revenue on liquor by it has been reduced almost fifteen hundred dollars, and as a natural consequence they justly anticipate increased duties and less licenses on the streets and forthwith appoint an extra constable to hold it in check. What sublime wisdom.

"Dig the dark pit of sin.
Then punish the victims because they fall in."

But the instinctive statesmanship of those "Hon". Gentleman with one or two honorable exceptions, who furnish the brains of the municipal machinery of your town drawing their inspiration no doubt from the butchers, have discovered a way whereby all this can be recouped, and a balance no doubt these Solons fondly expect will be found largely in favor of the town.

Meat must and will be used. The aristocracy and some of the other "stocracy" of course will buy from the butchers, but the laboring men and the mechanics will largely patronize the farmers waggons. So they double and quadruple the fees on them by puting 10 cents per qr. on beef and 5cts on mutton, &c.

Now are the farmers and those who buy from them going to submit to this? It is certainly to be hoped they are not, nor is there any reason why they should. The celebrated By-law does not debar us of the privilege of buying and selling in other places in the county, and I think I am safe in predicting that it is not likely to be so amended that it ever will, that would be one turn of the screw too many. Why not establish a farmers market in Ashburnham. The people of that village with timely shrewdness far ahead of their "Big Brother" are making it known that there market is free. We do not expect this however in Peterboro. We are willing to pay for all the accommodation their market place affords.

If the citizens of your town will go just across the river to purchase their supplies they will find the farmers will go then to supply them. If this is not done another alternative is open to the farmers which is to add from one half to one cent on the pound, for "them that dance must surely pay the piper".

I am aware that some of the "knowing ones" of your town sneer at this and say the farmers dont know enough—are not organized enough to carry this out.

Well, they will find that they are, and organized enough to do more, for they are organizing every day. [illegible] of having something [illegible] as a good deal to say in regulating the commercial affairs of the country.

Hoping the good people of your town will go heartily in with the idea of marketing in Ashburnham, and thus demolish one of the most disgraceful pieces of [illegible] that ever emanated from a partisan council.

I am, &c.,

FARMER.

March 13th, 1877.

LINES BY REQUEST.

WHILE [illegible] my attention was drawn to a group in a store in Peterborough with a child upon the knee of, and to a woman sitting near by said to me: "Is not that a gentleman standing in that face of the Cameron race, you can discover many marks of, as one before you?" The first-born child of [illegible] Cameron, of Otonabee.

I ne'er saw a face of the Cameron race,
Bearn the impress of strength more true;
Each line of his features is blended, blended,
With the tint of the Cameron true.
On his young mother's knee he lay sleeping sleeping,
While his half-smiling face I did scan;
As he slumbered and smiled I stood gazing,
gazing,
At the babe of the Cameron clan.

Oh! how calm his repose, as yet nothing he knows,
Of the hills where his forefathers trod.
When they boldly to battle went marching, marching;
Still the sweet little baby lies sleeping, sleeping.
Just as calm as the sephyre at dawn;
Whilst in his fancies pibral training, training,
The true stamp of the Cameron Clan.

Tho' his eyes ne'er did gaze on auld Scotia's green braes,
Nor his feet tread the heather that grows;
Nor his hands wave the sword often droping,
droping,
With the blood of the Cameron foes.
But the innocent babe lies sleeping, sleeping.
Oh! disturbe not his rest if you can,
For his young tender heart is beating, beating,
With the throbs of the Cameron clan.

He sleeps far from the place where the Camerons did face,
Bravery too have shed their life's crimson tide;
Death or victory, their battle cry sounding,
sounding,
To retreat, not one Cameron knew.
Tis a Cameron babe lies sleeping, sleeping,
But the wee sleeping chap disna ken,
He belongs to the clan, that while fighting or dying,
Shouting forward, you Camerons then.

That his never may hear the loud pibroch or clear,
Calling him to dread battle's array,
May his face each life's battle, still proving, proving,
That each Cameron is man for the day.
Now wake up the babe from sleeping, sleeping,
Peace flows where the streams of blood ran.
And the sword of the Cameron's lies rusting, rusting,

TO Mr. John Cameron, farmer, Otonabee, from Wm. Telford, Smith, March 13, 1877.

An article of Canadian production, and a really valuable preparation for coughs, colds, and all threat affections, is GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM. Travellers have already opened up a demand for it in England and France, while on the Continent it can be met with from Manitoba to Nova Scotia, and Montreal to New Orleans. Try it. See advertisement. 10-4ins

For fifteen years Gray's Syrup has been before the public, and it has been gradually increasing in public favor until it has now become the Domestic Cough Remedy of every family. The leading retail druggists assure us that they sell more of Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum than they do of all the other Cough Preparations put together. It has been used by thousands of persons suffering from Throat and Lung diseases, and is the best known Remedy for affections of the throat. 4-tin.

A Sense of Weariness.

Is often felt by persons who cannot locate any particular disease. If they work it becomes labor; if they walk, they soon tire; mental efforts become a burden, and even joys are dimmed by the shadow of this weakness which is cast over their lives. Recourse is had sometimes to stimulants of a dangerous character. The advice of physicians to refrain from active labor produces no happy results. Why? The system is debilitated and needs to be built up properly. PERUVIAN SYRUP will do this very thing. Like the electric current, it permeates the entire system, and harmonizing with the corporeal functions, it raises up the enfeebled and brings the color to the cheek again, and hope to the despondent. It does its work promptly and well. Sold by all druggists.

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections; also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send FREE OF CHARGE, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper.

MANHOOD!

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

THE GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY is an Indian vegetable compound, composed of the juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different ingredients, when combined, is so constituted as to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, Nervous System, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and, bring purely vegetable, is as harmless as Natures own beverage. This medicine is a decided benefit in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood, such as Scrofula Scrupelas, Salt Rheum, Cankar, Pimples, &c. In prescribing this medicine we do not claim that it always performs cures; but this we do say, that it purifies and enriches the blood, permanently curing a large majority of diseases arising from its impurities. It stands far ahead and unequalled among the hundreds of competing medicines of the day. It has stood the test of ten years, and is to day more popular than ever. As a summer restorative it stands unrivalled; it enables the system to bear up against the constant drain to which it is subjected by a high temperature. Persons who are subject to billous Colic, Dysentery, Indigestion, &c., should take the "Shoshonees Remedy." Price of the Remedy is pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cts. a box. 4-81n

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 13, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your CATARRH REMEDY.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER,

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT IT IS TIME YOU DID. There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power, and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. This is the preparation of this Oil a chemical change taking place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportion or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one thing produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids, consequently loses nothing by evaporation. Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop, whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which they may contain.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 22, 1877.

REVENUE RESOLUTIONS.

As was foreshadowed during the first discussion of the Budget, the Opposition in the Dominion Parliament did not suffer the session to get much older without making an attempt to secure, if possible, to themselves some much needed capital. On the 2nd inst., when the House took up the order for receiving the report from the Committee of Supply, Mr. Cartwright moved the following resolution be read a second time and carried:—

Resolved.—"That in lieu and stead of the duties of excise imposed on the articles herein mentioned by the Act respecting the Inland Revenue (31 Vic., cap 8) it is expedient that the following duties of excise be imposed and collected:—

"1. On every pound of malt, two cents.

"2. On every gallon of any fermented beverage made in imitation of beer or malt liquor, and brewed in whole or in part from any other substance than malt, eight cents.

"3. Provided that brewers using sugar in the manufacture of beer and paying the above mentioned duty on the beer made therewith may receive a drawback equal to the duty paid by them on the malt used with such sugar in making such beer."

This was the opportunity chosen by the leaders of the Opposition to attack the policy of the government in respect to Tariff re-adjustment, and he accordingly moved, seconded by Mr. Tupper, "that "this resolution be not read the second "time, but that it be resolved, 'That "this House regrets that the financial "policy submitted by the Government "increased the burden of taxation of the "the people without affording any com- "pensation or advantage to Canadian "industries; and further that this House "is of opinion that the deficiency in the "revenue should be met by the diminu- "tion of expenditure, aided by such a "readjustment of the tariff as would de- "velope and foster the agricultural, the "mining, and the manufacturing interests "of the Dominion."

Here was a direct motion of want of confidence in the Government, and its framer could not have had the slightest expectation that it could possibly meet the sproval of the House; but the wily Sir John put it forward to test the strength of that Protectionist feeling upon which the "Conservative reaction" seems to mainly depend. The mention of the "increased burden of taxation," and "deficiency in the revenue," merely leads up to the idea of "developing and fostering the interests of the Dominion."

The whole thing is merely an idea, no practical thought being expressed, much less a plan proposed, whereby a tariff might "develope and foster the agricultural, the mining and the manufacturing interests," all impartially included in the resolution, which we must now accept as announcing the Protectionist policy of the Opposition. Indeed if any preference is shown it is not to the manufacturing industry, whatever place being given to those of the agriculturist and the miner. Though Sir John was evidentally desirous of catching all the fish he could in this broad protectionist net, and even got as far as to include Dr. Orton's absurdity of a protestion tariff to benefit farmers, he did not go the length of Hector Cameron in proposing a duty to protect lumbermen, though why the lumbering industry should be excluded, while mining is mentioned, passes our comprehension. The lumber trade is at least equally important with the coal trade, and has suffered as much, if not more, from the general depression. Both industries are somewhat similar, each being the first preparation of a natural product for the use of man—one from the forest, the other from the mine. However, the absurdity of proposing an import duty for the protection of lumberers is so palpably absurd that even the audacious Sir John could not embody it in his resolution; though he afterwards smilingly said it might be considered as coming under manufactures. If this be so, then the coal trade is also a manufacturing industry; and it does not then require a great stretch of the imagination to bring agriculture under the same head. This being the case, the whole category of industries named in Sir John's buncomb resolution might be classed as manufactures, a fostering of which, by fiscal regulations, is the one great object for which Protectionists contend. Indeed if the Protectionist theory have any strength it must depend on whatever obscure private manufacturing enterprises can show they have on public support. Protection to the lumbering and agricultural industries—the products of which are mostly all exported—can only be attained by the cheapening,—i.e. free admission—of the implements used in the production of grain or lumber, as the case may be. But this is just what the manufacturers of such implements do not want; and their demands are at direct variance to the interests of the grain growers and timber cutter. In like manner a duty on coal is just what the manufacturers do not want, though they are exceedingly anxious to obtain a protection tariff that would enable them to sell to coal producers, the tools and machinery they require, at reduced prices. So with iron-mining or the production of the raw material entering into manufactories. Protection in one direction interferes with the manufacturers, in raising the price of iron; whereas protection in the other direction presses upon the miner, in making him pay more for his engines and other apparatus used in his work. It will be seen therefore, that Sir John's amendment, besides offering no definite proposition, is in its very vagueness utterly absurd as a protectionist affirmation, as it pretended to be.

Seeing the poor apology for a protectionist bait, thrown out by the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Wood of Hamilton, a protectionist on the Ministerial side of the House moved:—"That inasmuch as "it has been deemed necessary to [illegible] "an additional revenue, it is the opinion "of this House that [illegible] "country would be benefited by im- "posing additional duties upon such goods "coming into [illegible] be produced in Canada, "and [illegible] affording increased protec- "tion, while securing the additional rev- "enue required."

This was doubtless intended to confine the proposition to duties favourable to manufacturers proper; but if it be critically considered it will be found to be about as vague as the motion of Sir John. "Such goods or wares as may be produced "in Canada," may or may not mean as much as, or even more than, the results of the industries named in the Opposition chief's amendment. However, the House took it as meaning protection to purely manufacturing industries, and the debate went on with this understanding, the member for West Peterborough making an able speech, which we will re-produce in the EXAMINER soon. Early on Friday day morning a division was reached on Mr. Wood's amendment, and the vote may be taken as a pretty fair expression of the strength which the Protectionists can muster in the House of Commons, under the most favourable circumstances. It stood 78 yeas to 109 nays; twelve Ministerialists voting for the amendment, while only one Opposition member voted against the Protectionist theory, and to sustain the motion for concurrence in the Ministerial policy in respect to the revenue. Messrs. Bertram and Hall both voted to sustain the administration. Dr. Orton, after the defeat of Mr. Wood's motion, moved another amendment, affirming the principle of protection to farmers; but as this is just about as absurd as the resolution of Sir John Macdonald, the vote on either of these is not worthy to be taken into account in a consideration of the question of protection, even as a political plaything, which may yet severly burn the fingers of those who are now amusing themselves with it. We can congratulate the country on its probable settlement, as far as the present session is concerned.

THE APOLOGIST OF EVIL.

Last week we referred to the brazen explanations of Mr. John Beverly Robinson in respect to his connection with matters brought out by the investigation into the affairs of the Northern Railway; and we then flowed the effect of the honourable (?) gentleman was to bring forth denunciations such as should be visited on all dishonest transactions. We had thought that the press of the country would write in frowning down such practices as those indulged in by the Directorate of the Northern Railway—or rather by its Manager, and one or two of the Directors—but we are astonished to find that the Tory organ of Peterboro' thinks so little of the good name of the town and county it professes to represent as to become the apologist of the Northern Railway frauds, simply because they happened to be perpetrated in the interest of the political party to which it belongs. Now it is not the first time this same paper has sunk all feelings of justice and right to the exigencies of its party; but we were not prepared to see it attempting to defend such glaring iniquities as those laid bare by the inquiry into the concerns of the Northern Railway. A defence, however, it has attempted; and such a defence! It professes to believe that Mr. Robinson's error was very trifling after all, and denounces those meddlesome Grits for making so much of Conservative crimes instead of seeking for wrong doing in their own party. After a tacit confession that there was some wrong in Mr. Robinson's acceptance of political aid from the Railway Company of which he was President, and for the representation of which he confesses he went to Parliament, this precious logician actually declares that the giving of the money for such a purpose was not only what the Directors of the road had a perfect right to do, but that it was a graceful act! If by, "graceful" is meant the cool and "Smart" way in which it was done, and the clever manner in which attempts were made to cover up the scaly transactions, then we are willing to agree. But this was not the idea sought to be conveyed by the apologist; who innocently supposes "private corporations are at liberty to do pretty much as they please with their own money." Aye, there's the rub! It was not their own money to begin with; and even private corporations are forbidden to use their own money in attempts to destroy the independence of parliament,—much less money that rightly belongs to the people.

The apologist is either ignorantly or wilfully blind to the facts of the case, which are briefly as follows:—The Northern Railway directors while using a large amount to the government, were attempting to get better terms by having that indebtedness thrown off or lessened, and all this time were declaring that they were unable to pay even the interest on that liability. Yet at this very time they were able to give a subscription of $2,500 from the funds of the road to the leader of the government from which they were asking favours; able to take stock in a newspaper supporting that government to the amount of $1,000; and able to pay $4,000 and $5,000 to defray the election expenses of candidates who went to Parliament to support that government, and at the same time try to further the schemes of the railway in a virtual repudiation of their debt. Thus was money which rightfully belonged to the people used to further a scheme for the very extinguishment of the claim which made it public funds. The Manager of the Northern Railway did not squander this money without an object, even though it was not his own. He always had an object in view; and he no doubt placed the various amounts where he thought they would do most good. The Premier could not well refuse favourable terms to a road which had subscribed $2,500 to a testimonial as a mark of appreciation of his distinguished services; the Mail could not well frown upon a concern that contributed $1,000 to its capital; and Mr. John Beverly Robinson was bound to do all he could for those who had spent over $5,000 to send him to Parliament. Yet we are onely asked to believe that this last payment was "a graceful tribute to a public man." Perhaps this is the reason it was made with money that rightfully belonged to the public. Thieves may admire the skill and condone the crime of other thieves, but all honest men, of whatever party, must involuntarily denounce the policy of plunder exposed by the publication of these "graceful" transactions of Northern Railway Board—F. W. [illegible]barland. We are sorry that [illegible]boro' should hold a defender in [illegible]ways that are dark. One who [illegible] have the hardihood to [illegible] a defence must be [illegible] knave or an unmitigated [illegible] for the honor of our town we [illegible]ning to adopt the latter conclusion. [illegible]perusal of the evidence taken before the Commissioner may open the eyes of this valiant one who rushes in where angels would fear to tread, unless, indeed, they were angels of darkness.

The sins of Reformers, to which comparison is invited have nothing whatever to do with the case in point. Whatever wrong there may have been in Huntington's copper speculations, they did not interfere with public funds, or with the independent action of members of parliament. The steel rails scandal, which is again trotted out, has been so very thoroughly exploded that any one not very hard up for an accusation would have been ashamed to use it. Cauchon's Beauport jobs and Speaker Anglin's printing contracts have never met with the approval of the Reform press; and to Reform investigation is their exposure due.—Cauchon is bad company, among the Tories, was enable to carry on those scandalous jobs for which Reformers denounced him, and which they now give him no chance to engage in, were he ever so desirous; whereas the printing contracts of Mr. Anglin would perhaps never have been known but for the questioning of Reformers, and certainly never could have been made had the Macdonald Government done its duty at Confederation and put an end to the loose system which prevailed in the maritime provinces; and which was carelessly allowed to prevail. Only in the rectification of an abuse could the government take it up at this late day; and to the credit of the McKenzie administration be it said, they have not hesitated to seize the first opportunity offered to mend the evil, even though their action involved one of their own particular friends. How different this from the action of the former government in covering up the tracks of their sinning subordinates. How different also is the action of the Reform press in openly expressing their disapprobation of the very appearance of evil on the part of prominent members of their party, to that of certain Tory prints in defending the most questionable acts of their political friends. Thus they condoned the Pacific Scandal, and defended the payment of public money to a murderer to keep out of the way, while the "Chieftain of clean hands" cried from the platform "Would to God I could catch him!" Thus they now see no wrong in the misappropriation of funds due to government by a railway, to the upsetting of the independence of Parliament and the further robbery of the country by the power of its own money.

CONSERVATIVE REACTION.

In reading the exuberance of Conservative frenzy of joy over the imaginary change of public opinion since the last general election, one would be ready to think that there must be something real in it, or that their zeal has led them to give expression to sentiments at variance with fact. The latter will be found, on enquiry, to be the real state of the case. It is impossible to treat their imaginary elation with other than levity or jocularity, as the most careful investigation of facts point in the very contrary direction to their hopes.

In a few cases, where large majorities were rolled up for government candidates at the last elections, a contest since has indicated a slight change in public sentiment, but in most of these cases, the apparent change can easily be proved to be the result of circumstances other than revulsion to reform principles, as it is put by the Cornwall Freeholder. "Some other term than that of Conservative Reaction" would better describe what ever may have taken place. There may be a considerable number of persons who to-day would vote differently from their vote given this time three years ago; and the votes thus given, or the majority of them, might go to swell the strength of the Conservative ranks; but that any considerable number of the individual voters who would form this majority would be prepared to confess themselves converts to Conservative principles whatever they may be, or hewers of wood and drawers of water to the Conservative party, is a statement that has too much bounce in it for ordinary belief.

The same writer asks with considerable bonne:—"What has been done by the Conservative party since their leaders were driven in disgrace from the Government of the country three years ago to restore or to recover to them the confidence of the country has certainly not yet been made to appear. New grounds of confidence have assuredly not been taken in Parliament where, if anywhere, we may look for the development of party policy. And if anything could be alleged to which the party could be induced to give its support with unanimity, in the direction of a line of public policy, there can be no doubt that the party organ would have put the public upon the scent. But neither from the Opposition side of the House nor from the Opposition press have we received anything whatever in the way of a remedy for the insufferable and destroying wrongs which from both the Opposition side of the House and the Opposition press we are told the Government are inflicting upon the country."

The Opposition in parliament and the Conservative press are continually urging the desperate state of the country, and the depressed state of trade, but they do not propose a single remedy for the evils they declare to exist. Political quacks, as they evidently are, they declare an unhealthy state of things in the body prolific, but they give no information of any reasonable or even probable or possible remedy. Their only proposal is a change of Doctors, or in other words, a return of Sir John and his Satellites to the treasury benches and patronage, while they declare that they have no policy to propose. They cry "protection", but when in power, they failed to apply their own nostrums. They were then free traders.

During the five years after Confederation, the annual deficits of Sir John's Finance Ministers amounted to over $8,000,000, and yet those years were unparalled in the history of Canada.—They tell us of prosperity and progress.

If during five years of a country's unparalleled prosperity, they made annual deficits amounting to $8,000,000, what might the country expect during a period of unwonted depression? Certainly in a strong manifesto of what may be called Conservative doctrine, to claim that there is a reaction in favor of the Pacific Scandal, and it is little short of [illegible] the intelligence of the electors of Canada, to say that they are really to support men who introduced such wholesale bribery and corruption into Canadian politics, or to say they would, at a general election, support men whose hands are still soiled with Sir Hugh Allan's gold, and their pockets not yet emptied of Dominion Secret Service Money, and Northern Railway funds.

WHAT IS A CRIMINAL!

The Tory organ proprr of this town last week put on the virtuously indignant over what it called "a malicious assault' on the part of Hon. Edward Blake in charging Sir John Macdonald "with being a convicted criminal, because he accepted a testimonial from the Northern Railway Company." The organ is, as usual in its political deductions, out in its facts. Mr. Blake in speaking of the revelations made into the financial concerns of the Northern Railway, characterized certai transactions in plain and vigorous terms; but not stronger than the facts warranted. The part of his speech to which allusion is made is as follows:—

"It deserved the serious consideration of the House whether the fact of a president of a railway company which was bound to apply these funds in the payment of its debt to the public, having accepted the payment of this large sum of money towards his election expenses could take place without Parliament, on its being brought to its attention passing upon it. He did not think they could avoid passing upon it. He very much regretted the hon. gentleman (Mr. Robinson) had not been summoned before the Commission; but no practical injustice had been done, because he had had an opportunity of giving his own account just as he pleased a few days after the report was published, because he was sure every one who heard that statement must have felt that it would have been better for him if it had not been made. Still it might have been in the interest of justice if the hon. member had been allowed to give his evidence, particularly if the proposed law of the member for North York, to allow persons charged with crimes to give evidence in their own behalf, had been in force; in which case, no doubt the Commissioners would have asked the hon. members for West Toronto and Kingston to come before them.

An Hon. Member:—Bah!

Mr. Blake asked if the hon. gentleman wished to say if this was not a crime! If it were a crime, the person who perpetrated it was a criminal, and it was as such criminal that he (Mr Blake) now addressed the hon. member for West Toronto."

It will be seen from this that Mr. Blake's remarks referred particularly to Mr. Robinson, and only in a merely incidental way to Sir. John Macdonald. But to estsall doubts aside we quote Mr. Blake's remarks at a further stage of the debate.

"He believed Sir John had erred, although he would not, after the explanation, class Sir John with Mr. Robinson in the term he had applied earlier in the debate."

Yet in the face of these utterances the accusation is made that Mr Blake made a malicious attack on Sir John, and a fearful amount of patient indignation is wasted over the imaginary offence against the parliamentary proprieties. As for the application of the word "criminal" to those engaged in the perpetration of what is aptly characterised as a crime the country will generally endorse the term. Even the Bobcaygeon Independent, a paper that certainly cannot be accused of any undue leaning to the side of the government, says:—

"In any case Mr Blake is deserving of public gratitude for having brought the matter before the public in so plain a manner. In his speech he called a spade a spade,—there was no glossing the matter,—he very Robinson committed a fraud and as a fraud Mr. Blake spoke of it. For this he has the thanks of every honest man. Should Beverly Robinson be expelled from the House it would have a most admirable effect,—the political atmosphere would be sweetened,—and a wholesome example would be given to the too numerous scoundrels, thieves, pickpockets and swindlers, who infest the political life of the country."

When will our Tory contemporary cease shreiking and begin considering?

OUR MEMBERS—The member (ministerial) for West Peterborough, as seen by the Bobcaygeon Independent:—"It is with pleasure we have to note that Mr. Bertram, P. M., for Peterborough delivered an admirable Free Trade speech during the debate on the Tariff. It is stated to have broduced quite a sensation in the house. When we receive the Hansard report of the speech we shall probably re-produce it in these columns. Mr. Bertram, a day or two after his speech, was appointed on the Committee to investigate the affairs of the Northern Railway. His shrewdness and business qualifications will make him a valuable member of a Committee which has to cope with fraud, to deal with swindlers, and to examine cooked accounts."

SUICIDE.

Franz L. Doll, who came to this town from Port Perry, about three months ago, shot himself yesterday evening, about 8 o'clock. He was alone in his room when he did it. He was discovered by a young man named Dawson, whom Doll had asked to go to see him about that time, to assist him in putting away his jewellery as he was unwell. When discovered he was lying on the floor with his head against the wall, and a revolver beside him on the floor.

Drs. Burnham and Boucher were called in at once, and found that he had shot himself a little back of the right temple. He was still living, but speechless. The Drs. did not believe he could live till morning. Very little is known of him here as he was only a short time in town. He was a German by birth. His mother still resides in Port Perry, we understand, but married a second time, her first husband being dead. Doll appeared to be quiet, inoffensive and industrious. It is generally believed that he was labouring under some mental aberration when he did the act.

FIRE INQUEST.

On Tuesday evening, Dr. Kinsaid, Coroner, held an inquest to inquire into the late fire which occurred in the store of Messrs. Dixon Bros., on the morning of the 11th inst.

The following Jury were duly sworn:

P. HAMILTON, Foreman. W. G. THOMSON
J. N. KENNEDY. W. J. MASON.
THOS. DOLAN. W. WALSH
T. W. ROBINSON. M. HANNAN.
W. MONTGOMERY. W. MENZIES.
GEO. TAYLOR.

The Coroner [illegible] as much as to the originary for him[illegible]. A letter came to him ation of the Mayor and two of the leading [illegible]cillors asking him to hold an inquest on the late fire. Accordingly he got the Assistant Constable to summon an intelligent Jury so that if possible they might bring the guilty party to justice, and that innocent persons may have an opportunity to show their innocence.—Fire Inquests are not generally very successful in sifting out guilty parties. He hoped that each one of the Jurymen would weigh out this matter as carefully as possible, and try and put a stop to the scandalous reports that have been in circulation. He had to speak before of a previous occasion about the scandalous rumours that were being spread abroad; and whenever an opportunity occured to belittle and belie their fellow men; he said that if possible to leave nothing undone so as to find out the guilty one. The last fire inquest that was held the incendiary fled to a country where the climate was more congenial to gentlemen who will do such things. I have been asked on several occasions to hold an inquest, but never thought it was really necessary. If any citizen knows anything about the origin of the fire he hoped that he would come forward and give his evidence.

R. S. DAVIDSON sworn, said,—On the 11th inst., I was in Thompson Bros. store, adjoining, Dixon Bros. when I observed smoke coming in between the peritions. It seemed at first dust. I saw at once that the fire was in Dixon Bros. shop. Went out as quickly as possible and went and rang the fire bell. I rang it for about five minutes and went back and entered the store of Dixon Bros, went into the cellar where the fire seemed to originate. When in the cellar I noticed that it was on fire in two places; one place was on the window cill next to Fairweathers, and the other next to Thompson Bros. The one next to Thompson Bros. was about three parts of the way down from the front. The one on the window sill seemed to be cutting of boards. The other was in a packing case near a barrel with some straw. There was no smell of coal oil. The fire had no headway. Just commencing. The premises were broken into before I got there. There were about half a dozen in when I got back. I went down cellar and could see no way of putting it out, without water, and went up stairs. It could not have occured accidentally. I could form no opinion as to the origin of it. Went into Thompson Bros, store between 9 and 10 o'clock and was there all the time. There were five of us there at the time. None of them went out during the time previous to my knowledge. I thought at one time I heard a noise between 10 and 11 but could not say positively where it originated.

R. ELDER sworn, said.—I was in the Huffman House when I heard the fire bell. Came down George Street, and when I got to Dixon Bros. one of the shutters was removed from the door of the shop; and R. Thompson was standing right in front of it to prevent any one from going into the store. He told me I could go in. I went in and did not see any person. The store was full of smoke. Some person brought in a lamp. I picked it up and went for the cellar. Went into the cellar through a trap door towards the north corner of the building, near the front. I saw fire at the north side and at the end, next the grocery. The one at the end seemed to have caught the floor above, and seemed to have the most headway. The smoke was so dence that it was impossible to stay. I left and went out into the street. The opinion I formed at the time was that it had been set on fire.

R. THOMPSON sworn,—I was in my own shop when the fire occurred adjoining Dixon Bros. When I noticed it first it was a small puff of smoke like tobacco smoke. Did not know where it was coming from. I went to examine my own premises, and while looking saw the smoke was coming though a base board from Dixon Bros' shop. We ran then to to the door of our own shop, when I saw that the fire was in next door. I helped to break open the door. Sent my brother into my own shop for a lamp. After breaking the door I stood there so as not to allow any person from going in except I know them. I showed those inside the way to the cellar through the trap door, as I knew where it was situated. I went down cellar and saw where the fires were situated, one on the north side next our own shop and one in the rear near Fairweather & Co's. I then came up stairs and in the gas. It appeared to be barrels that were on fire. The side next to Fairweathers' was built in a break near a stone wall. It seemed to be packing poxes split. I broke the front and back entrances open. Before I broke the back door I tried it but could not open it from the inside. I then went around through the entrance of the archway and broke in the back door. No one could get in the front way without displacing the shutters. I dont think I was the first in the shop. After I gave the door in charge of Mr. Bearis I went down cellar. I am positive that the places must have been set on fire. There are no means of entrance from either my store or Mr. Fairweathers' that I know of. I was in my store from eight o'clock till that time. I heard a noise between 10 and 11 o'clock but cans say where it was. I did not proceed to the cellar immediately after I opened the door. Did not examine the front door of the grocery. There is no communication between the two cellars. By entring the front door of the grocery a person could go all through the shop.

WILLIAM HARTLEY sworn, said,—I am living in Peterborough, and am hostler for Mr. Morgan. I was waiting up at Morgan's when I heard the bell. I went down George street and was informed that the fire was in Ashburnham. Jas. Martin told me. I saw some person going down street and went after him. Went in to Dixon Bros.; they were breaking in the door. I was the third person in; Mr. B. Palmer was just behind me. The store was full of smoke. We could see no fire till we got down by the trap door; then we saw between the crack that the fire was in the cellar, through the door. Mr. Thompson opened another trap and I followed him down. I got up where the fire was and asked for water. I saw three fires in the cellar. The third one was just at the front of the stairs near the trap door in a packing case. The fire I saw near the trap door through the floor was near some barrels, and in this packing case there was straw and thin boards. The fire was positively the work of an incendiary. I pulled some of the straw out of the barrels and trampled it out. I threw water on the fire which was handed me by the men above through the trap door, after a line was formed, and put it out. There was no smell of coal oil.

CROSS-EXAMINED.—There was splinters and straw all piled togetner, and the man that set it was bound to make a sure job of it. The fire was in such a stage that it would have burnt down the building if it had but got a chance. The fire in the window cill was about three feet from the floor of the cellar.

JOHN TURNBULL sworn, I am a clerk in the employ of Dixon Bros. Was there on the 10th inst, I left about six in the evening. This was before my usual time, but I had asked leave to go out with my brother to Cavan. I started with him about six o'clock p. m. Did not notice anything unusual about the premises that day. Did not take notice of any strangers about the shop that day. COAL.—In Mr. C. W. Kempt's shop can be seen a piece of coral, brought by Mr. James Harry, brother to Dr. Harry, from Honolulu, Sandwich Islands, which affords a beautiful illustration of what the tiny workers can do in their natural elements.

HISTORY OF CANADA.—The 4th part of Tuttles history of Canada has been issued from the press of the Lovell Printing and Publishing Co'y. It brings the history down to 1836. When completed it promises to be one of the fullest and best histories of Canada yet published.

DISAPPOINTED.—We expected to be able this week to give Mr. Bertram's speech on the tariff question, as published in the Hansard, but owing to its not having yet reached us, we are compelled to ask our readers to be patient for another week. We will give it as soon as it reaches us.

PETROLEUM.—The breaking up of the Oil Ring and the taking off the excise duty from oil has, what the trade call "taking the bottom out of oil" and Mr. H. Best has just received a car load of export refined Petroleum, a very superior quality which he is selling at 25c. per gallon, Wine Measure for cash. 16-tf

"THE BATTLE GROUND IN CANADA."—Dr. Cadieux will lecture again for the people of Peterborough about the 12th of April. The subject will be "The battle ground in Canada." No doubt he will be greeted with a crowded house, as this gentleman made himself very popular on his previous visit.

FAT LAMBS AND PIGS.—Mr. J. Ludgate will sell by auction, at his residence "Highland Hall," Ashburnham, on Monday the 26th inst. at 2 o'clock p.m., a number of fat lambs and thorough bred Berkshire pigs, fit for meat. This sale will be well worth the attention of butchers and drovers.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—The anniversary of Ireland's patron Saint was very quietly kept in Peterborough this year. A great many visited the town to spend the day, and perhaps have a pleasant time. The day was quiet, very little if any drunkenness was to be seen. We heard of no rows, and saw no dispositions thereto.

SNOW SHOEING.—Several members of the P. S. S. C. started for a trip to Lakefield last Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, arriving at 5:30. After a supper at Purser's Hotel, they started for home, making the distance in a little over two hours. How is that for snow shoeing. Can any of the Lindsay or Port Hope boys beat it.

HARNESS.—Mr. B. Shortly has on hand a large and varied assortment of every description of harness, which he will sell at prices to suit the times. Parties in want of anything in his line of business would do well to give Mr. S. a call, as he has had a long experience in the city as well as town trade. Work guaranteed as represented.

ENTERTAINMENT.—A concert will be given in Hall's School House, Smith, on Friday evening, March 23rd. Mr. J. Ormond, character vocalist and Prof. Ormiston, the Peterborough ventriloquist have consented to appear, on which occasion they will be assisted by several amateurs from Lakefield and Peterborough. Tickets 25 cents.

A GOOD CITIZEN.—Mr. Samuel Manning has removed to town to spend the remainder of his years, away from the cares and labours of farm life. His sons remain on the homestead. Mr. Manning, we trust, will enjoy the change from rural to town life, and, let us hope, will live many years to enjoy the rewards of his industry.

TEAM DROWNED.—One day last week Mr. Wm. Weir, of Harvey, while crossing Pigeon Lake lost a span of horses. He was drawing lumber from Chase's Mills at the time the team got in. Fortunately an Indian came to his assistance, or he would have lost his own life too, it is said. The loss of the team is serious in these hard times, but it is a matter for thankfulness that Mr. Weir escaped.

W. J. WALLACH, Lakefield, has just received a large shipment of new Teas from Montreal. One 35ne quad Japan, 3 lbs for $1.00 He is also in receipt of a complete assortment of Boots Shoes and Rubbers, of excellent quality suitable for Spring and Summer seasons. One case of Women's Pebble Gaiters, 75c. per pair. One case of Men's Heavy Lace Boots, $1.50 per pair. One car load of Salt to arrive this week.

SABBATH BREAKING AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.—On Sunday forenoon last while some boys were sliding down a hill at the north end of the town, on hand sleighs, joined together by a board, the board broke as they crossed the railway track, and a large splinter, fully an inch wide, was forced completely through the fleshy part of the thigh of a boy named Whalen Dr. Ball was called in and dressed the wounds, which are rather serious. Moral: Boys don't go sleighing on Sunday.

NEWSPAPER WRAPPERS.—The Government have caused to be issued wrappers for newspapers, periodicals, &c., with a one cent stamp printed on the right hand corner. The stamp is oval in form and blue in color. In the centre of the oval is an engraving of the Queen's head, and surrounding it are the words: "Canada Postage—one cent." The wrapper is twelve inches in length by five in width, and has a well gumed edge. They will prove a great convenience, and no doubt become universally used

OBSTRUCTIONS ON THE SIDEWALKS.—On Monday evening councillor Elder made a motion in council, which was carried, to have the sidewalks kept clear of obstructions. We hope that the town constables will, with their usual energy, do their utterment to have the principles of the motion carried out; as in some places our sidewalks are almost completely taken up with boxes, etc., which would be better in the back yards. Pedestrians are already praising Mr. Elder for his efforts on their behalf.

VACATIONS IN RURAL SCHOOLS.—The new School Act now in force provides that:—"There shall be two vacations during the year for Public Schools. The summer vacation shall be from the eighth day of July to the seventeenth day of August, inclusive; the winter vacation from the twenty-fourth day of December, to the second day of January, inclusive." Good Friday is a statutory holiday in schools. The new Act makes no change in holidays and vacations of Public and High Schools in cities and towns, and in incorporated villages where High Schools exist.

BRIDGEWATER.—We learn that Mr. Luke Fisher, of this town, has purchased the grist mill, owned by M. S. Dean Esq. Mr. Fisher is putting the mill in a thorough state of repair, and will be ready to commence gristing in about six weeks. At that time, and as the mills, he will commence to pay the highest market price for wheat. This will prove a great advantage to those in that vicinity, as Mr. Fisher will be able to supply as good an article of flour at any manufactured at Peterborough, and a market so many miles nearer home will be appreciated by the people north of that village.

FIRE.—On Friday morning last, about 3 a. m., the dwelling of Mr. Arnold Soames, on the Gravel Road, near Mr. H. Collins, was totally consumed by fire. The entire household furniture, clothing, bedding, &c., together with a large stock of roots and other things in the cellar, and this season's stock of plants which were in the green house, adjoining the house, were also destroyed. It was with great difficulty that the family escaped, the fire having gained such headway before they became aware of their danger. The dwelling, the property of Mr. Joseph Baller, was insured in the Gore District Fire Insurance Co'y. for $162. There was no insurance on the contents.

DRY GOODS AT THE ELEPHANT.—Mr. Elder, at the sign of the Elephant, has just received 11 cases and 4 bales of Canadian, British and Foreign dry goods. These goods have been selected with great care, and are of newest styles and qualities, to suit purchasers. Mr. Elder has long been known for nice selections. Parties would do well to call early and examine the goods. Tailoring.—The department is complete in cloths of the best qualities and handsome styles. His gent's furnishing department will give satisfaction to all who may favour him. Mr. Robt. Elder, who manages this department, is well-known as a cutter, always giving good fits. Mr. Elder will sell his goods at low prices for cash. Look out for his advertisement next week, and bills.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY CONCERT.—On Friday evening a grand concert will be given in the Opera House, under the auspices of the St. Andrew's Society, of this town, and for the benefit of the needy poor. The celebrated Scottish vocalist, Mr. James Lumsden, has kindly consented to give the entertainment, on which occasion he will be assisted by Miss Ina Robertson, Miss Jessie Lumsden, Mr. D. D. Galbraith and Mr. D. Haggart. The programme contains a good selection of songs, and the concert promises to be a good one, and is worthy of patronage, especially considering the object. This is the first time the Scotchmen of this town have made an appeal to the public on behalf of charity, and it is hoped that their efforts will be abundantly rewarded, as charity is the principle tenet. Let the different associations of our town feel it their duty to come forward and aid local charities, as there are poor who require a helping hand at this season. We trust none will forget the concert, therefore, on Friday evening.

MR. WM. MCCULLAGH.—We are pleased to be able to state that Mr. Wm. McCullagh has returned to town, and is again in his old stand at business. We understand that for some time he has not been enjoying the best of health, and in consequence had obtained medicine from some physician in Buffalo. On the day he left town, to do business in the country, he took some of the medicine, we understand, and after taking it he knew no more of his whereabouts till some parties found him in London Ontario. Mr. Smyth, of the Bank of Commerce, in London, having heard of his whereabouts, telegraphed to his friends to come up at once and he would try and detain him till they arrived. Mr. and Mrs. Lannin immediately left for London on the morning train, where they found him "as happy as a king," not knowing that anything was the matter. In the uncertainty of his whereabouts the creditors hurridly took possession of his shop, perhaps owing to false rumors, that heavy debts are ever ready to set afloat, but on his return the business was restored to him, and he is now at work again. In refering to this matter last week we then stated our want of credence in the rumors, and we are glad to be able to state that they are now flatly contradicted. Mr. McCullagh is an excellent business man, well liked, and has a very large business. His card appears in this issue again, and we are glad to have this opportunity of reminding his old friends, and new ones, that they will find him at his old stand, as ready as ever to oblige them.

TEMPERANCE.—In the B. C. Church in this town, on last Friday evening, there was a first-class entertainment in connection with their Band of Hope. For nearly eighteen months this Temperance organization has been working successfully among the young. Several prominent members of the church have been taking an active part in this work. We learn that after carefully revising their list of members, they have at present about seventy on their roll of membership. Through the efforts of the young people, a very fine preparation was made for both the physical and intellectual entertainment of the people last Friday evening. Quite a number of temperance people and the friends of temperance sat down to a well provided table. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, they repaired to the audience room of the church. The meeting was opened by the choir rendering a good temperance piece, and Rev. A. Richards, of Lakefield, making a short prayer. The President then took the chair, and after making some appropriate remarks, called on the persons appointed to take part in the exercises of the evening. Who all performed, very creditably to themselves, the work they undertook. The entertainment consisted of addresses, readings, recitations, &c. The pieces selected were very appropriate. We were pleased to see Mr. Nesbitt among those who took a part in the recitations, and he gave an excellent piece. The dialogue given by Mr. F. Roberts, Miss Annie Elliott, and Miss Susie Gordon, was well said and well received. The chair gave choice pieces and rendered them in good style. We wish the Band of Hope every success, as we believe they deserve it.

POLICE COURT.

Mr. Beavis charged Mr. J. G. Huston with an infringment of the market by-law, and monopolising the market by buying potatoes, butter and pork before it a. m., contrary to market by-law.

Thos. Williamson, sworn, said that he was making a bargain with a man for some potatoes, from Emily, and he had offered him a dollar bag for them. when Mr. Huston came forward and offered him a dollar and ten cents and took them. I did not see him selling any of them. I did not feel like giving a dollar and twenty-five cents for them, what he asked. Mr. Huston admitted that he bought them for Mr. Fisher, but he received no profit on them whatever. The Police Magistrate held that the master was responsible and not the agent, under the by-laws, unless he, Mr. Beavis, showed him that he made a business of it.

Mr. Huston, sworn, said: the butter that I bought on Wednesday, was sent to Mr. Fisher's store. I used some of it and Mr. Fisher used some of it. Mr. Fisher does just what he likes with his own. I bought salt pork, but do not know how much. I do not know whether they were delivered at Mr. Fisher's or not. The P. M. said according to his own evidence he was acting as agent for Mr. Fisher and it was an infraction of the by-law. Fined $2.50 and $2.50 costs; to be paid by Saturday, the 24th inst.

DRUNK.—John Daly, an old reprobate, was up on Friday morning, (after spending a night in the Dungeon,) charged with being drunk and disorderly on the street. The P. M. let him off after complimenting him; but said the next time he appeared before him he would send him on a visit to the Central Prison; but this was of little avail, for he was on another "bender" on Saturday. Six months, twice a year, for the balance of his time would do him no harm, and give him a chance of straightening up.

ASSAULT.—On Tuesday, Frederick Palmer was fined $2.50 for committing an assault on William J. Riordan, on the 16th inst., at the Railway Station.

ASSAULT.—Henry Morgan was also fined $2.50 for an assault on W. J. Riordan, at the Railway Station, on the 16th inst.

THE GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY is an Indian vegetable compound, composed of the juices of a variety of remarkable medicinal plants and herbs; the various properties of these different ingredients, when combined, is so constituted as to act simultaneously upon the Blood, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, Nervous System, &c., restoring their functions to healthy action, and, being purely vegetable, is as harmless as Nature's own beverage. This medicine is a decided benefit in all, and a permanent cure in a large majority of diseases of the blood, such as Scrofula Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Canker, Pimples, &c. In prescribing this medicine we do not claim that it always performs cures; but this we do say, that it purifies and enriches the blood, permanently curing a large majority of diseases arising from its impurities. It stands far ahead and unequalled among the hundreds of competing medicines of the day. It has stood the test of ten years, and is to-day more popular than ever. As a summer restorative it stands unrivaled; it enables the system to bear up against the constant drain to which it is subjected by a high temperature. Persons who are subject to bilious Colic, Dysentery, Indigestion, &c., should take the "Shoshonees Remedy." Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cts. a box. 4-8in

ST. ARNAUD, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Dear Sir,—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the abdomen, with very little hand, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with occasional dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT IT IS TIME YOU DID. There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL, purely a preparation of six of some of the best Oils that are known, each one possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power, and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportion or proportions of the same ingredients, and entirely different from anything ever before made, one thing produces the most astonishing results, and having a wider range of application than any medicine ever before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids, consequently loses nothing by evaporation. Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and you get only the small quantity of Oils which they may contain.

THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY

SPECIFIC MEDICINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases such as Tremors, Debility, Prostration, etc., which in many cases are produced by over indulgence in the use of tobacco and alcoholic spirits; but the Special Medicine is more especially recommended as an unfailing cure for Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency and all diseases that follow as a sequence of Self Abuse as Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude, Pain in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, and many other diseases that lead to Insanity or Consumption and a Premature Grave, all of which as a rule are first caused by deviating from the path of nature and over indulgence.

The Specific Medicine is the result of a life study and many years of experience in treating these special diseases. Full particulars in our pamphlet, which we desire to send free to every one. The Specific Medicine is sold by all Druggists or will be sent by express on receipt of price, $1 per package, or six packages for $5, sent by mail on receipt of the money, address

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 22, 1877.

JOHN A'S PROTECTIONIST PLANK.

In our references last week to the rag-baby of Protection, introduced to the House of Commons by Sir John Macdonald, we stated that the division (78 to 109) on Mr. Wood's amendment showed the strength the Protectionists can muster under the most favourable circumstances, and that the vote on the amendments of Sir John and Dr. Orton were not worthy to be taken into account in considering the question of Protection. The debate resumed at intervals lasted till early on Saturday morning last, when the House divided on Dr. Orton's amendment affirming the principle of protection to farmers only. This was defeated, the Yeas numbering 74 and the Nays 113. Then followed a division on Sir John's amendment, when the Protectionist vote further dwindled down to 70, the Nays numbering 119. The main motion for concurrance in the government tariff resolution was immediately carried by a vote of 120 to 69.

It will be seen from the above figures that protection to manufacturers, as embodied in the amendment of Mr. Wood, a Reformer, was defeated by a majority of 31; that Dr. Orton's agricultural protection was knocked in the head by 39 of a majority; that the majority sat down heavily on Sir John's rag-baby was still larger, viz:—49; and that the ministerial policy was sustained by a still increased majority of 51, while protection better propounded than Sir John could do it secured 78 votes, the party pretence of the opposition leader found only 70, showing plainly that the protectionist need not look to the advocacy of the Tory chief, or the aid of the Tory party, as the way by which their theory may be advanced. It may as well be understood once for all that the protectionist talk of the Tory party is just so much "bounce"; for if they were in power to-morrow they could not if they would, and we believe to their credit that they would not if they could, introduce the principle of protection as the basis of the tariff. The Boards of Trade at Hamilton and Toronto have expressed their views to the effect that a tax on coal is useless except western products be also taxed. But the leader of the coal tax movement in Nova Scotia as emphatically declares that if the coal tax is to have placed alongside of it a tax on products consumed in Nova Scotia, then he favours having coal as it is. So there is at once a dead-lock between two contending interests; and neither the Grit nor Tory party can do more than secure fair play by favouring neither at the expense of the other.

FALSIFICATION AND ITS EFFECT.

We have formerly referred to the fondness the opposition journals display for misrepresentation, in dealing with the Dominion expenditure of the first year of the Mackenzie government, the estimates for which were made by the deposed Pacific Scandal Ministry, the former government not only suddenly increased the various subsides, but also, when downfall was inevitable, made a large number of official appointments. They also left the country pledged to carry out certain works, and to the liquidation of debts that should have been made in the former year. Thus the John A. administration is really responsible for the sudden increase in expenditure that occurred about that time, and which the opposition prints are trying to lay on the shoulders of the present government. It will doubtless, too, form one of the chief items in the sweep-speeches of Tory orators at the next general election. We have also shown that the Conservative prints have endeavoured to falsely manipulate the figures of the last Finance Report, in the hope of casting discredit upon the able Minister to which this branch of administration is entrusted; and whose Budget Speeches are so plain and straight-forward as to defy misrepresentation to those who will but read them with ordinary attention. There is no effort, for there is no need, to hide anything from the knowledge of the people at large; therefore Mr. Cartwright's speeches and reports are as evident in their meaning that "those who run may read." The same cannot truly be said of some former speeches and reports, wherein the minister was forced to conceal the real cause of certain peculiar expenditures and to clear by transfer delayed payments. For instance, it is only in the last volume of the Public Accounts that the payment in reported of amounts which should have been handed over by the Macdonald Ministry some years ago. Yet the friends of that Ministry will cry out against the careless way in which Departmental work is done, forgetting that nearly all the clerks who do the work are the appointees of the late government. Perhaps the less they say of such matters the better it will be for the credit of their own party.

The latest instance of figure falsifying on the part of the Tory press is in their references to a return brought down concerning the payments made in connection with the purchase of Steel Rails, of which we have formerly heard so much from Tom White, and other peculiar partizans of the like stripe, who seem more anxious to manufacture a Grit scandal than to attempt the regeneration of their own party and its reorganization on a respectable basis. The return to which allusion has been made gives in detail the sums paid out to different parties for steel rails and for services in connection with their safety and transport. The Mail was the first to sum up all these payments and represent their amount as the price of the rails brought. This it did by stating that the rails cost on an average $56.50 per ton, when the fact in the biggest price paid was $55.24, delivered in Montreal. This was probably known to the Mail writer, or if he was ignorant of the exact item of cost he must at least have known that such items as "inspection" and "insurance" was not properly included in it. Comments were made to suit the idea of misrepresentation, and the whole was put forth as an example of Grit extravagance. The cry was taken up by the Tory press of the country, which has not yet learned the weakness to themselves of adopting the Mail's unreliable articles, and many of them in their party zeal and blindness made additional embellishments. Thus the Belleville Intelligencer in copying the Mail's figuring added:—"This does not include carriage from the port at which they were delivered to the points at which they now are." A few moments examination would have taught the too eager adoptor of the Mail's multiplication that one item in the sum was paid for the transportation of rails to Vancouver Island. However it may have been so small (only some £10,000) that the silent editor of the Intelligencer entirely overlooked the trifling amount. So that the fact of five out of the ten items given should properly be calculated as "cost" of rails should have escaped notice is certainly remarkable. It can scarcely be called an "inadvertance."

What can our Conservative contemporaries hope to gain by such glaring misstatements. If they have no damaging facts to urp against the present administration, they can surely gain nothing inventing such idle tales. The people of this country are not so simple as to take in such pubulum without examination. The Pacific Scandal, and other similar doings on the part of a former ministry, have made the electors a very inquiring lot; and they try to, and do, get at the facts of most things that interest them. The cry of "wolf! wolf!" may, startled for a time; but in the end it failed to bring the shepherds, even when the sheep were being tore by the wolf. So have the Tory organs startled the people from time to time with shallow scandles, and have continued the policy of abuse and misrepresentation so long that the people are beginning to doubt any and all of their utterances. In this way they are steadily weakening their influence; and when the time comes for them to stand up and fight truly for principles and honest convictions they may deplore the debility they have brought upon themselves by false devices.

THE TWINKLINGS OF A "STAR."

Last week the Cobourg Star tried to mix such incongruous ingredients as figures and fancy in a tirade against the Toronto & Ottawa Railway scheme, the growing popularity of which seems to act on our sensitive contemporary in a most peculiar manner. The Star enters into an elaborate calculation of the cost of present railways in Canada, and argues, that because the bonds and shares of some roads are in default of interest, the thought of another road is preposterous. As well might we be told that because a newspaper in Cobourg talks nonsense, therefore papers are useless everywhere else. The Star does not stop to calculate how much of the arrears of interest on railway bonds and shares is due to the bad management of the lines in default; to consider that the Canadian railways that are to-day in the worst financial position might have been paying concerns had they been well and honestly managed.—The startling facts laid bare to public view by the Northern Railway investigation are not confined in character to that road. The Northern Railway is not singular in being afflicted with a lot of official locshes, and Belknapism can be found for the seeking within the offices of many a railway in Ontario. Indeed we fear that in a great number of instances an investigation would show that there are worse things in the pen of Railway Boards than were ever dreamt of by Cumberland and his friends. We are fully persuaded that there are railways in this Province, and even railways in which Peterborough has been directly interested, that could furnish as sensational a tale as would put far in the shade the relation of the doings of the Northern Railway Board—or, more properly, part of it. Money that should have gone to bondholders and stockholders had, without doubt, been appropriated to other uses; and there was not a political testimonial, the expenses of an election, or the purchase of a steamboat, in the majority of the cases either When it can be shown that it is impossible under good management to make any of our railways pay, then it will be time enough to cry out that it is folly to build another line of road.

We are quite willing to confess that there have been mad railway projects attempted in Canada, and probably the Cobourg and Peterboro Railway was one of them. Whether the original project or the manner of carrying it out be most to blame, certain it is that there is now very little to show for the expenditure in its behalf. This is no proof, however, that all other well-conceived and carefully shaped projects should end after the manner of the Rice Lake Bridge. It should rather be a warning to turn from little local lines, which are shown by experience to be dangerous, to the consideration and construction of what will prove to be a national line of road, while it will at the same time answer all local wants, in the directions most required. Even the Star is far from an aid to its own cause when it declares the whole railway system of the country to be a "staggering swindle"; and there is a great deal of simplicity in its coupling this indignant assertion with the heartily disinterested advice to the people of Peterborough, to "give their money to the Grand Junction; or better still, half to Belleville and half to Cobourg." Such disinterestedness is really laughable. "The whole railway system", including the Belleville and Cobourg lines, is first characterized as "a stupendous swindle", and then we are advised to put our money into this "stupendous swindle". Not any more, thank you. Peterboro' has already done her duty in that direction, and now profess to further her interests and aid those of the Province and the Dominion by giving what money she can spare not to that "stupendous swindle, the present railway swindle", but to assist the construction of a through line along the route where the Grand Trunk should for the country's good have first been built. If mistakes have been made, there is surely no sense in arguing for their perpetuation and against the application of a remedy.

But this innocent Star talks still more favourably before it gets through of the line which it had started out to demolish before it is built. It says:—

"Lindsay the great rival of Peterboro, will shortly have four railways, and unless Peterboro' bestirs herself she will see her rival basking in the moonlide of prosperity whilst she is blowing her fingers out in the cold. What more, indeed, could Peterboro' want than two roads to the front with one to the east and another to the west? These would place her on competing terms with Lindsay, and enable her to share the trade of the back country, and take her choice of routes to the front.

Now Peterboro does not want more than is here enumerated; but she does want the communication east and west, if it were for nothing else than to render her safe from a combination between the two lines to the front, such as has been hinted at, even before the through line project assumed shape.

As for the remark that the gentleman connected with the Toronto and Ottawa project being "ignorant as to railway building and working", perhaps it is better that it should be so. They cannot do so much for themselves at the cost of the concern as "experienced" men have been known to do in the building and working of railways, that the Star probably has heard of frequently during its long life. Our comfort in this respect is heightened by the opinion we had formed of the integrity of "the gentlemen connected with the contemplated road", and opinion which is corroborated by the Star when it says they "are honourable men, and would not willingly lend themselves to committing a gross fraud on the municipalities and the country." After all the Star in its queer attempt to prejudice the projected Toronto and Ottawa Railway has succeeded admirably in speaking in its praise. It can consider the vote of thanks carried.

OSHAWA LADIE'S COLLEGE.—Mr. Demill, President of the Ladie's College, Oshawa, is in town to see parties that had written for information respecting this institution of learning. From what we have seen in the press it is worthy of the careful attention of any that have daughters to educate. It is undenominational, the terms are very reasonable, and none are taken but those who board in the College; that is to have proper care over those attending. We think parents will appreciate such a course. It is a fine new building (with a very healthy site and twenty acres of land), put up expressly for the purpose, with all the modern improvements in heating, lighting, &c., giving rare opportunities in the fine arts, music and languages, also a practical course in the general requirements of the young lady. The Ontario Reformer says of their last entertainment that it consisted of songs, readings, essays, instrumental music, and tableau, all of which without exception were rendered in a manner reflecting the highest credit upon both students and teachers. The "Wedding March," in which six young ladies played in concert on their instruments, was rendered with perfect execution and full appreciation of the spirit of Mendelschon's grand composition. There is now in attendance about seventy-five students, with a very good prospect of every room being occupied soon. Any person leaving a note at Mr. Menzie's, with name and residence, desiring further information, will be called upon by the President, who will remain in town till to-morrow afternoon.

Last week in stating that the manufacturers of Canada do not want a duty on coal though they are anxious to obtain protection, in giving the reason for that anxiety the typos made us say "to sell to coal producers the tools and machinery they require at reduced prices." Of course it should have read "enhanced" prices, as every one would readily perceive. The only wonder is how the error crept in without being detected before publication.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.—Mr. Malcolm Campbell of Keene, has been appointed Issuer of Marriage Licenses, in place of the late James Sinclair. The appointment is a good one, and we advise those wishing to approach the Hymenial Altar to call on Mr. Campbell first, and he will be willing to grant them full liberty if circumstances will permit. His office is at his own residence in Keene.

LIBEL CASE.—A Rule Nisi has been granted by Chief Justice Haggarty, calling upon the publishers of the Sarnia "Canadian" to show cause why a criminal information may not be exhibited against them for publishing a slanderous Libel affecting the Hon. Mr. McKenzie. The libel is contained in an article insinuating that Mr. McKenzie or some member of the Privy Council had made the firm of C. McKenzie & Co., of Sarnia, aware of the Government purposing to raise the duty on Iron Tubing. The Rule was granted.

The Lindsay "Post" of last week says: "The Peterboro "Review" is a bitter partizan newspaper, but it has a fair reputation and standing, and one would expect from it an independent opinion of the Northern Railway "scandal," for which even so pronounced a Tory as Mr. Hector Cameron blushes with shame.—The "Review," however, looks upon the payment of Mr. Robinson's parliamentary expenses by the railway company as a "graceful tribute to a public man."

* * * * * *

It is positively amazing to see hitherto respectable newspapers defend a transaction that is none the less stocking because bank cheques were used. The low moral tone displayed in this matter by zealous Tory organs is deplorable. We can scarcely believe that the bulk of the Tory party will take the same view of this "scandal."

NORTHERN RAILWAY.—Reverting to the Northern Railway investigation the Bobcaygeon Independent of Saturday last says:—The exposures of fraud are very startling, but what is most painful to every right-thinking man is the obvious fact that though fraud, embezzlement, and corruption are made apparent as mud in a wine glass, yet the Tory hirelo who support Sir John Macdonald can see no error and actually justify the whole of the proceedings. It is with regret we have to notice that our member Mr. Hector Cameron, though his own interest, of right and wrong must satisfy him that Beverley Robinson and Cumberland improperly appropriated the money of the Railway Company, was so hoodwinked with party prejudice that he stood up in the place in the House to defend fraud and justify embezzlement.

FIRE INQUEST

SECOND EVENING.

SAMUEL ALLEN, after a few preliminary remarks by the coroner, deposed as follows:—I have been for about 5 years and am now, in the employ of Messrs. Dixon Bros. I was so engaged on the 10th of this month, on the evening of which day I left the premises about half-past nine o'clock, when everything appeared to be all right. The first I heard of the fire was on Sunday morning when I reached the church. I went down to the store after the service, and examined first the skylight. I saw nothing there to indicate that anyone had entered that way; I also examined the back windows and found them secure, there being not even any tracks near them. I did not examine the cellar until Monday, when I noticed a fire had been kindled at the south side, the side next to Fairweather's, and had burned through the joist up to the floor. On the north side next to Thompson Bros. I also noticed that a fire had been kindled, but nothing was out of the usual place, with the exception of a partially burnt box, which was pulled out in front of the cellar steps. I saw no further indications of a fire in the cellar. The front windows of the cellar I found secure. Up-stairs in the front shop I found nothing out of usual place. In the back part of the shop, directly under the Merinoes, where the fire came up, the boxes and shelves were partially burned, but nothing indicated that a fire had been kindled there. The merinoes, of which we had a pretty heavy stock, are next in value to the silks. I did not miss any of them. The silks are about twenty feet from the merinoes. My opinion is that the person or persons who set fire to the premises either got in through the back door of the shop, or secreted themselves during the day in the shop. I do not know whether the front door of the grocery department was fastened or not. I have had no difficulty with my employees and my salary has been paid as usual.

TO THE JURY.—The day after the burglary in Fairweather's we found two pieces of silk out of their place up stairs, and on investigation of all hands, no one could explain the cause of their being so.

THOMAS MORROW was then sworn, he said: I am employed in the grocery department of Dixon Bros., and know nothing whatever about the fire. I left the premises a little after nine o'clock on the night of the fire. Before I left I fastened the outside of the grocery department but left the inside to those whose duty it was to see to it. Thomas McBain usually looked to that.

THOMAS KELLY, sworn: I have been in the employ of Wm. Fairweather & Co., for about five years; am now in the employ of the Sheriff. I was in Fairweather's on Saturday night till about 11:30, when I went home with Mr. Fairweather. Some time after 12 o'clock I heard the fire-bell, and soon after Mr. Rush came in and said Dixon Bros. store was on fire. When I got down to the shop the fire was about out. Before I left Fairweather's store I took a lamp and went down cellar where I found everything all right. A few days before the fire a burglary occurred in our shop; I do not know how the person that effected it got in, but think they must either have concealed themselves on the premises, or got in through the door, if the bolt was not secured fastened. About $70.00 worth of goods were taken at that time.

ROBERT W. THOMPSON, re-called; No one went out of our shop by the back way. I never compared our key with that of our neighbours. The reason why I stood at the door on the night of the fire was to protect the goods.

WM. A. SANDERSON, sworn: I opened the shutters of the front door of the grocery by springing the boards in at the centre. I did not break the shutters or take out the bar. I know nothing of the origin of the fire. The door I opened was fastened as usual by a bolt on the inside.

BENJAMIN ORTSON deposed: I arrived at the fire about a quarter of an hour after the door was broken in and helped to open the ventilator and some of the windows; was helped up on the roof by James Kerr. The ventilator was fastened with nails which we broke off, but did not break the glass.

Several important witnesses being absent Mr Maxwell Hall moved, seconded by James F. Kennedy,—That the Jury adjourn till the following evening at half-past seven o'clock. The motion on a division was carried.

THIRD EVENING.

THOMAS KELLY requested to be re-called to correct a statement he had made the evening before, in regard to the liabilities of W. Fairweather & Co. He had stated before, that their stock and good debts amounted to $11,600, and their liabilities to $11,200; their liabilities he found only amounted to $10,200.

MR. FAIRWEATHER being sworn said: On the night before the fire Mr. Kelly and I were working in my store till about half-past eleven o'clock, the rest of the hands having gone some time before. Before we shut the door I told Mr. Kelly to take the lamp and go down cellar and see that all was right; I also made Mr. Rush go up stairs to see that no one was in the tailoring room. It has not been my custom to do so, but on account of the way the store was broken into before I made them do this. After locking the door Mr. Kelly accompanied me to my own door. Just after I got into bed I heard the fire-bell; this was about 12 o'clock as near as I could see. I did not get up till a knock came to the door, and Thos. Rush called me to come down with the keys as

Peterborough, Feb. 1st, 1877. 31-tf

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 29, 1877.

NEXT Sunday will be April fools day, and is the first day of the year.

READ Mr. Elder's advertisement in another column. It speaks for itself.

"HORAH."—Your correspondence is conceivably crowded out of this issue. It will appear in our next.

COUPON! COUPON!—Those who relish a cup of really fine coffee should try Bush & Elliott's unrivalled mixture. 11n.

BOARD OF TRADE.—The adjourned meeting of the Board of Trade will be held in the Council Chamber, this evening at 7:30 p.m.

GOOD TEMPLARS.—Remember the entertainment to be given in the Good Templars Hall this Thursday evening, commencing at 8 p.m., in aid of the organ fund.

ANYONE in need of a new hat will do well to examine the spring stock of hats, just received at Hyman's. Something for every taste, at most reasonable prices.

TRAMP.—The members of the Snow Shoe Club extend a cordial invitation to any friends who wish to join them on Good Friday, for a tramp to Lakefield. They will start from the Huffman House at 10 a.m., sharp.

BOATING CLUB.—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club, will be held at the Rose House, on Monday evening next, at 7 o'clock. As this is an especially important meeting, a full attendance is requested.

FINED.—Messrs. Horan, of Burleigh, Wynne, of Julian's Landing, Purdy, of Blairton, and Lemon, of Hiawatha, were each fined —last week—in twenty dollars and cost, for selling liquor without license. Mr. Hugh Dunn, Inspector, being the complainant.

VOTES FOR FARMERS' SONS.—Farmers' sons who are entitled to a vote under the recent Ontario Act should see to it that their names are placed upon the assessment roll. If any are left off they may apply to have their names placed on the voters' list at the Court of Revision.

GRIST MILL SOLD.—The Fergus News Record says: "Mr. McAdam, of Orangeville, has sold the grist mill he recently purchased from Mr. Hardy, to Mr. Alexander Dawson, of Peterborough. The price realized was $12,500, and it shows that property in Orangville is increasing in value."

FIRE INQUEST.—The inquest on the late fire was concluded on Monday evening, but elicited nothing of importance. The evidence before the inquest showed that the Messrs. Dixon are not in financial difficulties, as was sought to be circulated by some persons, but are in the confidence of the merchants with whom they do business.

EASTER BEEF.—James Campbell, Esq., Walkerfield, sold a Durham Steer on Saturday to Mr. Harry Winch. It was three years old, raised by Mr. Campbell, and weighed 1826lbs, and was 400lbs heavier than any animal sold in Peterborough this year. This shows both good feeding and good breeding. We venture to say that this cannot be beaten in Central Ontario, perhaps not in Ontario.

"GRAHOER."—We have received this week your letter, touching some remarks made by our "South Monaghan correspondent." Your letter is too personal, and lays the blame upon a gentleman of that township, who is in no way connected with this office. We decided not to publish it, inasmuch as the gentleman referred to is not our correspondent, and did not write the communication referred to.

GOOD AND USELESS ADVERTISING.—One of the largest English advertisers gives his view on this subject as follows:—"Advertising is a science; in this, as in everything else, the best mediums will command the best prices. Of this you may be sure—any journal that inserts advertisements cheaply is, in fact, a worthless medium. If it were really a good one, it would have no need to lower its prices, for its space would be filled without the sacrifice."

THE FISHERIES.—The waters of Rice Lake and tributaries, together with the River Trent down to the Bay of Quinte, and also that portion of the Otonabee River, extending from its inlet at the said Lake to Lock's Bridge, Peterborough, all within the Counties of Hastings Northumberland and Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario, are set apart by proclamation in the Gazette, for the natural and artificial propagation of fish during the space of two years, from the 1st of May, 1877

CONCERT.—An amateur concert will be given in Bradburn's Opera House, on Tuesday evening, the 3rd of April, in aid of the St. John's Church Sabbath School Library. The entertainment will consist of Instrumental and Vocal music, Readings, Ventriloquism and will Charades and conclude with an amusing farcecentitled "From Pumpkin Ridge." Admission twenty-five cents, children fifteen cents. For further particulars see programmes and posters.

IMPORTANT SALE OF NEW FURNITURE.—By large pasture and circulars it will be seen that Mr. S. Hyman is offering the whole of his household furniture for sale on Wednesday next. The sale will be an extensive one, and without reserve. The articles are nearly all new and of excellent quality. Parties requiring furniture would do well to remember this sale, and attend it. His residence is on Water Street, near the residence of Dr. Burnham, Senior, and convenient to Mr. Menzies new residence.

TERPSICHOREAN.—The I. C. B. U. of Peterborough will hold their annual Ball on the evening of Easter Monday, in the Caisse House. It will be a popular affair, and will freely be patronized by the friends of the Society. Mr. McGrenan will award a pair of beautiful dancing slippers to the best lady waltzer, Mr. McKeever, of Messrs. McKeever & Hogan, will award a box of cigars to the best gentleman Irish "jig" dancer. This will afford a fine chance to "tip the light fantastic toe" with grace and skill.

SPRING EXHIBITION.—At a meeting of the Directors of the West Riding of Peterboro' Agricultural Society held last Saturday week, it was decided to have an exhibition of stallions and bulls on Saturday, the 28th of April next, wheaprizes will be offered for draughtsand general purpose stallions, of $12, $8, and $4, in each class and for thorough-bred Durham, Devon, Ayrshire Galloway and Hereford Bulls, (aged—two years old—and yearlings) of $8, $6, and $4 in each class. The exhibition will commence at one o'clock p.m., on the Society's ground. Five cents admission will be charged.

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—The Peterborough Literary Association met on Thursday last. Mr. Edwards in the chair, Mr. G. C. Rogers read a piece of poetry called "The Little Vulgar Boy." Mr. Edwards read a selection from a work entitled "Pictures of Heroes and the Lessons from their Lives." The following subject was discussed: "Is the character of Oliver Cromwell worthy of our admiration?" Mr. Jeffers and Mr. Johnston maintained the affirmative; Mr. Kennedy and Mr. H. T. Beck, the negative. The decision being left to the meeting, was given in favor of the affirmative.

CONCERT.—The Peterborough Musical Society intends giving their 2nd concert in Bradburn's Hall, on Thursday evening, 12th of April. We have reason for believing that this entertainment will be, if possible, better than our last, which was as much enjoyed by our citizens. The large new organ to be used on this occasion is an attractive feature, as is also the novelty of the programme, which we understand is to be half comic and half musical. A lady vocalist from a distance has, we believe, consented to appear. The Society should be encouraged, and we trespass for them a crowded house.

CONCERT.—The concert given in aid of the St. Andrew's Society Fund, by the Misses Lansdowne, on Monday evening, was a most successful affair. There was a fair audience but not equal to what it ought to have been, considering the purpose for which it was given. The programme was a good one and well carried out. Mr. Lumsden fully sustained his reputation as a comique vocalist. Mr. Galletly's musical talent is well known to Peterborough audiences, and requires no comment. Miss Ina Robertson sang several Scottish songs, and it is needless to say that the audience fully appreciated her talent.

FISH AND GAME.—A deputation from this town visited Bobcaygeon on Saturday evening, for the purpose of organizing a protective Society there. After remarks, a common line was appointed to arrange the necessary preliminaries. The Society when regularly organized, if it acts with energy, will have in its power to do a great deal of good. Game is plentiful in the district, and for this reason members of Americana have been in the habit of coming over and shooting, regardless of the restrictions of the act, and at such a rate, that in a very short time there would be little more to shoot at. It is necessary to put a stop to this sort of thing.

SPIRITUALISM EXPOSED.—Professor Randolph, the original exposer of the Davenport Brothers' spiritual manifestations, and Prof. Fay's Dark Seances, assisted by Prof. Cazil, (a reformed medium,) Professor Randolph will give an exact duplicate of the so-called Spiritual Tests, given by the Davenport Brothers, which mystified the most scientific and learned men of Europe and America; Dr. Slade's Slate Writing, Mesmeric Spirit Photography, Katie King, Charles Foster, the Eddy Brother's and other mediums. In the Dark Seances musical instruments will float around the Hall illuminated by spirit light. This entertainment has been endorsed by the most prominent Divines, Editors, Literati, and Scientists, as being the most interesting and instructive entertainment ever brought before the public and a crushing blow to spiritualism and its advocates. They will be in the Opera House this evening.

CONCERT.—The Vocal and Instrumental Concert given in Hall's School House, Smith, on Friday evening last, was a success. The programme was taken up about 8 o'clock, and consisted of a song "Song my Lady is my queen," by the Misses and Mr. Sandercock, which was well received. Miss Cotton sang "Sweet Jessie the Bride of Kildare," in the absence of Miss Coates. "Capitaine" was sung by Miss Nettie Martin, very nicely, as was "Norah" for the encores. Mr. A. Clegg read "The siege of Corinth," and later in the evening "My new Potatoes," and was well received. Mr. J. Ormond told about his ride in the "Pullman Car," and for encores gave "Hil de Brandi Montrose," and later on gave, in German character, "Ball of de Ball," and for encore gave them "27 cents," for which he was heartily applauded. Miss Ormond presided at the organ. Miss Ella Clarin, of Lakefield, sang several songs during the evening. She is a sweet little singer, and was deservedly applauded. Miss Postlethwaite presided at the organ. Miss Willoughby recited "Mary, Queen of Scotts," which was well rendered and received. In the absence of Mr. Harvey, who was to have given an address, Miss Martin sang "Yankee Doodle Medeley," and for encore "Three Dreams," both songs were well received. Miss McKibbon and Miss Bell also added much to the evening's entertainment. Prof. Ormston in his Ventriloquial colloquies, shows himself master of this rare power and is improving very much since his last appearance in public. The entertainment was largely attended, as might have been expected, from the cause for which it was held.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Edward Mahon, late of Ottawa City, has taken up his residence in this town, where he intends pursuing his legal profession. On the occasion of his leaving Ottawa he was entertained to a dinner; which is reported in the daily Citizen as follows:—"Wednesday evening last being the eve of the departure of Mr. Edward Mahon, of this city, for Peterboro', a number of his young friends assembled at the Stevens House, George street, to enjoy a few hours of his company. For an hour or so the party enjoyed themselves in the parlour with music and song, the guest of the evening excelling some masterpieces on the piano in his usual excellent style. A request from Mr. Stephens, the obliging proprietor, to adjourn to the dining room, was, it is needless to say, unanimously acceded to. The table presented an inviting appearance, loaded as it was with everything to please the most fastidious taste. After full justice had been done to the eatables, the cloth was removed, and a few order of things was as follows:—Mr. Jas. Kehoe occupied the chair and Mr. J. C. Fleming the vice chair. On the chairman's right sat the honoured guest, supported and "speechifying." The guest of the evening. The chairman in a few appropriate remarks, proposed "Our Queen and Country," responded to by Mr. Quinn, in a short speech. "The Legal Profession," replied to by Mr. Mahon and the chairman. "Commercial Pursuits," was next in order, the toast was ably responded to by Mr. J. R. Booth, Mr. W. D. O'Keefe, Mr. Geo. Caldwell, all of whom took the occasion to express their regret at the departure of Mr. Mahon from the city, and hoped that in new fields where he would earn a name and reputation worthy of his talent. The next toast, the "Press" brought the vice-chairman to his feet. He also regretted the departure of the guest of the evening. "Our Guest" drew from Mr. Mahon a very lengthy speech, during which he thanked those present for the honor done him."

EASTER BEEF.—Mr. R. Wainwright is prepared to supply all his old customers and as many new ones as may favor him with their patronage, with a choice assortment of meats for the Easter holidays. He has at a large expense purchased the following fine animals:—

A Durham Heifer, 4 years old, from the herd of John Ledgate, Esq., "Highland Hall." This animal is the best in the County of Peterboro.

A grade ox, 6 years old, also from the herd of John Ledgate, Esq., a very superior animal.

A fat old steer, fed by John Teet, Esq., of the Township of Verulam, and is the best ever imported from that section of the country.

A very heavy pair of steers, 6 years old, purchased from and fed by Mr. John Gow, of Ashburnham, in the employ of Messrs. McDougall and Ledgate.

One very fine 4 year old steer, fed by Mr. Jas. Darling, Esq., Township of Smith. This animal is worthy of notice, as he has been specially fed for the Easter Holidays.

A pair of steers, 7 years old, fed by the sons of Mr. R. Wainwright, boys aged respectively 8 and 11 years. They are worthy the inspection of the public, and are considered the best pair of steers ever fed in this county, by boys so young; and they are a credit to them.

Choice Pork fed by Mr. Walter Patterson, Jr., Peterboro.

FROM M. Fellows, M. D., of Hill, N. H.

Although I have generally a great objection to patent medicines, I can but say in justice to DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY that it is a remedy of superior value for pulmonary Diseases.

I have made use of this preparations for several years, and it has proved to be very reliable and long-standing Coughs. I know of one patient in comfortable health, who has taken this remedy, and who but for its use, I consider would now be living.

Gentlemen.—Two years ago I began to take the Persian Gum Cure. I was in a hospital, suffering much, through indigestion, dyspepsia and debilitative disorders of the blood. Three bottles of the PERUVIAN SYRUP changed this to good health, and I am not sure that I have had a sick day since that time. I have, in the meantime, taken considerable of the Syrup myself, and can truly say that it has been a blessing to me. Dr. Capt. CORONER'S INQUEST ON THE BODY OF THE LATE FRANZ L. DOLL.

The inquest on the body of Franz L. Doll, who shot himself on Wednesday evening the 21st inst., was held the following day at 11 o'clock a.m., by R. Kincaid, M. D. coroner. The following gentlemen were sworn in as jurors:—Mr. W. Cameron, Foreman, and Messrs. J. Glass, W. Lilley, J. W. Miller, W. Yelland, W. Fife, J. Lundy, W. H. Mitchell, John Glendenning, D. Carlisle, F. J. B. Duckett and T. Fitzgerald

After the jury had viewed the body, R. B. Boucher M.D. was sworn: he deposed as follows:—I was called in yesterday professionally about twenty-five minutes after seven, to see the deceased. I believe one of the clerks in Mr. Cox's office came after me; he said the deceased had committed suicide. I found the deceased lying on the bed insensible, his face being covered with blood. On making an examination I found a contussion on the right side of the head and face, also the mark of a pistol ball on the right temple; the extremities were cold, pulse and respiration laboured, mouth frothing, pupils of the eye dilated, and deceased totally insensible to light or touch, in fact he showed all the symptoms of compression of the brain. In my opinion the deceased came to his death from compression of the brain and loss of blood, caused by a pistol bullet. I took the cylinder out of the pistol and found one of the chambers discharged.

DR. BURNHAM Sr, being sworn, said.—Some young man came to my office last evening for me to come and see the deceased. He said deceased was in a terrible state of excitement and had been taking some medicine given him by some medical man of the town. I came down immediately and on entering the room found deceased lying on his face behind the door, with his head jammed up against the base of the room. Deceased was breathing very hard but as soon as I turned him over on his side his breathing became comparatively easy. There being a good deal of blood on the head I said to those about me that the man had committed suicide. On examination I found the mark of a pistol bullet through his right temple. One of the young men caused me to lay him on the bed. I immediately made up my mind that the man could not live but a short time. I agree with Dr. Boucher as to the cause of death.

EDWIN DAWSON testified as follows:—Was acquainted with deceased since he came to Peterborough, and saw him about 3 30 p.m. on the day he committed suicide, at that time he was comparatively composed. I went into his room; he was walking across the floor; I spoke to him but he did not appear to know me, but after some time he recognized me. I asked him how he was and if he had not better go to bed and take a sleep. He said "no" and sat down on a chair; he asked me what he had been doing as he had his clothes out of his trunk and strewn about the floor, and what was the matter with him. I said he had been sick and I asked him if he was going away; he said he did not know; I was going away for us him then, and he asked me to come and help him to clean up his valuables at night, and put them in the trunk; I said I would and told him he ought to go to bed and keep a sleep. He asked me who was in his shop then; I told him no one and said I had locked it up; I asked him if I should bring up the key; he said he was right and I would go down to bed; I left him. I think he must have followed me down stairs and locked the back door of the shop for when I went back I found it locked. I could not get in that way, so went round the front door and found that had been locked. I then went round to the back door and found it open. I went in and found the deceased lying on the floor, with his head resting on the bottom step of the stairs. I called to him but he did not answer. I then went into the shop and found the key in the door. I then went up stairs and called him, but he made no answer, but I heard him spitting and yelling, I went down then and told Mr. Lacey that deceased was dead. Mr. Lacey and I came in through the lower flat and we heard him from down there. Mr. Lacey said we would have to get a doctor, and I went up for Dr. Burnham Sr, he came down, got a light, and came up into deceased's room; Mr. Burnham entered the room first and Mr. Lacey and I followed. I did not see deceased take any medicine; we looked for it and found the bottle; some of the contents I think was used. I never noticed the deceased in any way deranged until after dinner on the day he shot himself.

DR. GEORGE BURNHAM deposed as follows:—On Monday evening last deceased came into my office and said he wished to get something for dreaming, but I found out by questioning him, that the disease was of a private nature. He said he always had a great craving for food and when he did not get it he suffered great agony and gnawings in the stomach, I gave him some medicine for his complaint; advised him to regulate his diet and not to eat between meals. He talked rationally to me at that time on business affairs. He said that he suffered so much that he would take his life if he was not such a coward.

WM. M. DIXON testified—I have know the deceased since before he opened shop here. I never noticed anything wrong with him mentally until the day he shot himself. At ten o'clock on that day I saw him and he seemed to be all right. At one o'clock p.m. he came into the office, and seemed to be in great excitement, I spoke to him but he took no notice of me or anyone else. I went into his shop shortly after and heard him uttering making a noise; Dawson was with me. I thought deceased was singing and dancing upstairs. About 6.15 before going to my tea I thought I would go and see what he was doing; I got about half way up when I thought I heard him coming down, I turned and came down and locked the back door taking the key into the office. I then went to my tea and knew nothing of what happened until I came back, I then went to his room and saw deceased lying on the bed; I was informed that he had shot himself. He told me about a week ago that he was afraid to stay up in his room alone.

MR. LACY being sworn, said:—I was acquainted with deceased; I observed nothing unusual with him until the day on which he committed suicide. On that day I was in his shop and he had a revolver in his hand cleaning it. I remarked to him that he had no use for it and he answered he was fond of such things, a little too much so perhaps. About two o'clock I again went into his shop and from the way he acted I considered him insane. I felt very uneasy about him and came in with E. Dawson but did not see deceased. I heard him walking about in his room. About 6 P. M., Dawson came into the office and said deceased was making a great noise in his room. I came in with Dawson to the foot of the stairs and listened. I heard him making a great noise as though he was very sick or something had happened, I then thought it best to have some assistance and sent for Dr. Burnham Sr. When he came I went up stairs with him and entered the room. When there I noticed a pistol lying by his left side. Deceased was then insensible. Dr. Burnham and I partially examined the pistol but as we did not understand how to work it soon let it alone. We found there was six chambers in it 5 of which were loaded and the other discharged. I assisted Dr. Burnham to lift deceased on the bed

JOHN BATTIN testified as follows:—I sat up with deceased last night and did all I could for him. He never became conscious. He did not appear to suffer at all. He could not swallow anything. And died on Thursday morning at twenty minutes past three.

This being the last of the witnesses Dr. Kincaid in an able speech summed up the evidence. He deplored the sad effects of the disease under which the young man was labouring, and commended Dr. Burnham very highly on his treatment, although none of the medicine had been used. An ignorant and cruel world, he said, might ascribe the insanity of the deceased to the medicine given, but none of it had been used, and further if it had been used he knew of no drug that could produce such an effect as that described by the witnesses in so short a time.

After a short deliberation the jury brought in a verdict of suicide! committed during a fit of temporary insanity.

After the inquest the body was removed to Port Perry, on the evening train, for interment.

ADDRESS ISSUED BY THE LANGEVIN PARTY.

THE COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX AND THE PRESENT ELECTION.

(Translated from the French).

The electors of Charlevoix have to decide the most serious question upon which a county can be called upon to express an opinion. Mr. Langevin's election was annulled by the Supreme Court for undue influence of the clergy. That is the second ejection which the Courts have annulled for that reason. In the first case which came up, the Bonaventure election the acts of a few cures were alone placed in question. In the contestation of Mr. Langevin, election the Bishops were directly attacked. More than that, the authority of the Pope himself is denied and despised. This is a fact carrying with it immense—let us say the word, terrifying significance. In fact Judge Ritchie, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court, plainly declared that the priests committed an illegal act, a corrupt practice, in reading in the pulpit certain parts of the joint letter of the bishops. Now, it is known that that letter was approved by our Holy Father the Pope himself. To what point have we come; To what point are we going! Seven bishops publish a pastoral letter, in which they instruct Catholics as to their duties as electors. The Liberal party complains to Rome of that pastoral.

His Lordship Bishop Lafleche, of Three Rivers, is sent to Rome by his colleagues the other bishops of the Province of Quebec. The Roman congregations, after having heard him, approve and highly applaud the joint letter of the bishops. Bishop Lafleche does not rest satisfied with that. He addresses himself directly to the Pope, to Pius IX, who replies to him by a brief in which he congratulates the bishops and condemns Liberalism in Canada. The Supreme Court, composed of four Protestant judges and two deservers of priests, declares that our lords the bishops, have committed a misdemeanour—a crime worthy of punishment—by issuing that pastoral, and that, in consequence, our Holy Father the Pope is as guilty as they are since he has approved of that pastoral, is the question which the electors have to decide is a highly important one, it is also very easily understood. They have to declare by their votes, whether they approve of Mr. Trembley's having, through the Supreme Court, caused the Pope and our bishops to be censured. If they approve of it they should vote for him. But if they think that the Pope and our bishops should be honored to and respected they should protest against Mr. Trembley's infamous conduct by voting for Mr. Langevin. such is the question, and the whole question, which the electors have to decide. Before declaring themselves let them reconsider that the cause of God is the cause of those who attack the Church and her ministers. The duty of Catholics is clearly defined. That of which they are witnesses affords them sufficient light. Five of their own—the Rev. Messrs. Surois, Tremblay, Langlois, Chiasi Mars, and Dumont were condemned by the Supreme Court as guilty of corrupt practices, on having read and commented on the joint letter of the bishops, approved by the Pope. Under section 95 of the Dominion Act of 1875 every person found guilty of corrupt practices, of undue influence, of undue intimidation, is guilty of a misdemeanour, and is liable to a penalty of two hundred dollars. By another section of the Act it is declared that if the fine is not paid the delinquent shall be imprisoned for a term not exceeding two years. That at this present time these five priests might be imprisoned at the suit of the first Protestant that comes for having read and commented upon the bishop's mandate! Is there in the county of Charlevoix one single Catholic elector who is capable of approving of the conduct of Mr. Trembley, who has brought the cures to the position in which they are? There may be some beings like the famous Dantès who would rejoice to see the bishops and the priests hanged one after the other.

Can those who in good faith supported Mr. Tremblay before, they had confidence in him now continue to give him their support, when they see to into what abyss he is dragging them; when they see that they have enticed him into insulting the clergy and especially attacking the Church! When they voted for him last year did they think that he would go so far as to attack the episcopate of the country, and even the authority of the Pope? Certainly not. But now that facts enlighten them with their terrible and scandalous significance, they would be very guilty if they continued to assist Mr Tremblay in his hatred and persecution of the Church,

* * * * * * *

Mr. Tremblay has the insolence to maintain that his Grace the Archbishop of Quebec sympathizes with him, since, the cures are silent in this election.

Can His Grace do otherwise than despise and condemn a man who has caused the pastoral letter of the bishop to be censured, and declared a crime!

Can he do otherwise than condemn a man who has brought it about that five of the cures of the county may be imprisoned!

Besides, in order to know the opinion of the Archbishop, it is sufficient to remember the condemnations which his Grace put forth last spring against Mr. Tremblay for having mutilated the letters of priests in order to deceive the electors.

His Grace thinks, and does not hesitate to say, that Mr. Tremblay is a hypocrite and an enemy of the clergy. But, my sons of the electors, why do the cures keep silent? Since they are silent, it is because they want too far i.

The answer is very easy to these questions, and men who are in good faith sincere Catholics cannot help being disquieted with the evil tendencies of Mr. Tremblay.

The cures are obliged to keep silence, because a Court composed of four Protestant Judges, and two sorry Catholics, has condemned the pastoral letter of the bishops, approved of by the Pope. Who will dare to say that the Pope went too far in approving the pastoral letter of the bishops which declares that it is a case of conscience to vote for a Catholic Liberal?

In voting for Mr. Tremblay, the electors would be approving him for having brought the authority of the bishop and of the Pope into contempt.

If the cures spoke to-day, the election would be again annulled by the Supreme Court, which assumes to be above the Church, and wants to crush us Catholics! It is might putting itself above right.

If the electors would reflect a little, they would see that there is something dreadful in the candidature of Mr. Tremblay. A man who forgets his duty as a Catholic, to the point of questioning the words of the Pope should not have twenty supporters in a Catholic county. If he was elected, what would be said throughout the country People would say: Mr. Tremblay has persecuted the bishops, the clergy and the Catholic Church, and his county supports him!

It would be a shame for the county and a great misfortune The Protestants, who are furnishing him with money to crush the clergy, it is evident, would very soon have triumphed over Lower Canada if they were certain that the Catholic clergy is renounced by us.

A body does not live long without a head: the clergy is the head of the Catholics in Lower Canada. Let us crush the clergy, and we shall have crushed our own head, and we shall soon have disappeared as a race. Woe to those whom a spirit of party so blinds that they do not understand these things which are nevertheless most easily seen!

Last year, in the month of December, Mr. Huntington, a Liberal Minister, one of Mr. Tremblay's leaders at Ottawa, made the announcement at Argenteuil that the French Liberal party was about to unite itself to the Protestant party to crush the Catholic clergy. Since that period persecution has made rapid strides! Two cures have been disqualified at Bonaventure! Five in Charlevoix! The pastoral letter of the bishops had been declared a corrupt practice!

In the next contestation the bishops will be disqualified, and condemned to prison or fined as the cures are this year! And next! Who can foresee the misfortunes which may happen! Our good God will perhaps weary of seeing His ministers struck and despised; and He will punish us as he has punished those countries which have undertaken to rebel against the authority of His Church.

What have we seen within the past year? The Protestant press breathing two fold fury and rage, not only against the clergy, but against French Canadians; the newspapers of the Liberal party every day insulting the authority of the Pope and threatening the bishops. Mr. Laflamme, the man of the Guibord case, the excommunicated, has been created a Minister in the Liberal Government, and accepted as the leader of that party. He is publicly known to be a Freemason. At a dinner which was given him at Quebec after he was raised to the Ministry, the clergy was outraged, Mr. Tremblay was at that dinner; he cannot deny it Mr. Doutre, who at the same Guibord trial called the Jesuits venomous serpents, has been appointed to a lucrative position by the Liberal party! What have we come to? Whither are we drifting!

In the Bonaventure contestation they went so far as to force an elector, under pain of imprisonment, to reveal what had been passed in the confessional! And after scandalous doings of this kind there are still Catholics willing to remain blindfolded! Our bishops know what they are doing when they declare, by their pastoral of the 29th September, that it is a grievous sin to vote for a Catholic Liberal. They also declare to us that a Catholic Liberal is a man who refuses to the clergy the right to take part in politics. There is no possible doubt of it Mr. Tremblay was Liberal of the worst kind. All the cures of the county and of the Province are against him. Let those who doubt of it go and consult their "cure"! At his presbytery, he has the right to answer all those who put questions to him. He will tell you that to vote this year for Mr. Tremblay would be worse still than last year.

Now, a word as to the Money which Mr. Tremblay pretends he is able to procure for the county, and especially Baie St. Paul. The electors must not forget that the Liberal Government will soon be upset and Mr. Langevin will shortly be a Minister, and that he will have for Lower Canada the portfolio of Public Works, which he had under the Conservative Government. It was he who gave the money to begin the pier. When he is a Minister then will be the time to obtain justice. If we turn our backs on him when he is just about to succeed it will fare badly with us. Then, by voting against Mr. Langevin you injure Mr Gauthier, who has already obtained much money for the county, amongst the rest six hundred dollars for the opening of a road for St. Joseph, this spring. If we listen to Mr. Tremblay, s lies we shall repeat of it. The Liberal Government has voted nothing this year for Lower Canada. Mr. Casgrain and Mr Pelletier, who are Ministers here as has been able to get one cent. What is the use of voting for Mr. Tremblay he will get still less than they. Whereas Mr. Gauthier has already got a great deal especially $600 for St. Joseph. Besides, the election of Mr. Langevin is certain by a larger majority than last year. Let us one and all vote for him, so that Mr. Gauthier and he may work together and obtain for the county the improvements we need, in order that we may be able to overthrow the Liberal Government as soon as possible and see Mr. Langevin appointed to the Minister of Public Works for the greater advantage of the county. Let us give a solid vote for Mr. Langevin, Le Oruck, come the all, the promoter of our bishops!!!

MANY ELECTIONS.

Consumption Cured!

An old physician, retired from active practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India Missionary the formula of a Vegetable Remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all throat and Lung Affections: also a Positive and Radical Cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

Pain in Shoulders, Back and Loins, as Droppings in Throat Disappear.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MAT. J. B. HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so hoarse as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very loose hack, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an increased appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER,
Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

READ CAREFULLY.

SAMUEL OSBORNE, Sophiasburg, says—"I was affected with Dyspepsia for nearly four years, my lungs becoming affected towards the last. I was induced to try the "Shoshonees Remedy." After using three or four bottles I felt much better, and gained strength rapidly, my health improved steadily and rapidly, and when I had taken three or four bottles more, I was quite restored to health and strength, and have experienced better health than for forty years before. I had been under the treatment of a number of physicians before, but never received any material aid until I used your remedy."

A. MCKAY, Troor, N. S., says "he was very bad with Liver Complaint, but used the "Shoshonees Remedy," and in a month was as well as he had ever been in his life. I am now in business and wish you to send me three dozen by steamer.

A. WOOD, Consecon, says—"That he has tried the "Remedy" for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia with great success. I have also used the "Shoshonees Pills," and find that they are as good as any I ever tried.

Rev. JOHN SCOTT says—"Mr. McKenzie Bootlog suffered from the attack of rheumatism, and was unable to move without help but after taking a few bottles of the "Shoshonees" was able to walk as well as ever." Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cents a box.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT? A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. E. Earl, Genet Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of sore wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Mayhew Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used;" it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rams, Township Percy writes, "I persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—A. H. Shenston, Wardsworth, writes, "For months I was troubled with a swelled ankle, rendering me very much so. Dr. Mayhew of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cents.

MR. MACKENZIE GETS A CANE

THE PREMIER ON RELIGIOUS EQUALITY AND TOLERATION IN CANADA.

A few days ago a banquet was held by the Roman Catholics of Lindsay, when a novel conceit was instituted, the object being to ascertain who was the most popular gentleman in the country. Only two candidates were nominated, Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, and Sir John A. Macdonald. The result of a week's polling showed a majority of votes in favor of the present Premier of the Dominion, and in accordance with previous arrangement a deputation was chosen to convey a report of the proceedings to Mr. Mackenzie and to present him with a gold-headed cane.

Mr. Mackenzie made the following reply:—"I am certainly obliged, in the first instance, to the Roman Catholic ladies of Lindsay, for their kindness in presenting me with this handsome gift, and to you for the kind words you have used in making the presentation. I especially feel your kindness in speaking of the position I have taken in the past in advocating civil rights and the perfect equality of all classes and creeds in the country. I have been brought up in a school in which religious equality, perfect equality in every way, is the predominant principle; and nothing has given me greater pleasure than to have assisted to some extent during by-gone years in giving effect to that principle. This testimony from the town of Lindsay to the predominant feeling of my mind in favour of civil rights and the perfect equality of all religious creeds, I receive with very great gratification, though I am fully aware that any preference that may be exhibited in a local gathering, such as the one at Lindsay, may not be regarded as one of a very extensive nature. Still, I think I may regard this handsome present as an indication of a favorable feeling on behalf of the party I lead, more than as a recognition of any personal efforts I may have made on behalf of that particular place. I can only say that nothing will give me greater pleasure so long as I remain in public life than to aid in promoting that feeling of harmony among the various Christian denominations which have been for many years the peculiar characteristic of the Canadian people. I happen to know the Rev. Father Stafford in whose congregation the bazaar was held and, I have long looked upon him as one of the most advanced advocates of the principles of religious equality. I know him to be a gentleman who has distinguished himself in moral reform, and in Christian liberty, and in generous recognition of other denominations as co-labourers with himself in building up our common country." (Hear, hear.) Mr. Mackenzie concluded by asking the deputation to convey to Father Stafford and the ladies of Lindsay, his hearty appreciation of their kindness. The party then withdrew. The cane is beautifully mounted with chased gold, and bears the following inscription: "Voted to Hon. A. Mackenzie at the Roman Catholic bazaar, Lindsay, February 10th, 1877, and presented to him by the ladies."

CANADIAN PROTECTIONISTS.

(From the New York World)

During the last two years the Protectionists amongst our friends in Canada have been unusually busy in their attempts to build up their own fortunes at the expense of their fellow-citizens. They have received temporary aid from a quarter to which they have long looked in vain, and have thereby acquired an unreal and fleeting importance. The depression of business has been felt in Canada as well as everywhere else, and as is usual there, the operatives and poorer classes on short time or out of work, have been ready to throw the blame of their sufferings on the Government, on the tariff, on anything rather than their own improvidence. The Canadian manufacturers, a comparatively minor interest in that country, have taken the opportunity of this existing depression to urge that a tariff hostile to the United States would enable them to employ labor, revive business and generally to counteract the effect of the "hard times." They have sought the aid of Sir John Macdonald and his party now in Opposition, and despite the fact that they have in times past received innumerable snubs from him, have led him on by fostering his hope of seducing from their allegiance the Protectionist supporters of Mr. Mackenzie's Government, until he and his followers now pass as the supporters of what they are, pleased to call "a national tariff", or, in other words, a tariff of retaliation against the United States. But even in his anxiety to steal those supporters of Mr. Mackenzie (the present Premier) who represent manufacturing cities. Sir John Macdonald, the Disraeli of the Dominion, is always careful in his resolutions and votes to leave a loophole through which he may escape in due time. And the due time would certainly come as soon as he had succeeded in overthrowing his rival. The Canadians cannot be protectionists. Their principal interests are farming AND LUMBERING, and they are quite alive to the fact that the cheaper they can buy the goods they require the better. The whole question of Free Trade and Protection has been and is still more fully discussed by the Canadians than by ourselves, and though the temporary necessities of parliamentary warfare have given the small body of protectionists a momentary prominence, they will relapse into insignificance on the revival of business; and in the meantime—as the recent vote in the Canadian Parliament has shown—they will not induce the Mackenzie-Blake Government to depart from their sound principle of a revenue tariff.

DEPLORABLE ACCIDENT.—While James Miller, of Ops, and a daughter of William Moellimo, of Emily, were Crossing the river on Wednesday morning at the Cross Creeks, the ice broke through and both were drowned the bodies being found some time afterwards within a short distance of each other. Miller's two brothers were witnesses of the sad calamity, but could render no assistance. The two families have the sympathy of their friends and neighbours in this sudden affliction.—Lindsay Warder.

OUR BACK WATERS.

(From the Bobcaygeon Independent.)

The Ontario Government are doing a great and important public service in the erection of the necessary works for controlling and storing the waters of the back country. We have to chronicle the completion of another important addition to the works already existing, namely, the dam at Kenesos Lake This dam, though only about 120 feet in length, raises the water six or seven feet in hight over and area of several thousand acres, and in addition to preventing the great rush of water during the spring freshets furnishes water for large quantity to be used and stores a portion of the lower lakes for the navigation during the summer. The importance of the latter is every year becoming greater, the clearing up of the country having a sensible influence in diminishing the rain-fall. The new dam at Kenesos Lake is a most substantial structure, and has been erected under the personal superintendence of Mr. Shaw the Government Inspector, and under the foremanship of Mr. Wm. Robinson. It has been built cheaply, considering the substantial and permanent character of the works.

Some additional works will be completed before the spring freshets. A small dam at Hawk Lake will be put up, and the dam at Drag Lake, in Dysart, will be strengthened.

It is desirable that the attention of the Government should be called to the necessity which exists for a dam at the outlet of Mountain Lake. This outlet is very narrow, has high and solid banks and bottom, and a dam 120 feet in length could be cheaply built and would raise a head of five feet. No land of any consequence would be drowned by such a head, but a reservoir of five thousand acres would at once become available, and the rapids between Mountain and Twelve Mile Lakes would be overcome. Now that Kenesos Lake Dam is finished, a dam at Mountain Lake is the next most important work in connection with the regulation of the Back Country Waters.

MARRIED IN THE DARK.

A certain young lady in New York has been for some time in the pangs of uncertainty as to whether she is Miss Mary E. Knox, or Mrs. Merritt, the lawful spouse of one John A. Merritt, whom she alleges she married with all the forms and ceremonies prescribed by law. The marriage was to be one of those highly romantic affairs, differing from the common kind experienced in everyday life, inasmuch as it was to be performed in the dark. The parties met and a marriage ceremony solemnized between Miss Knox and some individual whom she believed to be Mr. Merritt. To her intense astonishment and dismay Merritt repudiated the whole affair, declared he was not present and was not the person to whom she was married on the occasion. The matter was brought into court and judgment secured by the plaintiff, requiring Merritt to give bonds for the support

SECRET SERVICE MONEY.

In spite of the suspicious circumstances connected with Sir John A. Macdonald's management of the Secret Service Fund, the journals of his party persist in their refusal to see anything wrong in it. We are as unwilling as any of them that their client should be condemned on mere suspicion, or even on pretty strong circumstantial evidence. We are quite willing in fact, that the prisoner's case be made as favourable as possible, by leaving his previous convictions entirely out of the question. But, having granted this much, we shall insist on the defence sticking strictly to their case, instead of making a proverbial acknowledgment of its weakness by "abusing the plaintiff's attorney." Their joy that no proof of having used the money improperly can be brought against Sir John is but ill expressed as a defiance, particularly when Sir John himself is probably the only one competent to give undoubted evidence upon that point.

The very fact that he refuses to say anything whatever respecting the mode of expenditure is sufficient to cause a suspicion in the minds of the public jury that he fears to testify lest he should convict himself. If he were the pure-minded patriot his political adherents would have us believe and utterly undeserving of the dark suspicions that lower over him, indignant at the injustice, he would be the first to welcome a chance to scatter the cloud in the manner offered him by conforming to the English practice. That he chooses to decline any such test of good faith, and to live amid the foul breath of suspicion, leads to the easy inference that a consciousness of guilt makes him rather bear those ills he has than fly to others that he knows are worse. When, therefore, the friends of the late irresponsible trustee of the Secret Service Fund claim that he is innocent simply because no proofs of misapplication of these monies can be brought against him, they ask too much. It is as if a culprit accused of theft asked for his discharge on the sole plea that there could be no proof advanced that he had picked pockets. The charge may not have been pocket-picking, yet the defence asks that this particular kind of larceny be proven or the prisoner discharged. You say this is absurd. So it is; but not more so than the grounds on which John A's innocence is sought to be established.

There is really no accusation of misappropriation against Sir John Macdonald. The inquiry which so exercises our Conservative friends is based on a motion Mr. Charlton made on the 5th of March, to refer to the Public Accounts Committee the items of Expenditure of Secret Service Funds from 1868 to 1871, inclusive. This was done, notwithstanding Sir John's expressed wish to the contrary; and whatever revelations have been since made by the Committee are certainly not in the nature of an accusation against the Right Honourable Member more particularly interested in the inquiry. Whatever he may have done with the moneys entrusted to him by Parliament as Secret Service Funds, and of which he refuses to give any explanation whatever, certain it is that after he had gone out of office he retained a large amount of this fund to his credit in the Bank of Montreal, and that he, having then no control whatever over it as a Minister, drew $6,600 before handing over the balance to his successors in office. For this no valid defence is offered, neither indeed can be; and the conduct of the ex-Minister in this particular is of a piece with his contempt of Parliament in connection with the whole fund and the proper account and audit thereof. In this item of $6,600 there is a clear misappropriation of public funds, such as has caused the impeachment of a British Minister, and which if our Parliament is true to itself will be condemned by the House in the most unmistakable terms. Indeed by its manner of dealing with such matters is it that Parliament earns for itself the respect or contempt of the country. The high position and deep respect in which the British House of Commons is to-day held is largely on account of its persistent punishment of such offences, and the constant upholding of its own honour whenever it has been menaced by unseemly conduct on the part of a member, whatever his position. The example is worthy of being followed; and only by such care for its dignity and honour can our Canadian House of Commons hope to attain its true position in the exponent of the Dominion's political life, resting upon that life so high a model as to lift it from the mire of mere party animosities and sickening scandals into the free and healthful atmosphere of superior statesmanship and patriotic endeavour for the country's weal before any party victory for the time being.

DEFENCE OR SUPPLICATION?

The Tory organ of our town persists in its defence of the dishonesty perpetrated by those connected with the Northern Railway management; and, crediting some former remarks of ours to the Hon. say Post, proceeds to answer them in its own peculiar fashion, the reference to the Post being only one of the glaring errors with which the lame pleading is filled.—The "apologist of evil" now states that he merely "suggested" that there might be some "possible" ground of excuse for the payment of J. Beverly Robinson's election expenses, as a testimonial to the President of the road. We have already shown how this differed from common "testimonials", in that it involved a breach of the principle of the independence of Parliament. The member elected by the Railway Company's money was the member for the Company; and not for the constituency (Algoma) he professed to represent. In fact Mr. Robinson in his extraordinary speech on the floor of the House stated plainly that he considered himself elected specially to look after the interests of the Northern Railway. Whether it be right, or whether it be wrong for corporations to give their officers fast horses or trips to the old country is entirely beside the question. It certainly is wrong for officers of any company to make presents to each other out of money belonging not to them, but to others. In plain English it is called embezzlement; and we cannot see how even any "possible" ground of excuse can be "suggested" for it. Clerks in a store might just as well suggest an excuse for presenting "tokens of esteem" to each other from the funds of their employer. Even the authors of these peculiar transactions on the Northern Railway felt so convinced of their guilt that they tried to shield by tortuous book-keeping. Even our "apologist" does "not feel called upon to defend this transaction." What then is all his labour undertaken for? Defence, apology, or what you will, his article was evidently written for the purpose of condoning as far as he was able this crime he says he does not feel called on to defend. He simply does it without being called on. Either this, or he had no object whatever in writing of the transaction as he has done.

We are even treated to a suppositious case, which the "apologist of evil" pretends to consider "a similar position." It is that of a man owing money to another, and making somebody else a present. We are then oracularly told that it does not necessarily follow that he intends to swindle his creditors, 'he feeling confident of his ability to pay the debt when it becomes due; and in fact does so pay it. No one said such a case presented evidences of swindling. However if it be the debtor's servant, of his own act, that makes the present out of his master's funds, and that too for the purpose of inducing the recipient to make such representations to the creditor as will lead to the forgiveness of the debt, then we should say there was not only an intention to swindle the creditor, but also an unjustifiable liberty with the money of the master, and a corrupt bargain between the servant and the recipient of the gift.

As for Sir John Macdonald's connection with this thievery on the Northern Railway, though he may not have known by actual evidence the names of subscribers to the testimonial or the amount given by them, he must have had a pretty shrewd idea that the man on whom he drew for money to help to elect Sir Francis Hicks in North Renfrew would pretty certainly be a liberal subscriber to the "testimonial." That he must have known where the money came from is clearly shown by Mr. F. W. Cumberland himself in his evidence before the committee on Thursday last. After stating that two entries of $500 each under the head "Parliamentary Expenses," and dated Nov. 8th and 10th, 1869, being drafts of Sir John Macdonald, had doubtless a connection with the election of Sir Francis Hincks, and were paid out of the funds of the Company, the witness, in answer to Mr. Bowell, said "it was generally understood in such cases subscriptions of this clue were provided by the Company," as the persons interested, he should say, "had reason to suppose that the money was taken from the railway funds, or else must have supposed witness to be worth a great deal more than he was." So much for the general knowledge of where Tory funds came from.

Mr. Cumberland further confessed before the Committee the purpose for which these funds were thus lavishly bestowed. Alluding to a conversation which preparatory to him for the drafts of Sir John, the witness testified that "in conversations of this character the railroad man was speaking, and not the individual." * * * "Any subscriptions witness made were made because he believed it was in the interest of the Company." It will be plainly seen from this that the intention of those subscriptions was to buy the favour of the Government and induce the cancellation of the Government's claim on the road. The aim was a bad one from beginning to end, whether it was in the payment of members election expenses, contributing to the general Tory fund, augmenting a caste testimonial to Sir John, or contributing to the Mail newspaper; and the purposes of all concerned only deserved exposure, that the conspirators might be held up to the contempt and disdain of all honest people.

"Grip" this week hits off Sir John's style of running the Secret Service business. He represents the Opposition leader running a "new Government department," as Minister of the Secret Service. He announces the "business strictly private" and irresponsible to Parliament;" also, that it is "the only Government department managed by the Opposition, invented by Sir John A. without the authority of Mr Mackenzie or the constitution." Another placard proclaims that financial claims against the late administration are paid by Sir John, general manager of the Dominion. Two money bags occupy the foreground, one labelled "Due to Brother Pope, for (?) $600;" the other, "Due Friend Campbell, for (?) $6,000." On the opposite side is a desk, labelled, "No book account kept here; and above all is the Tory "Golden Text"—"No matter who is in office, the Tories are always in power." Sir John, with a knowing leer on his countenance, is leaning over a rude counter, resting on two hogsheads, on the top of which is inscribed: "Mac Kenzie is responsible to the Crown for all business done here." The cartoon, as will be seen from the above description, cleverly shows up the salient points of the Secret Service outrage, and the sketching of the principal figure and his surroundings is excellent.

MORE ABOUT CONTEMPT AND LIBEL.

The Conservative journals now have an excellent chance to repeat those moral homilies concerning libel and contempt of court, of which they so finely unburdened themselves during the continuance of the, now celebrated, prosecution and defence of the Hon. George Brown, in re Simpson vs. Wilkinson. A couple of cases leaving an important bearing on the law of libel and contempt, arose last week; but, in spite of their former zeal for truth and the dignity of the bench, the Tory papers seems to have overlooked their opportunity to add conclusive testimony to their former very virtuous utterances on these matters, and to make a further advance of their highly moral and dignified views in this respect. We are sorry that they should have thus lost sight of so good a chance to inculcate great truths on the public mind; for it unfortunately leaves them exposed to the sneers of partizan Grits, who will not hesitate to say they have been silent because the offenders have been of their own ranks. It is a pity that these Tory champions of the law's dignity, who were horrified at the very suspicion of our offence against it, should now so easily allow the rather accusations to be brought, with some show of reason too, that their feelings are influenced by party important concern are influenced by party considerations.

On Monday of last week in the Court of Appeal, the petitioners in the Lincoln Election Case, represented by Mr. Hodgins, Q. C. obtained a rule nisi, calling on Mr. Cliffe, publisher of the St. Catherines Review, to show why he should not be attacked for contempt in commenting upon the trial while pending, in a manner calculated to prejudice the action of the petitioners; and also for publishing a bitter letter from Mr. J. C. Rykert; the respondent, making violent reference to the case, for which letter a rule was also granted against Mr. Rykert, asking him to show cause why he too should not be committed for contempt.

The editorial passage in the Review, on which the action is based, reads thus:—

"The fact is, they (the petitioners) are responsible for inaugurating and continuing one of the most disgraceful legal proceedings ever started in Canada, and that solely for the purpose of giving the representation of Lincoln to the man having the largest bank account."

The portion of Mr. Rykert's letter in which his alledged contempt is contained, reads as follows:—

"Nothing is said about the very questionable means by which my opponents seek to reduce my majority. The notorious 'Cherry Alley gang,' who have been a terror to the town for years; witnesses fresh from the Penitentiary; coloured boys who swore they were paid by Mr. Brown to swear good against me; others who have admitted that the greater part of their lives has been spent either in gaol or in evading justice—all these have been pressed into the service to swear away the franchise of honest men, and not one word of disapprobation has fallen from the greatest slanderer of the age. Yours truly, J. C. Rykert."

Another case that came up in the Court of Queen's Bench on the following day, might also profitably obtain the attention of the Tory press. It is an action for libel, in which the plaintiff's are the members of the Dominion Ministry. The Premier, by Mr. Bethune, Q. C., applied for a rule calling on McVicar and McAdam, publishers of the Sarnia Canadian to show cause why criminal information should not be exhibited against them for a libel contained in the following paragraph published in their paper, on the 23rd of February:—

"A Friend at Court.—The advantage of having a friend at Court to give one a timely hint of coming events may be seen practically illustrated in our town, in the large quantity of cubing imported by Messrs C. Mackenzie & Co., just before the change in the tariff took place. We do not say that the Premier gave his brother a hint about the rise in duties on tubing—that would be nepotism, which, as we all know, never found a resting place in his pure and manly bosom, but we do say that some member of the Privy Council is leaky. Proposed changes in the tariff are for good reasons always jealously guarded from the public before being made known in Parliament. Notwithstanding this, the highly favoured firm of C. Mackenzie & Co., had 'a little bird' watching their interest. What do our less favoured dealers say of this shameful use of Cabinet secrets?"

Chief Justice Hagerty, on the nature of the alleged libel being stated, declared it was a very scandalous charge to make against any person. Affidavits were presented from every member of the Government, denying the statements made in the article complained of, after the presentation of the case.

"His Lordship said he thought he could make the rule returnable to the full Court. There was no doubt the article was excessively scandalous.

Mr. Bethune said the case was made out at the instance of the Queen, because the honor of members of the Administration of the country was affected.

His Lordship remarked that it was perfectly possible to scandalise a man in the negative, by saying he would not do this or the other.

Mr. Bethune proceeded to say that all the purchase of iron tubing made by the firm from the month of September previous was to the extent of $18 only, and the whole purchase of the article for eighteen months before did not reach over $900.

His Lordship, having commented upon the hardships which would be inflicted upon public men if they were compelled tamely to submit to all the slanders circulated about them in the newspapers, said he granted the rule and would make it returnable before the whole Court, whereby the moral effect would be much greater."

What do our virtuous Tory contemporaries think of this? Surely it is as deserving of their attention and consideration as the "attack on Judge Wilson," of which they had so much to say. It is of interest to the press in general, and particularly to those Tory papers that copied the obnoxious paragraph, publishers of which papers are equally liable to criminal prosecution with the originators of the story. Had not the relators of the tubing scandal at second-hand, better begin to think over a neat form of apology?

Speaking of Mr. Blake's Bill for the suppression of gaming the Mail says:—"In the present condition of the Canadian turf the pruning-knife was emphatically called for. In lopping off the main inducement by which the undesirable adjuncts of the race course have swollen to a magnitude that overwhelms and excludes the desirable element the Minister of Justice we think befriends the cause of true sport. The absence of the pool-box will not lessen the number of sportsmen and will not lessen the number of horses bred in the Dominion. It will certainly lessen the clans of the Philistines who infest race meetings with the vulture's appetite." This, coming from a paper that is conducted by one of the leading fanciers of fast horses in the country, is pretty good testimony in favour of prohibitory pool selling.

This best known remedy for all affections of the chest, lungs and throat, is Gray's Syrup of Red Spruce Gum. It has been tried by thousands of persons suffering from the above diseases, and in every instance it has given immediate relief. In cases of consumption, incipient or organic, where the pulmonary tissues threaten to give way, two doses of this Syrup has much on placed that most sinister, and the cough speedily disappears. FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

The Committee on Fire, Water and Gas reported recommending the Council to remit the fine imposed on E. Burnham for an infraction of the Fire By law from the fact that he has complied with said By-law, but that Mr. Burnham pay all expenses in connection therewith.—The report was adopted.

The Mayor stated that Mr. Hugel had told him that he had got permission from the Government for his Conductor to carry a mail bag on the train, and that he had spoken to him to try and have it hung inside the Post Office, which would be of more convenience still to the business men of the town.

Mr. Dumble said that some action should be taken as to the watering of the streets, as last season there was a great many complaints.

Mr. Millar said that for years the streets had been very improperly watered, and he desired that some arrangement should be made to extend the contract for a term of years.

The Mayor said there was no possibility of extending the contract for more than one year, unless some of the business men gave security for the amount.

Mr. Elder said there was great difficulties last year as to the way the streets were watered, and he wanted to know if it could not be done without levying a special tax, and thought that the merchants of the town payed high enough taxes.

Councillor Millar thought it would be legislation for a class if they did not have a special rate.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Rountree,—That the Auditors Report and Suggestion be referred to the Finance Committee to examine and report the best way of paying up our liabilities to the 1st of January last.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Elder,—That the streets be watered this year with a general tax.—Lost for want of a seconder.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Millar,—That the Clerk be instructed to communicate with Mr. Hugel with a view of getting a mail bag hung in the Post Office where letters may be mailed after the mail is closed, so as to give the business men longer time for mailing letters, and that Mr. Hugel be requested to make the railway time the same as the town time, so that the Peterboro' and Railway time may be the same.—Carried.

Mr. Dumble said that the Treasurer was very anxious to have a By-law passed for to borrow money, as he has been pressed very hard for the moneys that have been passed by the Council.

On motion the Council went into Committee of the Whole on the Treasurer's By-law to enable Mr. Dumble in the chair.

The Committee rose and on motion the By-law Council then adjourned for two

A By-law to carry out the prayer of the petitioners was read a first time, and the Clerk directed to give notice to those having any part of said road line fenced in, to have the same removed. FAIR PLAY.

SAW DUST.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir—Mr. Rochester, M.P., stated in Parliament he did not believe saw dust would fill up a river. If Mr. Rochester would visit the Otonabee, I think he would change his mind. There is a large addition this year to the saw dust island at the Cemetery Point. There is another saw dust point formed below the looks at the mouth of the river. There are several acres of pure saw dust. I find some of our lumbermen that stated they would be ruined last year if the Government insisted in having the saw dust removed, soon found a way to do it when they found it could be sold for 50cts. a load to pack ice in.

Yours,

FISHERMAN.

Poore, Centennial Judges of Sewing Machines at Philadelphia in 1876, to be the best Sewing Machine in the market. Not only the Centennial Commissioners pronounce the W & W. the best Sewing Machine but also Mrs. Jas. Stephenson, of Asphodel Mrs. W. W. Johnston, Wm. McCullagh, J. G. Hughes R. Tornan, Mrs. Dr. Kincaid, Mrs. W. Patterson, Jr., of Peterboro; Mrs. Wm. Duncan and Mrs. J. Smith of Ashburnham, and hundreds of others too numerous to mention, pronounce it the best Sewing Machine and recommend all intending purchasers to call and see the new family W & W. "it is a perfect little Gem."

CAUTION.

I hereby caution all those having the W & W Sewing Machine not to allow any other agent or person interested in any other Sewing Machine to have anything to do with the W & W, as there are a great many agents who pretend to sell and repair all classes of Sewing Machines, they have little or no knowledge of the W & W.

But I would recommend those having the W & W Sewing Machine to call on the proper and only authorized Agent at Peterboro, who is competent to repair, if necessary, the W & W Sewing Machines properly. I am also willing to give instructions free of expense to all W & W owners of the Agency, on all classes of goods from 6 oz to inch thick, down to gauze also lace on or ruffle work free. All persons interested in the W & W, will be benefited by calling on G. A. Mitchell, who thoroughly and practically understands the Machine.

Please read my late circulars on W & W Machines, before purchasing a Sewing Machine elsewhere.

I also take Insurance Risks on first-class buildings at a very low rate, and I am working for first-class companies.

The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 5, 1877.

THE river is rising slowly.

APRIL showers bring forth May flowers.

FARMERS are preparing for the spring work.

"PULL down your veil" is appropriate this month.

There was no meeting of the Ashburnham Council on Monday evening.

WHEN will the hands on the East side of the town clock be in running order.

BUTTER has now reached a price when it may reasonably be deemed a luxury. Poor people had better let it alone.

FURNACES.—Mr. George Stephenson, of Lindsay, with a gang of workmen, is now putting in one of his hot-air furnaces in Mrs. Cottingham's residence, on the old Giles property, in the west of the town.

BE sure before purchasing an organ that you examine the prize list and instruments of the "Bell" Organ Company, from their agent here. They are the cheapest and best organ made.

SNOW SHOE CLUB.—There will be a meeting of the Peterborough Snow Shoe Club on Wednesday evening next, in the Huffman House, at half-past seven. A full attendance is requested as considerable business is to be done.

BOATING CLUB.—The adjourned annual meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club will be held on Monday next, the 9th inst., at the Boat House, at 7.30 p.m. The election of officers will take place at this meeting.

THE German word for "life insurance" is "lebensversicherungsgesellschaft." It has the great advantage that, while the agent is pronouncing it, the victim is fairly warned, and has an opportunity to climb over the fence and hide under the barn.

SPIRITUAL EXPOSE.—Professors Randolph and Cecil gave a very interesting exposure of spiritual manifestations in the Opera House on Thursday and Friday evenings last. Some of their tricks were truly wonderful, fully up to the Davenport Brothers.

GOOD FRIDAY.—This day was religious by most by some, and serious by others. The day was quiet until about 12 o'clock at night, when some fellows unable to defer tasting flesh any longer, had a general warming and had to appear in the police court next morning, and pay dearly for their folly.

STEAMER GOLDEN-EYE. — The saloon and dining room of this favourite steamer has been rented to Mr. George Joubert, for the sum of $600.00, for the ensuing season. The boat is getting a complete overhauling, and Mr. Calcutt has made arrangements to have a piano on board this season, so as to give those who are musically inclined a chance of enjoying themselves when taking a trip on the "Golden-eye.

FIRE.—On Monday afternoon about 2 p.m. a fire broke out in one of those wooden buildings on George street, opposite the market square, known as the "Dublin Hotel," the flames quickly spread to the building south, which was occupied as a Harness shop, grocery store &c. As both buildings were old and dry, they soon became a prey to the devouring elements, and were totally destroyed. Insurance, $400 in the Western.

LICENSE.—Saturday was the last day allowed by law for intending liquor dealers to make applications for a license for the year. Mr. John Ritchie has received applications for 9 shop licenses in town, and one in Ennismore, and 10 hotel licenses in town; 4 in Lakefield; 3 in Smith; 1 in Harvey; 1 in Ennismore, and 1 in North Monaghan, making a total of 10 shop licenses and 20 hotel licences in the West Riding of the County of Peterborough.

THE MUSICAL SOCIETY CONCERT.—This Concert which was announced for the 12th inst., has, on account of unforseen difficulties in arrangement of programme, been postponed for one week, and will take place on the 19th inst., at Bradburn's New Hall. We trust our readers will not forget this entertainment. The programme, we understand, is to be a most attractive one, and will, we are satisfied, be well rendered.

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—The Peterborough Literary Association met last Thursday evening. Mr. H. T. Beck in the chair. Mr. Hilton read "The Vepo's Complaint," by Vowper. Mr. Kennin, "Arnold-Mukleroed." The following subject was discussed. "Should strikes, such as that which recently occurred on the Grand Trunk Railway, be made a criminal offence." Mr. Toker and Mr. Edwards maintained the affirmative, Mr. Lydgate and Mr. Bell, the negative. The decision was given in the affirmative. The meeting this evening will be opened to the public free of charge.

TOO MUCH ONE-SIDED.—It is no easy matter to get a proper heading for some things. And some things jog like, are too much developed on the one-side; it requires no great amount of logic to prove this. A case in point occurred on the evening of Good Friday, when two young gentlemen of this town were preserved from being mercilessly dashed from side to side by being neatly packed in the buss with eight brave young ladies. Brave they were, or the badness of the road, the darkness of the night, and the scarcity of protection, would have damped their spirits before they reached their destination.

BELFORD'S MONTHLY.—The April number of Belford's appears with two chapters of J. G. Holland's story, "Nicholas Minturn." Chas. Slaughter presents a poetic tribute to "Walter Munro." "Canada a hundred years ago," is an interesting article by John Beade. The following articles are good, of which the titles are "Forest Rangers and Voyageurs;" "Evenings in the Library, (No. 4);" "Artificial Fish Breeding in Canada;" "A London modern Green-room;" "Cruise of H. M. S. Challenger." Then comes four chapters of "What He cost Her." Current literature; musical and humorous departments; making up 128 pages of choice reading.

ACCIDENT.—On Sunday, the 25 ult., as Mr. William Robson, his wife and nephew were driving to church, in crossing the embankment at Mr. Carver's Creek, the horse's collar being too small, and drawing the cutter through the mud, he choaked and in the struggle went over the railing down the embankment, about 15 feet, bringing the cutter and all with him, except Mr. Robson, who caught hold of the railing when the cutter was going over. Mr. Robson was severly injured, her face being broken and several of her teeth knocked out. The young man and the horse were pretty badly shaken, but escaped unhurt; a cutter coming along at the time brought Mrs Robson to town to a doctor, and in the afternoon she was removed to her home. We believe she is progressing as favourably as circumstances will permit

CONCERT.—The amateur concert in aid of the Library of St. John's Church Sunday School, which was given in Bradburn's Opera House, on Tuesday evening, was a success, we believe, in a pecuniary point of view, and the entertainment itself was very successful. The quartette "Hush thee my Baby," by the Misses Ulyott and Rush and Messrs. Elliot and Rush was executed in a very efficient manner, as was "Moonlight on the Lake," by the same: "Fairy Moonlight," by the choir was well rendered: "Let the Dead and the Beautiful Rest," a Quartette, T. Rush, treble, R. Clutton-alto; F. Fletcher, Tenor; and A. Elliott, bass, was well done. The different parts could not be in better hands, as was evinced by the applause that they met with. Mr. J. Ormond presided at the piano. Mr. Dixon surpassed himself in his ventriloquism and mimicry, particularly the latter. The farce which closed the programme was very amusing indeed. The characters who took part in the Charades acted their parts well, especially Mr. Charles Brown, in the character of "Jonathan Scroggins," a Yankee from the State of Maine.

EASTER BEEF.—The Beef Market on Saturday fully equalled that of any past event. Mr. Hewston had a very finely carcased side of the finest beef, prettion and lean. Mr. Which had also very fine meat raised by Jas. Campbell, Esq., and others. The stall was finely decorated. Mr. Heather has not been behind in his selections. He had bought a motherly-like a very fine animal from Mr. Archfield Goodfellow. It was only two years old, but was finely fed. It weighed very heavy for its age, and looked tempting after the leaden pieces. Mr. Coe had also a well-supplied stall of beef, mutton, lamb and pork. Mr. Wainwright had a very fine show of every class of meat of the season, and some fine beef and mutton fed by Mr. Ludgate, of Ashburnham. Owing to the excellent display in all the stalls it is difficult to particularize. Peterborough butchers are excellent caterers for their patrons. The market is not behind and easy in Ontario.

ENTERTAINMENT.—The entertainment given under the auspices of the Friendship Temple, and in aid of the organ fund, was a success both financially and otherwise. The evening was pleasant, which, no doubt, was considered a favourable omen for successful, and as a result the hall was densely crowded. The programme rendered was a very good one, composed of the following pieces:—song "Come Brothers, Sisters, tune the lay," choir; reading "Defence of the Bridge against the Tuscan Army," D. Kennedy; song, "Gathering up the Shells by the Sea Shore," Miss Heather; reading, "Mrs. Caddle's Lecture," Miss Grandy; song, "Pullman Car," Mr. J. Ormond; Reading, Mr. W. Gullett; song, "Loch, oh, Lie!" choir. At the intermission Mr. Pentland made a short address. Song, "Moonlight Fairies," choir; reading "the Fireside Legend," Mr. J. Sproule; Ventriloquism, Mr. Dixon; song, Miss Nettie Martin; reading, "the Lost Irishman," Mr. D. Kennedy; German song in character, "57 cents," Mr. J. Ormond; song, "Good old days of yore," choir. The programme being exhausted the entertainment closed by the choir singing the "National Anthem."

GRAND BALL.—The annual ball of the I. C. B. U. took place on Easter Monday evening, in the Calese House. About fifty couples were present. The ball room presented a very fine appearance. The walls were tastefully decorated with evergreens, mottoes, &c. Around the room on all sides were seen the names and faces of the most distinguished of Ireland's distinguished sons. Facing the entrance were evergreen letters, "Welcome," "God Save Ireland," "Home Rule for Ireland," "V. R." "God Save the Queen," "I. C. B. U." The programme of dances showed that the Committee were adepts in the art of terpsichorean enjoyment. Where all performed their tastes so well it would be unfair to particularize very much. Chief among the lady dancers who competed for the satin slippers, must be mentioned Miss Powers and Miss O'Leary, each of whom waltzed in an artistic and graceful manner. The slippers were given to the latter amidst applause. All of the ladies who competed were very fine dancers, without exception. Mr. Walsh deserves the greatest credit for his floor management. No one could have performed the office with greater satisfaction. Shortly after the waltzers, competition the company adjourned to the large upper dining hall of the Calese House for supper. The great variety of meats, fowls, &c., which were presented, reflects much credit on Mr. John Maloney, the proprietor of the house. The appearance of the tables was very neat indeed. After partaking of the hospitalities of the host, the assembly adjourned to the drawing room, where several gentlemen pianists and vocalists performed and sung fine selections of music. The applause which greeted these amateurs was very enthusiastic. The music being finished a march was made for the ball room once more, and Quadrilles, Lancers, Cotillions, Valses, Vercovianes, Polkas and Gallops, were respectively gone through with. One of the most interesting features of the second part of the programme was the competition on the "Irish Jig." The prize, a box of good cigars, was justly won by Mr. Michael Tierney. The dancing lasted till five o'clock in morning, when the party dispersed well pleased with the night's enjoyment. Freeman's quadrille band furnished first-class dance music. The thanks of those present are justly due to Mr. McGrann, and the members of the Committee generally, for the superior entertainment given their guests on Monday evening. We trust that the success which attended the Young Irishmen on this occasion is but the prelude to still greater success in the future.

FIGHTING ON THE STREET.—On Tuesday morning Geo. Johnston charged William Trenwith and Patrick Croft with a breach of the peace by fighting on the public streets, on Saturday morning the 31st of March. Alex. From R. Fellows, M. D., of Hill, N. H.

Although I have generally a great objection to patent medicines, I can but say in justice to DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY that it is a remedy of superior value for pulmonary Diseases.

I have made use of this preparations for several years, and it has proved to be very reliable and long-standing Coughs. I know of one patient, now in comfortable health, who has taken this remedy, and who but for its use, I consider would now be living.

R. FELLOWS, M. D.

50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

ELECTRICITY (THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL).—WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, sciatica and croup. Fifty cents' worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity lame back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical: J. Caldwell, of Sparta, Ont., writes: "Send me a dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGuire, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agent left, it sells like a charm; it was slow at first, but now quite rapidly goes." H. Cole, of Iona, writes, "I cannot forward 6 dozen Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thorneville, writes, "Send at once 72 bottles more of Eclectric Oil. The 72 bottles you sent me before Christmas are all sold, and have given great general satisfaction." J. Tennant, Woodland, writes, "Send no more Eclectric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Jones, Chatham, P. O., write, "Send us 6 gross of Eclectric Oil, and 6 gross of Lung Balm, and it will sell like wildfire. Send at once." Sold by all druggists throughout the Dominion. Price, 25 cts. WONDERS OF MODERN SCIENCE.

The present century will, when mankind are capable of taking a correct retrospect, appear in their several departments, equally as the most miraculous if we view it in the light of the early ages. Take for example the electro-magnetic telegraph the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Our venerable "clerk of the weather" has become so thoroughly familiar with these most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washington and foretell what the weather will be to-morrow in Florida or New York, as well as if several hundred miles did not intervene between them and the places named. [illegible] required for the [illegible] to certain points. From these the scientists deduce accurate conclusions regardless of distance. A few months sent to the expert geologist enables him to accurately determine the rock-formation from which they were taken. He can describe [illegible] as if a chart of it were before him. [illegible] enables the astronomer to determine the constitution of the sun as accurately as if that luminary were not ninety-five million miles from his laboratory. The sun sends certain signs over the "infinitude of space" and the chemist classifies them by passing them through a spectroscope. Only the presence of certain substances could produce these solar signs. So also, in medical science diseases have certain unmistakable signs, or symptoms, and by reason of this fact, Dr. Pierce, of the World's Dispensary, has been enabled to originate and perfect a system of determining, with the greatest accuracy, the nature of these diseases, with unerring and personally examining his patients. He has spared neither pain nor expense to associate with himself as the Faculty of the World's Dispensary, a large number of graduates from some of the most famous Medical Colleges and Universities of both Europe and America. By aid of Dr. Pierce's system of diagnosis, these physicians and surgeons annually treat, with the most gratifying success, many thousands of invalids, without ever seeing them. A personal consultation is not required, they have a perfected system of correspondence by which all the necessary symptoms are obtained. They have no pretension to possess no miraculous powers. They attain their knowledge of the patient's disease by the [illegible] established rules of modern science to the practice of medicine. [illegible] skilful treatment of all lingering or chronic affections. This system of practice and the marvelous success which has been attained through it, demonstrate the fact that diseases display certain phenomena, which being subjected to scientific analysis or synthesis, furnish abundant and unmistakable data to guide the judgment of the skilful practitioner aright in determining the [illegible] of the [illegible] to [illegible] Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser," a book of over nine hundred large pages, which is so popular as to have reached a sale of, almost one hundred thousand copies within a few months of its first publication. It is sent (post-paid) by the Author to any address, on receipt of one dollar and fifty cents. Address, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

BOARD OF TRADE.

A well-attended meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening, 29th ult. Among the communications read was one from Mr. H. Calcutt, concerning freights for Peterborough Merchants, which he offered to carry at reduced rates, should the Board make any arrangement with him. The Secretary was instructed to request Mr. Calcutt to attend the next meeting of the Board—which was held on the 3rd instant—for the purpose of stating his terms and other particulars. A By-law to affiliate the Peterborough with the Dominion Board of Trade received its final reading, and was signed by the Committee.

Mr. John Erskine addressed the meeting briefly in regard to the cash and credit systems of Trade. After a short reference to the credit system, he suggested that the time be limited to three, instead of six months, at least in the dry goods business; and afterwards lay a rate per cent interest on overdue accounts. He thought the credit system was abused, and such abuses ought to be curtailed. The wholesale houses in the dry goods as well as other lines of business, were shortgaining their time of credit, and it is time the Board looked to it, & step in the same direction. To be sure a great many customers would fall off, but it is better to do a smaller business for cash or short time, than a larger one when payment is indefinite.

Mr. Erskine being seated, Mr. Loch stated in his remarks that he would rather do half his business on cash than the whole of it on credit. Several other speakers followed, and all took the same view as Mr. Erskine, but none thought the cash system could be carried out. They did not think the merchants could agree, or would have confidence enough in one another to carry out the plan. A good man, whom merchants had confidence in, might come into his store and want credit, yet the merchants could not send him away for he easily could get credit elsewhere. At any rate, the speaker thought, it was not for them to take any decided action in the matter, but they, as a Board, would suggest that something of the kind suggested should be done. An example was given of a Lindsay merchant doing a credit business, at our time, of $75,000 per year, next year reducing it to $50,000, and lastly to $30,000 on the cash or short credit system, who found he made more money the last year than he had the first. The speakers on comparison among themselves found that the merchants who had been doing business the longest in Peterborough were those who had given the least credit. The disadvantages of the credit system having been discussed it was left for the next meeting to speak concerning the advantages of the cash system, as well as the following subjects, which were suggested by various members: "Protection or, Free Trade," if it could be discussed without bringing in party questions;" the effect of the Grange Organization on business," "the Auctioneers and Transient traders by-laws," and "the effect of the system of taxation adopted by the present council," as well as various other matters. After a somewhat protracted meeting the Board adjourned till Tuesday evening, the 3rd instant, at 7.30 o'clock.

The Board met on Tuesday evening, pursuant to adjournment. After routine, Mr. Calcutt who was present, was called on and referred to the advantages of having the freight reduced by having it landed here by the Steamer Golden-Eye, which he intended doing in case he got sufficient encouragement, and proposed to lessen the freight three cents on the one hundred pounds, less than the rates the business men are paying the Midland Railway company. If the Board would appoint a committee to consult with him they might talk the matter over and perhaps some favorable terms could be arrived at. He said he would see Mr. Barber, and have the freight reduced from Cobourg to Harwood, and three cents on the freight that came into Peterboro would make a large difference. The spring and fall are the largest import seasons of our merchants, and if they could see their way to give me their patronage I will be glad to meet them half way. He had carried freight to the East and gave good satisfaction. I will land the freight at the Peterboro wharf, and if sufficient encouragement was given I would run two trips a day. There is a good storehouse at Harwood, in which goods would be perfectly safe, and if it was found to be necessary I will erect a large storehouse here. The first time the freight was lowered in this town was the time the old "Enterprise" [illegible] when Messrs. Bertram, Stethem and Kingan, gave the boat good patronage.

On motion the Clerk was instructed to get a copy of the tariff of the Midland Railway to and from Port Hope, as registered in the Registry Office, for the benefit of the Board.

[illegible] Board had a reduction in the price of Gas" were brought forward as being suitable subjects for discussion.

Mr. Ormond brought the subject of watering the streets up, and said a great many were in favor of having the wrench removed by a general rate, other than a special one, and for that purpose he would like to have the views of other members. The public received the benefit as much as the merchants, and he did not see any thing unfair in asking to have the street paid out of the general tax, as the merchants had to pay a special tax for it, while they paid the [illegible] portion of the general tax.

Mr. Hazlitt urged strongly that it was unfair to [illegible] the influence of the Board to constrain the Council to do a thing that was entirely [illegible], and should be confined to those [illegible] benefit thereby.

The Board then adjourned.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The Board met on Tuesday evening. Present, the Chairman, Jas. Stevenson, Esq., in the chair, and Messrs. Shaw, Burnham, Cox, McClelland, Robinson, Loch, Dennistoun, Edwards, Smith, Kincaid, White and Pentland.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From C. F. Ming, tendering his resignation as teacher, on account of former additional expenses this year on account of the financial state of the Town.

A petition was received from John Marshall, D. Hopkins, and 73 others, asking for a new school on Park street.—Received.

From Chas. D. Macdonald, Town Clerk, forwarding a resolution passed by the Town Council at its last meeting requesting the Board not to go to any additional expense this year on account of the financial state of the Town.

A petition was received from John Marshall, D. Hopkins, and 73 others, asking for a new school on Park street.—Received.

REPORT OF MR. BUCHAN, HIGH SCHOOL INSPECTOR, DATED TORONTO, 6th OF FEBRUARY, 1877

SIR,—I am directed by the Deputy Minister, to transmit herewith a copy of the remarks of the Inspector on the last visit to the High School.

"ACCOMMODATION: Good."

"EQUIPMENT: A. The material equipment may be described as good. In addition to the ordinary appliances there is a considerable quantity of chemical apparatus, and a small mineralogical and geological collection. There is no library in connection with the town schools, but there is a Mechanics Institute library in the place which is said to be good, and largely read."

"B. The staff is sufficiently large. The Ancient Classics are taught very thoroughly; English is taught well; Mathematics and Chemistry fairly, the teacher being a young man of limited experience, who promises well; the teaching in the Department of modern languages is the least efficient."

"ORGANIZATION: A. There is a union here and the Head Master supervises the Public School. No fees are charged; and, as Peterborough has been seperated from the county for municipal purposes, the whole burden of maintaining the Collegiate Institute falls upon the town. The County, however, pays the Board the sum of $100 annually in return for the free admission of county pupils to all the schools under its control. No less than 41 pupils from the county have availed themselves of this provision during the present half year, as far as the Collegiate Institute is concerned, and there are many other such pupils in the Public School."

"B. The order is excellent, and the school machinery is running well. The work has been divided among the teachers on correct principles, the system of teaching by subjects having recently been for the first time adopted in its entirety. The internal organization may accordingly be set down as excellent."

"REMARKS: The school is on the whole doing good work."

ACCOUNTS.

Accounts were received for the following amounts:—

W. E. Fitzgerald	1 50
Robt. Romaine	14 65
Geo. Tanner	2 37½
E. Courtney	4 75

Moved by Mr. McClelland, seconded by Mr. Smith,—That E. Courtney's account be paid at once, and that the others be referred to the Finance Committee.—Carried.

The Principal, Mr. Jeffers, handed in a report of the average attendance at the different schools for the month of March

	Total.	Av.
Collegiate Institute	163	146
Central School	545	468
South Ward	264	207
Auburn School	95	61

The chairman of the Committee on Appointments reported that Mr. Dixon was now filling the vacancy caused by the removal of Mr. Blackadar.

The Committee on Appointments were unable to decide whether to accept the resignation of Mr. Ming or not, he having left the school on such short notice.

Mr. Jeffers	100 00
Mr. Campbell	100 00
Mr. Earl	100 00
Mrs. Hunt	50 00
Miss Greenlow	25 00

Moved by Mr. Shaw, seconded by Mr McClelland,—That the report be adopted.

Moved in amendment by Dr. Kincaid seconded by Mr. Loch,—That the report of the Committee on Appointments be only received, and that the question of increase of Teacher's salaries be referred to a special Committee, consisting of Messrs. Dennistoun, Smith, Edwards, Burnham Stevenson, Shaw and Cox.

A lengthy discussion then ensued in regard to the increase of Teacher's salaries, when considerable cross-firing between the members of the committee and others, took place.

Dr. Kincaid thought the report should not be adopted. He was in favor of giving good salaries and paying teachers well for their services rendered, as in his opinion no class of the community deserved better at our hands, but he was opposed to the manner in which this report attempted to deal with the matter. The committee had selected some of the most influential and best paid teachers for an increase, for whom others who were struggling doing perhaps as good work in their own departments, were not dealt with, in his opinion by the report. He was also in favor of keeping up the high standard of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, but it will be observed that the teachers in that institution are by the recommending of this report to get an increase of $360 per annum, while the teachers in the Public School department are to get the paltry sum of $75. He said that the teachers of the youngest children were the most important, as a great deal depended on the way the mind was moulded at that age. The system then adopted would undoubtedly have the most influence for good or evil on the mind of the pupil. He further said that Mr. Johnston, teacher of the Auburn School, asked for an increase, and not one word was mentioned whether he was worthy of it or not; others, perhaps, were too modest to ask for their just rights, but if this special committee was granted it would undoubtedly deal fairly with all and make a report to this Board that would be satisfactory to the ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough, and promote the harmony and good government of the schools.

Mr. Dennistoun spoke at some length also on this important question. He referred to the way in which Mr. Ming had left the school. He was of opinion that teachers should give two months notice. Mr. Ming had received an increase of salary from $450 to $600, but the way in which he left deserved the censure of this Board, and as a result of the hasty leave in which Mr. Ming had taken, both of the pupils had to be taken from the department and put to teaching. He was of opinion that the proper adjustment of teachers salaries should be considered.

Other members of the Board also spoke at some length on this matter, and on the amendment being put was carried with the following division:—

For the original motion, Messrs. Cox, Robinson, Shaw, Burnham and McClelland.

The Chairman of the Property Committee [illegible] a report recommending that there be a new committee appointed to consider the matter of building a new school in the west end of the town this summer.

At this point considerable discussion ensued as to the property of building schools this summer, some being in favor of commencing as soon as possible, others maintaining that it would be considerate to wait for better times.

The matter of charging a fee monthly to those outside of the town limits was also discussed, as no aid was coming [illegible] outsiders for the benefits they were receiving.

Moved by Dr. Kincaid, seconded by Dr. McClelland,—That the Secretary be empowered to pay all accounts of two dollars or under, on the order of the Chairman of the property Committee.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McClelland, seconded by Mr. Robinson,—That Messrs. McClelland, Dennistoun, Smith, Cox and the mover be a committee to consider the plans for a school, submitted by Mr. Belcher, and a site for the same, and report to the Board at next meeting.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Dennistoun,—That as a vacancy has occurred in one of the rooms of the High School, the Committee on appointments be authorised to fill the vacancy from applications now before them.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Shaw, seconded by Dr. Kincaid,—That in the event of a vacancy occuring the Committee on Appointments be authorised to fill the vacancy at once.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

MONTREAL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

For the past few days the principle subject of conversation has been the exposures in regard to the manipulations of the late Board of the City Passenger Railway. For years past the working of that corporation has been in the hands of the late President, Mr. Geddes, and latterly false valuations have been given regarding the rolling stock, property, etc., in order to keep up a fictitious value of the stock. On the stock exchange a complete exposure of the actions of the ex-directors and manager was brought about a few days ago, and in consequence a slight panic occurred on the Stock Exchange, causing Bank Stocks as well as City Passenger to fall considerable in value. It appears that $50,000 was borrowed to pay the last dividend of the Company. The Bank of Montreal and City and District Savings Bank will be heavy losers, in consequence of having advanced money on City Passenger Stock, when it stood at its highest figure. St. Francois Xavier street, on which the Stock Brokers have their places of business, is fast becoming as notorious as Wall street, New York. It is known as "the street." Here the name, St. Francois Xavier street, being too big a mouthful for the shrewd business men who do business thereon. I have been told by a gentleman friend, from whom I have received the above information, that their principal business is done for Ontario, monied men, and capitalists. The local papers here call it gambling, which I certainly think is a mild term to give it; considering the tricks and deceptions resorted to in order to cause a rise or fall in stocks.

At the end of April a pilgrimage sets out from here on a journey to Rome to receive the Pope's blessing. The number of pilgrims from this city will be large. They take with them, as an offering to his Holiness, $20,000. I saw last week, on exhibition in a shop window, on Notre Dame street, the casket which is to contain the Peter's pence. It is of beautiful design, made of different Canadian woods, embellished with ornaments of silver, surmounted with a beaver in solid silver, worth forty dollars; that, together with the expenses of each pilgrim, will tote up a sum of fifty thousand dollars. A sum which might be expended to good advantage upon many a deserving charity in this city. The shop window in which the above mentioned casket is displayed would be an interesting sight to many of the Protestant as well as Catholic readers of the EXAMINER. In it are to be seen exhibited for sale all sorts of ornaments, crucifixes, beads, images, &c., used in ornamenting Catholic churches. Last summer a life size image of our Saviour on the cross was to be seen in the doorway, and it said that many devoted Catholics, male and female, dropped on their knees on the sidewalk to repeat a prayer as they went by.

The new council and mayor have entered upon their duties, great things are promised in the way of reductions in order to reduce the taxes of our already overburdened citizens. There has been a general reduction of salaries. The Mayor has expressed his willingness to serve the city without the usual stipend of $2,000.

At present we are enjoying beautiful weather. The past season has been prolific in weather prophets. Up to February Mr. Vennor held the belt, but that month proved too much for him. I have been told that 16,000 copies of his almanac were sold. The demand was so great for them, that the publishers were unable to supply them fast enough. A suggestion was made some time ago in the Star, by a correspondent, that Mr. Vennor and the publisher should hand over their profits to the Montreal General Hospital, or some other charitable institution, as the public had been deceived in purchasing the almanac. I question very much whether the spring edition of Mr. Vennor's almanac, which he has promised to publish, will have a circulation of as many hundreds as the first had of thousands.

The Star at the Academy of Music during last week was Mr. G. Fawcett Rowe, who has been drawing crowded houses, and delighting his audiences in his representations of "Macawber," in Little Emily, and Waifton Stay in "Brass." The Academy will be closed next week, it being Passion week.

In my next letter I will send you some information of the Water Works of Montreal, and what it costs householders for their water supply in the city, which will be of interest to your town readers.

The Temperance Lodge organized in Benafort in the early part of the winter has so far proved a success. When organized it consisted of about a dozen members; now members have been weekly added to it since. It is under the presidency of Mr. John A. Turnbull, who was instrumental in starting it. Although it is styled a Union Temperance Association, those only can be admitted who are members, or otherwise brought there by members as visitors. It is, however, the intention of the lodge to adopt the plan of charging a small fee to non-members, with a view to ascertain their intentions, as it was thought that some attended out of mere curiosity. In one instance a young man was known to say, after attending a few nights in the first quarter, that all he wanted was the password, which is the only secret of the lodge. To all such we would advise better comfort.

Sections of the ratepayers of School about the [illegible] called by the Trustees the building of [illegible] of '76, regarding The decision of the [illegible] School House, the meeting showed a [illegible] at the close of for its speedy erection. The majority ever considerable discussion arose, caused chiefly by those who were the best able to spend ten dollars towards furnishing a suitable building for the instruction of the youth of the section. They got up a petition against it, backed by a few of the well-to-do farmers of the west of the section, which was contrary to law and diverging from duty. The Trustees, altogether, in an unenviable position, have used their best efforts to the good of the section; their chief objection to the building in present use being its size. It is in Benafort, and will be a suitable place for public meetings, &c. After the completion of the new building, which will be proceeded with immediately, it is supposed the new building will cost about $650 the site has been chosen about a mile east of Benafort, it is supposed that through time the principle buildings of Benafort will be here, as are the advantages of waterpower.—COM.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—On Wednesday last, as Mr. Robert McClelland and two of his sons were chopping in the woods, a limb fell from a tree and struck him on the head, knocking him down and causing unconsciousness for some time. The sons put him on a horse, and by the time they got to the house he was a good deal recovered from the shock. Fortunat ly the limb fell a little to one side of his head, and that with his cap is thought what saved his life. He will apparently soon be quite recovered.

THE Trustees of School Section No. 4, Benafort, South Monaghan, have let the contract for the building of a brick school house for $750. Mr R. McClelland is the contractor.

A UNION was lately happily consummated between a Mr. Fallis of the Co. of Wellington who came here and won the affections of Miss M. A. Morrison. The Rev. James Cameron officiated at the wedding. The happy pair went West soon after. Mr. Fallis is a Grainger, and the bride was one of the Sisters of Grainge 519.—COM.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION.—On Thursday, the 29th instant, according to the Ontario new School Act the different Teachers in this Township changed Schools for the day Miss O'Callihan, of S. S. No 1, having charge of S. S. No 4 although 28 miles the number of pupils returned to the County Inspector of the Senior Classes only about 5 or 6 short of the half of average attendance since the school opened in January last, but owing to the stormy morning and other causes, only 30 attended for examination, which was satisfactorily gone through with by Miss O'Callahan. No doubt the new arrangements will encourage the pupils for competition when they fully understand the object it has in view, and at the same time the teachers has the opportunity of seeing how many are qualified to stand the half-way examination in the adjoining S. S. to compare with their own.—COM.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Dear Sir—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung, as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER,
Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

READ CAREFULLY.

SAMUEL OSBORNE, Sophiasburg, says—"I was affected with Dyspepsia for nearly four years, my lungs becoming affected towards the last. I was induced to try the "Shoshoneas Remedy," and in a month was as well as he had ever been in his life. I am now in business and wish you to send me three dozen by steamer.

A. WOOD, Consecon, says—"That he has tried the "Remedy" for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia with great success. I have also used the "Shoshoneas Pills," and find that they are as good as any I ever tried.

REV. JOHN SCOTT says—"Mr. McKenzie Booting suffered from an attack of rheumatism, and was unable to move without help but after taking a few bottles of the 'Shoshoneas' was able to walk as well as ever." Price of the Remedy is plat bottles $1; Pills 25 cents a box.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT? A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horse as for man."—A. Mayhee Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rusan, Township Percy writes, "I persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Hayhee of this place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine. Sold by all medicine dealers Price, 25 cents.

CENTENNIAL LAURELS.
"THREE MEDALS & THREE DIPLOMAS"
The Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines were pronounced by E. H. Knight, G. W. Gregory, Fred Paget and L. D. F. Poore, Centennial Judges of Sewing Machines at Philadelphia in 1876, to be the best Sewing Machine in the market. Not only the Centennial Commissioners pronounce the W & W, the best Sewing Machine but also Mrs. Jas. Stephenson, of Asphodel, Mrs. W. W. Johnson, Wm. McCullough, J. G. Hughes, R. Ternan, Mrs. Dr. Kincaid, Mrs. W. Patterson, Jr., of Peterboro; Mrs. Wm. Deacon and Mrs. J. Smith of Ashburnham, and hundreds of others too numerous to mention, pronounce it the best Sewing Machine, and recommend all intending purchasers to call and see the new family W & W, "it is a perfect little Gem."
CAUTION.
I hereby caution all those having the W & W Sewing Machine not to allow any other agent or person interested in any other Sewing Machine to have anything to do with the W & W, as there are a great many agents who profess to sell and repair all classes of Sewing Machines, they have little or no knowledge of the W & W.
But I would recommend those having the W & W Sewing Machine to call on the proper and only authorized agent at Peterboro, who is competent to repair, if necessary, the W & W Sewing Machines properly. I am also willing to give instructions free of expense to all the old customers of the Agency, on all classes of goods from 1 of an inch thick, down to gauze also lessons on variety work free. All persons interested in the W & W will be benefited by calling on G. A. Mitchell, who thoroughly and practically understands the Machine.
Please remember my late circular on W & W Machines, before purchasing a Sewing Machine elsewhere.
I also take Insurance Risks on first-class buildings at a very low rate, and I am working for first-class companies.

It mak's you ane dosin'd you scarcely ken son,
And you just need after't a cuppie o' tea.

T'is a wonderfu' cuppie, it works like a spell;
The comfort it gies you, words scarcely can tell;
When you're gapin', and greetin', and just like to dee,
New life it pits in you that cuppie o' tea.

I'm guy fond o' auntie and often't I think
On the puir wretched bodies who spend o' on drink.
That stuff that gain siller an' commen sense flee;
If they only wad leave't for a cuppie o' tea.

If they'll buy a bit steak, or else a bit ham
Wi' the siller they spend on that weary'n dram;
Mushie stranger and wiser and better they'd be,
At a cosy fireside wi' a cuppie o' tea.

Success to the cuppie—a blessing 'tis neat,

To Him, the great giver, in accents o' praise;
Who sreenes us wi' mercies, remember they be,
And it ranks wi' the greatest, that cuppie o' tea.

THE IRISH IN CANADA.

The following portion of the speech delivered on St Patrick's day in Ottawa, by Mayor Walker an Irish Roman Catholic of that City, will be found worthy of a careful perusal:—
I need hardly remind you, as you all recognize the fact, that we live in the finest country in the world under the most liberal constitution—all the honors and emoluments of the State being held up before us for free competition, and he who is most industrious, most persevering, most practical in his course of conduct, and who shows himself best qualified for responsible office or position, is the majority of cases carries off the prize. In trade and commerce, arts, agriculture and manufactures, and in the matter of public contract, the Irishmen of Canada occupy a position in no way inferior to any other portion of the population; but we are constantly reminded that politically we occupy an inferior position to other nationalities. Those who so remind us, however, do not tell us what is the true cause of this anomaly; nor do they undertake to point out to us how we are to act with the view of remedying the defect. At one time our anomalous position is this respect is charged to Tory intolerance and at another to Scotch ascendancy or Grit treachery—this latter being the cause assigned at the present time; and the only means prescribed for improving our political status, is the pernicious one of periodically converting the Catholic vote into an adjunct of terror at one time to be thrown at the wicked Tories, and at another time to be hurled at the heads of the deceitful Grits. This is a false position in which to place us; it robs us of all principle, and makes us the creation of patronage; it is a position beneath the dignity of this our adopted country. We don't ben the Scotch vote, the English vote, the French vote the Methodist vote, or the Protestant vote, ever threatened upon any party in power; it is only the Catholic vote that is eternally placed in his position of cock-shuttle between contending factions, by unauthorised demagogues and scheming politicians, devoid of a broad patriotism; and believe me, gentlemen for I have studied the question for years, we are libelled and injured in a great degree by such a vicious and short-sighted policy. Politically, the Irish are no worse off in Canada than they are in the United States, an instance of which I will give you on good authority. In the State of Massachusetts, out of 40 Representative Irish are Irish, and this is a fair index of the representation in the other States of the Union. Bad and all as our position in Canada may be in the eyes of some, we are much better off than this. Our able, elegant and very popular Governor General is an Irishman, as are also his principle staff officers. We have two Irishmen in the Cabinet of the Dominion; the Speaker of the House of Commons is an Irishman; the Upper Secretary of State, a gentleman of culture and ability, is an Irishman, as are several other efficient members of the Civil Service occupying responsible positions. Out of a House of 206 members we have twenty eight Irishmen, and in the Senate or House of Lords, composed of 77 members, we have 13 Irishmen. I enter into these few figures for the sake of comparison, to show you that here in Canada in the matter of political representation, we are much better off than our countrymen in the States, where no cry of Tory intolerance of Scotch ascendancy is raised to account for the want of Irish representation. But while informing you of these facts, I am conscious that the Irish element in the Dominion, being the second largest component of the whole population, has not that representation in Parliament that their number and influence demand. But what is the cause of this? That is what we want to get at. Is it Tory intolerance? Certainly not? Is it Scotch ascendancy? Not by any means. Is it any obstruction in the constitution, placed in the way of Irishmen, and favoring other nationalities? No it is not. What is it then? I will let the able editor of the True Witness partly answer the question. He says "We cannot help thinking that much of this (want of representation) is the fault of Catholics and Irishmen themselves. We will always be treated in the way until we learn to regard each other's opinions with less hostility than we do at present. We quarrel about the crumbs, while our opponents run off with the big loaf." This is the opinion of a patriotic Irish gentleman as to our inferior political position. But the other part of the cause, and it is worthy of serious consideration, is this, that in a given number of population we have not the same number-aspirants that either the English, the Scotch or the French have, putting themselves forward or willing to give the time and labor necessary to school themselves for public positions of a representative character.—This fact cannot be denied, and there is, therefore, nothing to be wondered at, if we have fewer representatives in Parliament and elsewhere than what other nationalities have.—This being the plain indisputable facts of the case it is simply absurd and injurious to our interests to be charging the defect on Scotch ascendancy. When I have the honor and privilege gentlemen, of speaking to you in such large numbers here to-day, I feel that I must be candid and honest with you in my utterances, and in proof of the assertion I have just made, relative to the apathy on the part of Irishmen, to qualify themselves for public positions, I will remind you of a few facts with which you are all familiar, which will give some weight to my argument. Here in the city of Ottawa, the capital of the country—we have some sixteen or eighteen physicians. Nine or ten of this number are Scotchmen; and out of the whole number I believe there is only one Irishman! Is Scotch ascendancy to be charged with the want of Irish representation in the medical profession in Ottawa? I should think not. Take up the legal profession in Ontario, and you will find Scotchmen, largely preponderating there also, and Irishmen in the Minority. Here again, it would be folly to charge Scotch ascendancy with the result. Analyze the composition of the Dominion Board Trade—the commercial Parliament of the Dominion, or training school for the House of Commons—where any respectable citizen can become a member who pay an annual admission fee, and here again you will find Scotchmen, the largest and most active proportion of the whole. Can it be said to be Scotch ascendancy that keeps Irishmen out of this important organization. Assuredly not. This cry of Scotch ascendancy or thereabouts can carry no other idea than to divert attention from our eyes, to blind us to a seeing the real cause, and is, therefore, detrimental to our interests, and should be entirely discontinued. We have so far shown that the Irish element in the Dominion, being the second largest component of the whole population, has not that representation in Parliament that their number and influence demand. But what is the cause of this? That is what we want to get at. Is it Tory intolerance? Certainly not? Is it Scotch ascendancy? Not by any means. PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 12, 1877.

A DISTINCTION AND A DIFFERENCE.

The reference of Dr Tupper during the debate on the Anglin Printing Contracts, to the West Peterboro case in 1873 was scarcely a happy one for his party. They have reason to look back on that part of their history only with humiliation and grief. The outrage they then attempted to perpetrate will not soon be forgotten in this county, nor will such apparently careless and flippant references to it by leading members of their party go unregarded by the electors of the Riding they disfranchised till justice hurled them from power. Dr. Tupper is pleased to think that because Mr. Blake in urging the claims of Mr. Bertram and of West Peterboro on the House in 1873 held that Parliament should deal directly with the question, he should now permit of a similar direct vote of the House on the Anglin Contracts. Such an idea is absurd. In the case now before the House there is no concise statement of facts. The House cannot be satisfied that they are dealing with an assured proposition.—There is no legal evidence that the Government entered into any agreement or contract with Mr. Anglin; therefore there is no admissable proof of disqualification. Such evidence can only be obtained by a Committee; and therefore it is the plain duty of the House to vote down the Opposition resolution, especially as it has been brought in at a time when it cannot be amended. In the West Peterboro' case, on the contrary, all the legal facts necessary to a decision were before the House. These were set forth plainly in Mr. Blake's motion, which was as follows:

"That it appears by the poll-books and other papers transmitted by Mr. George Burnham, Returning officer, appointed to conduct the last election for West Peterboro, that two candidates, John Bertram and William Cluxton were nominated; that a poll was demanded, granted and taken; that at the close of the polling the said John Bertram had the larger number of votes, having received 745 votes, while the said William Cluxton received only 706 votes; that, notwithstanding, the said returning officer has not declared the return of the said John Bertram as duly elected, but has declared the return of the said William Cluxton as duly elected; that the said William Cluxton has taken his seat in this House; that the said John Bertram has a right to take his seat in this House as member for West Peterboro; saving, however, to all candidates and electors the right to contest the said election if they think proper, in such manner as may appertain to law and justice, and in accordance with the usuage of Parliament."

Here was perfectly admissable evidence on which to base the action proposed, which was, not to declare Mr. Bertram the member for the Riding beyond all question, though he undoubtedly was, but to give him the seat subject to an appeal. In spite of this it will not be forgotten that John A. Macdonald and his frightened followers fought with the energy of despair to keep Mr. Bertram out of the seat, at a time when an adverse vote was a serious matter to them. They succeeded on the 7th of March in defeating this motion and sending the case to the committee on Privileges and Elections; but three days afterwards, on the 10th, they were forced to stultify their own action by admitting Mr. Cockburn to the seat for Muskoka, the returning-officer there having made no return of a candidate elect, owing to some of the poll-books being lost. The returns however plainly proclaimed that Mr. Cockburn had received 652 votes against Mr. D'Arcy Boulton's 530, and that had the latter even got all the votes in the districts in which the poll books were lost, Mr. Cockburn would still have had a majority of twenty-six. Here the evidence was no more conclusive than in the Bertram-Cluxton case; and certainly if a returning officer could declare the defeated candidate elected, he could as well declare "no election." In the one case the wrong was only to the constituency, while in the other it was to the majority candidate and to the constituency as well, in keeping him out of the seat to which they had elected him by their votes, and to which he was justly entitled at least till legally disqualified. The truth is, that Sir John admitted Mr. Cockburn reluctantly, and only because he could not depend on securing a majority to vote down Mr. Blake's motion.—Before the close of the debate it was clear that Sir John had intended to make a big fight to this very end; but that he gave it up as hopeless. In the beginning of the end of the Anglin business; and though they did their best to [illegible] West Peterboro unrepresented, [illegible] the appointment of a committee to take evidence as to Mr. Bertram's qualifications, which they might have ascertained at once at the Registry Offices,) they were forced are long to open it and all the other constituencies in the Dominion for the return of a better class of members than those which had so long upheld them in their misdeeds. The result of Mr. Bertram's persecution is well known to have increased his majority of forty over Mr. Cluxton to one of ninety-ones over a stronger candidate; and West Peterboro is not likely soon to forget the wrong done her at that time by the Conservatives, or the complaisant way in which leading men of that party now refer to the outrage there perpetrated.

PRIVILEGES OF PARLIAMENT.

The Opposition in the House of Commons, after long silence and acquiescence in the case of the Anglin printing contracts, here at last seized upon it as a means whereby they might possibly assail the government, and call attention from the exposures in the Northern Railway Investigation and the Public Accounts Committee, which are proving so unpalatable to John A. and his followers in and out of the House. Having resolved on an attack they proceeded to make it in the most cowardly way. Immediately on going into Committee of Supply on Saturday Mr. Mackenzie Bowell brought on the opposition motion in this matter, at a time when by the rules of the House no amendment could be offered. His motion was, that leave

"That the Speaker do now leave that in the chair, but that it is inexpedient the opinion of this House for the Government to enter into any agreement or contract by which public money is paid to members of Parliament, such as the Postmaster-General's reports for 1875 and 1876, and the vouchers laid on the table of the House on the 1st of March last and the vouchers reported to the House by the Select Committee on Public Accounts on the 15th of March ult. show to have been paid to Timothy Warren Anglin, a member of the House for the county of Gloucester, namely, $8,126.31 for the year ending 30th of June, 1875, and $10,263.04 for the year ending 30th of June, 1876, and $2,709.55 being for the quarter ending 30th of Sept., 1876, in payment for printing or stationary done and furnished by him to the Post-office Department of Canada per agreement, as shown by the return laid before Parliament by the Postmaster-General on the 16th of March, 1877, as such payments are in contravention of the Act passed in the 31st year of Her Majesty's reign, entitled "An Act further to secure the independence of Parliament," which provides as follows:—That no person whatsoever holding or enjoying, under taking or executing, directly or indirectly, alone or with any other, for himself or by the interposition of any trustee or third party, any contract or agreement with Her Majesty or with any public officer or department, with respect to the public service of Canada, under which any of the public money of Canada is to be paid for any service or work shall be eligible as a member of the House of Commons, nor shall he sit or vote in the same; and are calculated to detract from the independence of the Members of this House."

Herein is an attempt to bind the House to a declaration upon a point it is very questionable it has the power to determine, viz.:—the unseating of a member without any chance being given him for a defence. Even granting the opinion expressed in the first clause of the resolution the House is hardly competent to decide without further evidence that the independent action of Speaker Anglin has been affected. We scarcely think the House will bring such an accusation against him, especially after the eulogy passed upon his ability and impartiality in the chair. Yet the passage of this resolution would be such an accusation, though its framers were afraid to make it direct. They framed it in such general and vague terms as to permit of their voting for it, at least the most reckless of them, while they know full well that it is the duty of the government and its supporters to vote it down, on purely constitutional grounds. The purpose is no misrepresent the motives of those who vote against this precious nonentity and charge them with attempting to shield a wrong. In their eager desire for a charge against the ministry we think the framers of this resolution have rather outdone their purpose, and defeated their own end. The rights of the people could have been just as easily, and far more readily and effectually, cared for by referring the case to the Committee on Privileges; and action to that end would have rebounded to the credit of the Opposition. As it now stands they have sacrificed the popular interests and the popular wish to the perpetration of a poor party trick. The public, which has been much interested in this case, will not thank them for the course they have taken, while they are likely to be deprived of an opportunity of following the other and creditable one.

Going beyond the recital in Mr. Bowell's motion we find that previous to 1875, and while the present Opposition occupied the Treasury Benches printing for the Post Office Department was done in the Lower Provinces by private offices solely by instructions from the Inspectors. The present government after coming into office discovered this, and considering the system a wrong one changed it so as to have all the work done by contract. On the representation of the Inspector at St. John, N. B., that persons doing the printing there had a large stock of material on hand suitable only for such work, arrangements were made to allow them to work this stock off, six months being allowed them to do it in. During the last session of Parliament this loose practice of procuring Post office printing, a relic of Conservative times, was virtually ended; so that the Opposition is rather late in bringing in their resolution. In fact it was only through the reforming efforts of the government that the Opposition were first made aware of this case they now presume to grow virtuously indignant upon. No attempt was made to conceal the fact that Mr. Anglin had received payment, on account of work done for the Post office in St. John, and Reformers and the Reform press were the first to express disapproval. The government deserve credit for the prompt way in which they proceeded to put a stop to such work; and the Opposition deserve none for their late reference to it, or for the manner in which it has been made. No payments have been made for work of this kind, to the St. John Freeman since payment was made for the account found in the Departmental Report ending 30th June 1876, so that Mr. Bowell is wrong in setting forth that $3,709.55 was paid to Mr. Anglin for the quarter ending 30th September 1876. The motion is therefore inaccurate, and as such should be voted down, if for no other reason.

The Chatham Planet Herald says:—"It is [illegible] twenty-eight [illegible] years ago since the [illegible] Bertram was first thought [illegible] and though they did their best [illegible] West Peterboro unrepresented, [illegible] the appointment of a committee to take evidence as to Mr. Bertram's

"HOW I WONDER WHAT YOU ARE."

The Cobourg Star winks fitfully upon us that we may be enlightened upon what as to its meaning when formerly speaking of Peterborough being "well enough with two roads to the front, with one to the east and another to the west." We had an idea that the two roads to the front meant the Midland and Grand Junction, and those east and west the different sections of the Toronto and Ottawa line east and west of this town. We now learn, however that the Star meant by the two to the front the Midland and the Cobourg; by another to the west the Midland and Nippissing." Yet, despite these "directions" as to "existing" lines, we are told by the same wiseacre in the same column that "poor Peterborough has only a branch of one road." 'Tis true; 'tis pity; pity 'tis 'tis true! Nor is it Peterborough's fault. This town dealt fairly with all the lines that sought to form communication with it; but those engaged in some of these projects seemed to have too great experience of railway lines, or management for the good of them.

Any anxiety [illegible] when it comes "poor Peterborough" of Cobourg, is exceedingly gratuitous, especially when it is accompanied by the disinterested advice that "poor Peterborough" should give her three hundred thousand dollars equally to "Cobourg and Belleville." We presume what is really meant is that the railway lines from these towns should get $150,000. If it means what it says the advice may be followed, and the giving to each may be equal in the sense that 0——0. At any rate Belleville is not likely to get less than Cobourg. There may be some plea in favour of assisting the Grand Junction road; but can our stellar contemporary possibly give any reason why "poor Peterborough" should give $150,000 to help Cobourg play at railroad? Why seek communication with Cobourg, of all places in the world? After the Star has dreamt a possible reason to this question, we would that it then should bring what little intellect it will have left to the consideration of a practical plan for its accomplishment. To this end a fyle of the EXAMINER might help it; but till it has found out some appreciable fraction of what Peterborough people know of the subject it presumes to advise them on, it had much better hold its peace.

As for the odious attempt to set Peterborough and Lindsay at variance by a comparison, we can state that it is not likely to succeed, when both towns have the frightful example before them of the results of borough jealousy in Cobourg and Port Hope. Lindsay's prosperity should not drive Peterborough to throw her money away for what will never bring an adequate return; but the enterprise of the sister town in railway matters, should rather cause this embryo city of ours to follow a worthy example and seek direct rail communication with the Provincial Capital on one hand, and to improv. largely upon that example, by establishing at the same time a similar facility of access to the Capital of the Dominion, and thence to the seaboard. Happily this is not a matter in the mere interest of our town, as, is that of Cobourg. It is a project in which, not the Province and the whole Dominion, to say nothing of the Western States, are concerned; and which for the benefit of incalculable thousands, is bound to be put through speedily, unretarded by jealous croakings from a bankrupt town, that never has learned to look beyond its own limits, being blinded by a selfishness that feared to confer even an indirect benefit on others. Out upon such contemptable croakers!

THOSE who saw an evidence of "Conservative reaction" in the fact that the Government majority on the tariff resolutions was less than at a former division, do not attempt to apply the same logic to the late division on the Insolvent Act amendment bill, on which the vote was 110 to 56. They do not see that any comfort can be drawn from the consideration that the "Ministerial majority," as they were pleased to call it, has increased from 31 to 54. At this rate the Reform strength at next election will be perfectly overwhelming.

THE TARIFF.

MR. BERTRAM'S SPEECH.

Mr. Bertram's speech in the Commons on the tariff question. From the Hansard.

Mr. BERTRAM said he proposed to notice some of the points dwelt upon by the hon. member for West York, who had spoken of the general principle of free trade as a great bugbear and declared there was no such thing as free trade in the world. He agreed with the hon. member that there was no such thing as absolute free trade. But the question in this country was not whether we were to have absolute free trade or absolute protection, but whether we were to have a policy of protection engrafted on a policy of modified free trade. The hon. member for West York, in the course of his remarks, had shown a considerable knowledge of a certain period of French history in the time of Louis XIV, and had spoken of the existence of the system of legalized plunder which existed in France. There was, however, a like period in English history, and when next the hon. member read history he should read that from Queen Elizabeth to Charles I. During that time a system of legalized robbery prevailed, and it was under the strongest kind of protection. The hon. member should also remember the kind of protection which existed in England not long ago, when salt was protected to such a great extent. The question the House was called upon to consider was whether the resolution submitted by the Finance Minister should be read the second time, by which the House could be called upon to further burden the people—because after all that was what it amounted to—by increasing the taxation. The hon. the Minister of Finance, in the course of his Budget speech, informed the House that the country would have a deficit, that the revenue would not equal the expenditure. That was information which every hon. member who had watched the affairs of the country and the course of trade must previously have been in possession of. There was no doubt that, in the history of nations, as in the history of individuals, the income of the nation had its vicissitudes as well as the income of individuals. At one period in our history we might have a time when the values of commodities were advancing, and when lands were rising in price. During such a period, which was spoken of as a period of inflation, there were increased imports which necessarily brought with them increase. It was a matter of great concern and importance, when they found that the revenue did not equal the expenditure, as to what policy should be pursued in paying off the public indebtedness. The hon. the Minister of Finance had proposed a scheme for raising the necessary amount of money, and that scheme did not commend itself to the right hon. member for Kingston, in that he had proposed the annexation. He would not call it a dishonest proposition, but it was an extraordinary proposition for a certain gentleman, but it was only very strenuous politicians. The right hon. gentleman submitted his amendment in favour of a re-adjustment of the tariff so as to foster the agricultural, mining and manufacturing industry. An important industry had been omitted by the right hon. gentleman—the lumber interest—and, if any means could be devised whereby that interest could be assisted or protected, such would be well worthy of the consideration of the House, for it was suffering more than almost any other industry.

Sir JOHN A. MACDONALD said it was a manufacturing interest.

Mr. BERTRAM said that was true, but he should be glad to know by what tariff arrangement any assistance or protection could be given to it. The amendment to the amendment proposed by the hon. member for Hamilton had been characterised, he might almost say slandered, by the right hon. member for Kingston as being a selfish proposition, for it only asked for assistance to manufacturers. The only difference, however, between the amendment and that the constituency of one hon. member, the was larger than that of the leader of the right hon. Gentleman, for exigencies of Opposition party, [illegible] to cover his position, but a broader. Protection amendment as such, was the essence of the question. An interest could not be protected without unfairly considering that interest, and giving it something at the expense of somebody else. He was much gratified with the eulogium passed by the hon. member for South Ontario, on the system which he characterised as one of incidental protection and modified free trade, under which the industries of the country had been built up. But that hon. member came to the lamest of all conclusions, by stating that he was a Protectionist because he was tired of the policy the Government had been pursuing—tired of the very policy he had advocated, with this difference, that the Government had increased the duties 2½ per cent, on general manufactured goods beyond that in force under the policy of which the hon. member had spoken. There were many expressions which had been common to the debate. The hon. member for Stanstead declared he desired to prevent the difficulties under which our manufacturers were labouring, and grant relief to struggling industries. Those were propositions which every hon. member would concur in and endeavour to carry out. The question was as to how it could be done—whether the tariff should be 17½, 20, 22½ or 25 per cent., or whether the rate should be retained at 17½ per cent, I further said that manufacturers in this country entered into business at their own risk and peril. The only time in the history of Canada when such might be said was when, in 1866, the tariff on manufactured goods was reduced from 20 to 15 per cent. There was now no difficulty in any manufacturer entering business, knowing most assuredly that the list would at least not be very much reduced. The hon. member had spoken of the sentiment of protection in the United States, and had referred to it as the great Protectionist country, which had developed and flourished under protection, where protection was a vital question. In discussing the question of free trade and protection the hon. member for South Ontario seemed to think those were the only two factors which went up to make the wealth of a nation; that given protection in the one case, or given free trade in the other, the future of the country could be forecast. He (Mr. Bertram) entirely disagreed with that view. He thought that either free trade or protection were only factors, and it might be simple factors in determining a nation's future. It was important to consider what entered into the productions of a country—the life of a nation. First, there was the question of land, and the same conditions could not apply in America, where land was plentiful and cheap, as in England, where it was scarce and dear. The influences of climate had also much to do with the industry of the people and their wealth. The fact of having coal and iron lying in juxtaposition also had an important influence on a country's future. The natural products and geographical position of a country largely determined the industries which were established. Above all the natural causes was the character of the people, and in calculating the future of the United States their ingenuity must be taken into account. The American people were famed above all others for their goods and for inventing labour-saving machines, and it was within his knowledge that samples of American manufactures had been taken to England, and, on manufacturers being asked if they could produce such goods, so closely was England bound by trades' unions that the manufacturers actually declared they would rather give up their business than attempt to make the kinds of goods. All these matters were to be taken into consideration. In another matter, a very remarkable difference was apparent compared with statements made in the House last Session. Why did they not now hear from the advocates of protection doctrines a single word about the great slaughtering process, which had been going on for some time in this country? This was simply because that slaughtering process which existed last year, existed no longer. While speaking of a question with which he was somewhat familiar, he had last Session taken occasion to state that one reason why iron was being brought into this country in lieu of being imported as it used to be from England was because the crisis had come on in the United States some two or two and a half years earlier than in England; and because, England having a larger market for her iron products, they did not immediately fall in price; and he ventured then to assert that before another year was over, the price would be so reduced in England that the Americans would be entirely shut out of the market. He appealed to the hon. member for Hamilton as to whether that prophecy—if prophecy it could be called—had not been verified to the very letter.

Mr. WOOD: No.

Mr. BERTRAM said that no iron of any consequence as to quantity now came into this country from the United States in comparison with what had been brought into it last year at this time. Protection would, without the slightest doubt, create monopolies. Gentlemen conversant with the state of trade in the United States must know very well that rings or monopolies were formed for the purpose, as they said, of regulating the price. This was proved by what had taken place in that country with regard to the coal interest; and, only last fall or last summer had the price of this article given way, when the producers were compelling amongst themselves. It was very plain that, if the United States would adopt the policy of imposing a small duty or no duty at all on coal, then the people residing on the eastern sea-board would be able to buy their coal from Nova Scotia, in place of paying, as they were now obliged so do, not only a fair profit on coal, but a further sum of money, which went into the pockets of the monopolists. This reminded him of the coal oil motion made last Session by the hon. member for Stanstead, to whose speech he had listened with great pleasure. The hon. gentleman had spoken of the coal oil combination (as he would desire to characterize many American monopolies,) as a system of organized extortion. He had gladly voted with the hon. gentleman at the time, though the Finance Minister had announced that he would bring the matter up this Session; but this was one of the things which protection must and would undoubtedly bring upon the country if they adopted the American protective policy. He had understood the hon. gentleman from Stanstead to state that we had no deficit in this country from 1867 to 1873. He did not suppose that the hon. gentleman had the honor of a seat in the House during that period, but he was certain that the hon. gentleman had not consulted the Public Accounts of Canada before he ventured to make such a statement. If the hon. gentleman had taken so he would have found that from 1869—and he did not know how much further back—up to 1876, there had been continual deficits year after year; and that it was only after Confederation that the receipts took such a bound as to be sufficient to meet the ordinary annual expenditure. The only year that bore on that point was the imposition of a surplus was the year 1868, when the Finance Minister, in his Budget speech, announced a surplus of over half a million of dollars; and if they took into consideration the fact that many necessary expenditures had been made in the year previous to that, it was only a very small surplus. The right hon. gentleman had mentioned, it would be found that even that year showed a deficit. And curiously enough it was during this very year that the tariff was increased from 20 to 15 per cent. Then the country came into that era of prosperity which had continued up to the present year. He had taken the trouble of looking into the Public Accounts, and he had observed one or two notable things. One of the most particular features was that, in 1871, there seemed to be an instantaneous advance in the receipts; in 1870, we had a surplus of no less than $6,712,457.00 showing an increase in the [illegible] amounting to, the extraordinary sum of $3,823,336.16 and to show that this was brought about entirely by the increase in the [illegible] state of matters was the extraordinary jump perceptible in the expenditure for the year 1873-4, which was increased, compared with the previous year, to the extent of no less than $4,141,000.00. He believed they were all apt, in considering these matters, to exaggerate the faults of their political opponents, and to go to the opposite extreme with regard to the faults committed by their political friends, and he thought that the hon. member for Cardwell had been influenced by this feeling when he had charged the Government with extravagance, comparing, at the same time, the expenditure for 1875-6 with that of 1873-4. If Hon. gentlemen would go back a little further and compare the expenditure of 1873-4 with that of any year since Confederation they would find a still more marked difference. In the year 1873-4 there seemed to be an advance along the whole line of expenditure; there were advances for Civil Government, for Legislation, for Customs, and for the Post Office Department. The feeling apparently was: "We have money and let us spend it, let us get rid of it some way or other." He confessed that some little difficulty was to be experienced in making an analysis of the Public accounts which were not capable of being examined as was possible with the provincial systems. They were obliged to take into consideration the facts that, in 1870, Manitoba came into existance as a Province; that in 1871, British Columbia entered Confederation, and in 1873, Prince Edward Island. There was no doubt that these Provinces had cost more per head as regarded population than the older Provinces, Quebec and Ontario, but he would be the very last man to say a word which would be in any way derogatory to these Provinces. If it was in question, he for one, would be prepared to sanction the expenditure of double the amount that had been expended in connection with these Provinces, rather than have them out of the Union. In 1873-4, the period of inflation seemed to come to an end, and the present Finance Minister, in his first Budget speech, had taken what had been termed a very ingubrious view of the then situation; but to his mind this view exactly met the case anyone who had taken the trouble to watch the periods which were called good times and bad times must have seen that the period of inflation was at that date very very near its culmination. He believed that, before the late Administration had gone out of office, they had announced that it would be necessary to increase taxation on account of the enormous public works and other obligation which they had taken on their shoulders. The Finance Minister in face of a decreased revenue had to provide for increased expenditure, and under these unfortunate circumstances the Finance Minister had been obliged to view the situation, and he supposed that the hon. gentlemen had prognosticated a deficit. He thought the hon. Gentlemen had rightly gauged the position the country occupied, and owing to the bad harvest of last year, and other reasons, the country was now in a worse condition than otherwise might have been reasonably expected. We had now to consider how the revenue requisite to meet public obligations was to be raised, and, in order to do so, the state of the entire country must be taken into consideration. Was our trade in a normal condition; were we importing goods at a fair ordinary price, or at prices lower than the average rate? These matters were to be considered; also the point whether it was necessary to increase the tariff to 20 per cent., and, if so, whether this was to be done as a temporary expedient or otherwise. He believed that the Minister of Finance, in devising means for increasing the revenue, had taken the view—and properly so—that the emergency would be only temporary. This was a very serious question; because manufacturers going into business in this country were obliged to recognize the fact that we had a certain amount of protection or modified free trade, or whatever it might be called, which was necessary to enable them to continue in business; and it would be a very serious matter if, shortly after 20 per cent. were put on, it was found to be no longer necessary to meet the wants of the country, and the tariff was in consequence lowered. Such action would disarrange trade and disturb the calculations of manufacturers. He was glad to believe that the Ministry of the day had the courage of their convictions; they had proclaimed themselves believers in a revenue tariff, and he for one would not be inclined to give them the support he was now inclined to accord if they had departed from that rule to which they had declared themselves attached before taking office, unless they could prove to the satisfaction of the House that the necessities of the country required an advance of 2½ per cent. in the tariff. He thought that the present depression in a country so young and wealthy as this, would soon pass away; and temporary measures would be sufficient to meet the present exigencies. His hon. friend from Toronto had stated what he believed was true in every particular. That, if the protectionists were willing last year to take a 2½, 5, or 7 per cent. increase in the tariff as necessary under the then circumstances, they occupied to-day exactly the same position they occupied last year, while the state of things across the border had greatly changed, greenbacks having considerably advanced in value. The price of gold this year, as compared with last, gave, at least, 7½ per cent. protection to the manufacturers. It would be well for the Protectionists to wait a little while longer—to possess their souls in patience. In a short time it was likely that greenbacks would become the same as gold, and manufacturers would have a still greater protection than at present. If the hon. the Finance Minister amongst themselves. It was very plain that, if the United States would adopt the policy of imposing a small duty or no duty at all on coal, then the people residing on the eastern sea-board would be able to buy their coal from Nova Scotia, in place of paying, as they were now obliged so do, not only a fair profit on coal, but a further sum of money, which went into the pockets of the monopolists. TREASURER'S BOOKS.

The present Ledger has been for a long time in use and it does not exhibit the financial position and the monetary transactions in as satisfactory a manner as could be desired. It would be advisable to have a New Ledger regularly opened, showing under the proper headings the several balances at the Debit or Credit of the several accounts on the 1st day of January 1877.

COLLECTOR'S ROLL.

The Collector should be debited with the full amount of the Roll at the time he receives it, and a special account should be opened in the Treasurer's Books with the Collector every year, in which (the total amount) the total amount of the Roll should be fully accounted for in detail, showing the cash payments made to the Treasurer, by the Collector from time to time; the abatements made Collector for taxes that become a charge on lands; the taxes on income, personal property and statute labor that cannot be collected, and the taxes forgiven by the Council in charity. These sums added together should balance the account.
The revenue derived from Statute Labor is very small as compared with the amount charged on the Roll; if this tax could be collected at the same time, or immediately after the assessment takes place, we are of the opinion that the income from this source would be materially increased.

NON-RESIDENT TAXES AND COLLECTOR'S ABATEMENTS CHARGEABLE AGAINST LANDS.

These funds should be accounted for by themselves, a Ledger account should be opened by your Treasurer, showing the amounts collected by him each year, and the balances remaining on the Rolls of the several years uncollected.

ACCOUNTS AND PAY LISTS PAYABLE BY COUNCIL.

The Clerk should examine the items of all accounts and pay lists, check the extensions and additions, and certify to their correctness or otherwise before they are submitted to the Finance Committee, and some record should be kept for reference, in which all accounts passed by the Finance

The Cannington Gleaner says:—"Mr. J. W. DeLaney has been engaged as teacher in the third department of the Public School in this village. Mr. DeLaney is from the Peterborough High School, and comes very highly recommended."

The Window Smasher Around.—Patrick Daily, who was committed on Saturday morning for being drunk and falling through Mr. Litule's window the evening previous, has been released from custody, the damages having been made good.

Eggs.—Mr. A. H. R. Sproule showed us some eggs from his yards, which compare favourably with any we have seen yet, and we believe from the samples (which he has now on exhibition at Mr. Peter Connal's) that it pays to keep well bred fowl.

Bill Heads.—A large stock of bill head paper always kept in stock at the Examiner Office. The rates of printing are as cheap as can be obtained in any office in Ontario, while the quality of the work will in all cases be guaranteed first-class.

It is said the Midland Railway Company has made the monetary arrangements necessary to enable them to complete the road to Midland City during the coming summer. Work will commence as soon as the snow at Victoria Harbour, is off the ground.

Cheese Factory.—Mr. James Elliott, of Smith, who is connected with no less than five cheese factories, and who has a thorough and practical experience in the working of these institutions, purposes visiting Bobcaygeon with a view of establishing a Cheese Factory in that village.

Great bargains are now being offered by W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, in choice New Dress Goods, Black Lustres, Prints, Cottons, and Shirtings. Beautiful grey lustres, 15½ cts. per yard. Useful striped mohairs, 10 cts. per yard. Splendid washing prints, 10 cts. per yard. Inspection invited. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield.

Job Work at Reduced Rates.—We have received large additions to our stock of type, and always keep a full assortment of writing and printing papers, cards of every description, and everything usually found in a first-class printing establishment. Notice—Our prices will be found low enough to "suit the times."

Ladies' Aid Society.—The ladies' aid society of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, will in future hold their meetings in the Ashburnham council chamber, (the old school house,) every Tuesday afternoon, where they will be happy to take orders for plain sewing, knitting, or fancy work. The stock on hand will be open for inspection, consisting of children's clothing, etc.

Public Nuisance.—Street corner loafers and church door starers are the great nuisances of the age. The corner loafer does not hesitate to break any unprotected female who may happen to pass; while the church door gazer is more respectful because he dare not be otherwise. Young men who have any respect for themselves should quit the business of either.

Changing Hands.—Mr. Steele, of Smith, has sold his farm near Lakefield, to Mr. George Johnston at $70 an acre. This farm is about 9 miles from Peterborough. Notwithstanding the brisk about hard times, everyone appears able to find over hard cash laterally when they want a farm. The prices paid for farming land in this county indicate the healthy and prosperous state of many farmers amongst us.

Peterborough Musical Society.—We beg to remind our readers of the second concert of the Society, on the 19th instant, at Hosborne's Hall. The programme has been arranged with much care and comprises the leading vocal and instrumental talent of our town, as well as assistance from a distance. The society's efforts are worthy of encouragement, and the concert of the 19th inst., will afford all lovers of music an opportunity of spending a most pleasant evening. Programmes will be distributed in a few days.

Farmers Prospering.—Mr. Francis Sanderson, of Communication line, Smith, has bought the Minto lot, containing 50 acres, at $4,750, or $95 an acre. The land is good, and is finely situated, about 2 miles from town, but considering that there are no buildings of value on the property, it is evident that land in Smith is valuable. We have not heard of land in Canada bringing a higher price. This speaks well for our town, for our county, for the Township of Smith, and especially for the prosperity of many of our industrious farmers.

Literary Association.—The Peterborough Literary Association held a public meeting on Thursday last. The Rev. J. W. B. Beck occupied the chair. During the literary proceedings Dr. Bell read a selection from Lover's "Handy Andy;" Mr. Johnston, "The Lady's Dream." The following subject was discussed: "Is the tendency to emancipate the property of married women from the control of their husbands to be deprecated?" Mr. Jeffers and Mr. Pennefe, maintained the affirmative; Mr. Hall and Mr. H. T. Beck, the negative. The chairman decided in the affirmative.

Religious.—Sermons will be preached in both St. Paul's church and the Baptist church on Sunday evening, to young men. Seats will be provided for all those young men who frequent the street cornors, or who parade the streets during the church hour:—

The question in the churches just now is:—"How shall the young men be induced to give heed to the important concerns of an unending life?" Yes, and how shall old men, just on the brink of eternity, be induced to so walk, that young men seeing their good works, may be induced to eschew evil and do good?

St. Andrew's Church.—On Monday evening last, according to appointment, Rev. Mr. Torrance preached in St. Andrew's Church, and moderated in a call to Rev. Alex. Bell, of Preston, England, which was signed by the members and adherents of the church, of which there was quite a large attendance present. Immediately after there was a meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, at which the call was sustained and ordered to be transmitted to Mr. Bell. We have to congratulate the congregation of St. Andrew's on the prospects of soon having a settled minister, and one having the talents and qualifications which, we understand Mr. Bell to be possessed of.

Boating Club.—The adjourned annual meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club was held at the Bent House, on last Monday evening. The result of the election of officers was as follows:—President, Mr. E. B. Edwards; Vice-President, Mr. Toker; Treasurer, Mr. Jardine: Secretary, Mr. N. D. Beck. The revised constitution was considered and adopted. The boat racks will be let this year by auction, at an upset price of $1. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for celebrating the Queen's birthday, and for a gymnastic exhibition. A committee was also appointed to enforce the by-law prohibiting the throwing of sawdust and refuse into the river and lake.

Concert.—The Peterborough amateur musical society will give their first concert in Hall's School House, Smith, on Tuesday evening, the 17th April, and their second in Leonard's Hall, Lakefield, on Wednesday the 18th inst. The programme well consist of quartettes, Duets, songs, and choruses, readings, ventriloquism, and instrumental music. They have secured the services of Miss Maggie Gibson, the celebrated opera vocalist, of Toronto, and also Mr. Edward Mahon, formerly of Ottawa, a pianist that cannot be surpassed in beauty of musical expression. The entertainment promises to be a good one. For further particulars see programmes. This company purposes giving an entertainment in Bradburn's Opera House at an early date, due notice of which will be given.

New Family Grocery.—As will be seen by an advertisement in another part of this week's paper, a new grocery and family produce store has just been opened out in the premises lately occupied by L. Lipsett, Cox's block, George street. The new candidate for public patronage is Mr. William Chrow, who has been favourable known for a number of years, especially to the customers of the old grocery firm of Nicholls & Hall, and the present firm of T. W. Robinson & Co., his late employers. The variety which his new stock embraces will enable him to supply the heads of families with almost every article which enters into domestic use. As a cash basis has been decided upon, purchasers with cash are promised inside prices. Ladies will also be pleased to know that Mr. Chrow will be assisted by Miss M. J. Sanderson, who will be happy to attend to their orders.

Social.—An entertainment in aid of the library fund of St. Andrew's church Sabbath school, was held at the Manse on Monday evening last. The programme was made up of an opening instrumental piece of music; reading by Dr. Bell and Mr. Roper; song by Mr. Ormond; a quartette composed of Messrs. Rush, Bletcher, Elliott and Clurton and by Miss Haultain, who is always a favourite with Peterborough audiences; a charade in which Messrs. Fairbairn, Brown, Gilmour and Stewart took part with great credit; and an exhibition of ventriloquism by our young townsman, Mr. Dixon, whose fame in this line has become more than local. It would have been better, we think, to have held the entertainment in the school house, as the manse scarcely afforded the required accommodation, however it was a success, and realized a considerable sum for the object in aid of which it was given.

A Star in the Park.—An anonymous scribler in—or of—the Review of last week has made a silly attempt to injure the character and standing of a fellow citizen, by insinuating that the late fire was the work of some one interested but impecunious, and who thus sought to relieve that impecuniosity by drawing on the Insurance Companies. "Merchant" is generally believed to be one of the Jurors; and the wonder is why did he not have the matter fully sifted at the inquest? and not like a moral assassin, under the cover of moral cowardice, stab a fellow citizen. If "Merchant" has any information that would establish the guilt of any person, or set of persons, is he not as bad as the incendiary, if he refrain from making it known? But if he is seeking merely to ruin the moral character of a fellow being, is he not much more culpable than the incendiary? by how much more the loss of character is more to be deplored than the loss of worldly possessions? Under an assumed name, questions that concern the whole people are very often discussed. But when a man assumes the mask of a highway man, to rob another of his good character, he should be made to understand that all honorable men contemn him. Let him throw off the mask and tell the whole truth, but nothing more than the truth. A "Merchant" has no more right to rob a man of his character than to rob him of his property; and the moral assassin, who in the assassin's mask does his deadly work, is as justly worthy of punishment as the highway man who demands a man's money or his life at the muzzle of the revolver. Indeed he is more deserving of punishment and contempt; for the anonymous moral assassin, in the moral cowardly manner destroys his victim, while he, perhaps, is pretending the greatest friendliness.

Petroleum.—The hoarding up of the Oil Ring and the taking off the excise duty from oil has what the trade call "taking the bottom out of oil" and Mr. H. Best has just received a car load of export refined Petroleum, a very superior quality which he is selling at 25c. per gallon. Wine Measure for cash. 16-tf

From F. Fellows, M. D., of Hill, N. H.

Although I have generally a great objection to patent medicines, I can but say in justice to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry that it is a remedy of superior value for pulmonary Diseases.

I have made use of this preparations for several years, and it has proved to be very reliable and quick-acting Cough. I know of one patient, now in comfortable health, who has taken this remedy, and who but for its use, I consider would now be living.

R. Fellows, M. D.

50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

Stop that cough, or it will terminate in that dreadful disease, consumption. We are aware that a prejudice exists among many persons against medicines which profess to cure a cough or cold when bordering on consumption, or even when the lungs are affected, but we can assure our readers that Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry will do all this; and in making this assertion we speak from experience, having suffered for months from a cough which after using many remedies without any relief threatened to terminate seriously. We were, however, so fortunate as to secure several bottles of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and are now entirely rid of the cough, and restored to our former health. To those suffering in a like manner we recommend this excellent preparation.

50 cents and $1 a bottle; large bottle much the cheaper. Sold by dealers generally.

Electricity! Thomas' Eclesior Electric Oil!—Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures an old chronic cough. It positively cures asthma, influenza and croup. Fifty cents worth has cured crick in the back, and the same quantity cured a child of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from different parts of Canada, which, we think, should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical:—J. Collard, of Sparta, Ont., writes, "Send me 6 dozen Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more now; its cures are truly wonderful." Wm. McGehee, of Franklin, writes, "I have sold all the agent left, it cuts like a charm—it was given at first, but taken splendidly now." S. Cole, of Lees, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thos' Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell so well and give such general satisfaction." J. Thompson, Woodford, writes, "Send me some more Eclectric Oil. I have sold entirely out. Nothing takes like it." Miller & Reid, Clverton, P. Q., write, "The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

TOWN COUNCIL.

SPECIAL MEETING.

The Council met on Monday evening in special session. Present His Worship the Mayor in the chair, and Messrs. Dumble, McWilliams, Elder, Baptie, Cahill, Smith, Haggart, Rountree, Millar, McBain and Yelland

On motion the minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The Mayor said that there was between Eight and Ten Thousand Dollars of Notes due in the Bank against the town, but they expected to get from the Commissioners a certain amount due the town by the Commissioners which the Finance Committee have been unable to obtain to relieve these Notes, one of which fell due to-day.

COMMUNICATIONS

From James Sutherland, calling the attention of the council to the water on Albert street which was damaging his property.—Referred to the Inspector to report.

From Messrs. Clarton & Co. and 53 others, asking the council to levy a general rate for the watering of the streets.—Received.

From J. Carnegie, Secretary of Town Trust Commissioners, stating that the following motion was passed by the Commissioners:—"Moved by Mr. Clarton, seconded by Mr. Lundy,—That the unappropriated monies received from the sales of land in the south end of the town, held by the Commissioners subject to the resolution of the Town Council, be paid over as directed, provided the Town Council transfer to the Commissioners all the Railway monies collected or to be collected for the purpose of paying the Debenture Debt and Interest, and that the Town Council procure a ratification of such transfer by the Legislature.

On motion of Mr. Smith the communication was received, and the Clerk was instructed to call a meeting of the Commissioners and the Finance Committee at 4 o'clock p.m. on Tuesday afternoon with a view of settling the deficiency of last year and having the accounts settled.

From J. Carnegie, Sec'y Town Trust, asking for the issuing of Four Debentures for $400 each, payable in Ten years from and dated the 1st day of January last and bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum payable half yearly, the said Debentures being required to relieve a like amount of School Debentures which fell due on the 1st of January last.—Received.

ACCOUNTS.

Peterboro' Gas Company	$45 60
T. W. Robinson & Co.	7 00
T. Sargent	50
Boyd, Smith & Co., interest on account	6 51

The accounts were referred to the Finance Committee.

WATERING STREETS.

Moved by Mr. Elder, seconded by Mr. Haggart,—That the petition to have the streets watered by a general tax be referred to a special committee of Messrs. Haggart, Cahill, Smith, Dumble and the mover.

Mr. Dumble said the better way would be for the council to decide at the present time to have a local tax and be done with it.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. McBain,—That the watering of the streets for the present year be by local assessment as heretofore, but that the Corporation provide an improved watering cart out of the general funds, with a view of lessening the cost.

Mr. Cahill said that he had been considering the matter for some time, and thought that the merchants deserved some consideration at the hands of the council. There has been a great many complaints in former years, and justly too, about the way the streets have been watered, and something should be done to have that remedied; let the town get some improved way of watering the streets and let the merchants pay for putting on the water, which he thought would give better satisfaction.

Mr. Elder said that he was very much surprised at any member of the council giving opposition to the petition sent to us by the ratepayers of the George street, Simcoe street and Hunter street. A very large majority of the names on the petition are the merchants who pay a large amount of taxes, and they are not a class of men who usually ask for such special petitions to the council, it may be the only request they will make this year. Considering this is a very hard year, and no doubt they consider it a very fair request, and I think they are right in petitioning the council to have the streets watered by a general tax. It will make but a very slight difference to the ratepayers considering the benefit that will be derived therefrom, and the reason that I make this motion to refer it to a special committee is that it may be fairly considered, and I am satisfied that this council will grant the request of the Peterboro merchants.

Mr. Haggart said the merchants received a very small proportion for the amount of taxes they pay, and it was very selfish for the members who live in the suburbs not to allow the streets to be watered by a general rate, and he recommended the purchase of a horse for the watering of the streets, and said that when it was not engaged at that it could be doing something else.

Mr. Dumble said that the dust was very bad last year, and as to the "clap-trap" cry of the merchants about the amount of money they payed amounted to nothing. They received the benefit and they should pay for it.

Mr. Elder said the merchants were not a class of merchants who were in the habit of petitioning the town, and he urged that the matter be referred to the committee named.

Mr. McBain said that if we had not two of the George street merchants in the council they would not have had this petition to-night.

Mr. Haggart asked to have a Ward tax, and let each ward pay for what they use.

Mr. Dumble thought the tax in the South ward would be very high.

The amendment was then put and carried.

FINANCE REPORT.

Mr. Cahill, Chairman of the Finance Committee, reported recommending payment of the following accounts:—

W. H. Robertson & Co.	$15 00
R. Rogerson	87 60
J. Stevenson	24 00
J. R. Stratton	33 33
Peterboro Gas Company	61 60
George Taylor	3 00
John English	7 35
W. Brownlee in full for services rendered (in Correspondence up to the 1st March inst.)	10 00

The committee also recommended that in future no pay bills cannot be paid unless the same has been ordered in writing.

The report (on motion was received and adopted.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Dumble,—That the Clerk be instructed to procure a collector's book, ruled with columns in which can be entered the date of payment of taxes.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Cahill, —That W. Graham be allowed to exhibit his agricultural implements in the spot site as requested by him at a former meeting.

Mr. Dumble said to-morrow every man who does business in town. He followed his motion down at the last meeting on account [illegible] machines not being manufactured here.

Mr. McWilliams said that the place where he asked for there was room for a "cat" to sit on. He was all he asked for [illegible] was only as much as he [illegible] here.

The motion was then [illegible] carried.

Wrights and Mr. Dumble.

Mr. Cahill brought up the subject of [illegible] and measures, and said his object in [illegible] the attention of the council to it so that they would look after it and see that something was done in the matter. It was of great importance to the people to get fair weight, and he believed all that the bread that was sold in the town was not up to the weight, as was better, potatoes, meat, etc., which was purchased on the market. He recommended the buying of a light scale and leaving it on the market, so that those who so desired could weigh these articles when they purchased them.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Cahill, —That the Treasurer be and he is hereby required each day to deposit in the Bank, to the credit of the Treasurer of the Town of Peterborough, all monies received by him; that all monies paid out be paid by cheques only, and that no account be paid until the same shall have been first passed by the council, and also that the said Treasurer be required to keep a regular bank account, and that he be required to get a suitable cheque book with file on which may be entered the date, names, page, and on which account paid.—Carried.

Mr. Dumble said that there were notes in the bank to the amount of $15,000 which represented the deficits of last year, and there had been a By-law passed at a former meeting to raise $8,000, and he would move that a by-law be passed to raise $15,000 to pay the notes keep the credit of the town good, and give the Treasurer money to carry on the town affairs.

A By-law was then passed authorizing the Mayor and Treasurer to borrow $15,000 to meet the liabilities of the town.

Moved by Mr. Elder, seconded by Mr. Haggart,—That the Inspector of Streets and Bridges be instructed to have George and Simcoe streets scraped within the water limits immediately after the next rain, as they are in a very bad state at present.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Baptie,—That W. Graham be appointed night constable, to go on duty at 10 p.m. and remain on until 5 a.m., for one month only. Lost.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McBain,—That it shall be the duty of the Market Inspector to look after weights and measures in the town as far as possible, including bread.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

FEMALE PREACHERS.

A sermon preached by the Rev. V. Clementi, in St. John's Church, Peterborough, on Sunday, the 8th inst, on the scriptural authority for women preaching; from the words:—"I suffer not a woman to teach." (1st Epistle of Paul to Timothy 12 verse, 2nd chap.)

This letter of St. Paul to Timothy, is one of those epistles in which there is more prominence given to the necessity of putting down the heretics of that day. The gospel of this day contains an account of the power to preach given, in which there is a command to teach also. Timothy had been thus set apart for the ministry by the great Apostle of the gentiles, by the laying on of his own hands. When St. Paul left Ephesus he therefore addressed to Timothy the written instructions in this letter, from which the text is taken. One of the objects of these instructions was to condemn the grave heresies of the day. Another object, and that to which I particularly wish to invite your attention, was to give specific directions respecting the conduct of women—and thereby forbidding them to teach. "Let the women learn in silence and with all subjection." again; "Let your women keep silence in the churches, for it is not permitted unto them to speak; for it is a shame for women to speak in the church," and he adds, "If any man think himself to be a prophet, let him acknowledge that the things that I write unto you are the commandments of the Lord, and therefore necessary to be obeyed." Now though I am willing to admit that this letter refers to teaching in the church, yet the context shows that it extends to other places too. If we acknowledge that all scripture is given by inspiration of God, and if we believe that the epistles of St. Paul constitute an integral portion of scripture, we cannot fail to recognize the fact that women are emphatically forbidden to engage in public teaching, and that women in doing so act in direct contravention to the command of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. I have been induced to undertake the task of addressing you on the subject from the circumstances of some women having recently held religious meetings in our town. I have been led more especially to speak on this occasion from the circumstance that these meetings were regularly attended by many members of our congregation. These women call themselves "Evangelists." I beg to call your attention to this; what is the meaning of the word "Evangelist?" It take the meaning of this, not from any theological work, but from a common English dictionary; it means "one licensed to preach, but not having a fixed church or congregation." This from Worcester. From that definition we gather that an Evangelist must be licensed to preach. What do we understand by the word when it is ordinarly employed? We recognize it as the name given to one who preaches the Holy Gospel. It is an act of the most presumptious on the part of men not licensed to preach, or women, to style themselves "Evangelists." But, I am asked, would you prevent women from doing good—from using their efforts in striving to ameliorate the moral condition of the people. There are ways in which women can do, lawfully, a great amount of good. I will invite your attention to the recognized virtues of women who devote their whole lives to the performance of good works, one of whom was the Deaconess near Corinth, of whom we read in the Holy Scripture. Their duties were to instruct women in private, at catechism, to visit them when sick, and to minister to the confessors and martyrs, previous to their hour of suffering. They also had some feminine duties to perform. But they were never allowed to preach or teach in public. The whole lives of these noble women were devoted to good works. When the fury of persecution fell on the Christians they were the first to suffer; even in extreme old age they were never spared. These women were as earnest in their works as those who, in the present day, call themselves "Evangelists," and contravene the words of the apostle himself. We may produce from modern times many instances of the good works performed by women. The battle fields and hospitals have testified to the heroism of the sex. They have gone bravely to attend the wounded soldiers. The name of Florence Nightingale, and of others, have become household words with us, and will live in the memory of future ages. It is curiosity which crowds the halls of these lady preachers. We have heard that the effect which the American revivalists produced in England was but of transient, fleeting duration. I for one have very little faith in such conversions, as those produced by them. We cannot prevent and to believe that the agency of the Holy Spirit is thus manifested and exerted. We know that it acts now in like as it did in the apostle's days. It comes by the silent operation of the heart. The force of the Spirit the world can neither give nor take away. It is obtained through the practice of love, charity, temperance, patience, forgiveness, and such like virtues. These are the only evidences by which we learn that our hearts are renewed, our affections purified; not in these wonderful conversions by which we are moved; not in such unhealthy sensationalism. Women can, if they go desire, teach in the Sunday Schools. The good that women might effect in these schools, and also by occasional visiting the children at their homes, is likely to be great, and is likely to benefit and instruct themselves also. There are few such teachers who will not in the course of such tuition most assuredly add to their own stores of religious knowledge. I will now bring to you a few familiar texts of the new Testament in reference to public teaching by women. The pious woman trained Timothy in his childhood. Here is an example for mothers to exercise a supervision over the education of their children. Then can they assist our varied ministry from the commencement to the end. We read with pleasure in the Holy Bible of Olivia; this woman ministered in the earlier days; women then ministered to Christ in His passion; women stood by His cross on Calvary; women followed His body to the rock-hewed tomb; women were the first witnesses of His resurrection; women did not, however teach or preach. Can these routine of this system of Evangelism point to a single text which can show that Mary or Martha ever taught or preached in public? and so in all similar cases it will be found that these women preachers are unsanctioned by scriptural precedents. And what is the final argument to which the advocates of such teachings are reduced? one of their advocates told me the other day that St. Paul's teaching was old fashioned! I would to God that there were more of such old fashioned teaching in these days. Women would then learn what the will of Christ is respecting their duties:—"I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp the authority over the man, but to be in silence." I feel that I have treated much important subject very imperfectly! ward in [illegible] have been brought forward, etc., which was purchased on the market. He recommended the buying of a light scale and leaving it on the market, so that those who so desired could weigh these articles when they purchased them.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Cahill, —That the Treasurer be and he is hereby required each day to deposit in the Bank, to the credit of the Treasurer of the Town of Peterborough, all monies received by him; that all monies paid out be paid by cheques only, and that no account be paid until the same shall have been first passed by the council, and also that the said Treasurer be required to keep a regular bank account, and that he be required to get a suitable cheque book with file on which may be entered the date, names, page, and on which account paid.—Carried.

Mr. Dumble said that there were notes in the bank to the amount of $15,000 which represented the deficits of last year, and there had been a By-law passed at a former meeting to raise $8,000, and he would move that a by-law be passed to raise $15,000 to pay the notes keep the credit of the town good, and give the Treasurer money to carry on the town affairs.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Baptie,—That W. Graham be appointed night constable, to go on duty at 10 p.m. and remain on until 5 a.m., for one month only. Lost.

Timothy had been thus set apart for the ministry by the great Apostle of the gentiles, by the laying on of his own hands. When St. Paul left Ephesus he therefore addressed to Timothy the written instructions in this letter, from which the text is taken. One of the objects of these instructions was to condemn the grave heresies of the day. Another object, and that to which I particularly wish to invite your attention, was to give specific directions respecting the conduct of women—and thereby forbidding them to teach. "Let the women learn in silence and with all subjection." again; "Let your women keep silence in the churches, for it is not permitted unto them to speak; for it is a shame for women to speak in the church," and he adds, "If any man think himself to be a prophet, let him acknowledge that the things that I write unto you are the commandments of the Lord, and therefore necessary to be obeyed." Now though I am willing to admit that this letter refers to teaching in the church, yet the context shows that it extends to other places too. If we acknowledge that all scripture is given by inspiration of God, and if we believe that the epistles of St. Paul constitute an integral portion of scripture, we cannot fail to recognize the fact that women are emphatically forbidden to engage in public teaching, and that women in doing so act in direct contravention to the command of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. I have been induced to undertake the task of addressing you on the subject from the circumstances of some women having recently held religious meetings in our town. I have been led more especially to speak on this occasion from the circumstance that these meetings were regularly attended by many members of our congregation. These women call themselves "Evangelists." I beg to call your attention to this; what is the meaning of the word "Evangelist?" I take the meaning of this, not from any theological work, but from a common English dictionary; it means "one licensed to preach, but not having a fixed church or congregation." This from Worcester. From that definition we gather that an Evangelist must be licensed to preach. What do we understand by the word when it is ordinarly employed? We recognize it as the name given to one who preaches the Holy Gospel. It is an act of the most presumptious on the part of men not licensed to preach, or women, to style themselves "Evangelists." But, I am asked, would you prevent women from doing good—from using their efforts in striving to ameliorate the moral condition of the people. There are ways in which women can do, lawfully, a great amount of good. I will invite your attention to the recognized virtues of women who devote their whole lives to the performance of good works, one of whom was the Deaconess near Corinth, of whom we read in the Holy Scripture. Their duties were to instruct women in private, at catechism, to visit them when sick, and to minister to the confessors and martyrs, previous to their hour of suffering. They also had some feminine duties to perform. But they were never allowed to preach or teach in public. The whole lives of these noble women were devoted to good works. When the fury of persecution fell on the Christians they were the first to suffer; even in extreme old age they were never spared. These women were as earnest in their works as those who, in the present day, call themselves "Evangelists," and contravene the words of the apostle himself. We may produce from modern times many instances of the good works performed by women. The battle fields and hospitals have testified to the heroism of the sex. They have gone bravely to attend the wounded soldiers. The name of Florence Nightingale, and of others, have become household words with us, and will live in the memory of future ages. It is curiosity which crowds the halls of these lady preachers. We have heard that the effect which the American revivalists produced in England was but of transient, fleeting duration. I for one have very little faith in such conversions, as those produced by them. We cannot prevent and to believe that the agency of the Holy Spirit is thus manifested and exerted. We know that it acts now in like as it did in the apostle's days. It comes by the silent operation of the heart. The force of the Spirit the world can neither give nor take away. It is obtained through the practice of love, charity, temperance, patience, forgiveness, and such like virtues. These are the only evidences by which we learn that our hearts are renewed, our affections purified; not in these wonderful conversions by which we are moved; not in such unhealthy sensationalism. Women can, if they go desire, teach in the Sunday Schools. The good that women might effect in these schools, and also by occasional visiting the children at their homes, is likely to be great, and is likely to benefit and instruct themselves also. There are few such teachers who will not in the course of such tuition most assuredly add to their own stores of religious knowledge. I will now bring to you a few familiar texts of the new Testament in reference to public teaching by women. The pious woman trained Timothy in his childhood. Here is an example for mothers to exercise a supervision over the education of their children. Then can they assist our varied ministry from the commencement to the end. We read with pleasure in the Holy Bible of Olivia; this woman ministered in the earlier days; women followed His cross on Calvary; women followed His body to the rock-hewed tomb; women were the first witnesses of His resurrection; women did not, however teach or preach. Can these routine of this system of Evangelism point to a single text which can show that Mary or Martha ever taught or preached in public? and so in all similar cases it will be found that these women preachers are unsanctioned by scriptural precedents. And what is the final argument to which the advocates of such teachings are reduced? one of their advocates told me the other day that St. Paul's teaching was old fashioned! I would to God that there were more of such old fashioned teaching in these days. Women would then learn what the will of Christ is respecting their duties:—"I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp the authority over the man, but to be in silence." I feel that I have treated much important subject very imperfectly! ward in [illegible] have been brought forward, etc., which was purchased on the market. He recommended the buying of a light scale and leaving it on the market, so that those who so desired could weigh these articles when they purchased them.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Cahill, —That the Treasurer be and he is hereby required each day to deposit in the Bank, to the credit of the Treasurer of the Town of Peterborough, all monies received by him; that all monies paid out be paid by cheques only, and that no account be paid until the same shall have been first passed by the council, and also that the said Treasurer be required to keep a regular bank account, and that he be required to get a suitable cheque book with file on which may be entered the date, names, page, and on which account paid.—Carried.

Mr. Dumble said that there were notes in the bank to the amount of $15,000 which represented the deficits of last year, and there had been a By-law passed at a former meeting to raise $8,000, and he would move that a by-law be passed to raise $15,000 to pay the notes keep the credit of the town good, and give the Treasurer money to carry on the town affairs.

A By-law was then passed authorizing the Mayor and Treasurer to borrow $15,000 to meet the liabilities of the town.

Moved by Mr. Elder, seconded by Mr. Haggart,—That the Inspector of Streets and Bridges be instructed to have George and Simcoe streets scraped within the water limits immediately after the next rain, as they are in a very bad state at present.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Smith, seconded by Mr. Baptie,—That W. Graham be appointed night constable, to go on duty at 10 p.m. and remain on until 5 a.m., for one month only. Lost.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McBain,—That it shall be the duty of the Market Inspector to look after weights and measures in the town as far as possible, including bread.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

FEMALE PREACHERS.

A sermon preached by the Rev. V. Clementi, in St. John's Church, Peterborough, on Sunday, the 8th inst, on the scriptural authority for women preaching; from the words:—"I suffer not a woman to teach." (1st Epistle of Paul to Timothy 12 verse, 2nd chap.)

This letter of St. Paul to Timothy, is one of those epistles in which there is more prominence given to the necessity of putting down the heretics of that day. The gospel of this day contains an account of the power to preach given, in which there is a command to teach also. Timothy had been thus set apart for the ministry by the great Apostle of the gentiles, by the laying on of his own hands. When St. Paul left Ephesus he therefore addressed to Timothy the written instructions in this letter, from which the text is taken. One of the objects of these instructions was to condemn the grave heresies of the day. Another object, and that to which I particularly wish to invite your attention, was to give specific directions respecting the condu

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. J. B HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very loose back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER.

Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

READ CAREFULLY.

SAMUEL OSBORNE, Sophiasburg, says—"I was affected with Dyspepsia for nearly four years, my lungs becoming affected towards the last. I was induced to try the "Shoshonees Remedy." After using three or four bottles I felt much better, and gained strength rapidly, my health improved steadily and rapidly, and when I had taken three or four bottles more, I was quite restored to health and strength, and have experienced better health than for forty years before. I had been under the treatment of a number of physicians before, but never received any material aid until I used your remedy."

A. MCKAY, Truro, N. S., says "he was very bad with Liver Complaint, but used the "Shoshonees Remedy," and in a month was as well as he had ever been in his life. I am now in business and wish you to send me three dozen by steamer.

A. WOOD, Comeaux, says—"That he has tried the "Remedy" for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia with great success. I have also used the "Shoshonees Pills," and find that they are as good as any I ever tried.

Rev. JOHN SCOTT says—"Mr. McKenzie Scoting suffered from an attack of rheumatism, and was unable to move without help but after taking a few bottles of the 'Shoshonees" was able to walk as well as ever." Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cents a box.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT? A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. B. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it once with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. Mayhew Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the great reputation."—Joseph Rowe, Township Percy, writes, "I promised to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a bone which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It has done my horse more good than anything I ever tried. I would not be without it for twice its price if I could not get another bottle."

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 19, 1877.

THAT SECRET SERVICE IRREGULARITY.

Having apparently become convinced of the impracticable task it undertook in the defence of the Northern Railway speculators, the Review has left that for an equally difficult one—a justification of the conduct of Sir John Macdonald in relation to the balance of Secret Service money left at his personal control when the late government went out of office.—In the Northern Railway matter the Review was at first boldly defiant; but when we quietly pointed out its sophistries in the light of the facts of the case it became meekly explanatory and apologetic.—Taught by experience, it avoids the high and mighty in dealing with Sir John's irregular dealing and at once adopts the apologetic, and for the sake of effect tries to mix in considerable of the indignant. Indeed before it gets through with its self imposed task the chief ingredient of its conglomerate is indignation drawn from the thought that the Reformers, ("and particularly the Grit organ of this town") pursue Sir John with "malice, vindictiveness, and bitter hatred, and that he has not been treated with the justice to which even an ordinary culprit is entitled." Our idea of justice was that it should be visited upon the extraordinary equally with the ordinary culprit; and so it has been in the case of this extraordinary offender, in bringing him to account for his extraordinary offence.

We have before said, and we are ready to adhere to our statement that if Sir John's use of the fund unconstitutionally manipulated by him had been as free from suspicion as his blind followers would have us believe he would himself have been the first to have the record clean, in the manner offered him, by following British practice. We said, too, that his choosing to ignore opportunity and to live amid the foul breath of suspicion, leads to the easy inference that a consciousness of guilt makes him rather bear those ills he has than fly to others that he knows are worse." Taking those words of ours for its text the Review gives its readers a sermon on "Grit Vindictiveness," the chief complaint being that Sir John, the gentleman of "clean hands" has been denied "the benefit of the doubt." It is indeed a poor defence that has to fall back on this "benefit of the doubt." There was no doubt, however, that Sir John drew public money when he was no longer a public minister, by cajoling or deceiving a public officer there is no doubt that this was wrong; and there can be no doubt that when he refuses a chance to show that the money was expended purely in the public interest, he should be held personally responsible for it.

We are told that Sir John felt when he left office that the claims against the Secret Service Fund were larger than they should be, and that by delaying their payment he reduced them one-half. This may be very true; but then it is a direct accusation against those to whom the $6,600 was paid, good friends of Sir John, that they attempted to defraud the country out of $6,600. We scarcely think Senator Campbell and Mr. Pope will thank their Tory friends for presenting this view of the case; but we presume that worthy pair will find it to their advantage and the advantage of their party to quietly pocket the imputation. However this settlement of claims for public services was the duty of the government, and not of Sir John Macdonald. The government never dies though its composition may change. It was the duty of Sir John Macdonald to have handed over this fund with all other affairs to his successors in office, and explain to them or such of them, either one or more, as were chosen to receive his confidential statement, the nature of the excessive demands he thought were being made.—If the expenditures referred to were really for the general good of the country, and not for the particular benefit of the Conservative party, Sir John need not have hesitated to adopt this plain and straightforward course. He did not choose to do so, however, and so he got himself into trouble. The sentimental twaddle about Sir John's personal honour preventing him from revealing the names of those to whom the money went amounts to nothing in view of the fact that all that was asked of him was to explain the circumstances of these payments to a ministerial committee in order that the government might know that all was correct. The House and the country would be fully satisfied with a report from such a committee that all was regular.—The Conservative thinking that statement of the late minister, and the Reformer that of the present minister, and each being falsely construed by the mutual contradiction, finding arrangement would be in violation of honour on the part of the late Premier, for the payments being presumably in the interests of the country, and those interests demanding, that they be kept secret, it would be equally incumbent on the present as on the late ministry to maintain that secrecy, and if they violated it under such circumstances as we have sketched, the blame and the denunciations would then fall on their heads.

As regards the question of justice, Sir John Macdonald has been given every chance to explain his conduct, and has been granted a fair hearing before a committee of Parliament and before the country. He has by an able defence and a liberal decision been relieved of responsibility for the $6,000 paid to Senator Campbell; but the $600 to Mr. Pope comes within his own view, that the audit ordered by the House should refer to only such sums as were paid for services rendered after the passing of the resolution. He is therefore considered by the committee as liable for that amount. The finding of the Committee is as follows:—

1. "That the course pursued with regard to the Secret Service moneys was highly irregular, and a breach of the duty of those concerned therein.

2. That steps should be taken for the recovery into the public chest of the said sum of $6,600.

3. That no accounts having been kept, and the checks and papers having been destroyed, a satisfactory audit of the Secret Service expenditure has been rendered impossible.

4. That it was the duty of the Auditor-General to have passed the new Ministry charged to the credit of the sub-Service of the Privy Council, and he should have obtained the authority of the Ministry before giving authority for the payment of any sum.

5. That in case Secret Service moneys should at any time hereafter be voted by Parliament, it would be proper to provide for statutory safeguards against abuses in the application hereof."

ALTOGETHER "TOO THIN."

Purposes of deception are mostly always detected, either through the desperation or the deliberation with which they are undertaken. An example of this is furnished in the attempts of the Opposition to fasten some condemnation on the government, and the easy way in which they carry their own refutation by exhibiting their falsity. The local Tory Organ last week alluding to what it called "the Foster job" told a most absurd tale—one which would proclaim the Premier an idiot rather than the corrupt schemer the writer would have his readers believe him. After stating that Senator Foster had received a contract on the Georgian Bay Branch of the Canada Pacific Railway, deposited his securities and undertaken the work, our eager fault-finder declares that "before he had done a stroke of work he broke his agreement" and that "not only was he allowed to break his contract and retain his security, but he was paid the sum of $41,000 by the Premier for doing so!" Well might the intelligent compositor put a note of exclamation after so extraordinary and preposterous a statement. But when we are coolly told that Mr. McKenzie tried "to throw the blame" on a subordinate the falsehood becomes too ridiculous for the belief of the most credulous. Let us see for the satisfaction of this community what suggested this imaginative tale.—Senator Foster contracted for what is known as the Georgian Bay Branch of the Canada Pacific Railway, on the strength of representations made to him and to the government through him, of the general character of the country to be traversed. After prosecuting extensive surveys he found himself compelled to ask certain modifications and concessions without which he declared it might prove impracticable to carry out some of the provisions and stipulations of the contract. These changes the government deemed it inexpedient to make, as may be seen from a report of the Privy Council approved by His Excellency the Governor-General in Council on the 28th February 1876, and it was concluded to be in the public interest that the contract with Mr. Foster should be annulled, which was accordingly done. It will be seen, therefore, that Mr. Foster did not "break his contract; but that the government was the first to desire and order its cancellation. Mr. Foster was notified of the action of the Privy Council, and was paid the sum Mr. McKenzie is accused of giving him for nothing, as the fair value of the works of exploration, survey and construction performed by him so far as necessary to, or available for, the prosecution of the work. So much for this cock and-bull story in which we are told the Premier "deliberately violated all the rules of ordinary business and of common sense." It is now in order for our local Munchausen to get up another "orrible tale"; but he should by all means try to stick to the "rules of common sense," even if it be of that commonest kind for which he is remarkable. His last attempt was altogether "too thin." Yet we expect another tall tale to-morrow.

SIR JOHN'S HONOR.

The Review dwelt largely last week on Sir John's Honor. Where was his honor when he drew some $4,000 out of the people's money lent to the Northern Railway Company, to elect Mr. Hincks? Where was his honor when he took $2,500 for his own use and benefit in the shape of a subscription? Where was his honor when he paid $1,600 to get Reil out of the way, while he was saying, "would to God I could catch him?" Where was that honor when he took $366,000 to bribe the electors of the Dominion? where was that honor when he refuses to give an account to a confidential committee, how he had spent $200,000 of secret service money?

The Review says Sir John was asked to violate his honor and reveal the name of parties to whom he paid this money. This is not true. He was asked according to the British practice, to state on oath that he spent the money in the interest of the country, but he refused to do so. Does that refusal not declare blandly that he could not take such an oath? What an honorable man Sir John must be, when he dare not disclose whether he spent the S. S. money for his own or for the country's good?

LOYAL ORANGE GREAT GRAND MASTER.—The Grand Master of the Loyal Orange Association of the Dominion of Canada proved the sincerity of his 12th of July oration, when on motion of Mr. Costigan to grant amnesty to all engaged in the north-west troubles, and the murder of the unfortunate Scott. Mr. Grand Master Bowell voted for the amnesty of the Fenian O'Donohoe, who was leader of the Fenian raids in Winnipeg. So much for this High Priest of Orangeism, when his pocket is concerned.

SIR JOHN AS A PROTECTIONIST.

While Sir John was in power the general articles of trade paid 15 per cent duty, when Mr. McKenzie formed a Government those articles had to pay 17½ per cent. If an increased tariff is a test of statesmanship then Mr McKenzie's carries off the palm.

Sir John wishes to have farmers protected. In 1867-68 Hops, a produce of the farm, paid 15½ per cent duty, but just then John Carling of London, a brewer, was Sir John's friend, and he got hops placed on the free list during 1868, and thus Canadian farmers who raised hops were left to compete with foreign hop growers, without protection to please the rich brewer. Mr Carling, and the members of the Brewers Association were duly informed that the boon of 15½ per cent on there hops was obtained through John Carling. Why did Sir John then sacrifice the farmers interests to please the brewers. And as an exchange represented. "If that duty did them no good them what becomes of the 'agricultural protection cry.' It is made clear that if Sir John sold the first proposition in trust, Sir John sold the farmers, whose special friend he professes to be, for the sake of Mr. Carling and the brewers, if the second be true, and the brewers are trying to befool them. In either case he is proved a very queer guardian of the "farmers' friend;" though in any case he has shown himself an excellent political "hoppist."

It is true that when the 'national policy' was born in 1870 a duty of five cents a pound was placed on hops, and that when that policy was strangled in its cradle, a year afterwards, by its wet nurses (including Dr. Tupper) hops escaped to tell the tale. But that in no way effects the fact that before that Sir John threw the farmers overboard to please the brewers."

PORT HOPE'S PECUNIARY POSITION.

A correspondent of the Port Hope Times is endeavoring to show that the debt of that town to the Government should be completely cancelled. It may be that this person honestly thinks that such should be; but he will get a great many to differ with him. Though the people of the Province generally, whose money Port Hope borrowed so freely, are inclined to consider repayment about the fair thing, they are not likely to be unreasonable in the matter if good cause for cancellation be shown. It may be that this can be done; but the case of Port Hope will not be strengthened by such nonsensical pleas as are some of those put forth by the Times correspondent. In declaring that Port Hope was unjustly dealt with in the redistribution scheme he is accusing the then representative of East Durham of inattention to the interests of his constituents. This is a reproach that cannot fairly be brought against Mr. Williams, who was known to be indefatigable in his efforts to obtain good terms for Port Hope, and Hope Township. The complaint, that the rule whereby certain balances due by municipalities were cancelled was violated in the case of Port Hope, can only be made consistent by showing that the building of the Midland Railway "has not advanced the local interests" of Port Hope. This being granted it must be admitted that Port Hope in granting repeated bonuses to that line was madly throwing away its money. After quoting the Provincial Treasurer's report, "that the principle on which the debt of every municipality to the Municipal Loan Fund has been fixed has been the ability of such municipality to pay," this logician does not follow up by any attempt to show a disability to liquidate on the part of Port Hope. He simply expresses his belief that municipalities, the debts of which were cancelled, were as able to pay as Port Hope, in which view he is contradicted by the action of the House of Assembly, all the members of which had the question under consideration with all facts and figures before them. Which are we rather to believe? Certainly not the man who coolly tells us Port Hope obtained no relief under the Redistribution Act, when it is well known that her debt of a couple of millions to Government was reduced to a small percentage of that amount. The plea, that Provincial aid has been given other lines of railway competing with and injuring the revenues of that line to which Port Hope gave the borrowed Provincial and other moneys, has perhaps something in it; but it becomes absurd when it descends into a complaint that only a ninth of the amount granted to five other roads has been given this particular line, which but a short time before we were told was next to useless, in spite of all the bonuses given it. But the height of absurdity and unfairness is reached when we are told that Port Hope should not pay her $92,518 because but little of the money of the Province has been spent in that town or in East Durham. This is remarkably refreshing coming in connection with a reminder that this same town of Port Hope had more Provincial money through the Muncipal Loan Fund than it knew well what to do with, and that East Durham got more of that fund than any other constituency in the Province dared to think of asking. If the Government can only get what is owing to it by paying more, it had better at once cancel the debt and be done with it. Port Hope on its part has but one argument for repudiation, viz:—bankruptcy. There is much strength in the simple statement, "we are not able to pay." Any more wordy explanations may tend to raise the inquiry as to how so poor a town could grant so many bonuses, and other questions of a like embarrassing nature.

THAT Sir John Macdonald's expenditure of the Secret Service moneys is entirely beyond suspicion will hardly be believed by those people of Peterboro who heard him exclaim "I wish to God I could catch him;" (Reil)—when at the same time the rascal concerning whom he impiously invoked the Diety was luxuriating on foreign ground on Secret Service Money furnished by this same Sir John whom a Peterboro paper has the sychophancy to refer to as "a public man who to-day is held in higher esteem by the country for his personal qualities than any other person who has ever held a Cabinet port-folio." This is certainly a poor compliment to the intelligence of the audience who in this very town heard the atrical "wish" uttered by the admired Sir John. Besides it is rather rough on the many prominent and unimpeachable persons who have held Cabinet positions in Canada, and on Canada itself for elevating to such posts men of whom they thought so little.

SIR JOHN'S MAJORITY.—On protection for Mr. Wood's motion in favour of protection, 31 against him; on Dr. Orton's motion, 30 against him; on Sir John's own amendment, 49 against him; on another of Sir John's motions to protect the interests, 60 against him. What a pretty leader Sir John must be! Should supporters of the above rule for one week, the twelve others; unless his dear friends should remain faithful.

THAT MASKED MALIGNER.

The moral assassin who hides himself behind the ill-used nom de plume of "Merchant" evidently has great influence over the Review, for last week it induced that sheet to copy a column of matter that had formerly appeared in the other papers of the town, principally in the EXAMINER. This coward who is either ashamed of his own name, or afraid to father his slanderous effusions, speaks of us as attempting to shield Dixon Bros. We were not aware that the Dixon Brothers had done any wrong whereby we could possibly "make matters worse" by "attempting to shield" them. As this pseudo "Merchant" again contents himself with indulging in vipe[illegible] and seems bound to confine himself to such slimy tactics, perhaps the Review will deign to explain what is meant by its influential correspondent, and why it admits such disgraceful matter as his letters into its columns. This disguised robber of reputations further "repudiates" as he puts it, "any intention of having singled out the Dixon Bros. * * for being guilty of cutting ties to their premises." It is true that in his former letter he spoke of "another case of criminality," but omitted any name, thereby inferring that the case he particularly referred to was a case of "criminality." If the Dixon Brothers have been guilty of any wrong whatever in the matter let a specific charge be brought against them in the interests of justice; but in the interests of justice, and morality as well, we protest against such libels as have lately been published against them. They cannot be published for a good motive, else they would be openly acknowledged by their author; therefore they must be written with the criminal intent of injuring those against whom they are directed. The attempted distinction of men's property by incendiarism is bad enough; but the attempted destruction of their character by a concealed enemy is worse, the more especially when it is done through the medium of a professedly respectable newspaper.

THE QUEEN VS. WILKINSON.—This case now known as the "big push" case has again been put off to meet the wishes of the defendant.

AN ATTEMPT TO FIRE WELLAND.—On Thursday night last a daring attempt was made by a gang of thieves to burn Welland. They first attempted to plunder several stores, but failing in that they set fire to several stores they had entered No clue to the villains has been obtained.

Says the Woodstock Sentinel: The Montreal Gazette Ottawa correspondent (T. White, Jr.) says it was "inexpressibly sad" to see Mr. Blake opposing the Opposition's motion on the Anglin printing. Mr, Blake has a habit of making Conservative politicians like Mr. Thos. White, jr., feel "inexpressibly sad." That's what troubles them.

Before the Northern Railway Committee on Friday Sir John Macdonald withdrew his former statement that the proceeds of the two drafts on Mr. Cumberland for Sir Francis Hinck's election expenses were paid to Mr. R. W. Scott, now Secretary of State. He now says the money was now given to Sir Francis himself. The letter was also written to the press to correct the erroneous statements of Sir John, which was widely circulated to Hon Mr. Scott's discredit.

BOBCAYGEON Independent: The Dixon Fire still causes a good deal of conversation, a letter published in the Review having insinuated that the Messrs Dixon knew more of the matter than they had stated in evidence. To this letter Mr. Dumble replies in one of the best letters he has ever written,—indeed it is a really excellent communication, logical, convincing, and in excellent spirit. This letter finally disposes of the matter for it makes it clear that the fire would have been ruinous to all the Dixon family. No one who knew anything of the Messrs Dixon, or of the facts of the case, ever entertained the least suspicion that the Dixon's had anything to do with the fire, but the letter of Mr. Dumble settles it definitely.

The local Tory organ (adopting its own style of reference) last week was pleased to give several extracts from Sir A. T. Galt's letters, which it fancied reflected on the governments fiscal policy. Taking its own witness, let us see what he says of its knight of the elevated "personal qualities," Sir John Macdonald and his immense gift of fish. Sir Alexander says in reference to Sir John A'exander's diplomacy, "The Treaty of Washington has restored amicable relations between Great Britain and the United States, but it has at the same time disposed of all we then depended on in future negotiations for Reciprocity. Our Fenian claims have been pigeon-holed; the navigation of the St. Lawrence and of our canals has been conceded, and our fisheries surrendered, while we still wait for the large indemnity looked for. The poor equivalents of free fish and the temporary use of the navigation of certain American waters has been all we have yet secured in return." That is all we want just now from this witness.

BUSINESS FAILURES.

Dun & Co's Quarterly Circular.

The mercantile agency of Dun & Co., have issued a circular which gives the number of failures which have occurred throughout the United States and Canada for the first three months of the current year, compared with the same quarters in previous years, together with the amount of liabilities of the collapsed establishments. As regards the United States the record of the first three months of 1875, 1876 and 1877, is as follows:

Years	No. of failures	Amount of liabilities	Average liabilities
1877	2,039	54,338,674	19,910

From this it will be seen that though the liabilities of the insolvents of the 1877 quarter are less by ten million dollars than those of 1876, yet the number of failures is greater by a little over sixty. As the average liabilities of the insolvents in the 1876 quarter were $28,000, and this year were but $19,900, it is evident that the failures are now affecting smaller business houses than during the previous year.

With regard to Canada, we find that a somewhat like condition of affairs presents itself. It is true that the first quarter for 1877 shows a greater number of Canadian insolvents, and a greater amount of liabilities, than the 1876 quarter. But while the insolvents have increased by nearly one quarter there liabilities have increased only by a trifle. Here are the Canadian figures for the first three months during the years named

1875	201	$4,141,000	$20,600
1876	198	3,736,000	18,868
1877	242	4,236,000	17,500

What the agency report says as to the United States failures may also hold good as to Canada: "The failure of 11 in the city of Baltimore is a serious blow, and ought to atone for the addition to the numbers."

With regard to the trade of the year these statistics it is alleged that, especially, dwelling small stocks in the hands of retailers, and low prices for many staples, the demand for goods has been weak and irregular, and the amount of business done in all branches of commerce much less than was anticipated. The extent of business is indicated very closely by the exchanges at the various clearing houses, of which there are now some fifteen in operation in that number of cities Of these, thirteen made returns last year, and a comparison is therefore possible as to the amount of transactions represented by bank cheques at these thirteen great centres. The total clearings in the first quarter of 1876 were 7,407 millions, while in the first quarter of 1877 they were 7,559 millions, showing a decline of 127 millions. The earnings of all the railroads reporting returns indicate a decline in about the same proportion for the quarter. The decrease thus noticed it is true is but slight, yet on the face of an expected increase is somewhat disappointing.

In relation to this condition of things, the circular very sensibly says:

If our people could learn, even for a while, to be content with a day of small things, the results of the past quarter would not be disappointing. But unhappily all the arrangements are for business on the grandest scale. Railroads exist to accommodate twice the traffic that offers; warehouses large enough to hold four times the needed supplies of the country, while the number engaged in the business of each locality is far in excess of its average requirements; and altogether expenses and facilities for an extent of trade only possible in periods of the widest expansion. These are hardly the true standards by which to measure either safety or real prosperity. Judged by a more reasonable standard, the experience of the first three months of the year has not been a bad one. On the contrary, though business has been small, it has yielded a fair return. In proportion to the amount of business transacted the profits have been better than for many a previous quarter. It is certain business is done at vastly less expense than in former years, that values are more settled, and, above all, that both foreign and internal indebtedness is very materially reduced.

After charging upon the Bankrupt law an aggravation of existing commercial disabilities, the Messrs. Dunn & Co. conclude their review as follows:

"The early prospect of a practical settlement of the Southern question is regarded as a marked contribution toward a return of more prosperous times. The great staples of this section are of prime importance in markets of the world, and its power of absorbtion of goods, especially in view of the small stocks held, is too well known to need comment. If recent events remove the clog from its material progress, and inspire its people with energy to extend their productions and increase their wealth, a better hope may be entertained for the whole country. This, with other indications, are of an encouraging character, and lead to the belief that the worst is past, and if we are favoured with another good crop of agricultural produce, the remainder of the year will enable us to mark a substantial progress."

Dr. Cadieux in Hamilton

The Hamilton Evening Times of the 14th, says:—

A large audience assembled in Mechanics Hall last night to hear Dr. Cadieux's lecture, "A Struggle for life." We noticed on the platform Mr. J. R. Holden, President of the Mechanics' Institute, and Rev. Mr. Bell. Mr. D. B. Chisholm presided. The meeting was opened with prayers by Rev. Mr. Bell, after which the Chairman, with an appropriate speech, introduced the lecturer, who was greeted with applause.

Dr. Cadieux began in a clear voice his interesting lecture, and soon engaged the closest attention of his hearers. He asserted that alcohol was a poison, not a food, not a stimulant, and should not be used as a medicine except as poison.

Before proceeding with his chemical experiments, the lecturer invited any physicians or chemists, who might be in the audience, to come on the stage and examine the chemicals and watch the process, and correct him if there were ground for it. None, however, came. The Doctor then proceeded to put beef, potatoes, bread, and milk in glasses; added gastric juice, which was made before the audience, and placed the apparatus in warm water, which was kept up to the temperature of 95 fahrenheit to imitate the heat of the stomach, but added whiskey to two of the glasses to prove that alcohol destroys the gastric juice, and, therefore, instead of assisting digestion, it retards and prevents it. After the lecture the instruments were shown and examined by many, and the food which did not contain any alcohol was entirely digested, while the others were as they were put in. The lecture addressed the audience for over two hours, and delivered the most logical, instructive and powerful speech for prohibition ever delivered in this city. Dr. Cadieux has great oratorical and dramatic power, and at times held the large assembly almost spell bound. His virit to the Penitentiary at Kingston, the tracing of the child from the cradle up to happy manhood, and then his tragic end—dragged to the scaffold by the hangman, so that the people might have a revenue and sell their barley—caused murmurs of indignation to be heard in the audience present. His description of "Venitzeuzent," or burial alive of the wayfarer who happened to fall into the quicksands of Normandy, in comparison with the fashionable and occasional drinker, was listened to with breathless silence, while his "Charge of Cromwell's Cavalry" and the death of Charles the First were remarkable.

The audience throughout the address gave the greatest attention, were not tired and only interrupted the speaker with frequent and unmistakable marks of approbation. The lecturer is all what he is advertised, and, for a Frenchman, has a wonderful command of the English language.

Many went on the platform to shake hands with Dr. Cadieux, and pressing invitations to give another lecture in Hamilton were extended to him.

Mrs. Youmans and her husband were in the audience, and the lectureess frequently applauded her co-worker in the field of prohibition.

We learn that Dr. Cadieux will Lecture again in Peterboro in a short time due notice of which will be given.—(ED EX)

GRIT TYRANNY AND INJUSTICE.—Grip says the Ottawa Correspondents of the Conservative papers of the Country, are evidently suffering the most unpronted ill treatment at the hands of MACKENZIE or some other minion of the party in power. Probably it is the door-keeper of the Secret Service and Northern Railway Committee Rooms, because the particular act of Grit tyranny to which Grip refers is the exclusion of these Conservative newspaper representatives from the meetings of the Committee just named. There can be no reasonable ground for this action on the part of the government. If the investigations going on are public, as they ought to be and professedly are, it is a piece of gross and criminal favouritism to let the Grit reporters in and shut the Tory ditto out. This is what MACKENZIE is doing, apparently Grip judges so from the fact that the correspondents of the Conservative papers to not send up anything at all about the Secret Service and Northern Railway business, whereas the Grit correspondents send whole columns. Now, these reporters are all vigilant and industrious fellows, and to say that the Grit ones are able to find a great deal of deeply interesting matter to report that the Tory ones never hear of, is to make a comparison untrue as well as "odorous." Grip is certain it is not the fault of the reporters that the Conservative press is deprived of so much good reading matter. Then it must be MACKENZIE's fault; and the only conclusion we can come to is that, he already intrusted, he is crushing the freedom of the press beneath his despotic will, and keeping the Opposition reporters out of the committee rooms. Rather than that one of these press gentlemen should fall for professional, and bring them out of their pockets themselves. If it becomes the Premier and the Minister. After all, very likely it is the latter.—Grip.

GRAND CONCERT.

The Amateur Musical Society of Peterboro gave their first Concert in [illegible] Thursday evening last, before [illegible] and appreciative audience. The programme comprised some very fine selections in music. The entertainment opened with an organ solo by Mr. Edward Mahon, (Lawyer) of Peterboro; next came a magnificent song of "Millard," entitled "Waiting" by Miss Maggie Gibson of Toronto. The morceau was artistically rendered and evoked the most enthusiastic applause. Owing to the length of the programme it was impossible to respond to the encheres which greeted every member of the A. M. Society. A reading by Mr. J. Haggart, Jr., was the next feature. The subject was a "Scotch Parson's Sermon against Intemperance"; the piece was very finely read—the Scotch dialect being perfection itself. It was the cause of much merriment. A quartette, "Moonlight on the Lake" came next; the Misses Gibson and Palmer, Messrs. Bletcher and Elliott taking part; each part, soprano, alto, tenor and bass was correctly and sweetly sung. Where all done so well it is hardly fair to particularize, but it would be unjust if we did not en passant mention that Mr. Elliott's bass was splendidly sung. Mr. J. Ormond then favored the audience with two songs in character, both of which were exceedingly well rendered. His rendition of the "Swell o the Day" could not have been surpassed by a professional. A song and chorus "There's a Letter in the Candle," which was ably and sweetly given by Miss Brownlee and the rest, brought the first part of the programme to an end. After an intermission of a few minutes Mr. Mahon opened the second part with a medley on the organ. Messrs. Rush and Elliott then gave in excellent style "The Minute Gun at Sea." "Dwendy seven Cends," a Dutch character song was rendered admirably by Mr. Ormond—Miss Ormond playing the organ accompaniment with much taste. A quartette "The good old days of yore," sung by the Misses Gibson and Palmer and Messrs. Rush and Elliott, was the subject of much commendation.—Professor O. Dixon then delighted and amused the audience with some very clever illustrations in the art of Ventriloquism. The cellar voice was artistic. A duett untitled "What are the wild waves saying?" by Miss Gibson and Mr Rush was well received. A grand quartette "Let the dead and the beautiful rest," by Messrs. Clinton, Bletcher, Rush and Elliott which was extremely well rendered, brought the programme to a close.—The proceedings terminated with the singing of the National Anthem by the Society. The entertainment was first-class throughout, and the high character of the concert reflects the greatest credit on the Directors Messrs. T. O. Rush and J. Ormond, to whose unwearied and painstaking efforts the brilliant success of the entertainment is mainly due. Mr. Mahon presided at the organ. The Society gave another Concert last evening at Lakefield, a report of which will be given in our next issue. The Society will give another grand Concert in the Opera House, in a short time, at which several First-class Artistes from a distance will take part, and we have no doubt but that the entertainment will be well patronized by the citizens of Peterborough.

MORALS.

BY STEFANO QUIRICI.

There is nothing which should engage the thoughts of a young man more than the subject of morality. By his private character only is a man raised in the estimation of the civilized world around him. Through the medium of a spotless honor and chaste moral character does he achieve a dignity—an eminence which no enemy can reach in his most envenomed hatred. By character is meant those qualities of patience, amiability, prudence—those virtues of temperance, fortitude, (chastened by the purest virtue, chastity)—those high ennobling principles which give force to a young man's ambition, clothe it in well protected armour;—these brilliant accomplishments of body and mind which serve but to embellish and exhibit in its more graceful examples as God's choose souls. By patience we understand that lofty prevading spirit of perseverance and self-denial which the lives of the most eminent of men teach has accomplished so much good. Many are the qualities which are more captivating, such for example as amiability and the like, but it is a truth of importance that the virtue of patience is of more account than all the others put together. There is no one virtue by the practice of which man can accomplish so much. There is none so essential—in fact it should be the motive governing power of all the others. Patience is defined to be a sort of self-denial or perseveringturn of mind which is never disturbed in its mild, gentle, quiet by a want of equanimity of temper. In order that man may possess this virtue in its fullest sense it is necessary that his motives at all times should be circumscribed by the most conscientious rectitude. Without an unswerving idea of right, patience can have no place in the human breast. A self satisfied confidence that his ruling incentives are but emanations from the highest, most religious honor, is requisite before a man can be said to be truly patient. By no other means can this high virtue be possessed. By no other means can his life run in smooth, soft, silent, flow, unruffled in its calm course to the ocean of fame or of happiness. From his very entrance into the world—from the moment when his infant eyes first wake to the light of day—man's temptations, struggles, trials and victories, begin. Surrounded on all sides by evil spirits, visible and invisible—beset in every hour by lurements to sin—it is a matter of little surprise where the counter attractions are so great (being generally clothed in the most captivating enchanting garbs) that weak puny fragile man should fall, be lowered, be shattered in his journey to the immaterial world.

COBOURG.

LINDSAY.

BODY FOUND.—On April 16, the body of an unknown man, about five feet ten inches in height, and weighing about 165 pounds, was found in McLaren's Creek, about four miles north of here yesterday. The body was partially decomposed, and the features could not be traced. He had a dark moustache and chin whisker, hair, a light brown; body clothed in a suit of black satinette, and a brown checked shirt. An inquest was held to-day, and a verdict of "Found drowned" returned. It is supposed that the body has lain in the creek since last fall, and is that of some unfortunate tramp who had fallen off the railway bridge which crosses the creek, within a few rods of where the body was found.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL

The Council met on Tuesday evening. Present J. Burnham, Esq., Reeve, in the chair, and Messrs. McMahon, Mowry and Wand. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 19, 1877.

THE spring Assizes will be held on Tuesday, May 1st.

BAREFOOT boys were blooming on the streets during the past week.

SWELL drinkers now call for a "Blue-Glum cock-tail," in place of Tom and Jerry.

ST. ANDREW'S (Presbyterian) church has given an unanimous call to Rev. Alex. Bell, of England.

PRESENTON.—Mr. D. D. Galletly has been appointed to his old place as Precentor of St. Paul's church.

THE Lindsay Central Exhibition is to take place the week following the Provincial Show at London.

THE Boating Club are making arrangements for athletic sports, to come off in the drill shed grounds, on the approaching Queen's birthday.

TOO LATE! Too LATE!—It is too late to be wearing your fur caps! Just call at Hyman's and get one of his new stylish hats, and lay the fur cap away for next years snows.

CHANGE OF STAND.—Mr. John Garvey is about removing from his present stand to the corner store of same block. It has been refitted and enlarged, and is now one of the finest stores in town. See advertisement next week.

SPRING WORK.—The season proves very favourable for spring work, and farmers are busy at all directions ploughing and preparing land for the seed. A large amount of land has been turned over in the different townships during the past week.

WHEAT MARKET.—Wheat is up to $1.45 per bushel. Merchants who bought at 89 cents, $1, and $1,10, will make money this season, now that war in Turkey has commenced in earnest. What signifies the lives of a few Turks it Manchants can thus increase their gains!

THREE MAILS TO APSLEY.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that the government have advertised for tenders for the carrying of the mails to and from Apsley three times per week. The inhabitants of the Boreas will duly appreciate this.

NEW DOMINION MONTHLY.—The April number of this popular magazine contains the usual amount of choice reading matter. The original articles are all good; the Young Folks' and Home Departments particularly interesting. John Dougall & Sons, publishers, Montreal.

NOTICE TO ANGLERS.—The close season for white fish or salmon trout is from June 1st to November 15th only; for speckled trout from the 15th of September, to 1st of May; for pickerel and muskinonge from the 15th of April to the 15 of May. Fish poles should be kept out of sight till after the first of May.

IT'S A FACT.—It is a fact that the rays of the sun materially affect even the best fur and deprive it of its rich colour; therefore send it to Mr. Loeb to be laid away securely from sun and moths, and get one of his new spring hats they are very nice. Besides, by so doing, you will save time and money in the end.

GREAT bargains are now being offered by W. J. Wallace, Lakefield, in choice New Dress Goods, Black Lustres, Prints, Cottons, and Shirtings. Beautiful grey lustres, 12½ cts. per yard. Useful striped mohairs, 10 cts. per yard. Splendid washing prints, 10 cts. per yard. Inspection invited. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield.

BOATING CLUB.—The boat racks will be let by auction at the Boat House, on Monday evening, at 7:30 p.m., at an upset price of $1. Members to be entitled to bid must have paid their current years subscription and arrears. Any member unable to attend may, of course, appoint a proxy. Tickets can be had at any time from N. D. Beck, the Secretary.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday last, a young man named Francis Sloman, residing in Otonabee, met with a severe injury while working a windlass in his barn. The crank flew back striking him across the face, fracturing some of the bones, and disfiguring him dreadfully. Dr. Bell was called in and dressed the wounds, which he hopes will not leave any permanent disfigurement.

PLAINING, &c.—Baptie's Planing Mills are prepared to do all kinds of planing, etc., to suit those building this year. They can also furnish doors, sash, and mouldings, to suit the general demands of the trade. They will supply all orders on short notice, and at moderate prices. Remember the place, Baptie's steam planing mill and factory, George Street north. See advertisement.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH CONCERT.—Don't forget the musical and literary entertainment to be given in the School House, Ashburnham, in aid of St. Luke's Church building fund. The entertainment given before in the same place, and for the same purpose, was very successful and was largely attended. The programme for this one is varied, and promises to be popular. Let all turn out and aid in the good work.

SOCIAL.—A Social will come off in the Lecture Room of the Methodist Church, on Monday evening, under the countenance of the ladies of the congregation. Much of the success attending these meetings during the winter has arisen from the complete change of programme on each occasion. There will be a clearing out sale of ladies' work, children's furnishings, etc. Admission 15 cents; refreshments free.

LOOSE PLANKS.—If the chairman of the "Board of Works" would detail one or two men to fasten the loose planks on the front street, between Charlotte and Brock streets, and to drive down the nails which project here and there, he would receive the thanks of the community; supposing it did cost a little over the $2,500 to be appropriated for the streets and bridges this year. To be upset by one of those loose planks, or to ruin a new boot on a projecting nail, is not conducive to good temper, and is decidedly unpleasant.

NEW BOOT AND SHOE STORE.—Mr. Wesley Miller, late foreman for Mr. J. Stensen, is opening out an excellent assortment of boots and shoes, two doors west of Cavanagh's hotel, Hunter street. Mr. Miller is a practical workman, of large experience; and will be able to provide for the wants of the public to advantage. He has selected his stock—all new—in the best markets; and of the most fashionable and useful styles, for ladies, gents, and children. He will also manufacture to order; and will guarantee satisfaction. Give him a call. Remember the place, two doors west of Cavanagh's hotel, Hunter street.

FINE ART.—Mr. R. N. Roddy, of the Roddy House, has placed in his Bar two very fine Oil Paintings of the Two political Leaders of the Dominion. Messrs. Mackenzie and Jno. A. McDonald. They are by our townsman Mr. Workman, who is now so favorably known as a portrait painter. The two pictures in the Roddy House are finely executed, bringing out those statesmen with very life-like effect. To have an Artist of Mr. Workman's taste and ability in our town is no small favor, and our citizens should lose no opportunity of securing mementoes of their admired living friends, or dearly beloved departed ones, by leaving their orders at Mr. Little's Studio at once.

LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—The Peterborough Literary Association met last Thursday. Mr. H. S. Weller and Mr. Edmund Rogers favoured the society with well chosen readings. The following subject was discussed: "Should the existing law of dower be abolished, so as to allow husbands to dispose of their lands free from the control of their wives?" Mr. Edwards and Mr. G. H. Haines sustained the affirmative; Mr. Rogers and Mr. E. A. Peck the negative. The chairman, Mr. Tobey, after a brief summary of the arguments, left the decision of the debate in the society, which was given for the affirmative. The subject for debate at the meeting of the society this evening is: "Is it desirable that the municipality opposite to Peterborough" Mr. F. A. Hilton was elected Treasurer, in room of Mr. H. T. Dodd, resigned, in consequence of leaving town.

DUST, DUST, DUST.—The following Dirge is very appropriate at the present time in this town. It is to be hoped that the merchants and city fathers will commit it to memory for recitation at the next meeting of the town council:—

A DIRGE OF THE DUST.

The streets are dusty, the streets are hot;
The dust is deep, and the wind is strong,
The dust flies low, and the dust flies high,
Which nobody can deny.

The mud was once where the dust now is,
And the mud was better by far than this,
For the dust fills mouth, nose, ear and eye,
Which nobody can deny.

The sweepers—who sure not—are calm, for they Have only one thing to sing or say,
"The dust, dear fellow, is all in your eye,"
Which nobody can deny.

THE CANADA CHRISTIAN MONTHLY.—Toronto: C. Blackett Robinson. Terms: $1 per annum—free of postage—in advance. This periodical is edited by the Rev. James Cameron, Chatsworthy. It is evangelical and connectarian in character, its motto being, "In things essential, UNITY; in things indifferent, Liberty; and in all things Charity." Both its editorial and selections are always replete with weighty thought, bearing upon the most important religious, moral, and social questions of the day. In its issue it is very decided, without the least indication of bigotry. It never silences matters; never gives forth an uncertain sound, and never enters into any compromise with that which is evil, while at the same time it is brimful of the love of Christ to sinners. Every number contains a department for the children, and one or two illustrations. Sample copy mailed on receipt of ten cents. Agents wanted in every locality. Terms made known on application.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—On Monday afternoon, while Mr. James Brock, of Cavan, was at the Peterboro railway station, he met with a severe accident that almost proved momentarily fatal. He and Mr. Butler, were loading a Drill Sower, and when they had almost succeeded in getting it on the Hay rack which was on the waggon—the horses moved, but the Machine, partly on the side of the rack, upset the rack, thus upsetting Mr. Brock, and the Machine which he was holding up. It is thought that he fell partly on the Machine, as one of the drills cut him severely on the head, fracturing his skull, but not crushing the brain. Dr. Elmsley was immediately sent for and attended to him, during the evening he was removed to Mr. Mulligan's who is his father-in-law, and we are glad to learn that it is hoped that he will be able to be around soon, although he may suffer from the injuries for some time. It is a matter for thankfulness that the Machine did not fall on him, for if it had it would have killed him instantly.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.—A Mrs. Joseph Dale was summonsed on Friday morning for being drunk and disorderly on the streets the evening previous, by constable McGee. Her husband paid one dollar and settled the case; she being unable to appear.

SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.—Mrs. Crowley was fined on Saturday $20 and costs for selling liquor without license.

SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.—Mrs. Barkino was charged by the License Inspector with selling liquor without license on Saturday, the 7th. She admitted the case. SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.—Mrs. Barkino was also charged with selling liquor without license on Monday the 9th inst. She admitted the charge and was fined $20 and costs, $3.75, to be paid on the 1st of May, or in default 30 day in jail, at hard labour.

SELLING LIQUOR ON SUNDAY.—Joseph Brault was charged on Monday morning, with selling liquor on Sunday. Mr. Brault being sick, and not being able to attend, the case was enlarged for one week.

SELLING LIQUOR ON SUNDAY.—T. Cavanagh was charged on Saturday evening with selling on Sunday. Fined $20 and $3.75 costs, to be paid forthwith.

INSANE.—Alexander Connor, who has been in jail since the 16th inst., was brought before the P. M. on remand, on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Connor withdrew the charge, and paid $5 costs, and he was discharged.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.—William Campbell was fined $5 for being drunk and disorderly on the streets on Tuesday morning.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The council met on Monday evening. Present: Messrs. Dumble, Cahill, McWilliams, Baptie, Elder, McBain, Hamilton, Yelland, Rountree and Haggart.

MINUTES CONFIRMED.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From A. Hazel acknowledging the receipt of the letter from the Clerk, and stating that if the council wanted the mail box left at the Post Office instead of at the station it would have to be under the supervision of the Post Master; and as to the time to go by, the Grand Trunk runs by Montreal time, and the Midland by Port Hope time.—Received.

From John Cole, asking for four and a half weeks board that had not been paid him for the keeping of the late F. H. Knapp, amounting to $78.25.—Received.

From E. Burnham, asking the council to compell a drain, to be dug through the park lots to the main drain on the drain road.—Received.

From W. Meazies, asking to have the hollow filled up, and the sidewalk on Rubidge and King streets repaired.—Received.

From the Sheriff of Toronto inclosing a blank form to be filled in, concerning a man who was insane, named "Nash," and says he is from Peterborough.

Mr. McWilliams said that he came from the Township of Harvey, and was a man of considerable means, and recommended the forwarding of the blank form to the Reeve of Harvey, which on motion was ordered to be done.

From John Ritchie, and others, asking to have a sidewalk laid.

All the applications for sidewalks were referred to the street Inspector to report.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

From W. Cummings, street Inspector, recommending that with respect to John Cook's petition, he recommended that the gravel be got as it was required on London street, from the Race-way to George street, and in the vicinity of that part of the town; also recommended the prayer of John Garvey, asking to have the sidewalk on Simcoe and George streets raised as soon as the frost was out of the ground; also that Mr. Waghorn be allowed to cut a water table, as it would require a sewer four hundred yards long, to be cut along said street to the Monaghan drain; also that James Sutherland's prayer be granted, to fill a gully on Prince Albert street, the cost not to exceed $20; also recommended that the grading and water-tabling of Smith street, at a cost not to exceed $103. He also drew the attention of the council to the bad state of the old sidewalk in several parts of the town, as many of them must be repaired at once. The planks are curling up with the dryness of the season, and owing to the sleepers rotting and will not hold the nails; and would advise the council to call tenders for 30,000 feet of pine plank, to be delivered at the town yard on Simcoe street, as there is no plank left in the yard from last year.

Mr. McWilliams moved for the adoption of the report.

Mr. Haggart said that that portion of the sidewalk around Mr. Garvey's store was as good as the generality of sidewalks, and said that if the council went on this way adopting reports, the $6,000 appointed for this purpose would only last about two months.

Mr. Dumble said that the grading on Smith street should be done, as the street was in a very bad condition, and recommended the laying of the report on the table for one week, and appoint a committee to examine these places; the committee to be Messrs. McWilliams, Haggart and the mover, and report at the next meeting of the council.

Mr. McWilliams objected to the motion, and said that if the council had any confidence in the street Inspector they should adopt his report.

Mr. Dumble's motion was then put and carried.

From R. N. Roddy, explaining the way his shed was erected, and asked to be allowed to let it stand, as the shingles are well laid in mortar.—Received.

From John Green, asking the position of driving the team spoken of in the council—about they purchase them—at $2.15 per day.

On motion it was carried that when the council purchase a team of horses that Mr. Green be employed to drive them.

SMALL SCALES FOR MARKET

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Haggart,—That in the opinion of this council it is desirable to procure small scales to be left on the market for the weighing of small articles, such as Bread, Butter, etc., and that Messrs. Mathias, Elder and the mover be a special committee to procure such scales, and that it shall be the duty of the market Inspector to look after the weights and measures as far as possible.

Mr. McWilliams said that if the scales are to be got, let them be put in some part of this building, as they are only for one purpose, and if they are left on the market Mr. Green may come on the council for damages.

Mr. Cahill said that he did not wish to interfere in any way with the market Clerk, he only wanted to have them as test scales.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Baptie.—That the market Inspector be instructed to get a small pair of test scales, to be kept in the the Town office, where he may test any of the provisions sold to the Town on the market, when it is suspected that short weight is offered.

The motion was carried on a vote being taken

REPAIRING SIDEWALKS, &c.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. McWilliams.—That the street Inspector be directed to put on two men to have such repairs made on the sidewalks where urgently required.—Carried.

HEALTH NOTICE.

Moved by Mr. Baptie, seconded by Mr. Dumble,—That the health Inspector be required to see that no refuse be thrown over the dam at Dixon's mill, and that the Clerk be instructed to forbid any such deposits, as persons doing so will be prosecuted:—Carried.

HORSES FOR THE TOWN.

Moved by Mr. Haggart, seconded by Mr. Elder.—That the council authorize the purchase of two horses for the purpose of watering the streets, and to be used for doing corporation work.

Mr. Haggart said that it would be a saving to the town to purchase a team, as there was nearly $600 paid out last year for corporation carting. The merchants feel sore that their petition for the watering of the streets by a general tax was not acted on, as they pay a very large portion of the taxes, and their money goes towards building sidewalks all through the town, both north and south, and he was sure that the merchants would assume pay their taxes as they do in some other towns, by ward taxes. The streets of the town were a disgrace to the town last week with the dust.

Mr. McBain said that he was astonished at those two men coming here and wanting the streets watered out of the poor man's pocket.

Mr. McWilliams said that it would be better to leave this matter before a committee, and moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Baptie, —That Messrs. Dumble, Cahill, Haggart and the mover be a committee.

Mr. Elder said that last year it cost the town $260 for carting, and $685 for the watering of the streets, and he thought it would be a saving to the town for them to purchase a team of horses; as they could be kept for about $250 a year, and a man to drive them would cost $365, making a total of $615. A small sum indeed to what had been paid last year.

Mr. McBain said that it would not buy hay, and where was his waggon and harness, and other things.

Mr. Cahill said that this subject had been discussed before, and the next thing that would be wanted would be a "Model Farm." The better way would be to settle it now and be done with it.

Mr. Yelland said they had better erect a suitable place for the fire engine and hose before they find a stable.

Mr. Haggart said that he being chairman of the fire committee, he went to the department and found everything in a very dirty state, as the premises were insufficient and not large enough, and recommended the renting of a part of Fitzgerald's shop from Mr. Birdsall, which could be got at a very moderate rate.

Mr. Haggart withdrew his motion and Mr. McWilliams amendment was lost.

POLICE COURT JUDGEMENT.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Baptie,—That this council deem it inexpedient to interfere with the judgment of the police court, and that the clerk be instructed to inforce all judgments now and hereafter.

Moved in amendment by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Baptie,—That the Inspector be authorized not to inforce the judgment against H. N. Roddy and Mr. W. Trennum, until authorised so to do by this council.

Mr. Dumble withdrew his motion and Mr. McWilliam's passed.

Mr. Dumble then left his as a notice of motion.

PRESS NOTICES.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McBain —That the Clerk be requested to notify the local press of all the special meetings of this council.—Carried.

ACCOUNTS TO BE PAID.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Haggart,—That the Treasurer be requested to pay the accounts of Mr. Sampson and Mr. McCarthy amounting to about cash, for carting.—Carried.

WATERING STREETS.

Moved by Mr. Elder, seconded by Mr. Haggart,—That the Clerk be instructed to advertise for tenders for the watering of the streets, to be paid out of a general tax, and have the streets watered at once.—Lost.

Mr. Yelland referred to a young woman who came to this place for assistance, from Belmount, and

Mr. Beavis was instructed to pay her way back again.

TENDERS FOR LUMBER.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Dumble,—That the town Clerk be instructed to advertise for tenders for lumber, and that the Finance Committee be authorized to award the same.—Carried.

OPENING STREETS.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Rountree,—That the street Inspector be authorized to have Rubidge street, between London and McDonald sts., and all other streets, opened and that the sum of twenty dollars be appropriated therefore.

To this motion Messrs. McWilliams, Dumble, and Haggart spoke at some length, and had considerable cross firing; Mr. McWilliams pleading for opening the street, as he considered that it would be for the accommodation of all the ratepayers who lived in that part of the town, and he thought that Messrs Dumble and Brudburn had no right to monopolize the street. Mr. Haggart thought that the strengthening of no use to any person, and they might as well leave it the way it was, as it was a beautiful place.

Mr. Dumble said he would go heart and soul with them for the opening of the street, providing they would put a gate on it and make a park out of it. He would have a nice fence on his side, and no doubt but that Mr. Brudburn would do the same. But as the matter concerned himself, he would vote neither for nor against it.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, in amendment, seconded by Mr. Elder,—That whereas this corporation have acquired lands in the south end of the town, upon condition that the corporation would drain the same, and fill up Spaldings Bay. Be it resolved that with a view of carrying out said condition, that Rubidge street, between McDonald and London streets, be graded, and that all surplus material from said street be deposited in Spaldings Bay, east of Wolf st.

On a vote being taken Mr. Cahill's motion was lost, when Mr. McWilliams withdrew his motion with the intention of bringing it up at the next meeting.

BAND APPROPRIATION.

Moved by Mr. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. Cahill.—That the Treasurer be instructed to pay the band their second quarters appropriation.—Carried.

POUND

Mr. McWilliams said that there was a by-law against allowing hogs to run on the streets, and recommended that Mr. Beavis be authorized to see what arrangements can be made for procuring a pound and pound-keeper, and report at the next meeting.

The council then adjourned for three weeks.

MILLINERY OPENING.

HALL INNES & CO.

Messrs. Hall Innes & Co. had a very fine opening on the 16th instant. Their Millinery Rooms presented a very beautiful appearance having been tastefully decorated with flowers, plumes and every variety of fancy Millinery. To describe it perfectly and sufficiently would tax the professional critique of a modiste—and it would be presumption in one, whose source of knowledge is gleaned from an occasional fashion magazine, to attempt a criticism on the above display. The room was grand, and its appearance was more that of a fancy conservatory than a show room. The latest styles of Mantles—the Empress, Antonette, Alice, Pensanina, Dorothea, Position, and the Artistican—were all of the most fanciful, although it seems rather anomalous to name a mantle of feminine luxury after a man (Artistica) who, according to tradition, did not leave enough to pay his funeral and testamentary expenses. But, however, that is none of our business, we did not christen it. In Bonnets and Hats the exhibition was very select. We noticed one hat in particular, the Ida adorned with a wreath of geranium in the new manchron shades. Its two purples and rapid—suddenly he very attractive to all young ladies of taste. The mantles were mainly imported from the Parisian markets and strikingly exhibited genuine pure French taste. Out of stock the mantles one particularly elegant with fine [illegible] beauty. It was trimmed with drooping [illegible] silk with a broad [illegible] back—the latter are not so much in vogue as Fitness in the last—flowers now [illegible] as their place. This house appears to [illegible] unusual facilities for procuring the best goods which they offer at reasonable prices. Their stock is not confined by any means to artistic or elegant classes of goods, but comprises carpets, cottons, flannels, tweeds, and all the ordinary stock in trade. The Millinery Department is under the supervision of Miss Green who is very popular among the ladies as a modiste of great taste. The Tailoring Department is superintended by a first-class cutter, Mr. A. McNeil, who never fails to give a perfect fit.

MISS E. DELANEY.

A sight to delight the average female heart was afforded at the Millinery and Mantle Rooms of Miss Delaney yesterday on the occasion of her Spring "opening," and it was taken advantage of by a great number. The ladies have the reputation of being fond of a display of millinery and dress goods generally, and are eager to embrace every opportunity of seeing the latest styles. Among the novelties exhibited are a quantity of Silk Mantles embroidered and trimmed. The mantles are mainly from the celebrated establishment of Vener, in Paris, and bear unmistakable evidence of latest fashions and good taste. In Bonnets and Hats the display is of the first order. The trimmings are very rich, and feathers are to some extent used but not so much as formerly. Of these, however, Miss Delaney has a full and beautiful stock, and all the needfuls for decorating a lady in the most fashionable and artistic manner. A visit to the show room will be one of interest.

CLUXTON & CO'S

Millinery and Mantle Show Rooms are now open. The exhibit of these rooms were elegant, rich and fashionable. The Bonnets are of the latest styles and are very handsome, some of them almost rivaling the wonder and admiration of the gentlemen inspectors. Even pater familias would be astonished were it not for the little consequences of meeting the demands. Their stock of flowers is rich and varied, feathers although not so fashionable as in former seasons are still kept to meet the varied tastes of patrons. Their silks, satins, and dress goods are very rich and pretty. Their general stock of dry goods is complete, containing everything to entice and please.

MRS. BROWN'S

Millinery and Mantle Show Rooms will be open to-day with all the latest styles in Millinery, &c. Ladies in going through the different millinery rooms should not fail to examine Mrs Brown's.

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION.

Of all loathsome diseases Catarrh stands pre-eminent. It renders its victim as disgusting to himself as to others. And the most humiliating of all is the consciousness that his presence is offensive to those around him. If any disease deserves the name of universal it is this. Dietetic errors and the follies which Fashion imposes upon us tend to foster and discriminate it. To the pitiful cry of its victims, is there any cure for Catarrh? there is but one answer consistent with Christian reason. God has never put one evil into the world for which he has not sent the remedy. For the greatest of all spiritual and moral evils, the Great Physician has prescribed a potent and never failing remedy. He has given explicit rules for the treatment and preservation of the spiritual and moral man, but He is silent in all matters relating to the physical man. It would be an unwarrantable detraction from His perfect character to suppose that He has afflicted the greater portion of humanity with an incurable disease. The day of plagues is past. The God of Christianity is a God of Love, of Mercy, His message is "good will to all men." The earth and all contained therein was intended by the great Designer to supply man's wants; and surely he has provided ample than remedies for his infirmities. Science is rapidly proving that the earth is fitted to supply man's uttermost need. New medicinal plants are constantly being discovered and new properties enveloped from those already known. For Catarrh, the most potent remedy yet discovered is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its efficacy has been tested in many thousand cases with uniform success. Cases that had been repeatedly pronounced incurable, readily yielded to it. In confirmed or obstinate cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery should be taken in connection with the use of the Catarrh Remedy. Full particulars in Pierce's memorandum Books. They are given away by druggists.

PETROLEUM.—The breaking up of the Oil Ring and the taking off the excise duty from oil has wrked the trade call "taking the bottom out of oil" and Mr. H. A FREE CURE FOR CONSUMPTION bronchitis, asthama, catarrh, throat and lung diseases. Also a sure relief and permanent cure for general debility, dyspepsia and all nervous affections by a simple vegetable medicine, which cured a venerable missionary Physician who was long a resident of Syria and the East, who has freely given this valuable specific to thousands of afflicted sufferers with the greatest possible benefits, and he now feels it his sacred duty to impart to others this wonderful invigorating remedy, and will send FREE the original recipe complete, with full directions, to any one sending stamp for reply. Dr. Clark A. Robbins, Greely Block, N. Y. P. O. Box 76. 12-26in.

From R. Fellows, M. D., of Hill, N. H.

Although I have generally a great objection to patent medicines, I can but say in justice to DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY that it is a remedy of superior value for pulmonary diseases.

I have made use of this preparations for several years, and it has proved to be very reliable and long-standing Coughs. I know of one patient, now in comfortable health, who has taken this remedy, and who but for its use, I consider would now be living.

R. FELLOWS, M. D.

50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

STOP that cough, or it will terminate in that dreadful disease, consumption. We are aware that a prejudice exists among many persons against medicines which profess to cure a cough or cold when bordering on consumption, or even when the lungs are affected, but we can assure our readers that WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY will do all this; and in making this assertion we speak from experience, having suffered for months from a cough which after using many remedies without any relief threatened to terminate seriously. We were, however, so fortunate as to secure several bottles of WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and are now entirely rid of the cough, and restored to our former health. To those suffering in a like manner we recommend this excellent preparation.

50 cents and $1 a bottle; large bottle much the cheaper. Sold by dealers generally.

ELECTRICITY! THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL!—WHEN THE CHEST OR WHERE IS GOT.—Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common sore throat. One bottle has cured bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old standing cough. It positively cures an old standing cough. It positively cures catarrh, asthma and croup. Fifty cents' worth has relieved pain in the back, and the same quantity some back of eight years' standing. The following are extracts from a few of the many letters that have been received from all parts of Canada, which, if any doubt, could be submitted to satisfy the most incredulous: J. Colbert, of Barrie, Ont., writes, "Send me Eclectric Oil. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you, and want more; the cures are truly wonderful." Mrs. Hawkins, of Frankin, writes, "I have sold all the agent left, it cuts like a charm—Mr. Cole, of Iowa, writes, "Please forward 6 dozen Thos. Eclectric Oil, I am nearly out, nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used it." J. Bostwick, Thamesville, writes, "Send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil, I have only one bottle left. I never saw anything sell as well and give such general satisfaction." J. Patterson, Woodbridge, writes, "Send me more agents for Eclectric Oil. Have sold nearly one hundred dollars worth since the 1st." Agents & Peddlers, Druggists, &c., write, "The Eclectric Oil is putting a great circulation here, and is daily called for. Send us a further supply without delay."

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. Thomas is on the wrapper, and that name of Northrop & Lyman appears on the bottle. Price, 50 cents. Prepared by S. N. THOMAS, Phelps, Ontario. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion. 14-6m.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q. Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very lame back, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight bearing it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER.

Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

READ CAREFULLY.

SAMUEL OSBORNE, Sophiasburg, says—"I was affected with Dyspepsia for nearly four years, my lungs becoming affected towards the last. I was induced to try the "Shoshonees Remedy." After using three or four bottles I felt much better, and gained strength rapidly, my health improved steadily and rapidly, and when I had taken three or four bottles more, I was quite restored to health and strength, and have experienced better health than for forty years before. I had been under the treatment of a number of physicians before, but never received any material aid until I used your remedy."

A. MCKAY, Truro, N. S., says "he was very bad with Liver Complaint, but used the "Shoshonees Remedy," and in a month was as well as he had ever been in his life. I am now in business and wish you to send me three doses by steamer.

A. WOOD, Consecon, says—"That he has tried the "Remedy" for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia with great success. I have also used the "Shoshonees Pills," and find that they are as good as any I ever tried.

REV. JOHN SCOTT says—"Mr. McKenzie Bowling suffered from an attack of rheumatism, and was unable to move without help but after taking a few bottles of the 'Shoshonees" was able to walk as well as ever." Price of the Remedy is put bottles $1; Pills 25 cents a box.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT? A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. B. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I can say that I have used it ever with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horses as for man."—A. May bee Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Eclectric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the great reputation."—Joseph Emery, Township Percy writes, "I proceeded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For years I was troubled with a stubborn cough, which nothing of me very much. Two bottles of your Balsam cured me. I try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cents.

CENTENNIAL LAURELS.

"THREE MEDALS & THREE DIPLOMAS"

The Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines were announced by E. H. Knight, L. W. Grosvenor, Fred Paget and L. D. F. Poore, Centennial Jurors of Sewing Machines at Philadelphia in 1876, to be the best Sewing Machines in the market. Not only the Centennial Commissioners present the W. & W. the best Sewing Machine but also Mrs. Jas. Stephens, of Amherst, Mrs. W. W. Johnston, Wm. McCullagh, J. G. Huston E. Terrens, Mrs. Dr. Kincaid, Mrs. W. Patterson, and Professors: Mrs. Wm. Deacon and Mrs. J. Smith of Ashburnham, and hundreds of others too numerous to mention, pronounce it the best Sewing Machine, and recommend all intending purchasers to call and see the new family W. & W. "It is a perfect little Gem."

CAUTION.

I hereby caution all those having the W. & W. Sewing Machine not to allow any other agent or person interested in any other sewing Machine to have anything to do with the W. & W. as they are a great many agents who are lend to sell and repair all classes of Sewing Machines, they have little or no knowledge of the W. & W.

But I would recommend those having the W. & W. Sewing Machine to call on the proper and only authorized Agent at Peterboro, who is competent to repair, if necessary, the W. & W. Sewing Machines properly. I am also willing to give instructions free of expense to all W. & W. customers of the Agency, on all classes of goods from 4 oz. to inch thick, down to gauze also instruction in fancy work. All persons interested in the W. & W. will be benefited by calling on C. A. Mitchell, who thoroughly and practically understands the Machine.

Please read my late circulars on W. & W. Machines, before purchasing a Sewing Machine elsewhere.

I also take Insurance Risks on first-class buildings at a very low rate, and I am working for first-class companies.

C. A. MITCHELL, Agent.—Office in W. H. Mitchell's Harness Shop, George St., Peterboro. April 6th, 1877. 14-

THE HIGHWAY COW.

The hon of Mr. JOSEPH J. HAYS.

Her body was
One horn turned up and the other back was slim,
She has a form of virtue and a heart full of sin.
With a Roman nose and a [illegible] of Mamb;
Alse ribs like the hoops on a [illegible] pail.

Many a mark did her body bear,
She had been a target for all things near,
On many a scar the dusky hair
Would grow no more where it once had grown;
Many a passionate, parting shot
Had left upon her a lasting spot.

Many and many a well-aimed stone,
Many a brickbat of goodly size,
And many a cudgel, swiftly thrown,
Had brought the tears to her bovine eyes;
Or had bounded off from her bony back,
With a noise like the sound of a rifle crack.

Many a day had she passed in the pound,
For breaking herself to her neighbour's corn;
Many a time cruelly cut and hound
Had been the mangled on her crumpled horn;
Many a tempest had old tin pail
Had the farmer blessed to her time-worn tail

Old Deacon Gray was a pious man,
Though sometimes tempted to be profane.
When many a weary mile he ran
To drive her out of his growing grain.
Sharp were the prunks she used to play,
To get her fill and to get away.

She knew when the Deacon went to town;
She wisely watched him when he went by;
He never passed her without a frown
And an evil gleam in each angry eye:
He would crack his whip in a surley way,
And drive along in his one "one-hoss shay."

Then at his homestead she loved to call,
Lifting his bars with her crumpled horn;
Nimbly seeking his garden wall,
Helping herself to his standing corn;
Eating his cabbages, one by one,
Hurrying home when her work was done.

Often the Deacon homeward came,
Moaning a hymn from the house of prayer.
His hopeful heart in a tranquil frame,
His soul as calm as the summer air;
His forehead smooth as a well-worn plough,

His human passions were quick to rise,
And striding forth with a savage cry,
With fury blazing from both his eyes,
As lightnings flash from a summer sky;
Redder and redder his face would grow,
And after the creature he would go.

Over the garden, round and round,
Breaking his pear and apple trees;
Trampling his melons into the ground,
Overturning his hive of bees;
Leaving the corn-stalks all dead and stung,
Wishing the cow's neck was wrung.

The masses grew on the garden wall;
The years went by with their work and play;
The boys of the village grew strong and tall,
And the gray-haired farmers passed away;
One by one, as the red leaves fall,
But the highway cow outlived them all.

All earthly creatures must have their day,
And some must have their months and years,
Some in dying will long delay;
There is a climax to all careers;
And the the highway cow at last was slain
In running a race with a railway train.

All into pieces at once she went.
Just like the savings banks when they fail;
Out of the world she was quickly sent;
Little was left but her old stump tail:
The farmers' cornfields and gardens now

SOUTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL

The Council met in the council chamber, Centerville, on Monday, the 2nd of April, 1877, at 10 a.m., pursuant to a call of the Reeve. There were present the Reeve, Barnard, and councillors Waterman, Lightfoot, Wood and Rutherford. The Reeve in the chair. Minutes of the former meeting read, and on motion confirmed Several communications were read and laid on the table. Accounts were handed in from Robt. Byers, Joseph Byers, Robt. Fair, Robt. Romaine, Wm. Kerr, Esq., Cobourg, and Josiah Perrin. Petitions.—By Mr. Lightfoot, from J. B. Wright, Josiah Robertson, and 14 others, praying that this council strike off all the ratepayers of the village of Frazerville from road division No. 22, and that they be formed into a separate beat, and to perform their statute labor on the street running parallell with concession 6, to and past the storehouse of said village. On motion of Mr. Waterman, seconded by Mr. Lightfoot, it was carried that the foregoing accounts and petitions be laid over for further consideration. Mr. Waterman presented a by-law for the purpose of appointing poundkeepers, fenceviewers, and pathmasters for current year, and was read a first, second and third time and passed. On motion of Mr. Wood, seconded by the Reeve, it was carried, that William Emmerson perform his statute labour on west half beat No. 13, and south angle of new road. On motion the council adjourned for dinner, to resume business at 2 p.m. 2 p.m. council resumed. Members all present. Mr. Rutherford in the chair. Petitions were then taken up and operated on. After some discussion it was moved by the Reeve, and seconded by Mr. Lightfoot,—That all the ratepayers of the village of Frazerville, north of the railway, perform their statute labor on said street mentioned in petition of J. B. Wright, Josiah Robertson, and others.—Carried. The Reeve in the chair. Robert Wright was heard requesting this council to leave him thirty dollars; but the same was not entertained. Mr. A. McLeod was heard with reference to a claim for timber taken from his premises to build a crosway in front of lots 16 and 17, concession 3. After a lengthy discussion regarding the said claim, it was moved by Mr. Waterman, and seconded by Mr. Wood,—That the idea of Mr. McLeod's claim be not entertained at present.—Carried. Andrew Goodfellow was heard requesting this council to grant him a sum sufficient to clear away the brush and timber from the road allowance of boundry line between Cavan and South Monaghan, con. 6. On motion of Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by Mr. Waterman,—it was carried—that A. Goodfellow receive the sum of $8.00 for clearing said road allowance on Monaghan side, concession 6. The accounts were then taken up. On motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Lightfoot,—it was carried—that the accounts of Josiah Perrin be not received. On motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Wood—it was carried—that the account of Robert Byers be presented to Cavan council. On motion of Mr. Lightfoot, seconded by Mr. Wood—it was carried—that the Reeve issue his orders on the Treasurer for the following amounts: Wm. Kerr, Esq., for advices, $3; Joseph Byers, shoveling snow, etc., $3; Robert Romaine, for blank forms, etc., $7.01; Robert Fair, one quarters salary $12 50; J. W. Hall last years' salary, $20; Councillors, one day, $10; A. Goodfellow, for clearing timber and brush from road allowance on boundry line, concession 6, $5. On motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Wood—it was carried—that the Court of Revision be held in Centerville on Monday, the 28th of May, 1877, at 10 a.m. At 5 p.m. the council adjourned, to meet as Court of Revision, on above mentioned date.—Con.

PROHIBITION.

HON. Mr. MACKENZIE'S VIEWS AS GIVEN IN THE HOUSE.

The following report of the Premier's speech in the House of Commons on the subject of Prohibition will be read with interest:

Mr. Mackenzie said he desired to say [illegible] on this question. The hon. solution, [illegible] had brought in the re- prematurely, and [illegible] had moved it the resolution of [illegible] approved of member for Middlesex. [illegible], the of the resolution had alluded [illegible] of a conversation which he (Mr. Mackenzie) had with Mr. Knowlton regarding the course the Government would pursue. He had only to say that Mr. Knowlton had denied that statement over his own hand, and had given a corrected statement of what took place between them. He (Mr. Mackenzie) had been in favor of a prohibitory law for thirty years. (Cheers). It was thirty years since he gave utterance to those views on the public platform, when few men either in public or private life gave utterance to similar views on this question. He always held, however, that it was useless to give legislation on this or any other question until the public mind was ready for it. He quite admitted that public men of station and ability might lead the public mind to a considerable extent. To legislate in advance of public opinion was merely to produce anarchy instead of maintaining law and order. (Cheers.) He did not believe that public opinion was ripe for a prohibitory liquor law even if the power were located, even with the great advance made towards it and he was aware that in many counties it had been carried into practical effect, although in some large counties, notably his own, by narrow majorities. He quite admitted that ordinary political life ordinary political affairs and ordinary political questions were quite secondary to a question of such great importance as would be produced by a reform in the drinking habits of the country. (Cheers.) But abundant evidence was furnished in the state of the Inland Revenue returns in the figures presented every year that, while there had been more indulgence on the part of the public generally, to the views of temperance men there was nothing to indicate a tesling in favor of a somewhat stringent measure in this direction. It was quite evident from these reforms that the drinking habits of the people had not to any extent been affected, as to the quantity used by the agitation prevailing. There was as much ardent spirits consumed this moment as ten years ago. It was quite true that there had been a diminution in the amount last year. Whether this resulted from an improved public opinion from the greater exertions and advancement of temperance views with the people generally, or produced to some or the entire extent by the inability to purchase as compared with former years he would not venture to say. He could only say in such matters that it was not desirable to have it made a political foot-ball. He did not believe that any of his friends, certainly not himself, were seeking to make a political foot ball out of the question for the benefit of their own party. (Hear, hear.) He was bound to take a firm and reasonable view of the difficulties in the way and believed at this moment that if this Legislature had the power, and in the exercise of that power should enact a prohibitory liquor law it would be impossible to carry it practically into effect. He believed they would run greater danger of greatly increasing the opportunities for the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor. Any backward step in this movement would be a fatal calamity to the prosperity of the temperance cause and of the country generally. Reference has been made by the hon. member for Centre Toronto to the revenue difficulty and how that was to be met. No doubt as had been stated, if by passing a prohibitory liquor law you could compel people to avoid spending their money in the consumption of ardent spirits and spend more for the necessaries and luxuries of life, it must necessarily result in increasing the revenue from Customs, and otherwise promoting the prosperity of the people by making them pay taxes from some other source. At the same time it must be remembered that they derived one-third of the revenue from excise, and they would probably have to propose some sort of direct taxation, for some years at least, in order to make up the deficit caused by such a law as this. It might be stated, and with a good deal of reason, that they should not let revenue considerations interfere with what proves a great moral reformation in the country. He was bound to admit that would have due weight, and at some session not far off, when coming to deal with the subject at close quarters, they would have to decide what course should be recommended by Parliament to pursue. In the meantime it was quite clear that the motion indicated by the hon. gentleman for Lisgar was premature, and could serve no purpose. It might embarrass the Government a little if the House would declare it to be the duty of the Government to do what they believed it was not their duty to do, but he did not believe that the House was of opinion that the Government should at the present moment do what the hon gentleman indicated. After the arguments advanced by hon. gentlemen on both sides of the House he believed there would be no difficulty in arriving at the conclusion that the amendment made by his hon. friend the member for Middlesex was the one which should have their confidence and support. (Cheers).

Defeat of Canadian Protectionists.

From the New York Herald:

The question of a high tariff for the supposed "protection" of Canadian manufactures, was brought to an issue in the Lower House of the Dominion Parliament last week, and the "protectionists"—if we may invent a title for them—suffered a signal defeat. The policy of the present Administration is a tariff for revenue purposes, and on institutions favoring the increase of the duties on the necessaries one has lost by a vote of seventy-eight to forty-two in a house consisting of two hundred and fifty-eight members. This is an advance majority of thirty-four. This result is gratifying enough, but the Toronto Globe, in analyzing the vote, taking into account and classifying the absentees, states that it shows the total Ministerial strength to be one hundred and twenty-nine, and the total Opposition seventy-five, or a Ministerial majority of fifty-four. Eight Ministerialists who Represent strong protection districts voted for the amendment, but but will be with the Government in the final support of its revenue policy. There are other amendments yet to be disposed of, but it is not thought that any of them will fare even as well as that which was killed on Thursday last.

Our Canadian neighbours are suffering, as we are suffering on this side of the dividing line, from the general depression of all kinds of business. The [illegible] and [illegible], manufacturing, mining and [illegible] interests all feel the effect of which paralyzes the [illegible] stagn

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 26, 1877.

WAR BEGUN AT LAST.

The clouds which have been hanging so heavy over the European Horizon have at last sent the longly threatened bolts.—War has been declared. Russia and Turkey are now in conflict. It is most regretful that the special protocol containing moderate conditions for reform and Christian protection was not accepted by the Porte. On the shoulders of the sick man rests the entire blame. The Great Powers during the past two years did their utmost to avert the calamity but thanks to Turkish obstinacy and religious fanaticism all the expected harbingers of peace have been but creatures of imagination. The result of this movement no one can foretell. France and England, if the war assumes gigantic and alarming features, must be drawn in—France to protect her loans, and England to preserve vested interests inviolate. Austria will be the last nation to remain idly by—she will in the contemplated general division of the conquered country (if Russian arms prevail) undoubtedly claim her share, and have her title thereto adjusted. The Czars manifesto in substance gives the protection of the resident Christians in Bosnia, Bulgaria and Herzegovina as the object and the main and only object of martial advances. But thinking men will not give Russia credit for striving to attain this one purpose and this alone. Russia has looked with a jealous and invidious eye on the Ottoman territory for some time—and self interest—territorial addition is largely mingled with the gospel.

What will be the end of all this? It is to be feared that grave European complications will eventually arise during the progress of the war—and the end may bring desolation and disaster on the leading great powers.

THE INDEPENDENCE OF PARLIAMENT.

The attempt of the Opposition to create some political capital (a thing by the way they very much require) by showing an extraordinary zeal for the independence of Parliament. is bringing them but cold comfort. We have already shown that their manner of moving their resolutions, and their evident desire not to allow of evidence before a committee, proved that their expression of good reform sentiments were wholly insincere, and that their object was the possibility of party capital, and not any consideration for the public interests, which could have been best served by the mode of procedure they avoided. The point they have raised in constitutional law is undoubtedly a good one for abstract discussion, and for that reason it is just as well that it has been brought out in a manner that will insure a thorough consideration of the spirit of the law, and how far that spirit differs from the strict letter. The portion of the Act upon which hangs the real matter of the Opposition motions against Speaker Anglin and Mr. Norris reads as follows:—

"No person whosoever holding or enjoying, undertaking or executing, directly, or indirectly alone or with any other, by himself or by the interposition of any trustee or third party, any contract or agreement with Her Majesty, or with any public officer or department, with respect to the public service of Canada, or under which any public money of Canada is to be paid for any service or work, shall be eligible as a member of the House of Commons, nor shall he sit or vote in the same."

It may be that the cases of Mr. Anglin and Mr. Norris can be shown to involve contracts or agreements such as would justify the suspicion that they came under the statute. That is a vice-legal problem we will not presume to pronounce upon; but Mr. Anglin, who as a Speaker of the House of Commons, and as such is supposed to be well up in all constitutional matters, answers the question in the negative. If it be answered that he is an interested party and therefore incapable of giving an impartial decision, to whom then must we leave the settlement of the knotty point? It involves certain questions of fact, though the Opposition speakers argued it did not when they wanted it submitted to the decision of the House. To elicit facts and search precedents the Committee of the Opposition sought to avoid is therefore the proper place for the case to go, in the meantime at least.

It was probably precedents the Conservatives wished to have overlooked when they brought the matter directly to the vote of the House, and that too without any chance of amendment to their resolution. The decision of a case analagous to that of Mr. Anglin tends to show that such work as he did for government offices did not constitute a contravention of the Act. In 1863 the return of Mr. Robt. Bell, then proprietor of the Ottawa Citizen, as member for the County of Russell in the Legislative Assembly was petitioned against on the grounds that the Ottawa and Prescott Railway in which he was a shareholder and of which he was President, had a mail contract with the Government, and that he was the recipient of Government money for printing and advertising. The case came before the Committee on Privileges and Elections, and the respondent acknowledged the facts put forward by the petitioner. The Committee, of which Sir John Ross was Chairman disposed of the case in favour of the respondent. The mail contract portion was easily disposed of on the ground that a railway is required by statute to carry mails, and payment for such service is rather in the shape of indemnity. It was found more difficult to decide in the matter of the printing and advertising; but the ruling was that as the statute was one of a penal character the term "contract" in it should be taken in its most binding sense, and therefore should only apply to a formal contract by instrument. Cognizance was also taken of the contention that mutuality was necessary to bring such contract within the meaning of the Act; and that there was no mutuality in a contract with the government for printing and advertising, as it could not be enforced against the Crown. These considerations along with those pertaining to the bringing up of such cases, force us to inquire where the operation of the Independence of Parliament Act begins and where it ends. The letter of the Statute will bring in any one who has the slightest dealing with the government or its officials, and in this view of the law very few indeed would be eligible to a seat in the House. On the other hand, the evident intention of the Act was to prevent the influencing of members by the receipt of government money. One extreme would keep out of the House all who by themselves, partners, agents, or fellow stock-holders had the slightest monetary transaction, wittingly or unwittingly with any Department of the Crown, while the other extreme would permit the occupation of seats in the House by all who could not be proved to have been influenced in their public acts by the Crown patronage. Where are we to draw the line? The Opposition have learned by this time that the position they assumed when moving against Messrs. Anglin & Norris is not tenable; for if the line be placed at that extreme limit the Tory ranks will be decimated. Mr. Currier found this out when he was moved against on grounds similar to those his political friends had taken against the Speaker and Mr. Norris. Mr. Currier saw it so plainly that to preserve even the appearance of consistency in the ranks of his party he resigned his seat, an example that was followed by Mr. Norris. The list of Opposition members that can be proceeded against through their having had dealings with the government include Sir John Macdonald, Dr. Shultz, Mr. Bowell, Hon T. N. Gibbs, Mr. Stephenson, and it is said that there are not less than twenty-seven men occupying seats in the House who may be subjected to proceedings under the Independence of Parliament Act at any moment. There is a rumour too, whether jocular or not we do not know, that a certain person in Ottawa has issued writs, and involving claims to the amount of over two millions of dollars, against members so situated, and that some of them are in great trepidation in consequence. The whole thing has now become a huge political farce; but the playing of it will probably inculcate a moral. It will have effected a good result if it only brings about some clearer understanding of what the so-called "Independence of Parliament Act" really does mean.

PACIFIC RAILWAY PROGRESS.

The progress report of the Chief Engineer of the Canada Pacific Railway may be very interesting reading: but it shows the utter folly, or else deceit, of those who pledged the country to build the line within ten years. Why, for six years have surveys been diligently carried on, and yet the permanent location of the line cannot be settled. The report tells of what has been done since 1871 in the way of explorations, exploratory surveys, revised surveys, trial locations, location surveys, and revised locations, all different and unnecessary branches of the whole work. It details the labors of hundreds of intelligent and hardy men, over a vast extent of hitherto unexplored country, and places in readable shape the results of an expenditure of over three millions of dollars in these surveys. Indeed it is hard to realise the magnitude of the task undertaken; and which the late government was going to put through as a sort of ten year's amusement, merely to please the British Columbians.

The easiest part of the route to survey was that between Red River and the Rocky Mountains—the prairie country. Yet "easiest" only in comparison; for that its survey was no light undertaking in itself may be judged from the fact that the distance from Selkirk to Yellow Head Pass is over a thousand miles. The Swan River country being settled on as a location for part of the route, it being a valley displaying few engineering difficulties, the line of connection from Red River had to be laid down. The first explorations were made south of Lake Winnipeg. Directly west of the southern part of the lake lies Riding Mountain. A route south and west of this mountain presented heavy work to be done, while a line running between the lake and the mountain to reach the Swan River Valley would be very crooked. An exploration of the narrows of Lake Winnipeg showed a practicable passage that way, and a line was located in nearly a straight course between Selkirk and the northern extremity of Duck Mountain, an entrance to the Swan River Valley. From this point the rest of the 1063 miles westward to the Rocky Mountains was less difficult, the principal surveys being made in relation to the bridging of streams, the navigation of which, in connection with the line of railway, promises to yet be a powerful aid to the colonization and development of this promising region.

The real difficulties of the surveys were met with, as might be expected, in the mountainous region in British Columbia. The Yellow-head pass having been found the best opening through the Rocky Mountains, explorations had to be made in all directions with a view to finding the best route to the coast. The whole country was searched, surveyed and re-surveyed; trial locations were made and abandoned for others; routes were laid out, and considered and re-considered, compared and compared again and again, each with the others. From the entrance to the Rocky Mountains the line follows the valley of the Athabaska River to Haisy House, situated about latitude 53 north, over half a degree south, and not more west, of the entrance to the mountains. From Haisy House it tends westerly, but winding, sixty miles to Tete Jaune Cache on the grand branch of the Fraser River. From thence, to reach the plateau between the Rocky and Cascade ranges, there is an almost immediate opening southerly by the Thompson River, or following the Fraser toward the north-west to the Junction of the Canoe and Columbia Rivers, another way thro' is to be found. From Yellow Head Pass to the sea eleven different routes have been surveyed, each presenting its own peculiar difficulties, besides which two other lines have been explored by way of Peace River and Pine River passes, 55 and 56 degrees north latitude, to far northern ports. The eleven routes are to seven different harbors, the best of which is Burrard Inlet, according to the testimony of British naval officers who have been all along the coast. The discussion of these routes has been narrowed down pretty well to those terminating at Bute Inlet and at Burrard Inlet respectively. Last summer the former seemed to be favoured; but subsequent investigation seems to have turned the choice toward the southern port. The line to Burrard Inlet is certainly a better commercial route than the other, running as it does through the best part of the country and to the best harbor on the coast. On the other hand the military argument rests on the Bute Inlet terminus, as the line thither is more remote from the American boundary. It is hardly likely, however, that commercial interests will be sacrificed to military visions. The gradients on the Burrard Inlet route are less than on the other, and a much better road bed can be secured, so that even though the first cost be somewhat more, we should not be surprised did the Fraser Valley line be chosen for the construction of the road.

Coming nearer home we shall now briefly refer to the country north of Lake Superior. The first explorations were made north of Lake Nipegon, with the idea that a route could be found thus far north preferable to one along the rocky shore of Lake Superior. Further examination showed that a good route could be found south of Lake Nipegon, striking the Superior shore at the mouth of the Pic River. After careful surveys and much cogitating Thunder Bay was selected as the Lake Superior terminus in preference to Nipegon Bay. A survey was made of a line from Thunder Bay to Lake Shebandowan, but fifteen miles of its western part subsequently dropped in favour and were substituted by a more northerly line to meet a line located from Red River, by the north end of the Lake of the Woods, to Lac de Milles Lacs. Of this continuous line there are now under construction 114 miles from Selkirk, on Red River, to Rat Portage, and 113 miles between Fort William on Thunder Bay, and English River, leaving a hiatus to be filled up of 186 between English River and Rat Portage. From Lac de Milles Lacs east an easy route for the main line has been found, by Dog Lake to Nipegon Bay. We may remark here that some twenty-five miles of rails are laid west from Fort William, and contracts for clearing the line and putting up a telegraph wire are let along the whole line to Red River, whence there is already telegraphic communication with Battleford, in the Saskatchewan Valley, and from where a wire will before long be in working order as far as Edmonton.

On the whole a great deal of valuable work has been done and information gained that will be of much use in various ways, but the construction of the Canada Pacific Railway has not more than been begun. The policy of the government seems to be a careful and a conscientious one, for which they have the thanks of the country.

HOW VOTERS ARE RECOGNIZED.

In former issues we have called attention to the importance of looking carefully to the preparation of the voter's lists for 1877, and now that the time is ripe for action in this matter we deem it expedient to publish some brief instructions whereby those who may become voters can secure to themselves the franchise.

Every voter must be a man of the full age of twenty-one years and a subject of Her Majesty by birth or naturalization. Every man fulfilling these requisites and who is the owner, tenant, or occupant of real property to the value, in a city of $400, in a town of $300, and in an incorporated village or a township of $200, is entitled to have his name enrolled as a voter on real property. Where the ownership or occupancy is joint by two or more persons, if the total value divided among such joint owners or occupants give to each of them the above named amount of minimum value it will be sufficient to entitle each of them to a vote.

Every male person possessing the usual qualifications of age and citizenship, and deriving not less than $400 per year from some business or calling may claim to be enrolled as a voter on income. Such voters must be residents of the municipality at the time of the election, and must have so resided continuously from the time the last revised assessment roll was completed. In cases where the voter's list is that of the previous year the municipal taxes must have been paid for that year as well. The same must also appear where the election and the collection of the rate are proceeding concurrently.

Every farmer's son of the requisite age, and owning allegiance to the British crown, who is a bona fide resident on the farm (not less than 20 acres) of his father or mother at the time of assessment is entitled to be entered and rated on such roll, subject to the following conditions:—If the father be living and either the father or mother the owner of the farm, the son or sons may be entered rated and assessed jointly with the father and as if the father and his son or sons were actually and bona fide joint owners. If the father be dead, and his widow the owner, the son or sons may be assessed as if actually a bona fide occupant or tenant, or joint occupants or tenants, under the mother, within the meaning of "The Election Laws of 1868." Temporary absence from the farm, if it does not extend over four months in a year, does not disentitle a son to be considered a bona fide resident. If there be more than one son so resident, and if the farm is not rated at an amount sufficient, if equally divided among them, to give the needed money qualification, as given above, then the right to be assessed and to vote pertains only to the father and such of the sons rating by seniority, as the amount of assessment, equally divided will give the proper qualification to; provided, also, that when the assessed value of the farm is insufficient to bring in even one son along with the father, then the father is the only person entitled to be assessed and to vote in respect of such farm. The value assigned to the property should be the amount it would then bring, in cash, from a person desirous of purchasing it. The enrolment of farmer's sons thus on the assessment roll does not involve any additional taxes or statute labor against their father's farms or against themselves. It simply gives them the right to vote.

Except in cities and towns separated, the preparation of the assessment roll begins not later than the 15th February, and ends on the 30th April, and before the latter day anyone entitled to vote may if his name is not already on the assessment roll require the assessor to place it there. Anyone may within fourteen days after the 30th April give notice to the clerk of such complaints in respect to the assessment roll as he wishes to make, and the appellant is thereupon entitled to notice of the holding of the Court of Revision. This Court should complete its duties before the 1st July, and any appeal from its decision must be made to the County Judge, and proper notice of such appeal should be made within five days from and after the 1st July. The Judge's decision is final, and the Clerk of the Municipality is bound to amend the assessment roll in accordance with the County Judge's decision. The time limit for the determining of appeals by the County Judge is until the 1st of August, except in cities and towns separated.

Certain circumstances may arise after final revision of the rolls which may disentitle a person whose name appears on the voters' list to cast his vote at the election. If for instance he has ceased to be owner of the property he held when the roll was revised he cannot vote unless he be still a resident of the Electoral District. If an income voter has ceased to be a resident of the municipality in which he was assessed, or has not paid all his municipal taxes in respect of such income, he cannot vote. Persons found guilty of any corrupt practices as defined by the election law are disqualified from voting. Certain other persons holding offices specially named from Statute are thereby disqualified from voting.

Attention to each and all of these particulars will prevent disappointment and chagrin at the next election. We have abundance all around us of the need of care in watching assessments, and particularly in this County where elections are decided by narrow majorities, the necessity that the Reformers should detect and defeat the usual municipal tactics of their opponents is thrice apparent. A glance at dates given above will show that no time is to be lost.

—Mr. Bowell was present at the dinner given to Mr. Langevin lately, yet Mr. Langevin is the Brother of the Bishop of Quebec, who is the most uncompromising advocate of Priestly influence in election contests.

—THE RECOIL:—Sir John's tactics are beginning to take effect on his own followers. His Bowell motion to unseat speaker Anglin, has induced a scrutinny into the validity of the holding of some seats of the Opposition, and already several of them have had to resign. Mr. Bowell's own seat is said to be in danger as he was interested in Government advertising done in the Intelligencer during 1874, some things are said sometimes to come home to roost, which may be the case in Mr. Bowell's case.

EAST DURHAM.—A letter by "Farmer John," in the Messenger has the appearance of some trouble in the Conservative camp. Another this week signed "Unity" urges to more consideration before rushing into print. It is believed that a would-be Candidate is afraid of the influence of Col. Williams, to prevent, "Farmer John's" Candidature, and hence that abusive letter. Is Farmer John an inhabitant of Millbrook? If so this will explain all.

LOOK TO THE ROLLS.—The importance of having the Voters' Lists as complete as possible has been frequently pointed out of late, and as the time draws nigh for the completion of the Assessment Rools we again call the attention of all who are entitled to the franchise to the necessity of seeing that their names are properly enrolled. In cases where names entitled to be on the roll have been omitted, through any cause, application should be made to the assessors at once to have them inserted. Prior to the 30th of April all that is necessary to secure enrollment is a simple application to the assessors. They are bound by the law to receive it and make the addition required. By adopting this plan, the necessity for making application to the Court of Revision, or to the County Judge, and the time and trouble which such a course entails, are obviated. Every Liberal elector should see that his name has been placed upon the original rolls before they leave the hands of the assessors on the 30th inst., those entitled to vote under the Farmer's Sons' Franchise Act and Income Franchise Act are especially interested in giving due attention to the securement of their rights in this respect.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, has been heard before the Public Accounts Committee at Ottawa in relation to the Anglin Printing affair. Mr. Macdonald testifies on oath that he when Post Master General ordered that the post-office printing to that time done by Conservative papers in the maratime provinces be given to Reform papers, and that the sole reason for his giving the whole of it to the St. John Freeman, was to simplify the accounts in relation to the work. He swears that his colleagues knew nothing whatever of his action in this matter; therefore it will be seen that he alone is responsible, it being far from reasonable to accuse persons of doing what they had no knowledge of at all.—Had Mr. Macdonald still been Postmaster-General we should have looked for his resignation; but it would be nonsense to require his successor to resign for what was the error of another, an error that Mr. Huntington took means to correct as soon as he came into office and discovered it. Whatever may be said of the taste displayed by Mr. Anglin in suffering a sort of extensive business connection to go on between himself and the government, it is satisfactory to know that it was not with the knowledge and concurrence of the Ministers, or any one of them at present forming the Cabinet.

It is rather amusing that Mr. Mackenzie Bowell, the mover of the now celebrated resolution, anent the Anglin printing, should himself be found to have been the recipient of Government money for advertising in the Belleville Intelligencer, of which paper he was, not very long ago sole proprietor, and in which he still holds stock. The Chatham Planet, owned, we believe, by Mr. Rufus Stephenson, another Tory M.P., is in the same list of papers, having contracts for Government printing and advertising. Then there are also the Montreal Gazette, the Toronto Leader, &c. The Intelligencer of last Friday tacitly acknowledges Mr. Bowell's predicament when it says its case include the amounts for advertising the lists of uncalled-for letters. It attempts a feeble defence by declaring that "the six years' accounts of the five journals named, do not amount to within $12,000, as much as Speaker Anglin received in one years." If Mr. Bowell went in for the principal of the thing, as he pretends, there can be no difference on that score whether the amount received be large or small. His taking money from the Government for work was a contravention of the statute according to his own argument against another. But perhaps the Intelligencer wishes to convey the idea that Mr. Bowell could not be influenced by that amount—$370, we believe, during the time mentioned. We don't suppose he could, neither do we suppose Mr. Anglin was influenced by what he received for work done for the Government; and even Mr. Bowell, in speaking to his resolution was careful not to make any such accusation. He should, however, have looked a little to his own record. If he had he might not have made himself so supremly ridiculous in this matter.

A PROVINCIAL RAILWAY.

To the Editor of the Globe.

SIR,—The last visitor's work of the Intercolonial Railway has, for the first time in our history placed the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec in perennial railway communication with open Canadian ports on the Atlantic by a Canadian route. Quebec has nearly completed, as a Provincial work, a first-class railway north of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers, which will not only connect Montreal with that of the Dominion, but will form the terminal section of a communication better line of railway to the West through tween tide-water and railway from Carleton Place Canada. This would give the Quebec Provincial road communication with the "border strastches" until the Georgian Bay Branch, or some other connection with our Pacific rout is obtained, and also a far better feeder through Western Ontario than the Canadian Pacific will ever be.

The Province of Ontario has a net-work of railways west of Peterborough, which require another outlet to tide-water to guard against Grand Trunk strikes, or break-downs, and to prevent inland Ontario freight from being overtaxed to enable that Company to fight its American rivals. The Canadian route is the shortest, quickest, and coolest for the grain and cattle trades with Europe.

The route does not possess the necessary amount of municipal strength to secure such a railway under the Ontario system without exceptional Provincial aid. Stock and bonds are no longer resources of new Canadian railways, and yet this uncommenced work is of far greater Provincial and national importance than any road which Ontario has subsidized since Confederation. All our lines connecting tide-water with the West with become the eastern extension of existing trunk lines on the prairies, and, besides their local traffic, will for through business have a continent to feed them, because they afford the shortest route to Europe through the railway gates at the Detroit and St. Mary's River. We cannot expect to attract that amount of steam tonnage to the St. Lawrence which will enable it to compete with the railway-fed seaports to the south of us, by the aid of one or even two lines of railway.

The Grand Trunk Railway may be cut at a dozen points between Toronto and Montreal, a contingency to which we are exposed so long as there are Turks and Fenians. The successful navigation, through Gulf ice, by the Northern Light has demonstrated that in an emergency a British fleet could communicate with our railways in winter at more than one point between Quebec and Halifax. For purposes of defence a rear line of railway which would secure to Ontario connection with the ocean, winter and summer, is indispensable, and should no longer be delayed. We have a War Department, and thus recognize the possibility of attack and the necessity for defence. A base line of operation, removed from the frontier, would more than double the efficiency of any defensive force, and a great responsibility will rest somewhere if we neglect to secure it before it is too late.

Yours, &c.,

THOS. C. KEEFER.

Ottawa, April 13, 1877.

Referring to the above the Globe says:—"The time has come for energetic action on the part of its promoters if it is ever to be pushed through. It is useless to speak of Government aid until the scheme is placed on such a financial basis as will afford some reasonable prospect of its completion with the aid of the grant, and the sooner steps are taken to put it on such a footing the better."

This is the position we have all along taken on this subject; one in which Peterboro' feels a deep interest. If we have any fears mingled with our great hopes of the speedy success of this enterprise, they are that those who have the scheme in hand lack the energy to carry out the preliminaries. If the present officers are two constitutionally tired to push the enterprise let them give place to those who have the necessary energy. The road must go.

THAT DECLINE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—I see that some false statements in reference to the decline of the Grange organization which at present are "going the rounds" have found their way into the columns of last week's EXAMINER.

Where they originated or by whom invented is not stated, of one thing I feel quite certain, however, that they wish is undoubtly the father of the invention.

Now what are the facts? Why, Sir, in stead of this erroneous statement, the truth is the number of Granges in the U. S. have increased over one Thousand during the year 1876, and they have more than doubled in Canada since October 1875, as the following extract from the Official reports of O. W. Kelly, Esq., Secretry of the National Grange, U. S., and W. P. Page Secretary of the Dominion Grange, verly clearly shows.

From the Secretary of the National Grange:—

The following is from the Secretary of our own Dominion Grange:—"At the time of our last annual meeting, October 27th, 1875, we had 246 Subordinate Granges, and 22 Division Granges, with a membership of about 6,560 (six thousand five hundred); during the winter the increase was very rapid, there being frequently six and seven applications per day material for which was prepared and sent immediately, (except in some instances where irregularities in organization occasioned delay). During the summer, as anticipated, the increase has not been so rapid, yet a steady growth has been going on until we now number 290 Subordinate Granges, 23 Division Granges, and a membership of about 17,000, showing an increase of 264 Subordinate Granges, 11 Division Granges, and 11,000 members in about 11 months."

These figures are correctly obtained from official sources. What say our traducers to them? By the way, I may say that long before the Order is as old in Ontario as it is in the States, we expect to be about doubling our present Granges and settle down to the real work of order.

Yours, &c.,

A GRANGER.

Otonabee, April 24th, 1877.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The Toronto correspondent of the Globe of Times has evidently made a great mistake in stating that the commencement of sugar making, and his having a "taffy pull" with the girls has made things so lively here that the cry of "hard times" is no longer heard. The fact is, indeed, why sir, a number of the best farmers who have been in very unfortunate circumstances for some time past, owing to the late backward season, which has been very severe to invariably [illegible] our tenderest constitutions, have withdrawn from our Principles have withdrawn from our temple, after loudly calling for reasons to the temperance army, and what reason can be assigned unless it be that the twenty-five cents per quarter was not forthcoming, or could not be raised in this community? Why the times out here are so hard our hair is all dropping out. I do not wonder however that the correspondent referred to in of opinion that things are taking a "lively" turn, and the improvement is not limited to Warsaw, but extends some four miles into the country, for, on one of his visits to a young lady he got special and urgent permission from the head of the family to get his horse out of the stable as quickly as possible, and being sensitive enough to take a hint, has not been seen around that house since. He is understood to have used some very questionable objectives when making a quick pull—not a "taffy pull"—for Warsaw.

TAFFY.

Warsaw, April 23rd, 1877.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Confident of your aversion for any correspondence of a personal character, I beg to apologize for any apparent intrusion while soliciting space in your good journal. I trust, however, the justness of my cause, and the serious nature of the subject involved will claim for this communication a kind recognition at your hands. Having been subject to considerable misrepresentation, for several months past, by Mr. James Coyle Brown, Public School Inspector of Peterborough, I avail myself of the present occasion to take that gentleman to task for his false statement against me, namely, that I shirked the Teachers examination in Peterboro, in July 1875. In order to show the utter falsity of the above statement, I respectfully submit the following:—

Many of your readers, doubtless, remember of the failure of my health in the summer of 1875, and my consequent resignation of School No. 3 Ennismore, wherein I taught during the previous eighteen months. The following document, kindly furnished by attending physician, upon whose advice I resigned my position, will further establish these facts:—

"This is to certify that Thomas Quigley is not able to attend the Teachers' examination for 1875, on account of ill health.

G. BURNHAM, M. D.

Peterboro, July 1st, 1875.

On resigning charge of my School, the Trustees furnished me with a testimonial which runs thus:—

S. S. No. 3, Ennismore, July 20, 1875.

This is to certify that Thomas Quigley has served as Teacher in the above Section during the past eighteen months, during which time his labor in the School has met with general approbation. His diligence and success as a Teacher, and his conduct as a gentleman justly entitles him to a thorough recommendation at our hands. We regret to state that he is now compelled to resign in consequence ill health.

WILLIAM GEARY, MICHAEL O'RIELLY, THOMAS PERDUE. } Trustees S. S. No. 3, Ennismore.

Special attention is called to the italicized words in the foregoing testimonial as perfectly coinciding with the Doctor's testimony. For the better understanding of the malicious nature of Mr. Brown's accusation, it may be well to state that as my certificate had expired in July 1875, before taking charge of my present position, (S. S. No. 7, Emily) I forwarded the above documents to J. H. Knight Esq., P. S. Inspector of east Victoria, upon the strength of which he granted me an INTERM certificate. Now the evident design of Mr. Brown, was to make it appear that I resigned my school in Ennismore for the purpose of "shirking" the examination, and consequently imposed on Mr. Knight, by obtaining my certificate under a false pretence. This implies a serious charge, involving, as it does, personal veracity, and consequently personal character. Therefore, in the interests of truth and honesty, I call on Mr. Brown to retract his unfounded statements. His failing to do so will place him before the public as a BEARER OF FALSE WITNESS, and my, perhaps, result in consequences extremely perilous to his most cherished interests.

While awaiting Mr. Brown's reply, I beg to state for the special enlightenment of that gentleman, that, whatever my short comings may be "shirking" my duty is no part of them. As a proof of this I can furnish, if necessary, ample testimony from those with whom my intercourse with the public, and the duties of profession have brought me in contact.

It is scarcely necessary to give here the names of my informants as to Mr. Brown's statement, as no doubt he (Mr. B.) perfectly remembers when, where, and to whom it was made. If, however, he should attempt to deny the charge, I beg to remind him that incontrovertable authority will be forthcoming.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS QUIGLEY,

Teacher.

Mr. William Bench, so long and favourably known as a cutter and fitter, has returned to town and will be found at the best and shop in ——— Square, where he will be happy to meet all his old customers.

When will the Firemen's band commence their free promenade concerts. The band play well, and show their steady practice during the winter months. They should be encouraged by the music loving people of Peterborough.

Gone to the Reformatory.—Young Biscette, convicted of stealing a case of surgical instruments from Dr. Burritt, and sentenced to two years at the Reformatory therefore, left yesterday morning for his new abode at Penetanguishene.

Housekeepers Attention.—I am now showing a complete assortment of New Lace Curtains, Pillow Cottons, Sheetings, Table Linens, Towels, and Napkins, at very low prices. Just received, choice Dried Apples, 12lbs. for $1. W. J. Wallace, Lakefield.

The little girls are commencing their usual "spring amusement" with the skipping ropes, and we suppose it is about time the warning story be revived about the little girl who skipped so many thousand times and then skipped away to heaven.

To our Subscribers.—In the delivery of the Examiner it is our wish that our subscribers may receive the paper regularly. We have a new boy on the route, and we request that any inattention on the part of the carrier boys may be reported at our office at once.

Town Clock.—The hands on the east side of the town clock are having a good rest, why not run the whole "business." It don't cost a cent more? But perhaps the expenditure for a little repairs would come under the head of "streets and bridges," it is limited this year to $8,000.

St. Andrew's Church.—We are glad to learn that Rev. Mr. Bell has accepted the call extended to him by St. Andrew's congregation in this town. He sailed for England last Saturday to bring out his family, and expects to return about the first of June, when his induction will take place.

Crop Prospects.—Accounts from all quarters agree that the prospects for a good harvest were never better than at present. Fall wheat has wintered well, is looking splendidly, and will in all likelihood be a bountiful crop. The fine weather of the past two weeks has been favourable for spring sowing.

Bobcaygeon Independent says: Our Village Lock-up has received its first guest. Two young fellows named Aicorn and Macdonald were arrested in this village on a charge of stealing a watch from Mr. Burkett, of Peterborough. Macdonald was liberated next day, but Aicorn is still in custody, awaiting the result of enquiries.

Postal Cards, &c. We notice that in other towns some of the booksellers have been appointed agent for the sale of Postal Cards and Postage Stamps. Why don't some of our enterprising booksellers here make application for an agency. An arrangement like this would be of great convenience and accommodation to the public.

The "Tiger."—This neat little boat left here yesterday morning for Lakefield, to resume her usual summer pleasure excursions. She has undergone a complete refit, has been repainted and undergone other improvements, to add to her usefulness, and the pleasure of those travelling by her. Let us hope that Mr. Nesbitt will be abundantly repaid for his trouble.

Employment.—It is understood that the Property Committee of the School Board have agreed to recommend the erection of a new school building in the 3rd ward; on the site purchased by the Board last year. After examining it they considered the lot as good as could be obtained in that portion of the town. It will be a neat two storey building, containing four rooms. The plans likely to be adopted have been prepared by Mr. Belcher.

Still Shining.—The Detroit Free Press is known in every nook and corner of the land as one of the brightest and most interesting weekly in the country. Every paper quotes from it, everybody talks about it, everybody likes it. Its fame will last, because every effort is put forth to keep it leading all other weeklies in the Union. Send for a specimen copy, which will be sent free, and then club with this paper and subscribe for a year.

Concert at Lakefield.—As referred to in our last, the Amateur Musical Society gave a concert at Lakefield on Thursday evening last. As the programme was repeated that was given at the concert in Smith, it is unnecessary to enter into details, suffice it to say that the entertainment passed off well. The playing of Mr. E. Mahon was artistic and met with great applause. His rendering of the "Marcellaise Hymn," and the "Dying Poet," was grand indeed.

Tavern Licenses for 1877-78.—We understand that the Commissioners for West Peterborough have agreed to grant licences for 1877-78 to the same houses as last year, and an additional one to Mr. Stewart for Mr. McCombs premises, Simcoe street. Some of those who have licenses for the present year have been fined three times already. This should be sufficient to deprive them of their right to obtain license again. We will publish the names of all the houses who obtained a license as soon as the Commissioners have finally decided. Probably next week.

A Vigilant Fishery Overseer.—Charles Gilchrist, fishery overseer of Rice Lake, and tributary waters, made a raid on a spearing party, on Saturday night about 11 o'clock, up Kent's Creek, on the Otonabee River. He confiscated the boat, spear, jack and fish. (five muskinonge and four bass,) and fined the spearer, James Wedlock, $100, or four months in gaol, and John Wedlock, the paddler, $20, or two months. Parties fond of spearing will take warning for Mr. Gilchrist is bound to protect the fish, and he has watchers on all the waters. He will make fish taken by this means dear eating.

Fenian Fraudulence.—A correspondent of the News questions the scriptural soundness of Mr. Chappell's sermon on the above subject, and has given the Rev. Gentleman a few questions to answer. The sermon was weak and illogical, and not calculated to convince the hearers of anything except the vagueness of the supporters adduced, and the want of dealing fully with the subject the preacher had undertaken to expound. Should the Rev. Gentleman attempt to reply he may find that a female writer will have as much foundation for his text for her work as those who claim to be Successors of the Apostles.

Town Council.—The Peterborough town council has been changed with placing pavement, by appointing a piece to carry the lumbermen mattress to the Mayor. It is well known that Mr. Beavis is a useful supernumerary, whether in council chamber or out of it. He is just at home in making himself useful, and if he is willing to relieve the members of the onerous duty of carrying their mattresses mattress to the foot of the stream, where bedsteads is it? It costs the county nothing. It pleases Mr. B. and the members, and raises council legislature from being the low, common place affair. People are willing to assign to it. Let them have fun so long as it costs nothing.

Gowan's Combination.—To-morrow evening this Combination will appear in Bradburn's Opera House. The Brockville Recorder speaks of them as follows: "It is the best Minstrel Company which has visited there in many months. The programme was of such a length that it would be well nigh impossible for us to give prominence to the different pieces executed by the different artists, suffice it to say that each member of the company sustained his part in an admirable manner, and in nearly every instance was called again before the curtain. The music furnished by the orchestra is far superior to that which generally accompanies shows of this kind. We cheerfully commend Gowan's Organization to the public as worthy of patronage."

Furnessal.—Mr. Wilkinson, the "Big Push" man of West Durham, was in town during the past week.... Mr. Isaac Dixon of this town, and late of Montreal, is in Lindsay visiting his friends, and the Post says: Judging from the kindly address and handsome gift presented him on the occasion of his leaving Montreal, he was equally as successful there in making friends as in Lindsay....The Rev. Mr. Timpany preached in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening, the subject being "the work of the foreign missions." He also delivered an address in the Baptist Church last evening.... James A. Sinclair, M. B., is about to commence practising in the Village of Hastings. He has had a very successful practice, and we doubt not but that he will be successful in Hastings also.

Peterboro Musical Society.—As was announced at the close of the Concert of the Society on Thursday last, it is the intention owing to the unfavorable weather on that evening, to repeat the programme to-night. It is not perhaps known to all that the Society solicits no outside subscriptions or aid, but depends wholly for support upon the success of its concerts. With this and the further knowledge that the entertainments of the Society would compare favorably with those of many larger places, we do hope that the public will sustain the Society in their efforts by a liberal patronage of their concerts. It has been decided to make the tickets to-night all 25 cents, and we trust a full house may be secured. Tickets may be purchased, and seats secured at Rubidge's Bookstore. All tickets purchased for the 19th inst. and not used will admit the holders to night.

Ladies' Aid Social.—The social held in the school room of the George street Methodist Church, on Monday evening last, was in every respect a success, and too much praise cannot be bestowed on the lady managers for the very efficient way in which everything pertaining to the enjoyment of those present was conducted. The Rev. Mr. Willoughby delivered a few well chosen remarks, highly complimenting the choir for the excellent manner the pieces selected for the occasion were rendered, and requested those that took an interest in vocal music to become members of the choir, and keep up the advancement of that very essential part of the church work. Evidently the Rev. Gentleman is a great lover of music. He expressed himself much pleased with the concert given by the Peterborough Musical Society last Thursday evening, and saying that such concerts were worthy of the patronage of the public. Mr. Campbell—clasical master in the Collegiate Institute—also delivered a very nice address. Mr. McNeil was then introduced to the audience and proceeded to auction off the articles in the bazaar department.

Concert.—The concert in aid of the building fund of St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, on Tuesday evening, was very successful. The house was well filled, and the programme, which was a very good one, was very satisfactorily carried out. It is always difficult to particularize, in this case especially as it is more than an ordinarily difficult task, for all executed their parts well. The instrumental piece by Miss Calcutt and Miss Tate, was rendered with artistic skill. Miss Elsworth and Miss McNabb played a piano duet, the rendition of which was very good. Mrs. H. J. Strickland sang "Cathleen Mavourneen," very sweetly, and Miss Edmunds sang "The Ivy that Grows on the Old Castle Wall," very nicely. The Peterboro' Musical Society gave several pieces, and the St. John's Church choir—Mr. Joseph McClelland, leader—added very much to the pleasure of the evening, by singing several well selected pieces. The choir, under Mr. McClelland, manifested more than ordinary care in their preparation and rendering of "Fairy Moonlight," and "May Day." Mr. D. Haggart gave one or two of his delenations of Irish character. The Rev. V. Clementi also read "The Frenchman and the Proverbs." This exhausted the programme. The evening was pleasant and the concert very satisfactory.

"Personal.—Misses Logan and Beard, Evangelists, passed through Cobourg on their way homeward on Monday evening, when a very large number of friends met them at the station to shake hands. We regretted to see that the Peterborough Examiner had "sufficiently little" taste to admit to its columns last week a report of a sermon of an illiberal and prejudiced rector, condemning the course of these devoted and useful ladies, and inveighing against what he calls their presumption, in preaching the gospel to sinners."

The above is taken from the Cobourg World and it is unkind of our confrere. The sermon we reported and published to show what silly things men can preach, when they do not understand what they are preaching about. In our publishing it we had no sympathy with the teachings of the preacher thereof. We done so, we can readily disabuse their minds of such ideas.

Grand Concert.—The Musical Society of Peterborough gave their second grand concert on Thursday evening last in Bradburn's new Opera House, to a very fair audience (considering the rainy weather). The following is the programme. Part first. Overture. "Tancred," Rossini, Orchestra; Song, "Should He Upbraid." Bishop, Mrs. Horlock; Selections, "Il Trovatore," Verdi, Orchestra; Song. "Mabel Dear," Godfrey, Miss Haultain; Duet. "I Would that my Love," Mendelssohn, Messrs. Clinton and Rush; Gelop, "Lovely Nancy," Somner, Orchestra. Part second.—Gloria, "Twelfth Mass," Mozart, Orchestra and Choir; Song. "Eve's Lamentation," King, Miss Haultain; Quartette, "Te Deum," Thomas, Mrs. Archer, Miss Rush, and Messrs. Rubidge and Rush; Romance, "Tramerei," Schumann, three violins and organ; Song, "Angels ever Bright and Fair," Handel, Mrs. Horlock; "See the Conquering Hero Comes" (Judas Maccabeaus.) Handel, full Orchestra and choir. The overture from Rossini was the best rendered orchestral piece of the the evening. Mrs. Horlock possesses a good voice, rather mezzo. She posses a sweet voice, and her rendition of "Should He Upbraid," and "Angels ever Bright and Fair," was very good. Mr. Beller's solo was well given. Miss Haultain is the possessor of a rich, pure and highly cultivated soprano—slightly mezzo. Her rendering of "Mable Dear," "Eve's Lamentation," and the French Ballad, was all that could be desired. It was artistic both in vocal equation and expression. The Gloria, from Mozart's Twelfth Mass, was fair. The rest, with the exception of a slight miss in the time, was all that could be reasonably expected from amateurs. Meldesonhn's duet, "I Would that My Love," was exceedingly well given. Mr. Rush and Mr. Clinton surpassed themselves in this. Thomas' Te Deum was finely sung—could scarcely be better rendered by artists. The singing of Miss Rush and Mr. Rubidge deserves especial commendation. Mrs. Archer's voice, though sweet, was scarcely powerfully enough sustained. Romance. "Trasmerei," was really well performed. Handel's "Conquering Hero," was well given at the end of which the singing of the National Anthem brought the concert to a close. Mr. Heathfield presided at the organ and piano, in his usual artistic manner. On account of their being a great many tickets sold for the concert last Thursday evening, the Musical Society have consented to repeat the programme this evening, so as to give those who purchased tickets an opportunity of hearing them. The price of admission is 25 cents to all parts of the Hall. Let there be a good house, or fix to encourage the society, as nothing can be carried on without assistance.

—The hotel keepers in Lennox and Addington have agreed to shut their places up on and after, the 1st day of May, on account of the vote on the Dunkin Act.

TULLY'S QUERY.

Assault.—Thomas Powers charged Joseph Garnett with assaulting him on the 21st inst. The prosecutor not appearing the case was dismissed.

Selling Liquor on Sunday.—Joseph Smith was charged on Monday morning, by the License Inspector, with selling liquor on Sunday. He admitted the charge and was fined $20, and $.25 costs, to be paid forthwith.

Larceny.—Dr. H. C. Burritt charged a young lad named Joseph Maguire with stealing a pocket case of surgical instruments and a telescope, on Saturday, the 14th inst. The Doctor gave evidence to show that the prisoner was guilty of the act, and also stated that after enquiring after them, the boy returned him some of the instruments and the pouch on the Tuesday following, and admitted to him that he had stolen them. The case of instruments has not yet been recovered. It is said to have been thrown in the Creek. The boy had nothing to say. The P. M. sentenced him to two years imprisonment in the Reformatory Prison, at hard labour.

Charged with Theft.—A young man named John Alcorn, who has lately been in the employ of Mr. Beckett, was charged by him with stealing a gold watch and chain, with a locket attached, three briar root pipes, and a gold scarf ring, and a quantity of clothing, on the 19th inst. The prisoner was arrested in Bobcaygeon, and some of the articles were found in his bag at Minden, it is supposed, he had sent ahead of him. The Police Magistrate after hearing the evidence of Mr. Beckett and the constable from Bobcaygeon, not considering that there was enough evidence to convict the accused, remanded him until Friday morning, so as to give an opportunity of getting other Witnesses.

MILLINERY OPENING.

W. G. THOMPSON

opened his Millinery and Mantle Show Rooms on Wednesday. The appearance of these rooms was really superb. The Mantles and hats were of the most fashionable styles for the season, and all of the latest importation. In the mantles we were struck with two exceedingly fine patterns. They were of black silk, and are known as the "Mashaboma" and the "Damiene" respectively. One, a black silk, trimmed with parasol pockets, and hood, attracted considerable feminine attention. Mr. Thompson has on hand a very fine stock of linen suits ranging in prices from $2.80 up to $13.00. There was also presented a very fine basket of artificial flowers; also Leghorn—Rustics (black and white) all of which could not be excelled. The display of bonnets and hats was very neat and showy. The white Dip Bonnet with soft wavy crowns and set off with a soft pretty gauze handkerchief—shade of blue—was really very tasty. Another lovely style the Gainsboro Hat, trimmed with black velvet and geraniums, added not a little to the richness of the Millinery Show. The Leghorn flat trimmed with "mignionette" and adjusted with a long veil of cream colored gauze was unique. The fashionable colors for the season which has just commenced are Mandarin, Tilluel, Pale Blue, Bronze, Sea Shell, &c., all of which hues are exhibited in great variety of shades. Mr. Thomson's rooms this season, as usual, are very attractive in all the latest styles of Hats, Mantles, Flowers, Plumes, &c. Miss Curry displayed great taste in the arrangement of the rooms. Visitors thronged the place during the day, and many ladies delayed long admiring the varied and rich display provided for them.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.

The Annual Dinner.

A Prosperous Society Spends a Pleasant Time.

The Englishmen of Peterborough celebrated the Anniversary of their Patron Saint, on Monday evening, by a dinner, which took place in St. George's Hotel, Simcoe Street.

About sixty sat down to the excellent repast prepared by Mr. Wheeler.

The Chair was occupied by the President of the Society, George Barlee Esq. He was supported on his right by J. A. Hall Esq., sheriff, who occupied the position of the President of the St. Andrew's Society, who was unavoidably absent; on his left by Mayor Toole. The Vice Chairs were occupied by Albert Hall Esq., and W. Helm Esq. Among the guests were W. H. Scott Esq., M. P. P., D. Lemay Esq., Jas. McWilliams, and other prominent citizens.

Letters of appology were read by the Secretary. From Judge Dennistoun, who expressed his regret at not being able to attend. From Jas Hall Esq., M. P., and John Bertram Esq., M.P., who were unable to attend as they are at present attending to their Parliamentary duties at Ottawa.

After having partaken of the good things so liberally provided for the occasion. The President requested all to prepare for the chief object of their meeting together. He remarked that he was pleased to see so many English faces present, to do honor to the day, and it was no small honor to have so many of other nationalities as guests to join with them on this festive occasion. He then gave "The Queen"—The chief toast on all such occasions. The toast needed no comment, as all Her subjects were delighted to do Her honor at all times. He then gave the "Prince and Princess of Wales, and the Royal Family," which was well received.

To this succeeded "the Governor General, and Lieutenant Governor of Ontario". Of the Governor General he said that he was sow long enough amongst canadians to be appreciated. He always seemed to be the right man in the right place, most worthy did he represent Her Majesty. He was an Irishman of noble and generous qualities, always ready to say a good word for Canada. After this toast, was sang, "For he's a jolly good fellow". The Vice Chairman, Albert Hall Esq., proposed "the Army, Navy, and Volunteers of Canada", in fitting terms.

Song "Red, White, and Blue" was then given by Mr. Rice Record.

Messrs. Rackham, Harmond & Deane responded to this toast, remarking that as the Army and Navy of England had always done their duty, they knew that the Volunteers of Canada would never be behind their ancestors when their services were required in defence of the country and its Laws.

The second Vice Chairman, Mr. Helm proposed the "Parliament of Canada, and Legislative Assembly of Ontario". This he said was an important toast. He regretted that many of the members of these Houses were poorly qualified for their positions, but that no doubt they would be turned out after next fall.

The Song: "The Telegraph Girl" was given by Mr. Cocks.

W. H. Scott, Esq., M.P.P., responded to this toast. He regretted the absence of the representatives of the higher Legislature to speak for that august body; as he knew they would be better able to do their government justice. On their behalf, however, he would return thanks for the House of Commons. He felt convinced that if Messrs. Bertram and Hall were present they would demur to the remarks of the proposer of this toast, and that they could give valuable information and reasons why they should still represent us, and why the present government should retain power longer than the proposer was willing to accede. The Ontario Legislature, he believed, was of more Local interest, as it dealt more with those institutions such as Municipal Law, Educational matters, and general advancements of the interests of this province.—The general impression that those who went to Parliament had little to do, was a false one. They went there to see after the business of their constituents, and those who did their duty properly found enough to do. He remarked that he believed there were too many governments bodies in the Dominion, and thought the members of British Columbia, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island could be dispensed with, and that the number of representatives might reasonably be reduced one-half, without loss to the country. He also referred to a Legislative Union as a panacea for existing ills, and to the impossity for some great constitutional change so that each of the colleges might be supported, as their was an evil which [illegible] legislature, no matter what party was in power. He concluded by returning thanks on behalf of the Local Legislature.

given by "Down in a Coal Mine", was "St. Geo. Whitehair.

President, "The King" was given by the ... "The English-man."

"Our Sister Societies" ... Mr. Toker, and responded to ... Hall, on behalf of the St. ... Society.

Song: "Let us Speak of a Man as we find him" by Mr. G. L. Mitchell.

"Canada Our Home" was also proposed by the President, and was responded to by Mr. Scott.

Song by Mr. Deane.

The "Town and Trade" of Peterboro was proposed by A. H. Peck Esq., and responded to by Mayor Toole.

After which Mr. Way sang "John Bull"

The "Learned Professions" was duly given by Mr. Pendry, and responded to by Mr. Scott.

"Our Guests" was then given by the President and responden to by Mr. D. Lemay.

"The Ladies" was duly honored by the President. Mr. Toker, and Mr. Dudman returned thanks on their behalf.

The "Press" was then given by Mr. Pendry, and duly responded to by members of the Press.

Mr. Hall proposed the toast of the "President" who returned thanks for the honor conferred. "Host and Hostess" and other toasts followed. The company left for their homes about midnight, after spending a pleasant time of it.

AMIABILITY.

BY STUFARO QUITKI.

Amiability is a quality of no small importance to a young man. Be he ever so wealthy,—ever so learned—ever so accomplished otherwise—these all go for naught unless he is also possessed of amiability. What a figure should Smith cut in society unless the rougher parts of his disposition were smoothed by this grace. What though he should converse with ease of a Ben Johnson speak with the eloquence of a Chatham—or delight a musical audience after the manner of another Gottschalk—all these accomplishments would still need to be accompanied by the one of which we write before he could claim any place in society. What a pleasure it is to be in the company of one possessed of this virtue. His presence sheds a bright ray of happiness over all. And when to the possession of amiability we find added a mind well stored with useful and interesting information, a heart ever free and open, with its every pulse vibrating in sincerity—truth—candor—a soul chastened by high religious heavenly thoughts and hopes—when we find all these united in one man we must certainly take the highest delight in possessing his friendship—his esteem—his companionship. Amiability cannot be easily defined by us though we know at once when we see it. It is the life of the drawing-room—saloon—house circle. Harsh words were never yet productive of much good.

"Speak gently, it is better far
To rule by love than fear.
Speak gently—let not harsh words mar
The good we might do here."

The monopoly of this quality is generally admitted to belong to the fair sex—justly so. The very position makes its practice an essential to their lady like demeanor. Without it there is no lady. Its practice should not however be confined to any distinct class. It should be an universal characteristic—belonging to all. Many a young man whose conduct in the drawing-room proved him no disciple of Chesterfield, has had his faults, his minor imperfections overlooked solely on account of his amiable disposition. Every one cannot not have perfections in graceful demeanor and bearing but the practice of amiability is beyond the reach of no one. We should therefore possess this quality—cultivate it—bring it daily to a high perfection and thus, through its influence, make our presence desirable to our friends—acquaintances—and society at large.

LINDSAY.

The DeGrassi-Taylor Perjury case.—This case, which occupied the attention of the Police Magistrate on Wednesday and Thursday of last week, was again up before him on Wednesday last. The prosecutor, Mr. George Taylor, of Peterboro, who was, as before stated, bound over to appear at the next assizes to answer to a charge of perjury, now accused one of the witnesses in the first trial, Elizabeth Heaton, a servant of Dr. DeGrassi's, with having sworn falsely before the Police Magistrate. After a long and tedious investigation the Magistrate was of opinion there was not sufficient ground to put the girl on her trial and she was discharged from custody. The prosecutor and his witness were nevertheless bound over on the former's recognizance and under the statute to appear at the next court and prosecute. Post.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

The weather has been for the past two or three weeks all that could be desired for agricultural purposes many of the farmers have got the greater portion of their spring crop sown in good condition and with the blessing of a kind Providence look forward to a bountiful harvest.

School matters in some parts of the Township have not been as quiet as usual, party arising from a detect in the reporting of a verbal resolution made at a former school meeting, (not done willingly however.) But at a meeting held on Monday the 23rd April announced for 3 o'clock P. M., the sterdy yeomen and and ratepayers turned out en masse and by an overwhelming majority sustained the Trustees action, which, by some of the ratepayers was said to be with a high hand among whom was said is your reporter. There was considerable crossfiring but in the end a conclusion was reached which with such a large majority should at once be conceded to by the minority, I hope all further trouble in those matters will be ended and that we will settle down quietly in our old tracks.

The Beaseford Royal Temperance Association is growing slowly. We have had some additions lately and the best of good feeling has prevailed at all the meetings since the lodge was organized. At a late meeting several readings were given by Messrs E. Stirton, J. O. Turnbull, D. Dodds, I. Kerr, R. Turnbull and Wm. McClelland most of which were well selected. Singing is sometimes engaged in as a means of entertainment.

The Grangers are also growing on an evening about four weeks ago seven of the fair six and one gentleman were initiated into the mysterious of Grangerism. Their meetings I believe are all very orderly &c. &c.—Com.

The Provincial Lunatic Asylum at Toronto has at present 660 patients within its walls.

It is rumored that Toronto will lose £30,000 sterling through the notorious Baron Grant, its former London agent.

The Free Press makes a virtue of necessity in acknowledging that the settlement of claims by Sir John after he had resigned office, was "highly unconstitutional."

Since that little disclosure about Mr. Bernard running a little shop for promoting private legislation while he held the post of Deputy Minister of Justice, Sir John has discovered how sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a brother-in-law in office.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

CATARRH.

Five Years' Sickness Cured by Four Bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

ST. ARMAND, P. Q., Sept. 12, 1876.

MR. T. B. HARDING

Dear Sir:—Being desirous that others may know something of the merits of your CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY, I wish to inform you what it has done for me. I am twenty-nine years old; had been out of health for about five years. I had employed three or four different doctors, and tried various medicines, without receiving any permanent benefit, but continued rather to grow worse, until last fall, when I had become so bad as to be unable to do an hour's work at a time. Had severe soreness and pain under the shoulder blades and through the shoulders, with very loose cough, and a feeling in my right lung as though there was a weight hanging it down, with continual dropping in the throat and down upon the lungs. Such was my condition when I commenced to take your Catarrh Remedy, one bottle of which eased my pains and gave me an improved appetite, and after taking four bottles I was restored to health, so as to be able to endure hard and continued labor, such as chopping and clearing land, at which I have been engaged the past season. My recovery I attribute solely, with God's blessing, to the use of your Catarrh Remedy.

Yours truly HENRY SNIDER,

Price $1 per bottle; For sale by all Druggists.

READ CAREFULLY.

SAMUEL OSBORN, Sophiasburg says—"I was affected with Dyspepsia for nearly four years, my lungs becoming affected towards the last. I was induced to try the "Shoshoness Remedy." After using three or four bottles I felt much better, and gained strength rapidly, my health improved steadily and rapidly, and when I had taken three or four bottles more, I was quite restored to health and strength, and have experienced better health than for forty years before. I had been under the treatment of a number of physicians before, but never received any material aid until I used your remedy."

A. MCKAY, TRURO, N. S., says "he was very bad with Liver Complaint, but used the "Shoshoness Remedy," and in a month was as well as he had ever been in his life. I am now in business and wish you to send me three dozen by steamer.

A. WOOD, CONSECON, says—"That he has tried the "Remedy" for Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia with great success. I have also used the "Shoshonees Pills," and find that they are as good as any I ever tried.

REV. JOHN SCOTT says—"Mr. McKenzie Bowling suffered from an attack of rheumatism, and was unable to move without help but after taking a few bottles of the "Shoshonees" was able to walk as well as ever." Price of the Remedy in pint bottles $1; Pills 25 cents a box.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT? A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Fairbairn Centre, P. O., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for the last ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horse as for man."—A. Mayhew Merchant, West Farnworth, writes, "I have sold three hundred bottles of Eclectric Oil and it is pronounced by the public, one of the best medicines they have ever used. It has done wonders in the case of rheumatism relieving pain, and in fact, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Reese, Township Percy writes, "I persuaded to try Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lame knee which troubled me for three or four years, and I cannot describe my surprise that day for Spring. The knee is as sound as ever. Eclectric Oil is a good medicine."—A. M. Clark, Farnworth, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with sore throat, which annoyed me very much. Mr. May One of the place induced me to try Eclectric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. I think it a most remarkable medicine." Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25 cents.
